Seek Knowledge. Affirm Faith. Change the World.

2018 – 2019 Bulletin

Berrien Springs, Michigan 49104
www.andrews.edu 800–253–2874

Admission to Andrews University is available to any student who meets the academic and character requirements of the university and who expresses willingness to cooperate with its policies. Because Andrews University is operated by the Seventh-day Adventist Church, the majority of its students are Seventh-day Adventists. However, no particular religious commitment is required for admission; any qualified student who will be comfortable within its religious, social, and cultural atmosphere may be admitted. The university does not discriminate on the grounds of race, color, creed, disability, national or ethnic origin, sex, marital status, or handicap. On request it makes available to the public its annual financial report. To obtain a copy, contact the Office of the Vice President for Financial Administration at the address below

Every effort has been made to assure the accuracy of information in this bulletin. Students are advised, however, that bulletin provisions do not constitute a contract between a student and Andrews University and that attendance at Andrews University is a privilege and not a right. The university faculty and administration reserve the right to make and give public notice of such changes as deemed necessary during the period for which this bulletin is in effect.

Please contact the appropriate personnel for information pertaining to schools, departments, programs, and courses. For all other bulletin inquiries you may contact the Assistant Registrar for Publications & Communication in the Office of Academic Records by email at bulletin@andrews.edu or by phone at (269) 471–3233.

Andrews University Mission Statement

Andrews University, a distinctive Seventh-day Adventist Christian institution, transforms its students by educating them to seek knowledge and affirm faith in order to change the world.

Andrews University students will:

Seek Knowledge as they

- Engage in intellectual discovery and inquiry
- Demonstrate the ability to think clearly and critically
- Communicate effectively
- Understand life, learning, and civic responsibility from a Christian point of view
- Demonstrate competence in their chosen disciplines and professions

Affirm Faith as they

- Develop a personal relationship with Jesus Christ
- Deepen their faith commitment and practice
- Demonstrate personal and moral integrity
- Embrace a balanced lifestyle, including time for intellectual, social, spiritual, and physical development
- Apply understanding of cultural differences in diverse environments

Change the World as they go forth to

- Engage in creative problem-solving and innovation
- Engage in generous service to meet human needs
- Apply collaborative leadership to foster growth and promote change
- Engage in activities consistent with the worldwide mission of the Seventh-day Adventist Church

The University

Andrews University was established over a century ago, in 1874, as Battle Creek College in Battle Creek, Michigan—a collegiate program that offered literature, languages, science and mathematics, training for teachers, and theology. Its founders, the visionaries of the young Seventh-day Adventist denomination, believed they should use every avenue to spread the gospel and serve the world, including higher education.

On the brink of a new century, seeking room for expansion and a fresh start, the school moved in 1901 to a beautiful site near the banks of the St. Joseph River in Berrien Springs and was renamed Emmanuel Missionary College. From woods and farmland on which faculty and students built three wooden frame buildings to hold their new school, the campus has grown to a property of 1,600 acres and a complex of academic buildings, residence halls and apartments, and service buildings.

The vision blossomed still further when, in 1959, the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary and a school of graduate studies, together known as Potomac University and located in Washington, D.C., were moved to the campus of Emmanuel Missionary College. The following year the three entities united under one charter bearing the name Andrews University—with an integrated board of trustees, administration and faculty. The name honors John Nevins Andrews (1829–83), pioneer Adventist theologian and intellectual and the denomination's first official missionary to serve outside North America.

In 1974, the undergraduate division of Andrews was organized into two colleges—the College of Arts and Sciences and the College of Technology. The School of Business Administration, which evolved from the Department of Business Administration, was established in 1980. In a similar move, the Department of Education became the School of Education in 1983. The present organizational structure of the School of Graduate Studies was adopted in 1987. In 1993, the Department of Architecture became the Division of Architecture, and in 2012 became a school. It is now the School of Architecture & Interior Design. In 2011, the School of Distance Education was formed to support distance education and educational programs offered at locations across North America and the world. Because of the many international partnerships, the school has been renamed as the School of Distance Education & International Partnerships. Also in 2012, five departments housed in the College of Arts and Sciences together became the School of Health Professions. All of the colleges and schools offer both undergraduate and graduate degrees, except for the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, which maintains graduate and professional programs only. The only Seventh-day Adventist doctoral research university, Andrews University is also a comprehensive institution of higher learning integrating an exemplary liberal arts and sciences core with six prestigious professional schools and a number of excellent graduate programs.

Rooted in a tradition of visionaries who saw what was possible and enriched by an international and diverse faculty and student body, Andrews University now offers a wealth of choices in degree and certificate programs to prepare its graduates for life in a complex, fast-changing world. The goal of this distinguished institution, however, remains the same—to provide excellent academic programs in an environment of faith and generous service to God and humankind.

Accreditation

Recognizing that students benefit from studying at an accredited institution, Andrews University is accredited by the The Higher Learning Commission¹ for programs through the doctoral level, as well as by the Adventist Accrediting Association of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. Professional organizations have accredited specific degree programs of the University and other programs are moving toward accreditation. (Please see the complete listing of university accreditations, approvals, and memberships.)

Quality Academic Programs

The high quality of the educational experience at Andrews University is evidenced by its listing in U.S. News and World Report's annual report on "Best Colleges." Andrews University is also listed among the "30 Great Small Colleges for STEM Degrees." A strong undergraduate honors program attracts such outstanding students as National Merit Finalists, secondary-school valedictorians and others with outstanding secondary-school achievement.

Andrews provides a carefully designed advising program to help students make sound career choices. Undecided students can fulfill General Education requirements and learn practical skills through a variety of courses while they explore career options.

Students also develop skills for post-graduation employment. They develop those skills through practice teaching, career practica, cooperative work-study programs with businesses and corporations, or clinical rotations in health-care settings.

Students wishing to increase their academic success will benefit from comprehensive assessment of academic learning styles and skills, courses in reading, writing, and math and tutoring services (see Student Success and UCRLA)

International Opportunities

Each year, students from 80–100 different countries enroll at Andrews University. More than 20% of the students come from other countries. This places the university among the national universities in U.S. News and World Report's annual report with most international students. One experiences the reality of a global village while attending college.

International students who wish to immerse themselves fully in American culture may enroll in the Action America program on the Andrews campus. International education opportunities include study abroad, study tours and short-term service learning opportunities abroad.

Academic Resources

Andrews International Center for Educational Research Bell Hall, Room 269-471-6080

Andrews International Center for Educational Research (AICER) is the research and international service center for the School of Education. Its mission is to promote and disseminate faculty research on regional and global education, with a special focus on Adventist education. AICER seeks to promote research which develops the empirical knowledge-base and best-practices related to education through the development of a network of international researchers that provide technical research and evaluation services to international educational organizations. AICER's researchers focus their agendas on learning, teaching, spiritual and ethical development, educational leadership, and evaluations of programs. AICER promotes research in elementary, secondary and tertiary educational organizations as well as community groups engaged in educational services.

269-471-2417

The Architecture Resource Center (ARC), a branch of the James White Library, provides the School of Architecture with a premier collection of resources for the study and research of architecture. The collection is of a broad scope with an academic focus in architecture and design. The ARC currently holds a collection of over 28,500 books and 106 periodical titles. The ARC stays current through its acquisitions by continually updating the collection with new titles in: books, monographs, periodicals, reference books, CDs and videos. It also supports other campus disciplines such as facility planning, educational and church architecture, environmental psychology, and behavioral science.

The ARC is the official repository of a special and growing collection of materials on environmental design research. This collection is made available as a result of our affiliation with the international group known as the Environmental Design Research Association (EDRA). The purpose of this collection is to advance the art and science of environmental design, to improve understanding of the interrelationships between people and the built environment and to create environments responsive to human needs. The interdisciplinary collection holds books, trade journals, EDRA proceedings, documents, technical papers, and multimedia materials supporting research in the discipline of environment and behavior. The collection has been developed over the past 30 years and continues to expand, existing as the most comprehensive collection in the world.

The ARC is fortunate to have two rare book collections. One was donated by Ronald Senseman, FAIA, an architect who practiced in his own firm for over 30 years in the Washington, D.C. area. This exceptional collection includes classic rare books and photographs of architecture dating from the 19th century to the present. Vernon Watson, a Chicago Prairie Style Architect, donated his valuable and rare book collection to the ARC. Mr. Watson designed Griggs Hall, which was the original campus library, as well as several Prairie Style homes in Berrien County. In addition the ARC is now the official repository for the EDRA archive collection. This means professors, scholars and researchers, if they choose, will donate their private and personal collections to the collected works in the ARC.

Center for College Faith

The Center for College Faith, which is open to all members of the Andrews University faculty, seeks to help faculty better understand and foster the faith development of college undergraduates. The stated mission of the Center is twofold. Specifically it acquires and disseminates knowledge about how college students develop in their Christian beliefs, values, and lifelong commitment to God, especially in relation to direct academic experience; and promotes the growth of a distinctly Christian undergraduate "culture of learning" informed by careful scholarship on the Andrews University campus.

Center for Adventist Research
James White Library, Lower Level car@andrews.edu
269-471-3209

The Center for Adventist Research (CAR) contains historical materials and resources on Seventh-day Adventist history and Ellen G. White, a key founder of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination. Comprised of the Adventist Heritage Center, the Ellen G. White Estate Branch Office, and AU Archives, the Center holds the largest collection of research materials on Seventh-day Adventism in the world. The CAR was formed in the fall of 2003 to better serve the campus community as well as the world community of Seventh-day Adventists by providing research support services as well as a significant outreach component. The Center and the Seminary Library cooperate to support theological education.

Adventist Heritage Center

Located within the Center for Adventist Research, the Adventist Heritage Center contains material on the history and development of the Millerite Movement and the Seventh-day Adventist Church since the 1840s to the present. Among the materials preserved at the Center are over 51,000 books and pamphlets, 24,000 periodical volumes, 12,500 microforms, 12,000 sound recordings and 3,000 video tapes. A sizeable number of the periodicals are non-English and represent the finest collection of its kind in the world including many one-of-a-kind titles. The Center holds nearly 300 collections (1,200 linear feet) of personal papers of notable church figures such as pioneers, administrators, teachers, ministers and missionaries. These collections provide a wide range of primary source documents. The center's archives contain 30,000 photographs of denominational and campus interest, an obituary file of nearly 200,000 names, and the records of early Adventist congregations. The SDA Periodical Index is edited at the Center.

Special collections of the Heritage Center include the Advent Source and the Conditional Immortality Source Collections which document the origins of Seventh-day Adventists, the development of prophetic interpretation and the history of the doctrine of conditional immortality. The George B. Suhrie Bible Collection features an extensive collection of Bibles. Rare materials include books dating as early as the 15th century and several original editions of Martin Luther and other Reformers' pamphlets. In 2005, the Review and Herald Publishing Association donated their rare book library (approximately 2,500 volumes) to the Center. The Voice of Prophecy and Faith for Today historical archives also are located at the Center.

Ellen G. White Estate Branch Office

Located within the Center for Adventist Research, the Ellen G. White Estate Branch Office contains a complete set of the letters and manuscripts of Ellen G. White (1827–1915). It also has copies of her books and articles, and thousands of pages of other documents related to the history and development of the Adventist Church.

The Branch Office houses numerous resources for students interested in research. The most important of these are (1) the Letter and Manuscript File of 60,000 pages with topical index; (2) the Ellen G. White published writings on compact disc (CD-ROM), making possible full-text computer searches of Ellen White's writings; (3) a Biographical Index covering the span of Ellen White's life and documenting her travels and activities; (4) 1,600 Manuscript Releases (with indexes); (5) an extensive Document File covering many aspects of the writings of Ellen White and of the history of the Seventh-day Adventist Church; and (6) a Question and Answer File with index.

Department of Digital Learning & Instructional Technology
Griggs Hall, Room 123

dliit@andrews.edu
269-471-3960

The Department of Digital Learning and Instructional Technology (DLIT) provides instructional technology leadership, support and resources to the faculty, staff, and students of Andrews University. DLIT serves main campus, online campus, and off campus programs. DLIT also oversees the operations of the Consortium of Adventist Colleges and Universities. DLIT provides technology support for enterprise level instructional technology tools such as LearningHub, the campus Moodle learning management system; student response systems (clickers); Panopto, our video streaming and recording service; and Zoom, our webinar and videoconferencing software. The Department of Digital Learning and Instructional Technology provides coordination and review for online program and course development, as well as technical support, instructional design advice and training, and materials design and conversion for course development for main campus, online campus, and off campus courses. For more information, visit DLIT in the School of Distance Education.

Center for Statistical Services
Bell Hall (Education), Room 212
269-471-6214
269-471-3478F

The Center for Statistical Services provides help with all aspects of empirical research. Services include: 1) research design, 2) development of questionnaires and measurement instruments, 3) data entry, 4) statistical analysis and 5) interpretation and reporting of results.

Center for Teaching and Learning Excellence
Mary Jane Mitchell Multimedia Center
James White Library, Top Level
269-471-3272

The Center for Teaching and Learning Excellence advances the ongoing professional growth of Andrews University faculty members related to their primary campus duty—teaching. By helping faculty members focus on student learning through various lenses—scholarship of teaching and learning, faith-learning integration, diversity, assessment and service, among others—the Center for Teaching and Learning Excellence promotes pedagogies of engagement that enrich the learning environment and lead to transformational teaching.

Center of Continuing Education for Ministry
Seminary Hall, Room N206
inministry@andrews.edu
269-471-3514

The Center of Continuing Education for Ministry (CEEM), housed in the InMinistry Center, primarily serves ministers in the North American Division. CEEM provides continuing education for ministry employees of the church. It identifies, develops, and promotes continuing education courses and events and issues CEU certificates. More info: <https://www.andrews.edu/sem/inministry/> or inministry@andrews.edu.

Greek Manuscript Research Center
269-471-3313

The Greek Manuscript Research Center (GMRC) is part of the Department of New Testament of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary. Its primary goal is to help develop a more complete understanding and appreciation of Christianity's primary documents—the original, handwritten Greek manuscripts of the New Testament copied over a 1,200-year period. The GMRC is a participant in the International Greek New Testament Project, an ongoing venture of American and European scholars seeking to create an exhaustive multi-volume reference tool that documents every variant in all known, surviving Greek manuscripts of the New Testament. The GMRC holds one of the largest collections of microfilmed Greek manuscripts in North America.

Horn Archaeological Museum
9047 Old US 31
(Open Saturdays 3–5 pm)
hornmuseum@andrews.edu
269-471-3273

An archaeological museum named for its founder and first curator, Siegfried H. Horn (1908-1993), the Horn Archaeological Museum houses over 8,500 ancient Near-Eastern artifacts including coins, pottery, sculptures, tools, weapons, figurines, jewelry, seals and glass vessels. Nearly half of these objects came from university-sponsored archaeological excavations at Tel Gezer, Israel; and Tall Hisban, Tall al-Umayri and Tall Jalul, Jordan.

The museum building, which is shared with the Institute of Archaeology (see Institute of Archaeology), contains offices, work rooms, the Siegfried Horn Archaeological Library, and the collection display area. Eleven oil-painted murals by Nathan Greene help visitors understand the cultures of Bible times. A special viewing room contains the Andrews University Cuneiform Texts (formerly the Hartford Cuneiform Tablet Collection). This collection has 3,000 ancient clay tablets dating from the Sumerian period to Neo-Babylonian times. The museum sponsors a regular lecture series, occasional field trips and a quarterly subscription newsletter.

269-471-3514

A ministry of the North American Division, the InMinistry Center specializes in providing off-campus seminary education. The Center facilitates masters-level learning events at most NAD unions for the MA in Pastoral Ministry degree, and the first part of the Master of Divinity. It also houses the Center of Continuing Education for Ministry For more info: <https://www.andrews.edu/sem/inministry/> or inministry@andrews.edu.

Institute for Prevention of Addictions
Adjacent to the Sutherland House
ipa@andrews.edu
269-471-3558

The Institute for Prevention of Addictions (IPA) conducts research focused on the extent and causes of the use and abuse of alcohol and drugs as well as other addictions and risk behaviors. Based on this research it fosters prevention education programs and policies designed to reduce youth risk behaviors. The IPA provides specialized resource services and consultation to Church, government and private agencies on policy and program initiatives designed to prevent youth risk behavior. The IPA is supported by Andrews University and General Conference Presidential, as well as projects sponsored by assorted foundations, governmental and private agencies. The IPA is affiliated with the Department of Health Ministries of the General Conference of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and the International Commission for the Prevention of Alcoholism & Drug Dependency (ICPA). It works through program centers for prevention, policy, education, and research and evaluation. The Institute associates with organizations whose goals harmonize with its philosophy and objectives.

Institute of Archaeology
9047 Old US 31
hornmuseum@andrews.edu
269-471-3273

The Andrews University Institute of Archaeology coordinates the archaeological programs and activities of the university. It fosters archaeological research, publication, and education at Andrews University, the communities of Michiana, and all entities of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

The institute 1) offers courses through the seminary which directly or significantly relate to the study of archaeology, 2) sponsors regular visits by distinguished archaeologists for the purpose of lecturing and consulting, 3) organizes public tours, 4) presents archaeological programs for churches and schools, 5) provides opportunity for field and laboratory training through its excavations and surveys in the Middle East and Michiana and the subsequent analysis of these activities, 6) supports the work of the Horn Archaeological Museum in collecting and interpreting artifacts and 7) publishes results of excavations and research in annuals, monographs and occasional papers.

Institute of Church Ministry
Seminary Hall
269-471-3407

The Institute of Church Ministry (ICM), an entity of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, shares the expertise and resources of Andrews University with the Seventh-day Adventist Church in North America, thus aiding denominational leaders in the accomplishment of its goals. The ICM serves as a North American Division Strategic Resource Center but also works for the General Conference, local conferences, local churches and Adventist journals. ICM also represents the North American Division in the Cooperative Congregational Studies

Partnership (CCSP) of various faith groups under the direction of the Hartford Institute for Religion Studies.

The work of ICM springs from the belief that the tools of social science can join with biblical and theological insights to advance the objectives of the Church. Its mission is conducted through field-based research concerning Adventist youth, lay-member involvement, congregational studies, training for ministry, church growth, church-giving patterns, Adventist women in leadership, Adventist Hispanics. and the attitudes of Adventist members on various issues.

Institute of Hispanic Ministry
Seminary Hall, Room N210
hispanicministry@andrews.edu
269-471-6170

The Institute of Hispanic Ministry (IHM) of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary responds to the growing needs of Hispanic congregations in North America and beyond.

The tasks of the IHM include providing graduate-level study for Hispanic pastors both on and off campus and assisting in various ways a continuing education for Hispanic ministers. It coordinates the Hispanic MA in Pastoral Ministry and supports Hispanic courses in the MDiv and DMin programs. The IHM also provides support systems for Hispanic ministry and churches that are in transition culturally and linguistically. It encourages research and the dissemination of its findings for the Seventh-day Adventist Church at large.

Institute of Jewish-Christian Studies
269-471-3349

Jews and Seventh-day Adventists share much of the same spiritual heritage and the same ideals of hope and lifestyle. Moreover, since the events of Auschwitz during World War II, Jewish-Christian issues have become a relevant part of theological concern. Therefore, the Institute of Jewish-Christian Studies organizes meetings with world renowned experts, provides a wide range of educational material and supplements the graduate programs of the Seminary with concentrations in Jewish-Christian studies. These include courses in Jewish History, rabbinics and languages. In all its work, the Institute seeks to train lay persons and ministers to foster constructive relations with Jews in their communities and to develop a global consciousness in all outreach and service.

Institutional Effectiveness
Bell Hall, Room 206
269-471-3308

The Office of Institutional Effectiveness coordinates three major aspects of University support: assessment, accreditation, and institutional research. The office assists faculty in the development and measurement of student learning outcomes, and oversees assessment of outcomes related to the University's mission as well as general education. Assessment and institutional research data are used to enhance the quality of Andrews University's programs and services, and to inform institutional planning.

Center for Intensive English Programs (CIEP)
269-471-2260

The Center for Intensive English Language Programs (CIEP) offers a courtesy placement test for incoming students to assess language proficiency. Classes in the English for Academic Purposes (EAP) Program are offered in grammar, reading & writing, listening & speaking, pronunciation, reading & discussion, conversation skills, public speaking skills, and academic writing for students whose first language is not English and who do not meet English proficiency requirements as listed in the Bulletin. The EAP is offered in Fall semester, Spring semester, and in a June/July Summer semester. A short-term intensive study session, combined with cultural and professional experiences and travel, is offered through the Andrews English Experience Program (formerly called Action America) in July. The CIEP also participates in the Language Bridge Program, providing the ESL classes that students take to meet the requirements of the Language Bridge Program. Tutorial services can be arranged for a fee on a case-by-case basis, and certain specialized English classes, such as a TOEFL preparation class, are offered for a fee and are open to the community.

International Religious Liberty Institute
269-471-3500

The purpose of the International Religious Liberty Institute is to foster the study of the principles of religious liberty and church-state relations upon sound methods of biblical, historical, legal and philosophical scholarship and to spread these principles through publications, lectureships, conferences, symposiums and the support of public advocacy.

James White Library

The James White Library and its two branches hold print books, bound periodical volumes and multimedia materials totaling more than 1.6 million items. The 100,000 square-foot main library provides study and research facilities and the library faculty provide reference and consultation and a library instruction program, a library liaison program for collection development, and interlibrary loan services.

The strongest collections are in religion, education, architecture and Adventist publications and resources. The library's automated catalog, JeWeL, can be accessed through the campus computer network as well as globally through the Internet. Through the library website 155 major electronic databases can be accessed through the Internet and from any of the 70 public computer stations located in the main library and its branches. Linking software provides links from the database search results to the library's over 44,000 print and electronic periodical titles.

Through the Michigan Library Consortium, the library provides access to MeLCat, a statewide union catalog, patron-initiated interlibrary loan service and book delivery system. Students, faculty and staff can access over 7.8 million unique books and other materials through MeLCat.

The library also has access to the OCLC Online Computer Library Center for cataloging and interlibrary loan information based on data from 69,000 libraries in 112 countries representing over 470 languages and dialects.

The Seminary Library, the Center for Adventist Research and the Mary Jane Mitchell Multimedia Center are housed in the main library. The Architecture Resource Center and the Music Materials Center are located in their respective departmental buildings on campus.

North American Division Evangelism Institute
Seminary Hall, Room S303
269-471-8303

The North American Division Evangelism Institute (NADEI) provides field-related training to seminarians that includes public evangelism, church growth, small groups, evangelistic preaching, lay ministry empowerment, Bible studies, and other outreach ministries. In addition, NADEI sponsors SEEDS (church planting), ChurchWorks, Ministry Coaching, Equipping University, and H.O.P.E. University seminars and conferences on behalf of church entities throughout the NAD for the continuing development of lay and full-time ministry. NADEI is operated by the North American Division as a separate entity, but it works with the seminary in administering and developing its program.

Marine Biological Field Station
Anacortes, Washington Department of Biology

269-471-3243

Andrews University is affiliated with Walla Walla University (College Place, Wash.) in the operation of a marine biological field station located at Rosario Beach in Washington State's Puget Sound. The station provides facilities for undergraduate and graduate study and research. The site is near a biological spectrum from sea bottom to Alpine tundra that provides unique opportunities for instruction and investigation.

Mary Jane Mitchell Multimedia Center
269-471-3272

The Multimedia Center is the primary library location for microforms, audiovisual materials (cassettes, videotapes, etc.), multimedia and pamphlets and serves the entire university. It also includes a textbook collection for the School of Education, houses small collections of children's and young adult literature and a small computer lab for general patron use. A computer workstation is dedicated to serve disabled students. The Clear View magnifying reading machine and the Kurtzweil 3000 program are available.

Music Materials Center
Hamel Hall
269-471-6217

The Music Materials Center (MMC) is a branch library of the James White Library, located in Hamel Hall. Services and materials provided include: specialized music reference service, recordings and listening facilities, scores, reference materials to support the study of music, and assistance in the use of electronic materials. Primary areas of study supported include performance, music history and literature, music theory and composition, church music, music education and music studied as part of the general education curriculum.

The MMC contains over 8,000 sound recordings, 12,000 musical scores, 2,000 reference books, and current issues of 30 print periodicals. The major portion of the James White Library's collection of books, bound print periodicals and visual materials are housed in the main library.

Additional materials for the study of music are found in the main library's Information Services Department and in JWL's electronic collection.

Mathematics Center
Haughey Hall (Science Complex), Room 112
269-471-6662

The Mathematics Tutoring Center provides free assistance for students enrolled in University mathematics courses. Faculty and staff are also invited to visit the Center for help. The Center is equipped with eight computers that can be used for ALEKS and other web-based math assignments. An appointment is not necessary. For more information and the most current schedule, see the posted schedule or call the Department of Mathematics at 471-3423.

Museum of Natural History
Price Hall (Science Complex) Lower Level
269-471-3243

The Museum of Natural History is a display used by students and visited by hundreds of people annually. The most complete skeleton of a woolly mammoth ever found in Michigan is displayed in the museum.

Donors have contributed collections of over 30,000 marine shells, 1,600 birds, and 1,400 mammals as well as hundreds of butterflies and other insects. The museum also includes over 5,000 botanical specimens in the herbarium section. A collection of antique microscopes is also displayed.

Seminary Library
James White Library, Main Level
269-471-3269

The Seminary Library is an integral part of the James White Library and the Theological Seminary. It provides collections and services that support the Seminary students and faculty. Seminary Library resources include approximately 150,000 books, 500 periodical subscriptions and 18,000 volumes of bound periodicals.

Biblical studies and practical theology are the major strengths of its holdings. Subject areas of special interest to Seventh-day Adventists are especially strong, including the biblical books of Daniel and Revelation, creationism, the Sabbath, and the second advent. Together with the Center for Adventist Research, the Seminary Library provides the most complete research collection for Adventist studies anywhere. Graduate level collections on systematic theology, missions, church history and biblical archaeology are also featured.

Seminary Online Learning Center
S144 Seminary Building
solc@andrews.edu
269-471-3962

The Seminary Online Learning Center (SOLC) offers a variety of distance education courses at the graduate level. These online courses not only serve students who are enrolled in different Seminary programs on campus and off campus, but support faculty and students who are working at their local churches throughout the states, and around the world, by promoting partnership and creating community to nurture Adventist education. The Seminary partners with the Department of Digital Learning and Instructional Technology (DLIT) which helps in the development, technical support and design of the online courses.

Student Success Center
Nethery Hall, Room 100
success@andrews.edu
269-471-6096

The Student Success Center (SSC) exists for the sole purpose of helping students succeed. This center supplements the educational process by providing academic guidance, support and developmental instruction. The SSC collaborates to identify students' needs; to facilitate their physical, emotional, social, intellectual and spiritual development through support and leadership; and to provide resources for faculty, staff, and parents who share their concerns for student success. The Student Success Center serves as a resource for all students—from freshmen to doctoral candidates—in all schools of the University. The SSC also networks with all other campus support centers and functions as a referral base for students and advisors.

The Student Success Center

- facilitates academic advising for undergraduates
- maintains on-campus referral and academic support information for all students
- effects major and advisor changes for undergraduate students
- manages a peer-to-peer tutoring class for undergraduate students
- facilitates accommodations for any student with documented disabilities
- provides guidance for students who need to have a disability documented
- coordinates student interventions, providing follow-up as needed

- serves as a central referral service to forward placement opportunities to academic advisors

University Center for Reading, Learning & Assessment

Bell Hall, Suite 200
269-471-3480

The University Center for Reading, Learning and Assessment addresses learning and reading-skill needs through classes and tutoring. It helps students to strengthen their God-given abilities and natural gifts. Academic assessment and tutoring services of the center are available to Andrews students, faculty, staff and community for a fee. Students with learning problems are nurtured towards the goal of successful course work. The Center also offers Orton-Gillingham based, multisensory intervention for those who have dyslexia.

Reading skills developed in the center include speed-reading, study reading, vocabulary, word recognition or decoding skills, spelling and handwriting. Students, faculty and staff may use equipment and materials for personal reading improvement on a self-help basis for a fee. Average to excellent readers as well as those having difficulty with reading are served.

The center offers a class that covers memory, learning styles, time management, temperament, mind style and emotional condition. A follow-up class includes coordination with advisors, teachers and staff to help the student and provide individualized and small-group support.

Writing Center

Nethery Hall, Room 101
writery@andrews.edu

ADA Services for Students with Disabilities

269-471-6096

Andrews University accepts and appreciates diversity in its students, including students with disabilities. Accordingly, students are encouraged to inform the University of any disability by contacting the Student Success Center. Students who are otherwise qualified for college may receive reasonable accommodations for disabilities if they have provided documentation by a qualified, licensed professional. Arrangements for accommodations should be made as early as possible after acceptance, and each semester. Students who suspect that they may have disabilities may also contact Student Success to inquire about the documentation process. More information about disabilities accommodations in college can be found at the government website:
www.ed.gov/about/offices/list/ocr/transition.html.

Christian Leadership Center

269-471-8332

The Christian Leadership Center is an interdisciplinary organization of Andrews University providing inspiration, ongoing leadership development, coaching, consultation and research for a network of church and community leadership throughout the world. The Center's office is located in the Theological Seminary. The Center's vision is a network of Christian leaders who provide outstanding leadership for church, business and educational organizations throughout the local community and the world.

The Center provides a place for academicians and field practitioners to link in a process of theological reflection that shapes the Seventh-day Adventist Church's understanding of leadership and clarifies transformational leadership development across cultures. The biblically-based model of servant leadership promoted by the Christian Leadership Center grows from that reflection. The Center focuses on transformation of the person, development of essential leadership patterns and formation of administrative skills through various programs offered to community and church organizations. Visit the Center online at www.andrews.edu/clc/.

Employment

Administration Building, Main Floor

Howard Performing Arts Center

hpac@andrews.edu

Fax 471-3565

The Howard Center is the performance home for the Andrews University music ensembles: the Symphony Orchestra, Wind Symphony, University Singers, University Chorale, Men's Chorus and Canta Bella. The Howard Center also hosts Howard Center Presents... a concert series with a blend of musical genres. It has hosted classical artists such as Canadian Brass, Vienna Boys Choir and King's Singers, as well as Christian artists such as Sandi Patty, Point of Grace, SELAH and Take 6. The on-campus radio station, WAUS FM 90.7, which is also located in the Howard Center, sponsors a chamber music series, Second Sunday Concert Series.

In addition, during the school year the Howard Center is home to the monthly Friday evening vesper service Fusion, which merges together all Friday night worship services, creating a dynamic and diverse worship experience. Students studying music at Andrews University also present their junior and senior recitals as a part of their requirements for graduation in the Howard Center.

The Howard Center was funded in part by a significant gift from John and Dede Howard, longtime members of the St. Joseph community, who now reside in Holland, Michigan.

The Howard Center is an important center of activity on campus. The concert hall offers a variety of concerts and other performances throughout the school year. Visit www.howard.andrews.edu/events for a complete listing of events.

Information Technology Services

Information Services Building

269-471-6016

Information Technology Services (ITS) provides a variety of services for students, faculty and staff. These services include support of administrative records systems, networking infrastructure, telecommunications and support for students, faculty and staff computer use.

Internet access is available on campus for all students, faculty and staff. A wireless network is available in many locations on campus, allowing students, faculty and staff to connect to the Internet with an 802.11 abgn wireless enabled device. Campus residence halls have Ethernet network connections in each room allowing students to connect to the Internet. High speed Internet access is available in the Beechwood, Garland and Maplewood apartments.

The ITS Computer Store provides certain hardware and software resources at educational pricing. The Microsoft Office Suite and latest Microsoft operating system are available through a Microsoft Campus License Agreement for the cost of the media. Anti-virus software for Windows-based computers is also available for students, faculty and staff personal use for the cost of the media. ITS also maintains a limited phone assistance service for hardware or software questions. Telecommunications services provided by ITS in residence hall or apartment packages include local phone service with unlimited local calling, caller ID, call waiting and basic CATV service. Premium CATV service is provided for an additional fee. (For more information call 471-3455).

A general purpose computer lab is available for use by any student, faculty or staff member. The computing lab, located in Bell Hall, Room 182, may also be reserved for instructional use. The lab contains Microsoft Windows-based systems with a variety of software. Laser printing is available for a fee. Additional computer labs exist in various schools and departments.

Institute for Diversity and Multiculturalism

Nethery Hall

269-471-3174

The Institute for Diversity and Multiculturalism (IDM) fosters understanding and inclusiveness in matters of race, ethnicity, culture, mental and physical abilities, age and gender in several ways.

1. The IDM provides assistance and training through lectures, workshops and seminars for Andrews University administration, faculty, staff and students.

2. It conducts workshops, seminars and conferences on diversity for a variety of other audiences.
3. The Institute provides consultation and training services to businesses, church organizations, law enforcement agencies, human resource professionals and educational entities.
4. The IDM is a resource for the world church in dealing with the increasing multicultural and diverse nature of its membership and its mission.
5. The Faculty Research Forum, a unit within the Institute, researches issues of diversity and multiculturalism and disseminates its findings.

LithoTech

Harrigan Hall (main floor, front entrance)

litho@andrews.edu

269-471-6027

LithoTech provides full service in digital color and black and white printing. In addition, LithoTech offers offset printing and bindery services. Brochures, paper and white copies, color copies, color posters, church bulletins, resumes, paperback books, newsletters, letterhead and envelopes, business cards and a wide variety of paper are a few of the items that can be provided.

Office of the Ombudspersons

The Office of the Ombudspersons is a confidential, independent and neutral dispute resolution service for the University community. As such, it facilitates understanding, communication and resolution of conflict among students, faculty and staff. The office serves as an impartial and confidential means of facilitating dialogue between parties on campus and as a means, apart from formal grievance procedures, of resolving differences. The office was established as part of the University's Christian commitment to foster a courteous and considerate climate conducive to productivity and well-being for the University community.

The Ombudsperson works independently from University administrative offices. Discussing a matter with an ombudsperson is confidential to the extent allowed by law and does not constitute notice to the university.

Radio Station WAUS 90.7 FM

Howard Performing Arts Center

waus@andrews.edu

269-471-3400

WAUS began broadcasting in January 1971 and now broadcasts 24 hours a day to listeners in southwestern Michigan and northern Indiana. The day-by-day programming, production and student-broadcast training take place in a facility featuring a broadcast studio, a production studio, a music library and staff offices. Station programming includes classical music, news updates and religious programs. WAUS contributes to the local community by being the only 24-hour provider of classical music and arts information, providing student training and employment, and public relations exposure for Andrews University.

Student Insurance

Administration Building, Main Floor

stuins@andrews.edu

269-471-3097

The Office of Student Insurance provides information regarding student accident and sickness insurance as well as providing a student advocate to help mediate for the student, if necessary.

The University School

Ruth Murdoch Elementary, 8885 Garland Ave

rmes@andrews.edu

269-471-3225

Andrews Academy, 8833 Garland Ave

academy@andrews.edu

269-471-3138

The University School is a coeducational day school located on the Andrews University campus. It consists of two divisions: Ruth Murdoch Elementary School (K–grade 8) and Andrews Academy (grades 9–12). In addition to providing education for young people enrolled in the school, the University School serves as a demonstration school and a laboratory for educational innovation and research. The faculty and administration work with the School of Education in coordinating a teacher-training program.

Application for admission to either division of the University School should be made at least four weeks before the student plans to enter. The first semester begins approximately the last week of August. Information on admission may be obtained from the Office of Admissions, Ruth Murdoch Elementary School, 8923 Garland Ave, Berrien Springs MI 49104-0570; or from the Office of Admissions, Andrews Academy, 8833 Garland Ave, Berrien Springs MI 49104-0560.

Our Values, Your Choice

Andrews University is a Christian community where Christ is celebrated and reflected in the academic, social, physical and spiritual experiences of its members. As a Seventh-day Adventist institution, we seek to integrate faith, learning and living, while each of us matures in our relationships with God and each other.

By deciding to attend Andrews University, students choose to be part of this uniquely Christian atmosphere. Every enrolled undergraduate student pursuing an on-campus degree signs a "Community Values Agreement" in which they affirm their decision:

1. To attend a faith-based university by respecting Andrews University's Seventh-day Adventist Christian perspective and values. See the section "A Faith-Based University."
2. To adopt a healthy lifestyle guided on and off campus by the core values of the Andrews University community. See the section "A Healthy Lifestyle."
3. To live on a residential campus in a University residence hall while a single undergraduate student under the age of 22 (unless living with an approved family member or Andrews faculty or staff member) and,

while an undergraduate resident, to participate in a meal plan at the University's vegetarian cafeteria. See the section "A Residential Campus."

4. To engage a whole-person approach to education and, while an undergraduate or Seminary student, to attend required co-curricular programs. See the section "A Whole Person Approach."

Distance degree and PTC (Permission to Take Classes for non-degree purposes) students complete a "Community Values Agreement" in which they note their understanding and respect of the Andrews University commitment to embrace core Seventh-day Adventist Christian values. Distance degree and PTC students are invited to consider these values as they strive to remain in good standing with their local communities and to optimize the benefits of the University's whole-person educational philosophy.

A Faith-Based University

Seventh-day Adventist Faith and Values

Students attending Andrews University soon learn that our Seventh-day Adventist faith and values set us apart. Our distinctive Christian perspective, guided by our understanding of Scripture, informs our faith as well as our practice. This becomes evident as students encounter a seventh-day Sabbath of rest and worship, wholesome recreational and entertainment choices, an emphasis on healthful living, concern for others through local and global service, the care of dedicated staff and professors, and a hopeful view of the present and future as found in Jesus Christ.

Campus Ministries

The Office of Campus Ministries promotes faith development through pastoral care, resources and services to the University campus. The University chaplain and associate chaplains function to enrich the faith and intellectual life of the campus through incarnational ministry and the provision of a variety of opportunities appropriate to a spiritual, cultural and socially diverse student and professional population. The chaplains operate at a level that ignites the passion of those who have been transformed by or are considering a relationship with Jesus Christ.

The essential question for the existence for AUCM is embraced in the transformative prayer of Jesus in the Gospel of John chapter 17. Here Jesus' heart for a close and life-changing relationship with man is revealed. Campus Ministries exists to promote close proximity with God. In this PROXIMITY our goals are to:

- Be Clear on who God is: "And this is eternal life that they may know you, the only true God and Jesus Christ whom you have sent." John 17:3
- Be Close to God: "The glory which you gave me I have given them, that they may be one just as we are one....Father I desire that they whom You gave me be with me where I am." John 17:23-24
- Be Clean by God: "Sanctify them by your truth. Your word is truth." John 17:17
"I give myself as a holy sacrifice for them so they can be made holy by your truth." John 17:19
- Be Confident in God's Calling: "As you sent me into the world, I have sent them into the world." John 17:18

A Whole Person Approach

Students engage in faith and learning outside the classroom as part of a comprehensive educational experience, developing skills and dispositions that complement their academic degrees. Undergraduate students and Seminary students agree to participate in a minimum number of co-curricular experiences each semester.

Co-curricular learning targets individual and campus community outcomes in four areas.

- A Healthy U focuses on building physical fitness, maintaining a balanced diet and achieving personal wellbeing.
- A Successful U focuses on sharpening academic skills, boosting creative capacities and ensuring career readiness.
- A Committed U focuses on engaging in faith development, seeking spiritual support and pursuing a life purpose.
- A Better U focuses on gaining cultural competence, practicing service to others and developing leadership ability.

Together with the academic curriculum, co-curricular education delivers the whole-person education at the heart of Andrews University's mission.

To learn more about the undergraduate co-curricular requirement, including program structure, costs and expectations, please refer to bulletin.andrews.edu > Student Handbook > A Whole Person Approach.

A Residential Campus

Residential Living Policy

Andrews University is operated as a residential college on the undergraduate level. The University also offers residential options for graduate students. This means that the residential environment plays a significant role in the mission of the University and its efforts to foster the holistic development of each student.

Therefore, in accordance with the University's Residential Living Policy, all single undergraduate students under 22 years of age who are (1) pursuing an on-campus degree and taking seven or more credits (including distance learning courses) or (2) enrolled in full-time language study must live in one of the University residence halls and participate in a meal plan at the University's cafeteria. Single undergraduate students must be 22 years of age by the first day of a semester in order to be approved to live in the community for that semester.

Costs associated with residence hall living are part of the investment in an Andrews University education, thus the Student Life office does not make exceptions to the Residential Living Policy on the basis of financial need.

To review the complete Residential Living Policy, please refer to andrews.edu/sl and to the "Student Handbook" at bulletin.andrews.edu > Student Handbook > Residential Living Policy.

Residence Halls

The University maintains three residence halls: Lamson Hall (for women), Meier Hall (for men), and University Towers. University Towers is a residence hall designed for single, older students—Damazo is for undergraduate age 22+ and graduate females, while Burman is for undergraduate age 21+ and graduate males. Double-occupancy rooms are standard. Single occupancy is permitted by special request, if space allows, for an additional fee.

Apartments and Houses for Rent

The University owns 304 apartments and 36 houses. The apartments are available to married students, students with children, and single undergraduate age 22+ and graduate students. Accommodations are available only to those who have been officially accepted as university students. Since apartments are limited, applicants are advised to apply six to nine months before their first semester of studies.

Most apartments are furnished. Tenants must supply their own linen and kitchen utensils. Unfurnished apartments have a stove and refrigerator. Pianos may be placed in the apartments only by prior arrangement with the University Apartments director. Pets are not allowed in University apartments or houses.

Further information on University housing may be obtained through the "University Apartments Handbook" online. Please visit andrews.edu/apartments for applications and further information.

If internet access is desired in the apartments, a modem must be obtained from the Office of University Apartments. There is a $100 refundable deposit required for this.

Non-Residence Hall Housing

Students living in non-residence hall housing must abide by the expectations outlined in the "Student Handbook" and the non-residence hall housing policy. All students living off-campus must maintain high moral standards in their choice of guests and entertainment; otherwise, they could be subject to discipline. Unmarried, unrelated students must not live in the same shared dwelling with members of the opposite sex.

A Healthy Lifestyle

Core Christian Values

Students who choose to attend Andrews University agree to adopt a healthy lifestyle and to maintain high standards of conduct. These standards are part of the spiritual mission and heritage of the University. They reflect biblically grounded values such as honesty, modesty, sexual purity, respect for others and their safety, and healthful living.

Code of Student Conduct

The Code of Student Conduct is detailed in the "Student Handbook" and provides examples of violations that may result in serious consequences. Students may obtain a copy of the "Handbook" at the Student Life office (or online at andrews.edu/sl). Any regulation adopted and published by the administration in more informal written communication or online has the same force as regulations printed in official publications.

Code violations include, but are not limited to, the use or possession of tobacco, alcoholic beverages, illegal drugs or dishonestly acquired or misused prescription drugs; dishonesty; sexual immorality; physical abuse or assault as well as domestic/relationship violence; sexual misconduct including but not limited to nonconsensual sexual contact, nonconsensual penetration, sexual exploitation and sexual harassment; theft; vandalism; lingering in proximity to alcohol, illegal drugs or drug paraphernalia, such as in events or parties where alcohol or illegal drugs, etc., are present and served by another host; hosting/planning events in one's own residence or elsewhere where alcohol is served or consumed and/or illegal drugs or drug paraphernalia are present; patronizing places of questionable entertainment or activities such as sexually suggestive or explicit dancing; profanity or vulgarity; possessing lewd or obscene materials; on-campus possession of weapons, firearms or look-alike firearms; engaging in improper associations—participating in organizations that have not been registered with and approved by the Student Life office; insubordination of a University official; disrespect or slander; and threatening and harassing behavior.

Accountability

Admission to the University is not a right. It is a privilege that entails acceptance of individual responsibility for honor, integrity and self-discipline. The University understands that all human beings are flawed and seeks to work with each student in a redemptive manner. However, students should expect to receive consequences up to and including dismissal from the University if they engage in activities or behaviors that violate the University's core values or if their presence damages the mission and function of the institution. This includes activities and behaviors outlined in the Code of Student Conduct, whether these activities and behaviors take place on-campus, off-campus or in cyber communities.

Community Values Agreement

Undergraduates are required to sign a "Community Values Agreement" as part of their registration each academic year. By signing this document, students agree to support a healthy lifestyle and to respect the faith-based values of the University. They also agree to abide by the University's residential policy and to participate in required co-curricular programs.

Student Activities and Organizations

The University encourages students to participate in as many co-curricular activities and organizations as their study-work loads permit. Experience gained in working with others to achieve common goals provides invaluable training. Some of the more prominent campus organizations and activities are described below. A complete list of campus organizations is available from the Office of Student Activities & Involvement via OrgSync.

Andrews University Student Association (AUSA) and Publications

The Student Association serves all undergraduate students enrolled at Andrews University for 6 or more credits. AUSA sponsors recreational and educational activities for the undergraduate student body. It responds to student needs and serves as a collective voice for student concerns. Additionally, it coordinates activities that include the publishing of the "Cast" (pictorial student directory), the "Cardinal" (University yearbook), and the "Student Movement" (University student paper). The editors and managers of these publications are approved by the Student Association Senate and elected by the members of AUSA. The Senate, composed of about 30 student leaders, exercises legislative and management powers given to it by the constitution of the Association.

Details about AUSA and its sub-organizations appear in the "Andrews University Student Association Constitution and Bylaws."

Andrews University Graduate Student Association

All graduate students enrolled with regular or provisional status in a degree program in all schools and colleges at the Berrien Springs campus of Andrews University are automatically members of the Andrews University Graduate Student Association (AUGSA). The AUGSA assembly includes all AUGSA members and is governed by representative officers who meet regularly and report to the assembly.

The AUGSA sponsors social, spiritual and scholarly activities during the school year. It may also be involved in University policy development that affects graduate students. Details about AUGSA are found in the Constitution of the Andrews University Graduate Student Association.

Student Clubs and Organizations

Numerous campus organizations serve the social, spiritual, academic and leisure interests of students. Clubs for international and cultural groups, as well as those for commonly held pursuits and causes, provide for the diverse interests of students. Student organizations must be overseen by a full-time staff or faculty sponsor, led by at least three student officers, and guided by an official constitution. Organizations must register in the Andrews OrgSync portal each year with the Office of Student Activities & Involvement in order to function on campus. Students are not allowed to participate in unregistered organizations, and those who do jeopardize their student status. A list of registered organizations can be found on the Andrews OrgSync portal.

Student Records

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), gives students certain rights relating to educational records that are created and maintained by the University. The University is not obligated to maintain educational records and thus some educational records are destroyed. Students may inspect and review their educational records and may, if they believe the records are incorrect, seek to have records corrected through appropriate review procedures. The full policy that governs student records and access to them is available in the "Student Handbook." Students who wish to review their academic records should make a request through the Office of Academic Records; students who wish to review their Student Life records should make a request through the Student Life office. The student may be asked to care for the reproduction costs of copies of records requested by the student.

Information Released to Third Parties

In accordance with FERPA, Andrews University does not disclose personally identifiable information from educational records without a student's consent except in limited circumstances. FERPA does permit institutions to define classes of information as "directory information." FERPA permits the disclosure of directory information without the consent of the student, unless the student has informed the University Registrar, in writing, of her/his refusal to permit the dissemination of directory information. A form for opting out of the disclosure of directory information, which must be filled out and submitted each semester, is available in the Office of Registrar. The University has designated the following information as "directory information": name, local address, local telephone number, email address, gender, marital status, hometown, date and place of birth, school, academic program (degree, major and minor), enrollment status, class standing/classification (i.e., freshman, sophomore, junior, senior or graduate), participation in officially recognized activities, dates of attendance, degree(s) received, honors and awards, and photographs. Even where directory information may be released, Andrews University reserves the right to withhold such information from third parties.

Safety Regulations

Andrews University expects students to develop safe working habits. Students who participate in classes, laboratories or activities involving situations considered hazardous, as specified by the state or national standards, must provide and wear any such required personal safety equipment. If you are unsure of the required safety procedures, please contact Campus Safety at 269-471-3321.

Motor Vehicles

Andrews requires all vehicles on campus to register with the Office of Campus Safety. Drivers must follow posted speed limits and parking designations.

Vehicle Registration

You must show a valid state registration, current proof of insurance and driver's license. Upon registering you will receive a decal which must be affixed to your vehicle's window as intended. Failure to register your vehicle may result in a fine.

Auto Licensing

All vehicles on campus must maintain current home state license plates.

Auto Insurance

All vehicles must be covered with liability insurance while driven on campus. Expiration or cancellation of insurance automatically revokes motor-vehicle registration and driving privileges. All vehicles must be maintained in legal operating condition while on property.

AU Alert

To ensure multiple means of emergency communication for our campus, Andrews University uses a third party company, Rave Mobile Safety, to send emergency notification alerts to the campus via AU Alert.

AU Alert sends out text messages, emails, and voice calls to registered recipients. The system will also post alerts to University Facebook accounts or Twitter accounts with the emergency information. AU Alert notices are intended only for situations involving imminent danger to health or human safety. These may include severe weather alerts, winter weather class cancellations, hostile threats, utility failure, major road closings or fire, among others.

To receive emergency alert text messages, emails, or voice calls, please visit getrave.com/login/andrews/ and login with your Andrews University username and password.

Rave Alert does not charge subscribers to send or receive SMS messages. Standard or other messaging charges apply depending upon your wireless carrier plan and subscription details. Once registered, you can opt out of SMS messages at any time by texting STOP to 67283 or 226787.

Dining Services

Dedicated to providing our guests the finest in Vegetarian and Vegan dining options, Bon Appetit at Andrews University Dining Services is committed to creating food that is alive with flavor and nutrition and prepared from scratch using authentic ingredients. We do this in a socially responsible manner for the wellbeing of our guests, communities and the environment.

Our main office is located on the first floor of the Campus Center with convenient weekday hours to assist students with their residence hall meal plans or Cafe Accounts. Guests with questions or concerns are welcome to stop in anytime during office hours. Guests with special dietary needs are invited to meet with the General Manager and the Executive Chef to discuss how those needs can be met--please contact jonathan.daniels@cafebonappetit.com for more information. For guests choosing to dine with us on Sabbath, please come in during the week to set up a Cafe Account that can be used to purchase your Sabbath meal.

We have several dining options from which to choose--all accept your residence hall meal plan, cafe account, cash and credit/debit cards.

The Terrace Cafe is located on the second floor and features an all-you-care-to-eat format with several dining options from which to choose. Andrews Classics features favorite dishes from around the world and Classics Too offers healthy dining alternatives with a focus on special dietary needs. Our Grill features a variety of Latin foods that are self-serve for your convenience. The Salad Bar and Deli area has a wide variety of fresh ingredients and delicious breads to make your own salad, sandwich or panini. Be sure to visit the Bakery for a delicious selection of sweet treats.

The beautiful Dining Room is equipped with booth seating as well as table seating next to the large stone fireplace. Several smaller conference rooms can accommodate your private group needs. Our Front of House team will be happy to assist you with seasonal and creative fresh food ideas and personal service. Guests wishing to dine in our event rooms utilizing the Terrace Cafe meal option should contact ds@andrews.edu to book that event.

The Gazebo is located downstairs across from the Office of Dining Services. The Gazebo features a large selection of scratch-made smoothies, salads, burrito wraps, sub sandwiches and hot grilled dishes. You can also choose from a wide variety of locally baked pastries, grab-and-go sandwiches, salads and parfait cups. There is a retail area that sells convenience items and snacks.

Vending Services are available in various buildings across campus and provide quick snacks and drinks for our guests.

Catering Services are available for guests wishing to customize a meal and create a special event. Guests wishing to book a catering event should contact catering@andrews.edu for assistance. We offer catering services to any on-campus venue and a variety of off-campus locations.

Additional information and menus are available on the Dining Services website at <http://andrews-university.cafebonappetit.com/>. For daily menu alerts, upcoming special events and more information about Dining Services, be sure to follow us on Facebook at Andrews University Dining Services.

Medical Services

Required Medical Records

Michigan State Law requires all first-time students to supply certain medical records to the school of their choice before registration can be completed. The required records are those for (1) Tuberculosis Screening and (2) Measles, Mumps, and Rubella (German Measles) Immunization (MMR). See the admission section of this "Bulletin" for detailed requirements.

Available Medical Care

For health needs, students may contact University Medical Specialties, located next to the Apple Valley Plaza. Phone 269-473-2222 during office hours (8 a.m.–5 p.m., Monday–Thursday, and 8 a.m.–12 noon, Friday) to schedule appointments.

Physician appointments and nurse visits, as well as most short-term medications, are available to residence hall students. These basic services are included in the rent/health plan and are not charged separately to the residence hall student. However, charges are made for lab work, X-rays and accident cases involving third-party liability. University Medical Specialties (UMS) charges the insurance company for any coverage applicable to the services provided to residence hall students, thus students should take their insurance information with them when utilizing UMS services. UMS waives any copay or deductible (for the student/family) for the limited health care provided.

Non-residence-hall students living in the apartments or off-campus housing may use University Medical Specialties according to established fees.

For emergencies outside of regularly scheduled office hours, students may reach a physician at 269-473-2222.

Health-related Concerns

Lilian Akawobsa

Insurance—Injury/Sickness

Every international student in "student status" and every other student with a minimum of part-time enrollment status is required to be covered by an Injury and Sickness insurance plan—please visit the website for exceptions. The student will be able to select coverage by completing the student insurance section in Registration Central. The payment for this coverage is charged to the student's account the same as tuition and is non-refundable. Students who have proof of alternative insurance that is equal to or exceeds the minimum coverage and provisions offered by the AU plan may waive the University plan by completing a waiver in the student insurance portion of Registration Central and presenting their insurance card to the Student Insurance Office. Please visit the website for more details regarding requirements that must be met in order to waive AU Student Insurance and for additional information. Coverage for a student's spouse and dependent children is also available for an additional fee. All students from outside of the United States must cover dependents who accompany the student to the States. A brochure describing the insurance coverage is available at the Student Insurance Office in the Administration Building or online at andrews.edu/services/hr/students/insurance/.

Counseling & Testing Center

The Counseling & Testing Center (CTC) is the primary mental health care facility for the University and serves as a supportive medium aimed at enhancing the positive and learning University environment as it provides timely and comprehensive short-term counseling to University students and their spouses. The Center is staffed by licensed psychologists, counselors, and intern clinicians committed to utilizing all available resources in the delivery of services. These include personal, group, premarital and marital counseling; career development; outreach and consultation; academic and psychological assessments; teaching and research; and training and supervision. Workshops, wellness screenings, and other prevention programming are also coordinated by the CTC throughout the academic year. The CTC also offers self-help educational information through the CTC webpage and virtual pamphlets. The CTC uses a brief model of treatment and offers up to eight (8) counseling sessions per semester at no charge. Additional counseling sessions are considered on an individualized basis. The Center also provides referrals to community psychiatrists and other mental health professionals.

The Counseling & Testing Center endorses a whole-person approach in working with students by facilitating the integration of the emotional, spiritual, physical and social dimensions of the individual. The Center is fully accredited by the International Association of Counseling Services (IACS) and serves as a training facility for graduate counseling and social work interns. Psychological testing, career assessment and other testing services are offered for a nominal fee.

National standardized testing—including the ACT, SAT, GRE subject, LSAT, MPRE, MELAB, TOEFL, CLEP and other academic tests needed at both the undergraduate and graduate levels—is offered at the Counseling & Testing Center. To contact the Center call 269-471-3470 or email the staff at ctcenter@andrews.edu. You may also find us on Facebook at facebook.com/AUCTC.

Student Employment

Eligibility Pre-Employment I-9 Form

Before working on campus, all students (both U.S. citizens and others) must personally have a validation interview with an Employment Officer (Administration Building) at which time the officer and the student will make a joint sworn statement on the appropriate I-9 legal declaration form.

Employment Eligibility Certification

The Immigration Reform and Control Act charges all employers to examine and verify certain documents that establish the employment eligibility of all new employees. New and returning students who have not completed an I-9 for Andrews University work in the past and who plan to seek any employment on the Andrews University campus must supply documents of identity and employability.

Some documents serve for both purposes (List A), but if not available, two documents may be presented (one each from List B and List C). The acceptable documents are listed below; however, as the list may be subject to change, please refer to the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) website for the most updated information.

List A

Documents That Establish Both Identity and Employment Eligibility:

- U.S. Passport or U.S. Passport Card
- Permanent Resident Card or Alien Registration Receipt Card (Form I-551)
- Foreign passport that contains a temporary I-551 stamp or temporary I-551 printed notation on a machine-readable immigrant visa
- Employment Authorization Document that contains a photograph (Form I-766)
- In the case of a nonimmigrant alien authorized to work for a specific employer incident to status, a foreign passport with Form I-94 or Form I94A bearing the same name as the passport and containing an endorsement of the alien's nonimmigrant status, as long as the period of endorsement has not yet expired and the proposed employment is not in conflict with any restrictions or limitations identified on the form
- Passport from the Federated States of Micronesia (FSM) or the Republic of the Marshall Islands (RMI) with Form I-94 or Form I-94A indicating nonimmigrant admission under the Compact of Free Association Between the United States and the FSM or RMI

List B

Documents That Establish Identity:

- Driver's license or ID card issued by a state or outlying possession of the United States if it contains a photograph or information such as name, date of birth, gender, height, eye color and address
- ID card issued by federal, state or local government agencies or entities provided it contains a photograph or information such as name, date of birth, gender, height, eye color and address
- School ID card with a photograph
- Voter's registration card
- U.S. Military card or draft record
- Military dependent's ID card
- U.S. Coast Guard Merchant Mariner Card
- Native American tribal document
- Driver's license issued by a Canadian government authority

For persons under age 18 who are unable to present an identity document listed above (for List B):

- School report or report card
- Clinic, doctor or hospital record
- Day-care or nursery school record

List C

Documents That Establish Employment Eligibility:

- A Social Security Account Number card, unless the card includes one of the following restrictions: (1) NOT VALID FOR EMPLOYMENT, (2) VALID FOR WORK ONLY WITH INS AUTHORIZATION, (3) VALID FOR WORK ONLY WITH DHS AUTHORIZATION
- Certification of Birth Abroad issued by the Department of State (Form FS-545 or Form DS-1350)
- Original or certified copy of a birth certificate issued by a state, county, municipal authority or territory of the United States bearing an official seal
- Native American tribal document
- Identification Card for Use of Resident Citizen of the United States (Form I-179)
- Unexpired employment authorization document issued by the Department of Homeland Security

All documents presented must be original.

A parent or legal guardian may sign the I-9 form, attesting that the applicant is under age 18. However, such an applicant must present an employment eligibility item from the above list if a document proving both identity and employment eligibility is not available.

The Office of Employment

The Office of Employment, which is part of Human Resources, assists students in their on-campus employment needs. The Office provides information regarding employment opportunities and assistance with necessary paperwork, administers employment tests and is responsible for updating employment files. The Office is located in the Administration Building, Second Floor.

Office of Employment

Telephone: 269-471-3570

Fax: 269-471-6293

Email: employment@andrews.edu

Website: www.andrews.edu/hr

Students desiring part-time employment must be enrolled full-time (12 undergraduate credits, eight graduate credits or nine Master of Divinity credits) and they must complete the necessary paperwork at the Office of Employment.

The University allows students to work, as work is available, up to 20 hours per week during the academic year. To maximize work opportunities, the student should schedule their classes so that large portions of the mornings or afternoons are free. Professional performance and conduct is expected in all on-campus employment.

Employment (International Students)

An international student on a nonimmigrant F-1 visa is permitted to work on-campus a maximum of 20 hours per week during the school year and full-time during school breaks and vacations. Dependents with F-2 visa status cannot work on- or off-campus under any circumstances.

Exchange Visitor students on a nonimmigrant J-1 visa are allowed to work on-campus a maximum of 20 hours per week during the school year and full-time during school breaks and vacations. Dependents with J-2 visa status are allowed to study full-time and to work after they receive a work permit called the Employment Authorization Document (EAD) from the USCIS. J-1 students are allowed to work off-campus on a severe economic hardship basis.

Other Campus Services

Other campus services include a barber shop, a beauty shop and the University-branch post office.

Immigration Information for International Students

International students on F-1 or J-1 visas who come to study at Andrews University (AU) should be informed about the immigration laws and regulations in matters related to their visa status. It is the responsibility of the international student to maintain his/her student I-20 (for F-1) and DS-2019 (for J-1) status at all times. Failure to follow immigration regulations, whether intentional or unintentional, is a violation of the student visa status. Consequently, the status of the international student would be terminated and he/she must apply to the USCIS to be reinstated back into the legal student visa status or depart the US and re-enter with F1 or J1 status again to be legally admitted to study.

The personnel at the Office of International Student Services and programs (OISSP) consists of the director, called the Principle Designated School Official (PDSO), and the Designated School Official (DSO). They are appointed by Andrews University and authorized by United States Citizen and Immigration Services (USCIS) to issue I-20s and sign legal students' documents. The Office of International Student Services' director is also the RO (Responsible Officer), and therefore, is now authorized to issue its own DS 2019 documents for it J1 (student/researcher/exchange visitor) and J2 (dependent of J1) applicants. This office also has an ARO (Alternate Responsible Office) for assisting in the preparation of the DS2019 document. The PDSO, RO, ARO and DSO are also required to advise international students in areas related to student life on campus such as study, work and travel, etc

The Office of International Student Services communicates information to the international students in matters related to the government laws and immigration by several methods. First, the orientation for new international students is required upon arrival at Andrews University at the start of each of the 3 semesters (fall, spring and summer). Failure to attend the orientation program may result in student not having relevant information to live in accordance to the requirements to live by the student visa status they arrived upon and to failure to maintain legal status during the duration of the time spent on campus. Please visit the Office of International student services as soon as possible to receive the non-immigrant guidelines. Other means of communication include the Andrews "Bulletin," the International Student Services website, the Andrews Agenda and email. All international students are required to immediately update the Office of International Student Services of any changes in their student visa status, address, change of major or change of academic level.

F2 visa status holders are dependents of F1. F2 visa holder who is a spouse, is not permitted to study nor work during the entire duration of their stay in the US. F2 dependent children are permitted to go to school but not work. However, when the F2 dependent completed high school, F2 dependent should change his/her visa status to F1 is s/he would like to continue with their education at a college/university.*

General requirements for maintaining status as international students:

1. Have a valid passport at all times.
2. Continue to carry a full course of study.
3. Leave the United States once the courses for the academic program are completed, unless the student applies for a work permit (for F-1: OPT, for J-1: Academic Training).
4. Apply through the Office of International Student Services for a new I-20 if it is desired to change programs, to continue for another academic level within the same school or to transfer out to another institution of higher learning within the US.
5. Extend the current I-20 if additional time is required to complete student's program of study. Extend request process begins with the Office of International Student services.
6. Keep the I-20 (F-1) or DS-2019 (J-1) updated at all times. The most recent signature by the PDSO or DSO on one of these documents should be within 12 months from the time of signature. If it has exceeded, another signature must be obtained prior to travel outside of the U.S.
7. Maintain a legal work permit (on- or off-campus according to USCIS regulations).

Tuberculosis Testing: All international students must submit a negative (clear) TB test prior to admission.

Attendance at Another School

International students that come to study with an Andrews University I-20 or the DS-2019 should always maintain a full course of study at Andrews University. With an Andrews University I-20, international students may take additional classes from other schools if approved by the academic advisor and the Office of International Student Services.

The Department of Homeland Security system to track all international students who are admitted to study in the United States is called the Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS). It is administered by the Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP), a division of U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE). This is a web-based system for maintaining information on international students and exchange visitors in the United States.

Transfer to Another School in the U.S.

J-1 students who want to change schools or their academic program must first check with their sponsoring organizations. If an F-1 student intends to change schools for any reason during the program, or after receiving a degree, he/she must initiate a transfer and obtain a new I-20 from the new school. Also, the Office of International Student Services at Andrews University will require you to submit a letter of admission from the school you will be transferring to. The transfer instructions that need to be followed are normally given by the new school. Once the receiving school is ready to issue the new I-20, the student should inform the ISS office so that the student's current legal file can be transferred electronically to the new school.

Full Course of Study

USCIS requires every student on an F-1 or DS-2019 student visa to enroll full-time every semester at the school they are authorized to attend beginning immediately after the report date on the I-20 or DS-2019. Full-time class enrollment is as follows:

Undergraduate	12 credits (minimum)
Graduate	9 credits (minimum)
MDiv	9 credits (minimum)
Center for Intensive English Programs (CIEP)	12 clock hours (minimum)
Academy
Fall Qtr	2.0 units (minimum)
Winter/Spring Qtr	1.5 units (minimum)

International Students cannot AUDIT courses at anytime or Withdraw ("W") if it would put the student below the minimum credits required

Summer semester is the vacation semester for those who start a regular school year (fall semester). International students do not have to enroll for a lesser course load during summer except if the initial attendance reporting date on the I-20 or DS-2019 is dated for the spring or summer semesters. If so, the student must enroll for a full study load during the summer. Additional information is available in the Office of International Student Services.

1. International students with medical problems must provide a document from a physician recommending an interruption to take the semester off or reduction in study load.
2. Graduate international students who have completed formal course work and are engaged in comprehensive exam preparation, project, thesis or dissertation are required to register for such. Thereupon they are considered to be pursuing a full course of study provided the "Bulletin" states the course registered for is considered to be full-time.
3. An international student who registers in his/her last semester for less than the minimum credits required must present a RCL (Reduced course load) from his/her academic advisor verifying that these are the only credits that the student needs to fulfill all course requirements.
4. An F-1 student engaged in post-completion Optional Practical Training maintains his/her full visa status. A student in F-1 status doing full-time Curricular Practical Training is also considered to be pursuing a full course of study. But if an international student is engaged in part-time Curricular Practical Training or part-time Optional Practical Training, he/she is required to enroll in classes concurrently.
5. International students on an F-1 visa are not permitted to be in a program of study that is offered solely or entirely online. There may be exceptions for students on an F-1 visa—please contact the International Student Services office for clarification.

Students On Exchange Visitor Visas (J1/J2) and the Two-year Home Country Physical Presence Requirement

The two-year home country physical presence requirement is one of the most important characteristics of the Exchange Visitor J-1 status. If the international student is bound by this regulation, it will be stated on the J-1 visa and on the bottom left corner of the DS-2019. Exchange Visitors, including their dependents, can apply for a waiver of the requirement to return home for two years upon completion of their studies. Without the waiver, such students are not eligible to change their status in the U.S. to another category. Neither can such students become eligible for any change of status until they have been physically present in their country of nationality or the country of last legal permanent residence for a minimum of two years following departure from the U.S.A.

Employment For J-1 and F-1 Students

Immigration laws are very strict about employment. International students desiring to work must be sure to comply with these laws. UNAUTHORIZED OFF-CAMPUS EMPLOYMENT CAN LEAD TO TERMINATION OF STUDENT VISA STATUS AND DEPORTATION.

J-1 students may engage in two kinds of employment:

1. Academic training related to the course of study or
2. Work on-campus or off-campus (on severe economic hardship basis) for a maximum of 20 hours per week while school is in session and full-time during vacation.

J-1 students must obtain a letter from the RO or AROs authorizing employment before beginning work.

F-1 students may work on-campus up to 20 hours per week while school is in session and full-time during vacations (upto 29 hours during their first 12 months of stay in the US and then upto 40 during the following year for the semester of break and holidays).

Academic Training

Employment which is directly related to the course of study is permitted by the Department of State (DOS) while the J-1 student is enrolled in school or approved for Academic Training no later than 30 days after completion of the program. The General Conference is the organization that authorizes the Academic Training once the student provides the required documents.

Curricular Practical Training (CPT)

Employment authorization for Curricular Practical Training is given to students whose degree programs require off-campus work experience. International students may NOT begin working until the I-20 has been issued for employment authorization by the DSO. CPT is limited to twenty hours per week if the student is required to take classes during the practicum. If the CPT work is full-time, then the

I-20 must be issued for full-time. For more information, contact the Office of International Student Services.

Clinicals, Practicums or Internships

International students who are paid for clinicals, practicums or internships as part of a degree program MUST apply for Curricular Practical Training (CPT) and be issued a new I-20 accordingly with the CPT notation. The CPT notation has to be made prior to start of employment. Failure to do so will consider their work illegal.

Optional Practical Training (OPT)

Optional Practical Training is an optional work benefit for F-1 students, intended for practical work experience in their major field of study. Upon USCIS approval, a student receives work authorization to do OPT anywhere in the United States for a total of 12 months. International students may apply for the post-completion OPT during a five-month window, three months prior to the completion of the degree or 60 days after the completion of the degree.

Accepting Public Benefits is Illegal

Often hospital or medical clinic personnel encourage international students to accept Medicaid or other government benefits. DO NOT ACCEPT PUBLIC BENEFITS. Doing so is considered by USCIS to be a violation of your nonimmigrant status. Such students may be required to pay back the money received and may risk deportation.

The $200 SEVIS I-901 Fee

International students are required to pay $200 for the SEVIS I-901 fee. The Office of International Student Services will send along with the I-20 the instructions concerning the different ways of paying this fee. Upon paying the SEVIS fee, the system will automatically generate a receipt which is essential for the students to present at the American Consulate in order for them to obtain the student visa. Canadians must present the SEVIS receipt at the port of entry. For additional and complete information, please visit fmjfee.com/.

Should you need additional information, please visit andrews.edu/services/iss/, call us at 269-471-6395/269-471-3310, or email us at iss@andrews.edu. We look forward to working with you and serving your needs as an international student here at Andrews University.

General Academic Policies

General Academic Information

Students are expected to know the rules that govern academic matters. This bulletin presents answers to general questions regarding academic policies. Students with special problems and circumstances should consult the dean or program coordinator of the school that interests them. Responsibility for meeting degree requirements rests upon the student. Each student is expected to be aware of all relevant requirements published in the bulletin under which he/she plans to graduate. The bulletin in force when one first registers is the binding document between the student and the university. However, a student may request permission to meet the requirements of another bulletin in force during his/her years at the university. The student's freedom to choose the bulletin under which he/she will graduate is limited. Undergraduates should see the section "Student's Governing Bulletin". Graduate students should see "Residency Requirements and Time Limits".

Attendance at the University

The admission of candidates, their remaining as students, their status, the awarding of academic credits, and the granting of degrees are all subject to the ordinary regulatory powers of the university. It reserves the right to cancel, at its discretion, any of these privileges for reasons considered sufficient by the administration.

School deans reserve the right to review their students' grades periodically. Together with the faculty, they may also recommend that students performing unsatisfactorily should discontinue their degree programs.

The disciplinary authority of the university president is absolute. The vice presidents, deans, and other officers are responsible for specific cases and in restricted areas.

Changes in Bulletin Requirements

The provisions of this bulletin are not to be regarded as an irrevocable contract between the student and the university. The university reserves the right to change any provision or requirement at any time within the student's term of residence. All regulations adopted and published by the Board of Trustees or the faculty after publication of this bulletin have the same force as those published here.

Registration

Students should plan to register during the days assigned to registration on the official academic calendar. Registration is not official until all parts of the registration process have been completed, including financial arrangements.

Matriculation of First-year Students. Documentation of readiness to matriculate is required before admitted students will be allowed to register: official high school transcript or GED certificate, ACT or SAT scores, and for international students, minimum TOEFL scores.

Late Registration. Students who fail to register during the regular registration period must pay a late-registration fee. Students may not register after the last official day to enter classes.

Changes in Registration. A course may be dropped or added by means of a Change of Registration form or via the web during the drop/add period. This Drop/Add form is obtained from the Office of Academic Records. After completing the form, the student must get all needed signatures and return the form to the Office of Academic Records. The official academic calendar lists the deadline each semester for dropping or adding classes without an entry on the permanent academic record. It also notes the deadline to withdraw from a class with a "W" (Withdrawal) on the permanent record.

Credit Hour Definition

One semester credit hour at Andrews University is earned through academic work during a period of fifteen weeks; averaging three hours per week in undergraduate courses and four hours per week in graduate courses. Academic work contributes to established intentional learning outcomes and is verified by evidence of student achievement. Academic work includes:

1. A minimum of 50 minutes per week of direct faculty-student contact; and
2. Out-of-class student work during the remaining time.

For intensives or other classes that do not meet for fifteen weeks, an equivalent amount of direct faculty-student contact and out-of-class student work is required.

An equivalent total amount of academic work is also required in activities such as laboratory, independent study, practicum, studio, distance, distributed, tours and other learning modalities. More time may be expected for co-op work, internships and similar applied learning experiences where learning may take longer to be achieved.

Grading System and Grade-point Averages

Grades and Quality Points. The right to assign grades rests with the teacher of the course. Quality points (on a 4.00 scale) are given to each letter grade (A–F) for use in figuring a student's grade-point average (GPA). The GPA is the average number of quality points earned per credit hour in all courses which are assigned grades A–F.

A	4.00	C+	2.33
A-	3.67	C	2.00
B+	3.33	C-	1.67
B	3.00	D	1.00
B-	2.67	F	0.00

How to Compute Your GPA. You may calculate your semester GPA by following these steps:

- Multiply the number of credit hours by the number of quality points given to the letter grade earned in each class. (Do the same for each class graded A–F.)
- Add the number of quality points earned in all classes for the semester.
- Divide the total number of quality points by the total number of credit hours attempted.

Other Grade Report Entries

Additional grades that may appear on a student's academic record are defined below.

AU—Audited Classes (including HN, UA and UH). A grade of AU is given for an audited course if the student has met the obligations of the audit agreement. It is possible to audit any class except private music lessons and independent study courses provided (1) there is room in the class, (2) the student has an appropriate background, and (3) the instructor gives permission to attend. The term audit refers to registration for attendance only. All auditors, including honors auditors (HN), are expected to attend all class appointments as agreed upon when the instructor granted auditing privileges.

Auditors must attend at least 80% of the class periods. Those who fail to do so are given a grade of UA (Unsatisfactory Audit); honors auditors a UH.

A student may change from "credit" to "audit" registration and vice versa within the published time limits. To make this change the student must present the Office of Academic Records with a Change of Registration form with the required signatures.

The tuition charge for an audited course is the same as a course taken for credit. Full-time honors students may audit one course per semester free of charge.

DG—Deferred Grade. A DG may be given in certain courses recognized to be of such a nature that all the requirements are not likely to be completed within one semester. It may be given for tours, field/clinical experiences, internships, projects, intensives, comprehensive exams, independent study courses, courses requiring research such as theses and dissertations, and undergraduate upper division courses where mastery learning is required. The Office of Academic Records records a DG for the above listed courses previously recommended by a department and approved by the dean of the appropriate school and/or graduate program committee.

An instructor may designate a time limit for a given course or a specific situation for the DG to be changed to a letter grade. All DGs are required to be cleared before a student can graduate, unless they are DGs earned in another currently enrolled degree. An instructor may change the DG to a letter grade (A–F), S/U or DN (Deferred and Not Completable) as appropriate.

DN—Deferred and Not completable. A DN indicates the course has not been completed and no longer can be completed because time has run out.

I—Incomplete. An Incomplete (I) indicates that the student's work is incomplete because of illness or unavoidable circumstances and not because of negligence or inferior performance. Students will be charged an incomplete fee for each incomplete grade issued.

An I may be given when the instructor and the student agree to terms stated in an Incomplete Contract. The I is given to a student when the major portion of the work for the course has been completed. The contract states (1) the remaining work to be completed, (2) a plan with timelines for completion of the work, (3) the time limit, and (4) the grade the student will receive if the work is not completed by the agreed-upon time.

Ordinarily, an I shall be removed during the following semester. However, an I contracted in the spring semester may be extended to the autumn semester. Any request for an extension of time beyond the contracted time shall be made in writing before the end of the contracted date and approved by the dean of the college/school in which the course is offered. The number of I's on a student's record affects the student's class and workload.

Undergraduate restrictions: Students with 8 credits of Incompletes may not register for more than 12 credits of new courses; for those with 12 or more credits of Incompletes the number of new credits is limited by the dean of the respective college/school. Incompletes must be removed before graduation.

NC — No Credit.

R—Reregistered. Assigned only for designated remedial courses. Students who obtain this grade are required to reregister for the course in question.

S/U—Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. The grading pattern for lecture and lecture/laboratory courses is A–F. Certain designated courses, such as independent/individual study/readings, independent research, research projects, workshops, seminars, field/clinical experiences and practica may be graded with either an S/U or A–F pattern as the college/school decides. When more than one grading pattern is possible, the determination of which pattern shall be used for a given class shall be made at the beginning of the class. Completed theses/dissertations (except for undergraduate theses) are always graded on an S/U basis. Grading patterns may not be mixed within a given course for any grading period except for independent study courses, as in next paragraph. An S means, for an undergraduate, that a C (2.00) or higher has been earned; for a graduate, a B (3.00) or higher. The letter grade U signifies unsatisfactory performance. Credit is earned only if an S is received. No quality points are assigned S/U courses and an S/U notation does not affect the GPA.

By definition, independent/individual study/reading/research courses imply potentially a different set of purposes, goals, objectives, activities and outcomes for each student. They are not intended to serve as a substitute for a required class or for canceled classes, and they must have an evaluation plan. All students taking one of these courses with the same acronym, course number and section number under the same instructor are typically listed on the same grade sheet, and therefore mixing grading patterns for these courses in a given term is permitted.

W—Withdrawal. Withdrawal is recorded when a student withdraws within the date limitations indicated by the academic calendar. Under certain circumstances the institution may initiate the withdrawal.

Repeating Classes. Students may repeat a course in which they receive an unsatisfactory grade. In such a case, the record of the first attempt is not erased. However, in the case of undergraduate students only, the credits and quality points earned in the course with the higher grade are used to calculate the GPA. In the case of graduate students the course may be repeated once. The credits and quality points earned in the most recent course will be used to calculate the GPA. Course grades may be replaced only by grades for course work repeated on campus. When a course with a laboratory is repeated, the laboratory part also must be repeated.

In sequence-type courses (course numbers ending in 1, 2, or 3) a student who earns an F for one semester automatically must repeat that course before being permitted to enroll or remain enrolled in courses that follow in that sequence. A student who earns a D in such a course should counsel with the teacher as to the wisdom of continuing the course.

Factors Influencing Grades

Several factors are used to compute the final grade in a particular course. These include such items as scores in oral or written examinations, quizzes, practical and written projects, papers, reports, laboratory experience, skill demonstration, clinical performance and class attendance/ participation. The teacher selects the grading components for a given course according to the nature of that course. The course outline (syllabus) clearly outlines how the students' final grades shall be figured.

Grade Reports

No hard copies of grades are mailed to students because they can view and print their grades via the web. Students who want a parent or organization to receive a printed grade report may request this via the web or at the Office of Academic Records.

Resolution of Grade Disputes

Students who dispute the grade received for a course are encouraged to seek a resolution through the steps delineated below. Succeeding steps should be taken only if the previous step fails.

Step 1: Informal resolution in person. The student must first seek a resolution in person with the instructor. Should such attempt fail, the student may seek a resolution through the instructor's immediate supervisor, the department chair or, in the absence of the chair, the dean of the school. The chair or dean may arrange a joint discussion between the student and the instructor.

Step 2: Written grade complaint. The student may file a written grade complaint with the instructor's immediate supervisor, requesting an investigation of the grade. The request must include the reasons for the student's belief that the grade was assigned as a result of carelessness, arbitrariness, or capriciousness. If the chair is also the instructor in question, the chair should direct the grade complaint to the next highest officer for processing. The written grade complaint must be filed within the semester (not counting the summer terms) after the grade was given. Complaints filed after a full semester has elapsed since a grade was given, or a written grade complaint that does not detail the evidence called for above, shall not be investigated. A department chair or the instructor's immediate supervisor can recommend or make a grade adjustment only if his/her findings reveal clear evidence of carelessness, arbitrariness, or capriciousness on the part of the instructor. The department chair or the instructor's immediate supervisor is to render a written report on his/her findings within a week (if school is in session; if not, within the first week after school reconvenes). If the student does not receive a report or remains dissatisfied, he/she may proceed with Step 3.

Step 3: Grade Grievance. A student may file a written grade grievance with a dean of a relevant school to resolve a grade problem. The grade grievance must be filed within three weeks of receiving a response to the original filing of the written grade complaint. The written grade grievance shall provide evidence for the claim that the grade was assigned as a result of arbitrariness, capriciousness, or carelessness. Should the dean be the instructor in question, the dean shall direct the grade grievance to the provost. A written grade grievance that does not detail the evidence called for above, or that is filed more than three weeks after the response to the original filing of the complaint, will not be investigated.

Providing the student has met the conditions for filing a grade grievance, the relevant dean or the provost shall appoint a Grade Review Committee of three (3) faculty members with authority to investigate the matter further and to recommend a resolution.

The dean or provost shall issue a written verdict in response to a specific Grade Review Committee within one week after having received the written recommendations of the Committee. This shall be final and binding on both student and faculty member. The verdict may necessitate a grade change.

Transcripts

The Office of Academic Records issues transcripts of the student's academic record upon written request by the student. Requests should reach the Office of Academic Records at least ten days before the transcripts are needed. (For restrictions, costs and exceptions, see the Financial section of this bulletin.)

Student Responsibilities

Examinations. Credit is not granted in courses unless the required examinations are completed by the student. Students are expected to follow the published examination schedule. In cases where the schedule requires a student to complete four exams in one day, arrangements may be made with the dean to complete one of the examinations at another time.

Class Attendance. Regular attendance at all classes, laboratories and other academic appointments is required of each student. Faculty members are expected to keep regular attendance records. The syllabus notifies students of the attendance requirements.

Teacher Tardiness. Teachers have the responsibility of getting to class on time. If a teacher is detained and will be late, the teacher must send a message to the class with directions. If after 10 minutes no message has been received, students may leave without penalty. If teacher tardiness persists, students have the right to notify the department chair, or if the teacher is the department chair, to notify the dean.

Class Absences. Whenever the number of absences exceeds 20% (10% for graduate classes) of the total course appointments, the teacher may give a failing grade. Merely being absent from campus does not exempt the student from this policy. Absences recorded because of late registration, suspension, and early/late vacation leaves are not excused. The class work missed may be made up only if the teacher allows. Three tardies are equal to one absence.

Registered students are considered class members until they file a Change of Registration form in the Office of Academic Records.

Excused Absences. Excuses for absences due to illness are granted by the teacher. Proof of illness is required. Residence hall students are required to see a nurse on the first day of any illness which interferes with class attendance. Non-residence hall students should show written verification of illness obtained from their own physician. Excuses for absences not due to illness are issued directly from the dean's office.

Excused absences do not remove the student's responsibility to complete all requirements of a course. Class work is made up by permission of the teacher.

Performance in Related Non-academic Areas. Professional programs sometimes require certain personality traits, lifestyles, clinical aptitudes, or other special competencies. For programs in which such items are specified, students are evaluated in terms of these requirements. These requirements are described in departmental handbooks or in course syllabi.

Academic Integrity. In harmony with the mission statement, Andrews University expects that students will demonstrate the ability to think clearly for themselves and exhibit personal and moral integrity in every sphere of life. Thus, students are expected to display honesty in all academic matters.

Academic dishonesty includes (but is not limited to) the following acts:

- Falsifying official documents;
- Plagiarizing, which includes copying others' published work, and/or failing to give credit properly to other authors and creators;
- Misusing copyrighted material and/or violating licensing agreements (actions that may result in legal action in addition to disciplinary action taken by the University);
- Using media from any source or medium, including the Internet (e.g., print, visual images, music) with the intent to mislead, deceive or defraud;
- Presenting another's work as one's own (e.g., placement exams, homework assignments);
- Using materials during a quiz or examination other than those specifically allowed by the teacher or program;
- Stealing, accepting, or studying from stolen quizzes or examination materials;
- Copying from another student during a regular or take-home test or quiz;
- Assisting another in acts of academic dishonesty (e.g., falsifying attendance records, providing unauthorized course materials).

Andrews University takes seriously all acts of academic dishonesty. Such acts as described above are subject to incremental discipline for multiple offenses and severe penalties for some offenses. A record of academic integrity violations is maintained by the Faculty Academic Integrity Council. Repeated and/or flagrant offenses will be referred to an Academic Integrity Panel for recommendations on further penalties. Consequences may include denial of admission, revocation of admission, warning from a teacher with or without formal documentation, warning from a chair or academic dean with formal documentation, receipt of a reduced or failing grade, suspension or dismissal from the course, suspension or dismissal from the program, expulsion from the university, or degree cancellation. Disciplinary action may be retroactive if academic dishonesty becomes apparent after the student leaves the course, program or university.

Departments and faculty members may publish additional, perhaps more stringent, penalties for academic dishonesty in specific programs or courses.

For a synopsis of the current policy on academic integrity, please see the Student Handbook.

Peer-to-Peer File Sharing. Please see university policy.

Human Subjects Research. All students, faculty and staff conducting any research involving human subjects must apply for approval from the Institutional Review Board (IRB). A full description of the planned research along with the required supporting documents must be submitted by completing and emailing an IRB Review form directly to irb@andrews.edu. Additional information is available from 22

IRB at the Office of Research and Creative Scholarship, Administration Bldg. Room 322. Tel. (269) 471-6361.

Graduation Procedures and Degree Conferral

Degrees are awarded three times a year at Andrews University—May, August, and December to candidates who have successfully completed all degree requirements. The responsibility for meeting all program requirements rests with the student. Participation in graduation ceremonies is for students who have completed all degree requirements and for those who meet the minimum requirements to participate without completion (see Participation in Graduation Ceremonies below).

Participation without completion applies only to students on the Andrews University main campus. Candidates from off-campus sites must complete all degree requirements and obtain clearance through the Office of Off-Campus Programs to participate in main campus graduation ceremonies. Candidates must meet the following Applications and Final Clearances guidelines for graduation or participation:

Applications and Final Clearances

- Students must file an Application for Graduation/Marching form. Undergraduate graduation/marching forms are available at and must be returned to the Office of Undergraduate Records. The Graduate Graduation Application is available online. The following are the Graduation/Marching Application deadlines:

	December Conferral	May Graduation	August Graduation
Undergraduate Students	3 rd Thursday of September	3 rd Thursday of September	3 rd Thursday of May
Graduate Students	3 rd Thursday of September	3 rd Thursday of January	3 rd Thursday of May

- Transcripts for transfer credit must reach the Office of Academic Records a minimum of 15 days before graduation/ degree conferral.
- All Incompletes and Deferred Grades in classes needed to complete degree requirements must be changed to a satisfactory grade in the Office of Academic Records a minimum of 15 days before graduation/degree conferral.
- Students must receive financial clearance from the Student Financial Services Office to participate in graduation ceremonies or to receive a diploma.
- Diplomas will be ready for distribution beginning two weeks after commencement/degree conferral.

Commencement Services. On-campus commencement services occur in May and August. Students who receive December conferral of their degrees have the option of participating in the May commencement services only.

Graduation in Absentia. At the time of application for graduation/marching, students must indicate whether or not they plan to participate in the ceremony. Those who complete all degree requirements and choose to graduate in absentia forfeit their right to participate in a later graduation ceremony. Those who participate in a graduation ceremony before completing all degree requirements under the terms specified below may not participate for a second time when they complete their requirements.

Participation In Graduation Ceremonies

Graduation ceremonies are intended to recognize students who have completed all degree requirements and to celebrate their achievements. Students who are nearly completed with their degree requirements are also permitted to march and participate in the celebration within guidelines designed to maintain integrity of the degree-awarding process.

Upon submission of their Application for Graduation/Marching by the published deadline, students are authorized academically to participate in graduation ceremonies when they meet one of the following criteria:

Following registration for the term culminating in a spring or summer graduation ceremony, they fall within one of the following categories:

Undergraduate Criteria

Undergraduate students who lack no more than 6 semester credits for degree completion and meet both overall and major GPA requirements. Credits lacking include I's, DG's and unregistered work.

OR

Undergraduate students who lack only completion of an unregistered practicum or internship or student teaching requirement which could be expected to be completed before the next graduation event.

Graduate Criteria

1. General Criteria

Graduate students who lack only completion of an unregistered practicum or internship or student teaching requirement which could be expected to be completed before the next graduation event.

OR

Master of Divinity students who lack no more than 6 semester credits for degree completion, including practical field work courses. Credits lacking include I's, DG's and unregistered work.

2. Master or Specialist students without a thesis or project option who have been advanced to degree candidacy, lack no more than 4 semester credits for completion and by the official deadlines have met all other graduate degree requirements, including passing comprehensive exams (if required in the program). Credits lacking include I's, DG's and unregistered work.
3. Master or Specialist students with a thesis or project option who have completed all coursework, passed comprehensive exams (if required), and obtained approval of their thesis/ project by the appropriate graduate committee, but have yet to file the thesis/project, as required. Notification of thesis/project approval must reach the Office of Academic Records no later than 10 days before graduation.
4. Doctoral students who have completed all coursework, have met all graduate degree requirements, including passing comprehensive exams, and no later than four weeks before the graduation ceremony obtain approval of the appropriate graduate committee following successful defense of their dissertation/project (if required in the program), with one of the following results: "Accept the dissertation/project as defended" or "Accept the dissertation/project with minor revisions." For candidates whose result is "Accept the dissertation/project with major revisions," written notification from their committee that they have made satisfactory revisions as required must reach the Office of Academic Records no later than 10 days before graduation. For graduation procedures applying to the PhD in Religion and ThD programs see bulletin section on PhD program requirements, "Oral Defense of Dissertation: After the Defense," and the PhD Program Handbook.
5. Doctor of Physical Therapy students who have completed all coursework, have met all degree requirements including passing comprehensive exams, and who either lack completion of the
 1. last two internships, and/or
 2. capstone project

which is expected to be completed before the next graduation event.

The graduation program does not distinguish between those students who have actually completed all requirements and those who have not. All students authorized to participate will receive diploma covers, and all doctoral candidates will be hooded. However, for those who march without completion, diplomas will be issued and dated on the next official graduation or degree conferral date following completion of all degree requirements.

A list of graduates who have completed all requirements and received degrees for each commencement will be made public through a posting on the Andrews University website.

Undergraduate Academic Policies

Admission

Admission to Andrews University is available to any student who meets the academic and character requirements of the university and who expresses willingness to cooperate with its policies. Because Andrews University is operated by the Seventh-day Adventist Church, the majority of its students are Seventh-day Adventists. However, no particular religious commitment is required for admission. Any qualified student who would be comfortable within its religious, social, and cultural atmosphere may be admitted. The university does not discriminate on the grounds of race, color, creed, disability, national or ethnic origin, sex, marital status or handicap.

Admissions to Andrews University does not guarantee admissions to a specific department or program within a given school. Transfers from one school to another may be made when the student meets the admission requirements for that school and has the consent of the deans involved.

Application Process for All Undergraduate Students

Andrews University strongly encourages all interested individuals to apply online and submit the $30, nonrefundable fee. The online application for undergraduate admissions is available at andrews.edu/apply and must be submitted by a:

- First time applicant to an Andrews University baccalaureate degree program
- Continuing AU student who has not been enrolled during at least one academic term
- Andrews University graduate applying for a second baccalaureate degree

Apply Early

Applications for admissions, the non-refundable $30 fee, and all required documents should be submitted by the following priority deadlines:

Fall Semester	Spring Semester	Summer Session 1	Summer Session 2	Summer Session 3
July 15	November 15	March 15	April 15	May 15

Applicants may request changes to the entry term of a submitted application for up to one semester. If changes to the entry term is for two or more semesters, a new application and fee will need to be submitted.

Freshman Admission Requirements

Students who will attend college after high school graduation are encouraged to apply before their final high school transcript is available. A preliminary 6-semester transcript (through the 11th grade) with a cumulative GPA and ACT or SAT test scores are reviewed by the Undergraduate Admissions Committee for a decision. All students are required to submit a final official high school transcript and ACT or SAT scores before they can attend classes.

Freshman Admission Required Documents
Academic Records <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Official transcript from an accredited high school, or • Home School transcript showing courses taken and grades earned. Transcript must be signed by the learning coach, or • GED certificate with minimum scores of 145 on each section of the test, or • Official academic credential from an equivalent overseas secondary school or Ministry of Education (if high school completed outside of the United States)
College Readiness Test Scores <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • PSAT • ACT • SAT
Freshman Admissions Standards

PSAT-Based Admissions

- A minimum overall high school GPA of 3.25
- PSAT scores at the 75th percentile. Currently, this is a composite score of 1100

Regular Admissions

- A minimum high school cumulative GPA of 2.50
- ACT or SAT Test Scores at the 50th percentile. Currently, these scores are ACT composite score of 20 and SAT composite score of 1020

Students who do not fully meet minimum requirements, but have unique circumstances may be considered for admissions after review of other appropriate evidence of ability to successfully complete academic work at AU. The Undergraduate Admissions Committee reviews and makes a final decision on students who do not fully meet minimum requirements no later than July 15 for fall semester enrollment and November 15 for spring semester enrollment.

Students who have earned college credit while still in high school are required to have transcripts sent directly to Andrews University Undergraduate Admissions.

Although Andrews University has minimum freshman admission requirements, meeting these minimum standards does not guarantee admissions. The individual admissions status of each applicant is subject to the review and final decision of the Undergraduate Admissions Committee.

Note to Home Schooled Students. Andrews University School of Distance Education operates Griggs International Academy (GIA), an accredited online secondary education program. GIA will work with home school students who take a minimum of their last six high school courses through Griggs International Academy to obtain a fully accredited high school diploma. Contact GIA at 800-782-4769 or enrollgia@andrews.edu.

Transfer Student Admission Requirements

Students who have attended any type of institution of higher learning after high school graduation are considered Transfer Students. All transfer students are required to submit a final official high school transcript and official college transcripts before they can attend classes.

Transfer Student Admission Required Documents
Academic Records <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Complete academic transcripts from all colleges attended
Transfer Student Admission Standards <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Transfer students must have a minimum college cumulative GPA of 2.50. Transfer of Credits

Students who have attended any college or university classes are required to have transcripts sent directly to Andrews University Undergraduate Admissions. Official transcripts must be requested at the time of admissions in order to ensure a timely evaluation of the credits.

In order for college-level courses to be accepted at Andrews University, they must have been taken at an accredited institution and have received a grade of C- or higher.

Transfer credits will not appear on an official Andrews University transcript.

Documents Needed for Transcript Evaluation

- Complete college official transcripts from each institution attended.
- If a student attended an international school, an official WES evaluation is required. (This does not apply to students who have completed at least one semester abroad as part of their studies at a US Institution or for those who have attended an accredited Seventh-day Adventist Institution.)
- Additional student documents may be needed for international transfer.

Limit on Number of Transfer Credits.

- The university allows up to 70 semester hours to be transferred from two-year institutions and applied to a baccalaureate degree. More may be approved by the dean as part of a major course of study.
- Remedial/precollege courses are not acceptable for transfer.
- ESL/EFL/ELL courses are not acceptable for transfer.

Transfer of Credits from an Unaccredited School. Students who have attended an unaccredited post-secondary institution are admitted based on regular admission criteria for Freshman students. Transfer credits may be accepted as elective credits based on an evaluation of the institution issuing the credits. The credits may then be applied to a program of study when approved by the department chair/program director and/or ACE director as appropriate. On occasion, Andrews University may create an articulation agreement with an unaccredited institution based on prior history with the success of students from the institution.

Review of Credit for Prior Learning Granted by Other Institutions. Credit for Prior Learning (CPL) credits on transcripts are not transferable. Students may present the original documentation (transcripts, certifications, portfolios) to the Prior Learning Coordinator for evaluation in accordance with Andrews University CPL policies and procedures.

International Student Admission Requirements

International Student Admission Required Documents
Academic Records
First Time In Any College (Freshman)
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • International Students applying as First-time In Any College or University (freshman) must submit official documentation of completion of upper secondary high school. To know which document is required for the country in which high school studies was completed, see the International High School US Equivalency Document. (International students studying outside the U.S. will be required to take the ACT/SAT if offered at their secondary schools.)
Transfer Student
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Students that have completed college or university course work at an international institution must submit an official WES ICAP evaluation. (This policy does not apply to students who have completed at least one semester abroad as part of their studies at a US Institution or for those who have attended an accredited Seventh-day Adventist Institution.)
English Proficiency
Students who did not complete all years of upper secondary high school or two years of college or university level courses at an English-medium institution must demonstrate adequate English proficiency to be admitted into a degree program.
International Students Admission Standards

- International freshman students must meet the minimum required cumulative GPA of 2.5 on a complete high school transcript or meet the minimum passing marks with a 2.5 or higher GPA based on AACRAO on the secondary school certificate required for the country in which high school studies was completed.
- Transfer students must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.50. Transfer students who have earned 25 or more semester credits before applying to Andrews are evaluated on the basis of their cumulative GPA.
- Students who have attended a post-secondary institution since graduating from high school, but have completed less than 25 college or university level credits are admitted based on the same admission standards required of freshman students. ACT/SAT scores are recommended, but not required.

Students who do not fully meet minimum requirements, but have unique circumstances may be considered for admissions after review of other appropriate evidence of ability to successfully complete academic work at AU. The Undergraduate Admissions Committee reviews and makes a final decision on students who do not fully meet minimum requirements no later than July 15 for fall semester enrollment and November 15 for spring semester enrollment.

English Proficiency Requirement. The table below shows the minimum requirements for the different English Proficiency Exams accepted, including the requirements for the minimum components. Exams must be taken within two years prior to enrollment on any campus.

* Paper-based TOEFL is only accepted when administered by our Center of Intensive English Program or through a partner institution that holds an official agreement with Andrews University.

Concordance Table: Minimum Composite Score
AU Admissions	MELAB	TOEFL iBT	TOEFL ITP*	IELTS [Academic]	PTE [Academic]
	80	80	550	6.5	54

Concordance Table: Minimum Component Scores

MELAB	TOEFL iBT	TOEFL ITP*	IELTS	PTE
80	Reading	15	all components (except Writing and Speaking)	55	Reading	6	48
	Listening	15		Listening	6
	Writing	17	Writing	80	Writing	5
	Speaking	18	Speaking	3	Speaking	6

Two applicants with the same total score may have very different abilities. Minimum component scores help to ensure that admitted students have the profile of language abilities necessary to be successful in their department. For more information, contact the CIEP at 269.471.2260.

Language proficiency must be met before enrolling full-time in regular course work. Students who score below these levels may complete language requirements by enrolling in Intensive English Program courses (ENSL) on campus and passing the Exit Exam for English as a Second/Foreign Language. Degree programs with higher admissions requirements may also have higher English proficiency requirements.

Students with a score lower than the required minimum may be eligible for the Language Bridge Program which allows students to take a limited number of degree program courses while completing language proficiency requirements in Center for Intensive English Program courses. Students in the Language Bridge Program must demonstrate language proficiency within three semesters in order to continue in the degree program. Not all degree programs allow students to participate in the Language Bridge program. Please contact the Center for Intensive English Programs (CIEP) for additional information at 269.471.2260 or ciep@andrews.edu.

Concordance Table: Minimum Composite Score
	MELAB	TOEFL iBT	TOEFL ITP*	IELTS [Academic]	PTE [Academic]
Language Bridge	69-79	61-79	500-549	5.5-6.0	43-53
ESL Only	68 or below	60 or below	499 or below	5.0 or below	42 or below

The ENSL course work for a student is formulated on the basis of the results of MELAB (Michigan English Language Assessment Battery), TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language), IELTS (International English Language Testing System), or PTE Academic (Pearson Test of English) and placement test results, and the student's course load is adjusted accordingly. Students are required to take English language studies until English language skills are at an acceptable level. Students who need to take ENSL courses will need to budget for additional costs.

The Counseling & Testing Center in Bell Hall offers the Internet-based TOEFL and MELAB by appointment. The Center for Intensive English Programs (CIEP) in the College of Arts & Sciences offers the Institutional paper-based TOEFL (ITP).

Certificate of Eligibility for Nonimmigrant Student Status (I-20). International students who will be living in the US while studying online or on the main campus must provide all required admissions documents and receive admissions to Andrews University in order to begin the process of obtaining an I-20. The following information is required in order to have an I-20 processed:

1. Academic acceptance into a degree program
2. Balanced estimated budget sheet
3. Support for all personal funds and/or sponsorship (bank statement or letter of sponsorship)
4. Current bank documentation (last three months)
5. One-time, non-refundable International Student Fee of $100.
6. Advance deposit of $3,000 (Citizens of Bahamas, Bermuda, Canada & Mexico are exempt from paying the international deposit)
7. Copy of Passport
8. Mailing Address (No P.O. Box Addresses) and telephone number

International students who reside in the US and have a current I-20 and wish to enroll in online or main campus classes for more than one semester must provide Andrews University with copy of the F1 or J1 visa, copy of valid passport and copy of current I-20 or DS-2019.

Required Medical Records

In accordance with recommendations from the Centers for Disease Control, the Michigan Health Department and the American College Health Association, all first-time students attending the Main Campus must supply certain medical records to the school they plan to enter before registration can be completed.

Tuberculosis Screening. All students must submit proof of a negative TB skin test taken any time within six months prior to registration. Students with a previous positive TB skin test must submit a report of a chest X-ray taken anytime within 12 months before registration.

Measles, Mumps, and Rubella (German Measles) (MMR) Immunization. Any student born after December 31, 1956, must show proof of immunity to the diseases by one of the following means:

- Two MMR vaccines received after 12 months of age
- One MMR vaccine received within the two years before registration
- A blood test proving immunity to the diseases.

Dual Enrollment Status

Dual enrollment status is available to advanced undergraduate students who wish to begin work on a graduate program. However, taking graduate courses does not guarantee or imply future admission to a degree program. Dual enrollment will affect your financial aid package. Be sure to speak to a financial aid advisor prior to a dual enrollment semester.

Requirements for Undergraduate Students Dual Enrollment. To be eligible for dual enrollment status the student must satisfy all of these requirements:

- Be an undergraduate student at Andrews University
- Be within 12 credits of finishing an undergraduate degree
- Be in the process for admission to a graduate program and meet all other regular admission standards for a graduate program
- Be enrolled in no more than 12 credits (combined graduate and undergraduate) each semester.

- Be sure to see your Financial Aid advisor, this may affect your award eligibility.

Limitation on Graduate Credits. The limitations on graduate credits taken while a student has dual enrollment status are the following:

- Credits may not be used to satisfy undergraduate requirements.
- A maximum of 16 credits of graduate courses may be reserved and applied to a subsequent graduate degree at Andrews University.

Guest Student Status

Guest Student is a temporary enrollment status, not an admission category. Enrollment as a guest student is no guarantee of admission as an undergraduate degree seeking student. Guest Student enrollment status is valid for one semester and students must submit an enrollment form for each semester they want to attend.

International students who reside in the US and have a current I-20 and wish to enroll in online or main campus classes for more than one semester must provide Andrews University with copy of the F1 or J1 visa, copy of valid passport and copy of current I-20 or DS-2019.

Qualifications for Guest Student Status. Guest Student status is assigned to any of the following:

- Current regular students at another school but wanting to take courses at Andrews without seeking to earn a degree.
- Individuals who need certain courses to qualify for certification or admissions to an undergraduate program of study.

High School Students Taking College Classes. High School students are eligible to take Courses Approved for High School Registrations if they meet the following criteria:

- Students are enrolled in Grade 10, 11 or 12 or equivalent education levels.
- Students have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 from an accredited high school. If a transcript from an accredited high school cannot be submitted, standardized test scores are required.
- Students must also maintain a 3.0 GPA in their Andrews University courses.
- Students whose first language is not English or who have not completed the last four years in schools where English is the language of instruction must provide evidence of English proficiency.
- Signed approval is required from a parent and the school registrar (unless home schooled).

Financial limitations apply:

- To qualify for the high school tuition rate, a student must register for and start the course(s) prior to graduating from high school or taking the GED or equivalent high school completion test.
- A maximum of two courses per semester will be approved at the high school tuition rate. Students must meet any prerequisites.

Students will be responsible:

- As each school makes its own decision about whether university courses fulfill high school diploma requirements, the student is responsible for clarifying credit status with their school counselor before registering.
- High school students taking Andrews University courses are held to the same academic policies, procedures and deadlines as university students. These students will be personally motivated and responsible for their college level studies, requesting support as needed.

Delivery of courses. Andrews University college courses are available to eligible high school students in the following formats:

- On-campus courses taken by an individual student or by groups of students through the Berrien RESA or area high schools, taught by Andrews University faculty or adjunct faculty.
- Interactive online courses taken by individual students or by groups of students through Adventist Academies or Griggs International Academy affiliate schools, taught by Andrews University faculty or adjunct faculty.

- Concurrent enrollment courses taken by groups of students attending an Adventist Academy, taught by approved academy teachers who serve as Andrews University adjunct faculty.

More information for high school students, parents and advisors, as well as schools interested in concurrent enrollment, is available through www.andrews.edu/precollege

Limitation of Credits Taken on Guest Student Status. Students who eventually apply and receive regular admission, may ask that up to 30 of the Andrews undergraduate credits taken as a Guest Student be applied towards the proposed degree. A minimum grade of C must be received in each course to be accepted for degree credit.

Students Accepted with Prescribed Intervention

Some freshmen who do not meet regular admissions standards but whose high school performance or test scores indicate a possibility of success may be accepted. They are advised through the Student Success Center. They will receive skills assessments and will be placed in classes selectively to enhance their academic success. Many will be required to take skills building classes. Our goal for students accepted with intervention is to have them improve skills deficits and achieve satisfactory academic performance to progress in their academic program.

Refusal or Annulment of Admission

Applicants may be refused admission

- when they do not meet the admission standards
- when they submit transcripts or records found to be fraudulent. Admission status may be canceled or annulled
- when students do not meet the conditions specified for continuing enrollment
- when the admission status was based on documents later found to be fraudulent.
- when information that differs from the expectation of integrity agreed to in the Andrews University application is disclosed.

Undergraduate Academic Information

Planning Programs

Advisors. Students are assigned academic advisors based on the major chosen. Advisors function as academic guidance counselors to help students to schedule their courses, to learn how to follow academic rules and regulations, and to make decisions regarding their future. Although advisors assist students, the responsibility for meeting degree requirements and knowing the rules which govern academic matters always rests with the individual student.

Required Placement Tests. Before registration, all new students must take two placement tests for use in academic advising:

- ACT or SAT
The ACT or SAT is required for admission and should be taken before arriving on campus. (International students studying outside the U.S. will be required to take the ACT/SAT if offered at their secondary schools.)
- TOEFL, MELAB, IELTS, or PTE International students that have not had four years of secondary school that was taught in English are required to take the TOEFL, MELAB, IELTS, or PTE.
- Mathematics Placement Test
The Mathematics Placement Test is given on campus.

Direct questions concerning advising, tutoring and student success to the Student Success Center. (phone 269-471-6096, e-mail: success@andrews.edu).

Declaration of Major. Students are encouraged to declare their major field of study by the start of their sophomore year. Special advisors are assigned to students yet undecided. Assistance in exploring majors/careers is given through the Student Success Center and the Counseling & Testing Center.

How to be Well-Prepared Academically

If you want to be well prepared for your university studies at Andrews University, we recommend that you take the following courses during your high school/academy/secondary home school years (or the equivalent of grades 9 through 12 in the U.S. educational system):

- Three years of math, including algebra I and II;

- Three years of lab sciences courses, with biology, chemistry and/or physics recommended;
- Four years of English courses, including ones that emphasize writing and vocabulary;
- Two years of a foreign language if your plans include a Bachelor of Arts degree at Andrews;
- One year-long computer course, including development of skills in database, web page development and other advanced skills; and
- Two years of social studies courses, including world or U.S. history (or history for your country of residence) and geography.

If it's available at your school, also plan to take a Bible/religion course each year. Music/fine arts, physical education and practical arts also help build a well-rounded secondary education.

To find out more on how to take the right academic steps to succeed when you attend Andrews University (as well as other information on attending Andrews), please consult www.andrews.edu/future/.

Class Standing

At the beginning of the autumn semester, undergraduate students are classified according to the number of semester credits earned.

Junior 57–86 Senior 87+

Areas of Study

Specific requirements for majors, minors, and professional-degree programs are listed under each department section. Courses in other departments which are needed for a degree program also may be required as related cognate requirements.

All courses used to meet major requirements must be selected in consultation with the major professor or advisor.

Honor Lists

Dean's List. Students with a minimum semester GPA of 3.50 are eligible to be on the Andrews University Dean's List. They must carry a load of at least 12 letter-graded credits, have no letter grades below a B (3.00), and have no incompletes. Receipt of a DG does not affect eligibility for the Dean's List as long as letter grades are earned in at least 12 credits, excluding those with a DG. Each semester this list may be published or posted.

Study-Work Loads

Course Load. The course load is expressed in semester credits. Each semester credit represents one fifty-minute class period or equivalent per week for one semester. Preparation time of approximately two hours for each class period is assumed. Thus a 4-credit class meets four times a week. A laboratory or practicum experience of 3 hours is considered equal to one regular class period unless otherwise noted in the course syllabus.

The normal undergraduate class load is 15 to 16 credits per semester. Those wishing to register for more than 17 credits must secure permission from their dean. If good scholarship has been demonstrated by the student, the dean may permit a freshman to register for a maximum load of 17 credits; sophomores, juniors, and seniors for 18 credits. Adding to the course load by receiving private instruction, by correspondence work, or by registering in another university or college while being currently registered at Andrews University is not allowed. Exceptions must have permission from the dean of the school in which the student is enrolled. If permission is granted, the total study load per semester must not be greater than the maximum load permitted in residence. A student is not permitted to earn more than 20 credits during one semester.

Work Load. The course load of students who engage in part-time employment must be adjusted to provide a reasonable balance of work and study. In determining the proper balance, the student's intellectual capacity and previous academic record are considered. Students taking 12 to 16 credit hours are recommended a maximum work load of 20 hours per week.

Students should consult with their advisors in planning a proper balance of study and work. Exceptions to the above guidelines require approval by the dean of the school in which the student is enrolled and the Employment Office before the work is undertaken. On-campus employment is limited as specified in the financial section of this bulletin.

Satisfactory Academic Progress

Students are expected to maintain the following minimum academic performance standards:

- Successfully complete at least 66% of all courses attempted following initial enrollment.
- Maintain an overall GPA of at least 2.00 (average grade of C).

If a student fails to maintain an overall GPA of 2.00 (on a 4.00 system), his/her enrollment category is changed to probationary.

Academic Probation Procedures

Academic Probation. A student is classified as on Academic Probation when one or more of the following three conditions apply:

1. the cumulative AU GPA falls below 2.00,
 2. the semester GPA is 1.75 or below,
 3. a combination in a semester of three or more of Withdrawals (W), Incompletes (I), or grades lower than a C.
- Students on academic probation are removed from probation when their academic status changes to good academic standing.
 - Part-time employment should be no greater than 12 hours per week and extra-curricular activities should be limited:
 - Students on academic probation status shall not be allowed to:
 - Be a member of Andrews Gymnics or Cardinals sports teams
 - Be a member of any performing group that requires frequent absences from campus
 - Hold an officer position in AUSA or any departmental club.

UG Academic Dismissal. Students are subject to academic dismissal from the University in one of the following ways:

- Earning during a given semester a GPA of 1.25 or less
- Two consecutive or three total semesters on academic probation
- Violations of the Academic Integrity Code as outlined in the Andrews University Academic Integrity Policy

Students may also be dismissed from a department or program if the specific requirements for a degree are not met by that individual.

Dismissal in December.

Students may be dismissed in December if they:

- Were admitted on academic probation as a transfer student from another institution, and were listed on academic probation at Andrews based on Fall Semester grades
- Were dismissed at the end of their most recent semester at Andrews and had their dismissal revoked on appeal, but failed to achieve Good Academic Standing based on Fall Semester grades
- Were readmitted for Fall Semester after an academic dismissal but failed to achieve Good Academic Standing based on Fall Semester grades

Dismissal in May.

Students may be dismissed in May if they:

- Have had two consecutive semesters, or three total semesters, on academic probation status and failed to achieve Good Academic Standing based on Spring Semester grades
- Were dismissed at the end of their most recent semester at Andrews and had their dismissal revoked on appeal, but failed to achieve Good Academic Standing based on Spring Semester grades
- Were readmitted for Spring Semester after an academic dismissal but failed to achieve Good Academic Standing based on Spring Semester grades
- Received notice in December that their academic probation status would result in dismissal at the end of Spring Semester unless their GPA improved significantly based on Spring Semester grades (Deferred Dismissal)

Appeal Process:

- A dismissal that follows Andrews University policy will not normally be eligible for an appeal. Students who feel there are extenuating circumstances that override policy may appeal a dismissal decision to their Academic Dean. Consultation with the Director of the Student Success Center, departments, and/or academic advisors may be necessary before appeal decisions are made.
- Academic Deans will communicate decisions on appeals to students and copy these decisions to Student Success.

International Collegiate Programs

The following apply to transfer credit from institutions outside of the United States.

Evaluation of Transfer Credit

Transfer credits from institutions outside of the United States must be evaluated by the World Education Services International Credential Advantage Package (WES ICAP). Students are required to submit official transcripts in the original language accompanied by an authorized translation to the World Education Service for WES ICAP evaluation.

This does not apply to students who have completed at least one semester abroad as part of their studies at a US Institution or for those who have attended an accredited Seventh-day Adventist Institution.

Advanced Credit

Students who have attended schools in systems of education extending beyond the equivalent of 12 years of elementary and secondary school in the United States may be awarded advanced credit.

A-Level Passes. Students with A-level passes may be awarded up to 10 credits for each A-level pass. These credits may be used as applicable toward graduation requirements, including major, concentration, minor, Andrews Core Experience and general electives.

European Advanced Standing. Andrews University may grant varying amounts of advanced standing credits (0 to 32 semester credits) in general education only, to students graduating from countries with high school completion standards at the level of select European gymnasiums. Students are required to submit official transcripts in the original language accompanied by an authorized translation to the World Education Service for WES ICAP evaluation.

Cambridge Pre-U

Credit is awarded for Pre-U grades of M3 or higher.

International Baccalaureate Exam

A score of 4 (Higher Level) or better will be accepted for general education credits. A score of 5 (Higher Level) or better will be considered by departments for credit towards major requirements.

Credit For Prior Learning

Andrews University approves credit for prior college-level learning earned through recognized advanced standing, standardized and department exams, validation and portfolio assessments. Other options are reviewed by the Articulation Council. For information about evaluation of transfer credits, see Bulletin Undergraduate Academic Policy: Transfer of Credits.

No form of credit for prior learning will be approved to replace grades earned through Andrews University.

In order for credit to be assessed and articulated:

1. The student must have matriculated and be in good and regular standing at the time prior learning credit is requested.
2. Prior learning credits must be evaluated prior to registration in the last 12 credits required for program completion.
3. The total of all credit awarded for prior learning, excluding credits transferred from accredited institutions must not exceed 30% of the total credits required for program completion.

Before first registration, students should discuss all prior college-level learning (documented and undocumented) with their academic advisor and the Prior Learning Coordinator. Assessed prior learning is assigned a pass or fail grade. Only passing grades are recorded as prior learning credit.

Advanced Placement Exams. Credits for advanced high school learning may be applied toward major, concentration, minor, core experience and elective requirements. The following options are currently recognized:

Cambridge Pre-U

See International Collegiate Programs policy.

College Board (AP)

Credit awarded for Math, Science and English scores of 4 or 5; credit awarded for scores of 3 or higher for all other subject exams.

International Baccalaureate (IB)

See International Collegiate Programs policy.

High School Advanced Standing

See International Collegiate Programs policy.

Standardized Exams. Recognition for prior learning may be achieved through credit by exams taken through standardized examining bodies such as College Level Exam Program (CLEP), DANTES Subject Standardized Test (DSST), and Excelsior College (UEXcel).

CLEP – College Level Exam Program

Transfer credit awarded for scores of 62 or higher in Science and Language subject exam; and scores of 50 or higher in all other subject exams.

DSST – DANTES Subject Standardized Test

Transfer credit awarded for scores of 434 or higher in science and language subject exams; and scores of 400 or higher in all other subjects.

UEXCEL – Excelsior College

Transfer credits awarded for scores of B or higher on listed Language and Science exams; scores of C or higher will be accepted on all other approved subject exams.

Scores meeting departmentally established minima will be articulated as transfer credit with a passing grade.

Students may take standardized exams at any approved testing center, including the Andrews University Counseling and Testing Center.

Departmentally Administered Assessments. In some programs, challenge or performance exams can be arranged to waive requirements, place into courses (meet prerequisites), or earn credits meeting program requirements. Departmentally-constructed tests may be written, oral or skill assessments, or external exams administered by the department for internal evaluation.

Validation of Non-Traditional Learning. Professional certifications or performance exams may be evaluated for alignment to Andrews University course outcomes. Credit awarded does not meet residency requirement. Andrews University recognizes college-level learning validated through entities such as the American Council on Education (ACE), the National College Credit Recommendation Service (NCCRS), and Joint Services Transcripts (JST). Some transfer credits from unaccredited entities not recognized by American Council on Education may be approved by the Chair of the Department and the respective Dean.

Portfolio Assessment. When none of the above methods apply, prior learning may be validated and credit granted through review of a portfolio of evidence demonstrating achievement of a specific course's learning outcomes. Students begin the prescribed portfolio process by contacting the Prior Learning Coordinator and their academic advisor.

Students must complete at least 12 credits in their current program prior to applying for Andrews University portfolio assessment. Portfolios may be assessed through the Council of Adult and Experiential Learning (CAEL). Credit that may be awarded does not meet residency requirement.

Credit for Off-Campus Study/Experience - After Admission to AU

In keeping with the Andrews mission statement, many opportunities are available for students to engage in changing the world during their degree program. Academic credit is available for some of these experiential learning commitments.

Adventist Colleges Abroad Studies. Andrews University co-sponsors Adventist Colleges Abroad, a program in which qualified students study overseas while completing requirements for graduation at Andrews. This language and cultural immersion is available in eight locations: Argentina, Austria, Brazil, England, France, Italy, Singapore, and Spain.

Andrews degree-seeking students earn Andrews University credit for courses listed in the current Andrews bulletin which are available on ACA campuses. Working with both Andrews and ACA advisors, students may be able to transfer additional credits offered by the ACA college which are not listed in the Andrews bulletin. More information is available at <http://www.aca-noborders.com/> or <https://www.andrews.edu/cas/inls/programs/aca.html>

Educational Tours. Tours enrich required classes.

Internships/Practicum/Externships/OPT. Work opportunities may be offered for professional programs that require an internship for degree completion. They contribute to preparation to obtain a license. Externships may be arranged through departmental connections for new graduates. No grade is assigned.

Student missions. Students may volunteer to serve in another culture or state, breaking their full-time study for one or more semesters. In addition to co-curricular mission-preparation, students may arrange to complete one or more courses through distance learning or independent study at special tuition rates. Students may wish to discuss options with their academic advisor to maximize the global learning during this mission experience.

Transient credit. Students may take and transfer credit from another college or university after being admitted to an Andrews degree program. A transient form should be completed prior to taking courses elsewhere to ensure credits meet degree requirements.

Transferring Correspondence Courses from Another Institution. A maximum of 16 semester credits by correspondence, other than credits taken through Andrews School of Distance Education, is accepted toward a baccalaureate degree. However, correspondence credit may be applied on a major or a minor only with the approval of the department chair. Normally, students do not take correspondence courses while in residence. They may be allowed to do so because of a schedule conflict. Permission must be obtained in writing from the dean of the school in which the credit is to be accepted. Correspondence work is counted as part of the regular college load. Courses should be completed within six months from the time of enrollment.

Only 6 transfer credits, including correspondence credits, may be applied toward the last 36 semester credits of a baccalaureate degree. Correspondence courses cannot be used to replace failures or other low grades earned in residence. All transcripts for correspondence work must be in the Office of Academic Records at least 15 days prior to commencement weekend.

Baccalaureate Degree Requirements

The general requirements are the minimum required to receive a baccalaureate degree. Departments often have higher standards and additional requirements. The minimum, general standards are listed below.

Credit Requirement

- A minimum of 124 semester credits must be earned and applied toward the degree.

Course Requirements

- Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degrees. Students must complete required courses including the following: General Education requirements plus the requirements for a major, a minor (if required), and specified cognates (or related courses).
- Professional baccalaureate degrees. Students must complete all required courses including the following: General Education requirements plus the specific requirements for a degree as outlined in the appropriate section of this bulletin, including core, major, emphasis, and cognate requirements.
- All baccalaureate degrees. Students must complete a minimum of 30 semester credits from courses numbered 300 or above.

Residence Requirements

- A minimum of 30 of the last 36 semester credits applied to a baccalaureate degree must be earned on campus OR a minimum of 50% (62 credits) of undergraduate credit requirement. Before a student takes non-Andrews University courses for any part of the other 6 semester credits, the dean of the college/school in which the student is enrolled must approve.
- A minimum of one-third of the credits required for a major, and 3 credits required for a minor must be earned on campus and in courses numbered 300 or above.
- School of Business Administration students seeking a BBA must complete at least 50% of the core and major (33 of the total 66 credits) in residence.

Grade Requirements

- Overall GPA: A GPA of at least 2.00 (C) is required in all credits, and in credits earned at Andrews University. (Individual schools or departments may have higher minimum GPA requirements.)
- Major GPA: A GPA of at least 2.25 is required in all transfer credits, and in all credits earned at Andrews University that are counted for a major. (Individual schools or departments may have higher minimum GPA requirements.)
- Minor GPA: A GPA of at least 2.00 is required in all transfer credits, and in all credits earned at Andrews University that are counted for a minor. (Individual schools or departments may have higher minimum GPA requirements.)
- No course with a grade below C- may count toward a major or minor.

One Degree with Multiple Majors. Students may earn more than one major for a single degree. When more than one major is chosen, all the requirements for each major must be met to include all cognates for each major. If the majors represent more than one degree the student must specify which degree he/she wishes to receive (i.e., BA, BS or Professional degree) and complete the General Education requirements for that degree. A course may be used to fulfill the requirements for more than one major or minor if at least 75% of the major/minor credits are not also counted for another major/minor. A course may not be used to fulfill the requirements of more than one major or minor used for teacher certification. Any courses that fulfill cognate requirements for one major/minor may also be counted for another major/minor. One diploma will be issued for the single degree even if there are multiple majors.

Multiple Degrees. Students who earn more than one major and the majors are in different degrees may wish to earn a degree for each major (i.e., BA, BS or Professional degree). If more than one degree is chosen the General Education requirements for each degree must be completed. A General Education course may be used to fulfill the General Education requirements for multiple degrees. All the requirements for each major must be met to include all cognates for each major. A course may be used to fulfill the requirements for more than one major or minor if at least 75% of the major/minor credits are not also counted for another major/minor. A course may not be used to fulfill the requirements of more than one major or minor used for teacher certification. Any courses that fulfill cognate requirements for one major/minor may also be counted for another major/minor. One diploma will be issued for each degree earned.

Assessment (Evaluation) Requirements. Baccalaureate-degree candidates must complete general and departmental assessment examinations administered by the Counseling and Testing Center. These senior exit testing experiences include nationally normed standardized tests for all first-baccalaureate candidates and major field exams for selected departments and majors. In addition to the senior exit tests required for graduation, some departments may ask students to participate in additional assessment activities. Results from assessment experiences are reviewed by departments, the General Education Committee, and the Committee for University Assessment as part of the university's commitment to continuous improvement of student learning.

Request for Graduation. Degree candidates must file an Undergraduate Graduation Application with approval of the advisor and Office of Academic Records.

Second Baccalaureate Degree Requirements

If a student wishes to earn a second baccalaureate degree, he/she must

- complete, in residence, 30 credits beyond those required for the first baccalaureate degree.
- meet all of the published requirements of the second degree major/professional component, including prerequisites, cognates, degree core, and General Education requirements specific to the program of study for the second degree.
- complete a minimum of 3 credits in religion if the first degree did not include a comparable General Education component in religion.

Associate Degree Requirements

Credit Requirement. A total of 62 semester credits must be earned and applied toward the degree.

Course Requirements. Students must complete the General Education requirements plus the specific requirements for the degree as specified in the appropriate section of this bulletin, including core, major, emphasis, and cognates as required.

Residence Requirements.

- A minimum of 15 of the last 21 semester credits applied to a degree must be earned in residence. Before a student takes non-Andrews courses for any part of the final 6 credits, the dean of the college/school in which the student is enrolled must approve.
- A minimum of 9 credits of the major must be taken in residence.

Grade Requirements. The grade requirements for an associate degree are the same as for a baccalaureate degree.

- Overall GPA: A GPA of at least 2.00 (C) is required in all transfer credits and in credits earned at Andrews University. (Individual schools or departments may have higher minimum GPA requirements.)
- Major GPA: A GPA of at least 2.25 is required in all transfer credits and in all credits earned at Andrews University that are counted for a major. (Individual schools or departments may have higher minimum GPA requirements.)

Request for Graduation. A degree candidate must file a request for graduation with approval by the student's advisor and a designated records officer.

Student's Governing Bulletin

Students may graduate under the bulletin for any school year they attend Andrews as long as that bulletin was published no more than ten years before the planned date of graduation. If students leave the university after earning at least 8 semester credits and then try to transfer more than 12 semester credits earned in the interim from another college, they are governed by the bulletin for the school year in which they return. The dean of the college in which the student is enrolled may permit exceptions.

The university reserves the right to require students (1) to take another course when a course required under an earlier bulletin is no longer offered, and (2) to graduate under a recent bulletin if they are working for certification by a governmental or professional agency.

Philosophy of the Andrews Core Experience Program

The rapid expansion of knowledge in a global community requires those who would be truly educated citizens to adopt a philosophy of lifelong learning. One must engage the mind in the study of many fields, from the fine arts and humanities to the empirical, quantitative, and social sciences. This broad encounter with the varied perspectives of the liberal arts tradition forms the domain of General Education, one of the two pillars of American higher education. By contrast, the other pillar is one's chosen major, usually a focused study of a specific discipline and the development of required skills. The university will provide a cohesive Andrews Core Experience Program, supported by faculty committed to an effective core curriculum.

The Andrews Core Experience Program aims to develop students notable for their culture, civility, integrity, and intellect within a Christian milieu.

Thus, the faculty seeks to prepare graduates who possess knowledge, the ethical values, interests, abilities, communication competence, quantitative skills, and analytical thinking for both leadership and service, so that they may contribute effectively to their homes, work places, communities, and churches. Transmitting this foundational heritage—along with an appropriate level of knowledge and skills—forms the essential purpose of the Andrews Core Experience Program at Andrews University. As a result, the Andrews Core Experience Program strives to foster an atmosphere in which each student is encouraged to meet the learning outcomes for the Andrews Core Experience Program.

The Program provides a first-year curriculum that establishes initial expectations and basic academic skills foundational to the undergraduate experience. Anchored in four 100-level Andrews Core courses, the First-year Experience at Andrews University provides first-year 'native' students with an introduction to academia and a balanced university life, further development of basic academic skills, and a sense of belonging to the Andrews University community.

Andrews Core Experience Learning Outcomes

Seek Knowledge

- Strengthen the ability to communicate effectively. Oral and Written.
- Develop the ability to think critically, observe accurately, analyze quantitatively, draw reasonable inferences, perceive relationships, and show the ability to discriminate among alternatives and design creative strategies to solve problems.
- Enjoy the cultural achievements of humanity and foster participation in creative and aesthetic activity.
- Master content knowledge across the academic disciplines identified in the General Education tables. By specifying courses to that end, Andrews University recognizes the learning outcomes foundational to developing thoughtful citizens of the world.

Affirm Faith

- Construct a thoughtfully conceived worldview that recognizes the roles of Scripture, nature, and human discovery as sources of truth.
- Consciously make Christian convictions explicit and apply them ethically, as well as articulate individual values from the viewpoint of one's chosen profession.
- Understand the heritage and mission of Andrews University in furthering the teachings of Christ within the context of Seventh-day Adventist faith and practice with a view to the heritage and mission of Andrews University.
- Exhibit compassionate behavior towards other individuals and show respect for the dignity of all people, affirming the Biblical view of all persons being created in the image of God who in Christ wants all human beings to be one, independent of gender or ethnic background.

Change the World

- Enjoy camaraderie with many individuals and form enduring friendships within the diverse campus community.
- Evaluate one's interpersonal effectiveness, including the ability to work in groups while maintaining the ability to think for oneself, and strive to enlarge the scope of all personal abilities.
- Understand one's role and responsibilities as a citizen in a secular society and as a member of a religious community; and then, beyond understanding, to respond with thoughts, with emotion, and with action to the needs of one's wider community.

Honors General Education (SAGES)

The Andrews Honors Program offers a series of interdisciplinary courses which apply to the General Education requirement. See Scholars Alternative General Education Studies (SAGES).

Multiculturalism/Diversity in the Andrews Core Experience Curriculum
The Andrews Core Experience Program at Andrews University includes an explicit emphasis on multiculturalism and diversity. This emphasis recognizes the historical development of various cultures and groups in the United States, the global nature and mission of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and the diverse student body and faculty of the university with more than ninety countries from around the world represented on campus. The focus on multiculturalism and diversity includes specific emphasis in the following courses: COMM 104 - Communication Skills, BHSC 100 - Philosophy of Service and Civic Engagement, ENGL 115 - College Writing I, RELT 100 - God and Human Life, and HIST 117 - Civilizations and Ideas I & HIST 118 - Civilizations and Ideas II.

Andrews Core Experience Mathematics

The Andrews Core Experience mathematics requirement consists of a skill requirement, which should be met first, and a reasoning requirement, which should be fulfilled no later than the second year of college.

The skill requirement, competence in arithmetic and high school algebra, is met by an official Mathematics Placement Exam (MPE) score of at least P2, which may be obtained through testing or by completing the skills course material in MATH 091 and MATH 092.

The skill requirement (MPE score) by testing.

The MPE score provides information essential to planning the college career; thus, almost all students (see exceptions below) must obtain an official MPE score during the first semester of residence. Students with ACT or SAT scores will have an official MPE score assigned, based on their performance on the math portion of the test. All incoming students, new and transfer (see exceptions below), should check their record for an MPE score. If they do not have a score or believe that the placement is inaccurate, then they can obtain an official MPE score by taking a proctored assessment. For details go to the department Web site at <https://www.andrews.edu/cas/math/mathematicsplacement/>

The skill requirement (MPE score) by skill course.

The skill course sequence, MATH 091 and MATH 092 Arithmetic and Algebra Review is offered for students with MPE scores of E0, E1, M0, M1, P0, P1. Students with these scores should usually enroll in MATH 091 Arithmetic and Algebra Review during their first semester. Many students should plan to enroll first in MATH 091 and then MATH 092 (for two successive semesters) to bring their skills up to the required level. Completion of the MATH 091/MATH 092 sequence with a passing grade in both courses fulfills the skill requirement and awards a P2 score. An R grade in MATH 092 indicates that the student is making reasonable progress but needs to re-register for MATH 092 to complete the material. For more information on MATH 091 and 092, go to the Department of Mathematics Web site.

The reasoning requirement.

MATH 145 Reasoning with Functions is the course which most non-science students will find appropriate for meeting the reasoning requirement. MATH 165, MATH 166, MATH 168, MATH 191, and MATH 195 also meet the reasoning requirement.

Transfer policy.

Courses transferred to meet the reasoning requirement must be broadly equivalent, both in content and level, to those offered at Andrews to meet the requirement. Andrews students who wish to take a course elsewhere to meet the reasoning requirement must first meet the skill requirement and must have the proposed course accepted by petition before enrolling in it. Courses titled Intermediate Algebra, Elementary Algebra, Basic Algebra, Pre-algebra, College Arithmetic, or Business Mathematics may prepare the student for the MPE but do not normally meet the reasoning or the skill requirement or apply toward graduation.

Exceptions

1. Students who at admission transfer College Algebra, College Algebra with Trigonometry, Precalculus, Precalculus Algebra, Precalculus Trigonometry, Calculus, a Cambridge "A Level" pass in Mathematics, or AP Calculus fulfill both the mathematics reasoning and skill requirements.
2. Some courses other than those listed in 1 above may be accepted for the reasoning requirement, provided they are presented at admission and the skill requirement is separately fulfilled. Current criteria will be applied case by case. Students wishing to have a course evaluated should email the Andrews University Department of Mathematics a link to the course description found on the Web site of the institution offering that course.
3. Students enrolled in the Center for Intensive English Programs are not required to obtain an official MPE score until the first semester of enrollment in regular college-level courses.

Transfer Policy for Andrews Core Experience Credits

Transfer Students. To qualify as a transfer student, one must have earned credits prior to entering Andrews University from another college/university.

Transient Students. Students who begin at Andrews University and wish to take and transfer credit from another college/university are, by definition, transient students. The below guidelines do not apply for these students; they are required to fill out a petition form prior to attending the other institution.

Andrews University views the general education curriculum in two distinct ways when working with transfer students.

Mathematics and English Composition II should be recognized as core foundation skills needed for all degrees, thus these two disciplines should continue to carry extra weight and should be at least equal to Andrews University course expectations.

All other General Education transfer courses should be treated generously upon credit articulation. The following guidelines will be used when reviewing transfer student courses.

Transfer Student Credit Articulation Guidelines for BA/BS Andrews Core

Religion—Independent of transferring from a Seventh-day Adventist or non-Seventh-day Adventist college/university.

Transferring with*	Religion Courses Required
23 credits or fewer	Four AU religion courses required
24–56 credits	Three AU religion courses required
57–86 credits	Two AU religion courses required
87 or more credits	One AU religion course required

* Transfer credits are determined on the basis of courses taken prior to attending Andrews University.

English—2 courses

- English Composition
 - English Composition I: An introduction to written composition. A general freshman composition course.
 - English Composition II: An introduction to general research and/or critical writing from sources using documentation.

Communication—1 course

- A speech course:
 - Public Speaking
 - Interpersonal Communications

History—2 courses

- 1 Ancient World History course
- 1 Modern World History course
 - May substitute American History course

Fine Arts/Humanities—2 courses

- Any fine arts course
 - Art History or Appreciation

Michigan Transfer Agreement

The Michigan Transfer Agreement (MTA) is designed to ease the transition from a Community College to a Michigan baccalaureate institution. The MTA satisfies a portion, but not all of the Andrews Core Experience (ACE) Requirements for general education. Transfer students from sending institutions who are accepted into Andrews University and have satisfied the MTA will have their courses evaluated to determine how the transferring courses meet ACE Requirements (See Table below). The MTA does not satisfy major, minor, or cognate course requirements. Students are responsible for requesting official transcripts from the awarding institution.

Service-Learning Requirements

Service to others is a central emphasis of the Andrews University Mission Statement. The Andrews Core Experience Program, therefore, includes an emphasis on service so that all graduates will understand the importance and rewards of service activities.

The service-learning component consists of two requirements: (1) BHSC 100 - Philosophy of Service and Civic Engagement, and (2) Fieldwork (0–2 credits).* The fieldwork requirement can be met in three ways: by registering for BHSC 300 - Philosophy of Service Fieldwork, by taking an "S" course (service-learning course) in the student's major or minor (such courses are marked with the symbol "S" in the Bulletin), or by waiving the requirement based on the steps outlined in the "Service Learning Packet," available in the Behavioral Science Department. Larry Ulery supervises the waiver process for the fieldwork requirement.

A student in a degree program which includes Service/ Fieldwork who does not complete the program will need to complete the Service/Fieldwork requirement as specified.

* Transfer students with two years of course work elsewhere choose to take either BHSC 100 or Fieldwork.

School of Graduate Studies

The School of Graduate Studies, is an administrative unit that coordinates university-wide academic and research quality on behalf of the graduate faculty, monitors decisions regarding admission, academic progress, and eligibility for graduation of students in most programs. Departments and programs may have additional requirements for admission. Consult the appropriate portions of this bulletin for such requirements.

The Dean of the School of Graduate Studies office is located in the Administration Building, AD310, graduateschool@andrews.edu.

Graduate Enrollment & Admission Policies

The Admission Process

The graduate programs at Andrews University are characterized by academic quality, attention to research, close individual student/professor interaction, and an emphasis on the spiritual dimensions of the various content fields. The university welcomes students in harmony with these ideals to apply for admission to its graduate programs.

1. Applications for graduate programs should be submitted online at www.andrews.edu/apply along with the appropriate requirements. Once the application is complete and ready for review, the appropriate Academic Program and School will make an admission decision on the application. Graduate Enrollment Management processes the Admission Decision and communicates it to the applicant.
2. Applicants for the DPT Program must apply through the Physical Therapy Centralized Application Service (PTCAS). For more information, see the Physical Therapy section of this bulletin.
3. Applicants for the SPLAD Program must apply through the CSDCAS Application Service. For more information, see the Speech-Language Pathology & Audiology section of this bulletin.

How to Apply

The graduate application is to be submitted online along with the nonrefundable application fee. Online and paper application fee is $60. During the application process, you may pause and then reopen your online application file through a link that will be sent to the email address you provide. Your information is saved for up to 90 days.

Application Deadlines for Domestic and International Students

Domestic and International students are required to complete and submit all the application requirements before the deadlines listed below:

- Spring (January - April): November 15
- Summer (May - July): June 1
- Fall (August - December): July 30

Some departments may have different deadlines. Please click here to search for your program deadlines.

Eligibility Requirements

These are the eligibility requirements as stated by the School of Graduate Studies

Graduate Certificate Programs

To qualify for regular admission to a Graduate Certificate program, students must meet the minimum eligibility requirements as stated in the Master's degree section below, in addition to fulfilling the general admission requirements.

Master's Degree Programs

MA, MArch, MAT, MBA, MMus, MS, MSA, MSMLS, MSW, MSCID, MIDA, MPH

To qualify for regular admission to the master's-degree programs governed by the School of Graduate Studies as listed above, students must meet the following minimum academic standards in addition to the appropriate admission requirements.

- Hold a four-year baccalaureate degree from a regionally accredited American university or senior college, or its equivalent from a comparably recognized institution outside the U.S. Accreditation must be from an accrediting body recognized by the US Department of Education or schools outside of the US must have government recognition in the country of origin or by the Adventist Accrediting Association. Degrees or work received from institutions generally considered to be diploma/degree mills are not evidence of prior academic work.

- Demonstrate adequate undergraduate preparation in the proposed field of graduate study and in general education. This will be evaluated by the respective schools and departments that designate subject-matter preparation. Consult the specific school and departmental requirements.
- Indicate ability to handle master's-level work in the language of instruction. See English Proficiency Requirement section for more information.
- Show evidence of ability to carry advanced study as listed below. Some specific programs require a higher GPA for admission—consult department/program requirements in other sections of this bulletin.
- Satisfy one of the criteria below:
 - Have an overall GPA of at least 2.60 in undergraduate courses.
 - Have a GPA of at least 2.75 on last 50% of undergraduate courses.
 - Have a graduate GPA of at least 3.00 on 8 semester credits or more earned in courses graded A–F.
 - Hold a previous master's degree.

Doctoral and Advanced Degrees

Educational Specialist (EdS), Doctor of Education (EdD), Doctor of Philosophy (PhD), Doctor of Theology (ThD), Doctor of Missiology (DMiss), Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP)

To qualify for regular admission to a specialist or doctoral program, students must meet the following minimum academic standards in addition to fulfilling the general admission requirements.

- Hold a baccalaureate degree or master's degree in an area appropriate to the major emphasis of the specialist or doctoral program from a regionally accredited American university or senior college, or its equivalent from a comparably, recognized institution outside the U.S. Accreditation must be from an accrediting body recognized by the U.S. Department of Education, or schools outside of the U.S. must have government recognition in the country of origin or by the Adventist Accrediting Association. Degrees or work received from institutions generally considered to be diploma/degree mills are not evidence of prior academic work.
- Evidence of adequate preparation for doctoral-level graduate work. Applicants who have completed at least 16 semester credits of graduate work must have a least a graduate GPA of 3.0. Applicants to the School Psychology program may see the program admission requirements.
- Provide evidence of adequate preparation in the proposed field of graduate study and in general education. This will be evaluated by the respective schools and departments that designate subject-matter preparation.
- Show evidence of the ability to handle specialist- or doctoral-level work in the language of instruction. See English Proficiency Requirement section for more information.

Physical Therapy Degrees and Programs

Doctor of Physical Therapy (DPT), Transitional Doctor of Physical Therapy (t-DPT), Doctor of Science in Physical Therapy (DScPT), Orthopedic Clinical Residency Program Professional degrees in the Department of Physical Therapy operate under the supervision of the Physical Therapy Professional Degree Council. This council has delegated authority to act as the Courses and Curriculum Committee for all Physical Therapy programs. The Physical Therapy Professional Degree Council formulates and approves general education requirements after consultation with the General Education Committee and develops academic, department, financial and other policies of its programs. See the Physical Therapy section of this bulletin for academic standards for these degrees and programs.

Theological Seminary Professional Ministerial Degrees

Master of Arts in Pastoral Ministry(MAPM), Master of Arts in Youth and Young Adult Ministry(MAYYAM), Master of Divinity(MDiv), Doctoral of Ministry(DMin)
Professional degrees in the Theological Seminary are not under the supervision of the School of Graduate Studies. See the Theological Seminary section for academic standards for these degrees

Admission Requirements

Degree Requirements for Admissions into Graduate Programs

An earned degree is one of the requirements for admissions into a graduate program. Following is the degree requirement for admissions into Andrews University graduate programs:

1. Programs may admit students into doctoral programs on the basis of a bachelor's degree. An applicant with a discipline specific bachelor's degree may be admitted into a corresponding doctoral program. Students in these programs may earn an advanced degree en route to the doctoral program. (For example, currently, applicants with a bachelor's in psychology may be admitted into the PhD in Counseling Psychology). Normally, a student admitted into a doctoral program with a bachelor's degree needs a minimum of 90 graduate credits for the doctoral degree.
2. Programs may admit students into doctoral programs on the basis of a master's degree. Applicants with a masters may be admitted into a doctoral program; however, the credits from the master's program shall not be transferred into the doctoral program. Only credits that do not apply to the master's degree are applicable to the doctoral degree requirements and normally, a student needs a minimum of 60 post-masters credits for the doctoral degree.*
3. Programs may admit students into master's programs on the basis of a bachelor's degree or another master's degree. Normally, a student needs a minimum of 30 graduate credits for the degree.

*professional doctorates, such as, the DMISS, DNP, DPT, DScPT, and T-DPT may require fewer post master's credits.

These are the minimum admission requirements based on each degree level; however, note that each graduate program may have unique admission requirements. Also, international students will need to submit additional requirements:

1. Graduate Certificate Requirements (Communication, Leadership, Religious Education, Educational Leadership, Campus Spiritual Leadership)
 - Statement of Purpose - At least 500 words.
 - Professional History or Resume - Information about your employment, research, or special projects.
 - Recommendations - Two professional or academic recommendations are required.
 - Official Transcripts - From institutions where all post-secondary coursework was taken. Official transcripts must be sent directly from your school to The Office of Graduate Enrollment Management at Andrews University. These documents may also be delivered in a sealed envelope with the issuing school's seal.
2. Master Level requirements (MA, MArch, MAT, MBA, MMus, MPH, MS, MSA, MSMLS, MSW, MSCID, MIDA)
 - Statement of Purpose - At least 500 words.
 - Professional History or Resume - Information about your employment, research, or special projects.
 - Recommendations - Two professional or academic recommendations are required.
 - Official Transcripts - From institutions where all post-secondary coursework was taken. Official transcripts must be sent directly from your school to The Office of Graduate Enrollment Management at Andrews University. These documents may also be delivered in a sealed envelope with the issuing school's seal.
 - Standardized Test - Most programs require the GRE (Graduate Records Exam) or GMAT (Graduate Management Aptitude Test) exam. This exam must be taken within five years prior to admission. Visit this link to see a full list of the programs that require these tests.

3. Professional Master level requirements (MDiv, MAPM, MAYYAM)
 - Statement of Purpose - At least 500 words for MAPM and MAYYAM. The MDiv program requires additional questions.
 - Professional History or Resume - Information about your employment, research, or special projects only required for MAPM and MAYYAM.
 - Recommendations - Three specific recommendations are required. Visit the appropriate program for more details.
 - Official Transcripts - From institutions where all post-secondary coursework was taken. Official transcripts must be sent directly from your school to The Office of Graduate Enrollment Management at Andrews University. These documents may also be delivered in a sealed envelope with the issuing school's seal.
 - 16 PF test - Complete the Sixteen Personality Factor Questionnaire as directed. Students in the MAPM Spanish track, do not need to complete this test.
4. Doctoral Level requirements (EdS, EdD, PhD, ThD, t-DPT, DScPT, DMin, DMIs, DNP, DPT)
 - Statement of Purpose - At least 500 words. Each program may require specific questions. Visit the appropriate program for more details.
 - Professional History or Resume - Information about your employment, research, or special projects.
 - Recommendations - Three professional or academic recommendations are required. Visit the appropriate program for more details.
 - Official Transcripts - From institutions where all post-secondary coursework was taken. Official transcripts must be sent directly from your school to The Office of Graduate Enrollment Management at Andrews University. These documents may also be delivered in a sealed envelope with the issuing school's seal.
 - Research Paper - Most programs require submission of a research paper that showcases your best writing work.
 - GRE (Graduate Records Exam) exam - Most programs require this test. It must be taken within five years prior to admission. Visit this link to see a full list of the programs that require this test.
 - Applicants for the DPT Program must apply through the Physical Therapy Centralized Application Service (PTCAS). For more information, see the Physical Therapy section of this bulletin.
5. Post-Doctoral Certificate requirements (Leadership)
 - Statement of Purpose - At least 500 words.
 - Professional History or Resume - Information about your employment, research, or special projects.
 - Recommendations - Two professional or academic recommendations are required.
 - GRE (Graduate Records Exam) exam - This exam must be taken within five years prior to admission.

International Students

In addition to fulfilling the regular admission requirements, international students need to submit additional documents in order to complete their graduate application.

Additional Admission Requirements

- Transcripts:
- Domestic and International prospective students who graduated from an educational institution in the U.S. must upload unofficial transcripts directly in the Graduate Application system during the application process. Official final transcripts will be required only after admission decision.
- Domestic and International prospective students who graduated from an educational institution outside the U.S. and are applying to an on campus or online program must provide a WES International Credential Advantage Package (WES ICAP) which includes verified copies of official transcripts. An unofficial copy of the WES ICAP may be uploaded in the Graduate Application system during the application process. The official document will be required after admission decision.

- Domestic and International prospective students who graduated from an educational institution outside the U.S. and are applying to an overseas or U.S extension program must upload unofficial original language and literal English translation of the transcripts in the Graduate Application system during the application process. A copy of a diploma may be also required. Official final transcripts will be required only after admission decision.
- English Proficiency: International students must demonstrate their proficiency in English. See English Proficiency Requirement section for more information.
- Bachelor's degree diploma: A copy of the literal English translation of the diploma, along with the original-language document may be sent by email. The copy of the diploma is not needed if the transcripts come through an approved credential evaluation agency (WES, AACRAO, ECE) listing the graduation date.
- Secondary documents: A copy of these secondary documents may be required where applicable:
 - Baccalaureate for the French System
 - Abitur Diploma for the German System
 - A-level results for the British system
- Applicants may not be required to fulfill the English language requirement if one of the following takes place from an educational institution where English is the language of communication and instruction:
 - Completion of education from at least the ninth through the twelfth grade and a high school diploma or equivalent.
 - Completion of a bachelor's degree (BA or BS) and diploma from an undergraduate college or university.
 - Completion of a graduate degree.
- Students who score below these levels may complete the language requirements by enrolling in Intensive English Program courses (ENSL) on the Andrews University campus and passing the Exit Exam for English as a Second/Foreign Language.
 - The ENSL course work for a student program is formulated on the basis of the results of MELAB (Michigan English Language Assessment Battery), TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language), IELTS (International English Language Testing System), or PTE Academic (Pearson Test of English) and placement test results, and the student's course load is adjusted accordingly. Some students may be required to take English language studies until English language skills are at an acceptable level. Students who need to take ENSL courses will need to budget for additional costs.
 - Students with a score on the TOEFL ITP (paper-based) of 500-549 (or the equivalent on any of the four other exams) may be eligible for the Language Bridge Program which allows students to take a limited number of degree program courses while completing language proficiency requirements in Intensive English Program courses. Students in the Language Bridge Program must demonstrate language proficiency within three semesters in order to continue in the degree program. Not all degree programs allow students to participate in the Language Bridge program. Please contact the Center for Intensive English Programs (CIEP) for additional information. Degree programs with higher admissions requirements will also have higher requirements for participation in the Language Bridge Programs.

Special Requirements

International students who wish to become full time students (F1 visa) must obtain an I-20 form before applying for a visa. The requirements for obtaining and I-20 form are:

- Academic acceptance
- Payment of $3,000 advance deposit (not required for Mexico or Canada)
- Submit the Estimated Budget Sheet form
- Notarized affidavit of support for all personal funds and/or sponsorships
- Bank documentation for the previous 12 months
- A full semester payment in advance is required for citizens of Kenya and Ethiopia
- A full semester payment in advance is required for students in the Master's of Divinity program

Please visit the Office of International Student Services for more information.

Full-Time Status

International students must retain their status as full-time students as required by the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS). They must enroll for a minimum of 8 credits each semester (MDiv minimum is 9 semester credits) while in the U.S. They may also work on a part-time basis only on campus and if satisfactory academic performance is maintained and such work is allowed by the INS. School of Education students should visit Full-time Status.

English Proficiency Requirements

English is the language of communication and instruction for all programs on the Michigan campus and at most sites across the United States or Canada. All students whose first language is not English must demonstrate proficiency in English to succeed in this academic setting.

Minimum scores required

Internet-based TOEFL (iBT)	80
Paper-based TOEFL (ITP)	550
MELAB	80
IELTS(Academic)	6.5
PTE(Academic)	54

The following programs require a higher English test score. Please visit the appropriate links in order to learn more:

- MA Communication
- MA English
- Seminary Programs
- MA TESOL
- DPT Physical Therapy

Guidelines

- These tests must be taken within two years prior to enrollment.

The Counseling & Testing Center in Bell Hall offers the Internet-based TOEFL and MELAB by appointment. The Center for Intensive English in the College of Arts & Sciences offers the Institutional paper-based TOEFL (ITP).

Required Tests

GRE and GMAT

Students are expected to take the GRE General Test or GMAT exam prior to admission. To learn if your program required the GRE or GMAT, please review the admission requirements of your program of interest.

Minimum GRE Scores

Applicants are expected to meet the GRE requirement before admission into the program. The Table below provides a breakdown of the proposed minimum scores – programs may establish higher minimum scores. Students who meet the minimum required scores may be admitted on regular status. Students who do not meet the minimum required scores may be admitted provisionally with explicit documentation (such as identified courses, GRE class, etc.) of how the provisions shall be met.

DEGREE	Verbal Reasoning	Quantitative Reasoning	Analytical Writing
Doctoral	142	142	3.0
Masters	140	140	3.0

The GRE is not required for all programs. To learn if your program required the GRE, please review the admission requirements of your program of interest.

Guidelines

- Exams are to be taken no more than five years before the date of admission.
- The Andrews University code of 1030 must be used when requesting GRE scores from Educational Testing Services www.ets.org/gre
- The Andrews University code of VVG-G6-19 must be used when requesting GMAT, scores from www.mba.com.
- The Prueba de Admisión a Estudios de Postgrado (PAEP) may be substituted for the GRE as an entrance requirement for any cohort taught in Spanish.
- The GRE scores may be waived for master's applicants who have graduated with a previous United States master's degree from a regionally accredited institution, or a United States master's degree equivalency from an accredited or government recognized institution outside of the U.S.
- Most Masters, EdD, PhD, ThD programs and the EdS School Psychology require general GRE test scores prior to admission. In cases of extreme hardship students applying to the EdS School Psychology program may contact the Department of Graduate Psychology & Counseling for an exception to this policy.
- Admission GMAT requirements can be obtained by one of the following:

1. Attain formula score of 1,000 points, calculated by taking the undergraduate cumulative GPA X 200+GMAT score \geq 1,000
OR
2. Five years of documented and approved work experience and earned a grade of at least of B- in statistics and a grade of at least B- in pre-calculus algebra,
OR
3. On-campus Andrews University undergraduate business students with a cumulative GPA = or > 3.0 and earned a grade of at least a B- in statistics and a grade of at least B- in pre-calculus algebra.
 - See Andrews Graduate Scholarship to learn about the GRE or GMAT Scholarship.

Andrews Graduate Scholarship

The Graduate Scholarship is a tuition reduction percentage, based on the GRE or GMAT scores and admission GPA. Please visit Financial Information section and the program page for more information.

Refusal or Annulment of Admission

Applicants may be refused admission

- When they do not meet the admission standards
- When they submit documents found to be falsified

Admission status may be cancelled or annulled

- When students do not meet the conditions specified for continuing enrollment
- When the admission status was based on documents later found to be falsified.

Admission Enrollment Categories

Students are admitted and enrolled under one of the following categories:

Regular Status. Students are admitted on a regular basis when they meet the:

- General admission requirements
- Minimum academic standards for graduate programs at Andrews University
- Specific admission requirements of the departments/programs in which they plan to enroll.

Provisional Status. Students who fail to meet one or more of the requirements for regular admission may be admitted on provisional status. This can be done if the appropriate dean, department chair, or graduate program coordinator believes the student has the ability to be successful in the desired program.

At the time the provisional admission is granted, the student's deficiency is noted. A plan and a deadline to remove the deficiency is made clear. Deficiencies must be met and the regular status must be granted by the time the student completes 50% of the total requirements for graduate certificate and master's programs or 16 credits for EdS and doctoral programs. Students who fail to meet these requirements are dropped from the program in which they had provisional admission.

Students enrolled on provisional status may not:

- register for thesis or independent study
- request advancement to degree candidacy
- take comprehensive examinations.

Guest Student

Guest student is for students holding a U.S. bachelor's degree from an institution accredited by a validated accreditation body or its equivalent outside the U.S. The Guest Student status is especially designed to allow the enrollment of qualified students in special classes including workshops and guest students from other universities. Guest Student is a temporary enrollment designation, not an admission category.

Guest Student Status is for:

- Applicants who have no intention of earning a graduate degree from Andrews University.
- Graduate students who are not enrolled at Andrews University and who wish to take classes as guest students.
- Students who have applied for admission to a graduate program but, for some reason, the application has not yet been completely processed. In such cases, Guest Student status is available for one semester only.

Guidelines

- Enrollment on Guest Student status does not guarantee or imply future admission to a degree program.
- Normally, transcripts are not required for Guest Student enrollment.
- Guest Student enrollment must be requested each semester that the student wishes to enroll in a course.
- Courses taken on Guest Student status generally do not count toward a graduate degree. However, after the student has been accepted into a graduate program: up to 8 credits, 15 credits in some Theological Seminary programs, and up to 50% of the graduate certificate programs may be applied by petition.
- Petition requests should be filed during the first semester the student is enrolled in the graduate program. Petitions are evaluated on an individual basis and they are not automatically approved.
- Students registered on Guest Student status cannot have dual enrollment. If the student applies simultaneously for a graduate program, the department and school will notify the student in writing of their admission decision.

Dual Enrollment/Dual Degree Statuses

Dual Enrollment is associated with a student concurrently enrolled in classes at two different levels (for example undergraduate/graduate or high school/college).

Dual Enrollment is available to Undergraduate students who want to earn graduate credits while finishing their undergraduate degree and/or high-school students who want to earn college credits while completing the high school diploma. See the undergraduate and graduate dual degree enrollment sections of the Bulletin to learn more.

A. Undergraduate and Graduate Dual Enrollment

In order to qualify for graduate and undergraduate dual-enrollment status the student must work with their financial aid advisor because their dual enrollment status may affect their financial aid package. Undergraduate credits earned toward the baccalaureate degree may not be used towards the graduate program. The GPA on undergraduate credits does not count toward the graduate GPA. Additionally, they must satisfy or abide by the following requirements:

- The student must be within 12 credits of completing an Andrews University undergraduate degree
- The student must complete the dual enrollment form
- The student may normally take no more than 16 credits combined graduate and undergraduate each semester

B. Professional Undergraduate/Graduate Accelerated Degrees

Departments may establish undergraduate/graduate dual degree programs (3+2 or 4+1) in order to facilitate completion of both the bachelor's degree and the master's degree in 5 years. These dual degree programs may require sequential conferral of the bachelor's degree first, followed by the master's degree (called sequential conferral), or they may require concurrent conferral of the bachelor's and master's degree at the same time (called concurrent conferral).

1. Students apply for the dual-degree program through the department.

- Department establishes minimum standards for acceptance.
 - A minimum of 3.0 undergraduate GPA is required (department may establish higher standards).
 - Upon acceptance, students may take 500-level courses which have a "swing" course designation, upon reaching senior status.
2. Students remain with undergraduate status, and receive undergraduate financial aid for all coursework, until conferral of the bachelor's degree (if sequential conferral), or until a minimum of 124 credits applying towards the program have been completed (if concurrent conferral).
 - The 500-level courses taken as an undergraduate student may apply towards both the undergraduate degree and the graduate degree.
 - A minimum of 50% of the graduate program credits must be taken after achieving graduate status.
 - Students who withdraw from a concurrent degree program subsequent to being advanced to graduate status will be returned to undergraduate status until the undergraduate degree requirements are met.
 3. In order to complete both degrees, students must complete a total of 154 semester credits, of which a minimum of 30 credits must be 500-level or above (programs may set higher credit standards).
 4. Upon conferral of the graduate degree, a statement will appear on the student's completed transcript to the effect that "500 level courses taken as an undergraduate have been applied to the graduate degree."

C. Dual Degree Programs

The Dual Degree Status is a formal arrangement between Andrews University and another institution(s) and/or between two Andrews University departments or programs that allow credit from certain courses to be applied to both degrees. This arrangement provides a range of benefits to the institution and to participating students, including:

- Enhancing the educational and research opportunities within the university's undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs;
- Attracting to the university high-achieving and highly motivated students interested in interdisciplinary perspectives;
- Allowing students to complete two degrees in less time than it would normally take to complete each degree separately, thus saving money;
- Providing students with complementary preparation that makes them marketable for a variety of career opportunities;
- Facilitating programmatic and interdisciplinary interaction across programs, departments, schools, and other institutions.

The limitations on the credits taken are the following:

The student must satisfy the GPA requirements and program expectations of both programs. The dual degree agreement will determine how many credits will be shared between the two degrees. Students must meet the minimum requirements for total credits taken at Andrews University for each degree. The same provisions for normal course loads at the graduate level apply, as for all graduate programs.

Requirements:

Andrews University accelerated graduate/graduate dual degree program permits graduate students to pursue two graduate degrees based on an established Andrews University dual degree agreement. Both degrees are to be awarded at the same graduation ceremony. In cases where a student decides not to continue with the dual degree the curriculum for the individual degree they are pursuing will apply. In order to qualify for the dual graduate degree status the student must satisfy or abide by the following:

- Be accepted on regular or provisional status into the two appropriate graduate programs
- Students who have been accepted into the M.Div. program, but who do not qualify for admission into a Master's degree program because of a non-accredited degree and/or insufficient college GPA may be able to pursue one of the M.Div./Master's dual degree programs under the following circumstances.
 - The student must satisfactorily complete the first year of the M.Div. program with a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0.

- The student must receive a recommendation from the M.Div. advisor indicating their suitability for pursuing the dual degree program.
 - The student must apply for and receive acceptance into the master's degree program subsequent to completion of the first year in the M.Div. program.
- As part of the articulation agreement, the graduate programs shall limit the number of credits that overlap between the two degrees and establish the number of credits that are unique to each degree.
 - Current examples include MSW/M.Div., M.Div./MPH, M.Div./MSCID, MSCID/MYYAM, etc. Students in Graduate Dual Degree Programs shall be admitted concurrently in each degree program. Dual degrees shall therefore be awarded at the same time.

Special Types of Admission

Enrollment of Guest Students. Students who are enrolled in a graduate school of another college or university may enroll for courses in the graduate programs of Andrews University under the Guest Student status.

Application forms for Guest Student admission are available at the Office of Graduate Enrollment Management.

Admission to a second Graduate Degree Program. Students who have completed one graduate degree may apply to be accepted into another graduate degree program at the same level if they meet all department requirements for admission to such a degree program. The proposed course of study may not be within the same major field and may not be similar to a degree previously completed. The usual regulations and limits with respect to transfer credit apply when taking a second graduate degree. (See Transfer Credits).

Admission - Resident Scholars. Scholars who have attained doctoral status or the equivalent from a recognized university, and other recognized scholars who wish to continue study and research in special fields, may use the library facilities as guests of the university. Applications must be made to the appropriate dean or graduate program coordinator. Such privileges are granted upon recommendation of the department in which the work will be done. Formal courses may be attended with permission of the instructor. No official record is made of the work done. If credit is desired, regular enrollment is required.

Readmission of Students After Cancellation. Students whose previous admission to a graduate degree program at Andrews University was canceled because of academic and/or conduct reasons may reapply for admission after a reasonable period of time has passed. Under no circumstances are such students readmitted into a graduate program before at least one academic year has passed.

The reasons for the cancellation of the student's admission status, a statement of intent, a report of subsequent rehabilitation, and a record of improved scholarship and/or conduct at another institution are all factors that are taken into account when the student reapplies for admission. The decision to approve such a reapplication for admission, as well as the status of such a student, is made by a special admissions committee composed of appropriate administrative and faculty representatives.

Graduate Academic Information

Academic Credit and Course Loads

The course load is expressed in semester credits. A semester credit represents a class with one 50-minute class period or equivalent each week for one semester. Thus, a 3-credit class ordinarily meets three periods (150 minutes) each week and requires additional appropriate time for class preparation.

Course Loads. The normal full-time graduate course load is 8–12 credits each semester (9–16 credits for MDiv students). Loads in excess of a full load must be approved by the advisor and the appropriate dean/graduate program coordinator before completing registration. Students may not take more than 16 credits during a regular semester or 16 credits during any combination of sessions offered during a single summer. Students engaged in part-time employment must talk with their advisors and adjust their course loads accordingly.

Credits for Workshops and Independent Study. Normally, master's-degree students may accumulate up to 6 appropriate workshop/tour credits and up to 6 independent study credits toward a degree with a maximum of 9 credits combined. If workshops are taken during the semester breaks, the credits are counted as part of the class load for either the semester before the break or the semester following the break. Specialist or doctoral students in the School of Education or the SDA Theological Seminary should read the section in this bulletin that applies or the appropriate specialist or doctoral handbook for information about limits on workshops or independent study.

Residency Requirements

All PhD and ThD students must establish doctoral residency by enrolling in full-time doctoral course work at Andrews University three out of any four consecutive semesters. EdD students establish residency by enrolling full-time for any three out of nine consecutive semesters.

Students enrolled in the professional ministerial or religious education programs of the Theological Seminary or in the School of Education leadership program should read the appropriate section of this bulletin concerning residency requirements and time limitations.

Active Status. Before advancement to candidacy, master's degree students are considered to be on active status in a program if they enroll, for credit, for at least one semester during each academic year (summer-spring terms). After advancement to candidacy a master's degree student must maintain active status by being registered continuously for credit courses or non-credit continuation status.

- Non-credit continuation status includes research or program continuation.
- Non-credit research continuation includes project/thesis continuation, recital continuations, and/or comprehensive exam preparation.

When not enrolled in the above, non-credit program continuation is used to maintain access to University services, e.g.: library services (including online database), ITS resources (including e-mail), faculty advising, and research supervision for graduate students taking their programs on the main campus (Berrien Springs). Program continuation carries a fee (See Continuation Fee in Financial Information).

Specialist and doctoral students who have completed their coursework and have registered for all their dissertation credit must maintain active status. Active status may be achieved by registering for non-credit continuation courses such as Program Continuation, Comprehensive Exam Preparation, Project Preparation and Dissertation Continuation.

The special needs of graduate students in extension and affiliation programs will be addressed in the agreements and procedures established for each site and/or degree program.

Governing Bulletin

Normally, students meet the requirements of the bulletin in force when they begin their graduate program. As long as they remain on active status, students may elect to meet the requirements of any bulletin in force during their graduate program. The graduate program begins at the beginning of the term in which the student first registers for classes after he/she has been admitted.

When active status is broken, the student must follow the bulletin in force when active status is reestablished.

Time Limits on Graduate Degrees

Time Limits on Graduate Certificate Programs. Each program will specify a time limit for completion of the certificate. However, this may not exceed five (5) years from the first registration.

Time Limits on the Master's Degree. Normally, a student must complete the requirements for a master's degree within six calendar years from the beginning of the first semester of class work regardless of admission classification.

- No course taken earlier than six calendar years before a student's graduation year may normally be applied to the degree without appropriate updating.
- A petition for a one-year extension of time may be granted by the dean of the School of Graduate Studies upon the recommendation of the student's advisor and the dean/ graduate program coordinator of the school/college.
- If the semester in which the student originally expects to graduate is delayed past the time limit and no extension is granted, the courses taken prior to the six-year limit no longer apply to the degree or qualify to be updated. The student may be required to take additional courses.
- Grades from all graduate courses taken at Andrews University, including those more than six years old, and those taken on a PTC basis, are used in computing the final GPA.

- School of Education students should visit Time Limits, in Doctoral Degrees (EdD/PhD) section for more information.

Time Limits on the Specialist Degree. A student must complete the requirements for a specialist degree within six calendar years from the beginning of the first semester of class work regardless of admission classification.

Time Limits on Doctoral Degrees. Whereas the doctoral degree is the highest academic degree possible and therefore requires stellar academic preparation and integrity; and whereas the program faculty are the gatekeepers of academic integrity, this policy on Time Limits on Doctoral Degrees provides program faculty with a framework for ensuring academic integrity.

All doctoral course work and the comprehensive examinations must be completed within six years from the initial registration after acceptance into the doctoral program. The student must complete the dissertation within a period of five years after passing the comprehensive examinations. Further, all requirements must be met within a total of ten years (seven years for the Department of Graduate Psychology & Counseling and the Department of Leadership). A petition for an extension of time may be granted by the School of Graduate Studies upon the recommendation of the dean, and after action by the appropriate school/college committee.

Ordinarily, a student may be granted a maximum of two one-year extensions. Failure to successfully complete the degree by the end of the extensions granted shall result in dismissal from the University. The following will be considered when reviewing a request for a one-year extension:

- The student's documenting the extenuating circumstances that merit a time extension,
- Continuous enrollment in dissertation credits or zero-credit dissertation continuation,
- A petition with the appropriate signatures explicitly describing the amount of work left to be done for the degree and the month and year the student plans to defend the dissertation.

The documents in support of the petition shall include:

1. a copy of the student's updated course of study, with projected graduation date, documenting which courses will fall outside the time limit based on the projected graduation date;
2. a letter demonstrating how the student has remained current in the specified content area (i.e., publications, seminars, conferences, independent readings, professional development courses, tutorials, coursework from other institutions, college level teaching assignments, additional job responsibilities, etc.);
3. any additional documentation or support for the student's request.

Inactive Status. Throughout the doctoral program, the student is expected to make progress and to keep in contact with the department. If one year passes without progress and without approval from the student's advisor, the student is put on inactive status and must apply to be reactivated. Students in the Department of Graduate Psychology & Counseling and the Department of Leadership should visit Time Limits, in Doctoral Degrees (EdD/PhD) section for more information.

Students must comply with the Bulletin in effect when the reactivation is approved. Course work taken previously may apply by petition, subject to the normal time limits and GPA standards. The cumulative GPA from all courses taken, including any that may not apply to the new program, is used to compute the GPA requirements for satisfactory progress and completion of the degree.

Updating Courses

Updating Master's Degree Courses. Students working towards a master's degree may update some outdated course work. However, graduate classes in the School of Business Administration and computer courses in the College of Technology may not be updated. Those courses that may be updated are subject to the following policies:

- No more than 25% of the total program credits from courses 6–10 years old may be updated. No work over 10 calendar years old, calculated from the graduation year, may be updated.
- Not all courses between 6 and 10 years old may be updated. Each course must be approved by the department.
- No course work with a grade below a B (3.00) may be updated.
- Outdated work done elsewhere cannot be updated at Andrews University.
- Independent study, workshops, and directed readings cannot be updated.

- The requirements for updating are specified by the department on a course-by-course basis.
- Written evidence of the updating must be approved by the department chair and the appropriate dean or graduate program coordinator.
- Updating a course does not change the grade in the course used in computing the GPA.
- The updating fee is 20% of regular graduate tuition.

Academic Standards

Students enrolled in graduate programs governed by the School of Graduate Studies should note the following standards of scholarship. Students enrolled in Physical Therapy, the Theological Seminary professional ministerial programs or in the School of Education EdS, EdD, and PhD programs should read the requirements for their specific programs in the appropriate sections of this bulletin.

Minimum Standards of Scholarship. Candidates for graduate degrees must satisfactorily fulfill the course of study for the degree program they select subject to these standards:

- A minimum GPA of 3.00 (4.00 system) is required in those courses that apply to the degree.
- No course with a grade of D or F (or U) may count toward a graduate degree. Some departments may require a higher satisfactory grade in certain courses.
- If a student receives an unsatisfactory grade as defined above, the course may be repeated once. The credits and quality points earned in the most recent course will be used to calculate the GPA.
- Credit by examination is not accepted toward a graduate degree.
- Candidates for a master's degree must pass comprehensive examinations and/or formally defend a master's thesis or an acceptable alternative for a particular program as approved by the Graduate Council. Candidates for specialist and doctoral degrees must pass comprehensive examinations. Doctoral degree candidates must complete and formally defend a dissertation. Clinical doctoral degrees must complete a capstone project.

DG—Deferred Grade. A DG may be given in certain courses recognized to be of such a nature that all the requirements are not likely to be completed within one semester. It may be given for tours, field/clinical experiences, internships, projects, intensives, comprehensive exams, independent study courses, courses requiring research such as theses and dissertations, and undergraduate upper division courses where mastery learning is required. The Office of Academic Records records a DG for the above listed courses previously recommended by a department and approved by the dean of the appropriate school and/or graduate program committee.

An instructor may designate a time limit for a given course or a specific situation for the DG to be changed to a letter grade. All DGs are required to be cleared before a student can graduate, unless they are DGs earned in another currently enrolled degree. An instructor may change the DG to a letter grade (A-F), S/U or DN as appropriate.

Standards for Progression. In addition to the following standards, master's, specialist, and doctoral students should consult the appropriate section of this bulletin and their respective handbook.

- The cumulative GPA must be at least 3.00 calculated using all graduate work taken at Andrews University including courses taken for other degrees, courses taken prior to the time limits for degrees, and courses taken PTC. Exceptions to this standard must be recommended by the dean/graduate program coordinator and approved by the dean of the School of Graduate Studies.
- A student whose cumulative GPA drops below 3.00 in any given semester is placed on academic probation. Such a student must work with the advisor to develop a schedule of courses that ensures the student will raise his/her cumulative GPA above the required 3.00 in a timely manner—normally, the following semester. The dean/graduate program coordinator of the school/college must approve such a plan. A student who does not meet such a plan may not continue except by the recommendation of the dean/graduate program coordinator and approval by the dean of the School of Graduate Studies.
- Normally, students who accumulate more than 12 semester credits below B- (including U) are not allowed to continue. Petitions for exceptions must include a plan to maintain the required GPA for the degree and be approved by the appropriate dean/graduate program coordinator of the college/school and the dean of the School of Graduate Studies.

- Students who have been accepted provisionally to a degree program must meet the planned schedule for removing any deficiencies or earning a minimum GPA.
 - English-language deficiencies must be met by the time the student has completed no more than 50% of his/her course work for a master's or specialist degree or 25% of his/her course work for a doctoral degree.
 - Undergraduate deficiencies should be met by the time the master's degree student has completed no more than 50% of his/her course work. Doctoral students should take care of background deficiencies before starting on required doctoral course work.
 - A minimum GPA equal to the GPA requirements for graduation from the program must be met by the time the student has completed 9 graduate credits.
 - A student who does not meet this schedule is not allowed to continue except by the recommendation of the dean/graduate program coordinator and approval by the dean of the School of Graduate Studies.
- Students on academic probation or provisional status may not:
 - Register for thesis, dissertation, or independent study (or workshop credit for doctoral students)
 - Register for project credit except by permission from the dean/graduate program coordinator of the college/school
 - Advance to degree candidacy or take comprehensive examinations.

Awarding Degrees for Graduate Programs

General Minimum Requirements for a Master's Degree

(MA, MAT, MBA, MMus, MS, MSA, MSMLS, MSW, MIDA, MSCID)

While additional specific departmental requirements are described under each degree in later sections of this bulletin, the general minimum requirements for awarding master's degrees include the following:

- A student must satisfactorily fulfill a schedule of studies approved by the student's advisor and the graduate program coordinator or dean of the appropriate school.
 - The number of credits to be completed depends on the minimum requirements for the degree.
 - The student's schedule of studies must include at least one-half of the required minimum credits in course work numbered 500 and above. Exceptions are made where a course of study specifically outlined in this bulletin makes provision for an adjustment to the required number of credits numbered 500 and above.
- The student must submit evidence of competence in conducting investigation in his/her field of study. A student may fulfill his requirement by one of the following, depending on the particular degree program:
 - A thesis
 - Written reports of one or two research projects
 - Research methods or other appropriate course work.
- Where required, and only after a student has been advanced to degree candidacy, he/she must successfully complete general written and/or oral comprehensive examination(s) as prescribed by the student's major department. Usually this is done within the last semester of a student's program.
- In general, no foreign language is required. In cases where an individual student's program requires a reading knowledge of a foreign language, the student must demonstrate competence in the language, normally by examination, before receiving advancement-to-degree candidacy. The department prescribes the appropriate method of demonstrating competence. A student's advisor or supervising committee informs the student regarding the foreign language required for his/her course of study.

General Minimum Requirements for the Educational Specialist Degree (EdS)

Consult "Educational Specialist Degree," of this bulletin and the School of Education Handbook for Educational Specialist Students for information on degree procedures.

General Minimum Requirements for the Clinical Doctorate Degrees (DPT, t-DPT, DScPT)

Consult Physical Therapy section of this bulletin and the Physical Therapy Student Handbook for information on degree requirements. Students must comply with all degree requirements listed in the bulletin and applicable handbook.

General Minimum Requirements for Doctoral Degrees (EdD, PhD, ThD)

Doctoral programs include a master's degree or equivalent as a prerequisite. The Leadership and Counseling Psychology programs in the School of Education allow selected students to be admitted with a bachelor's degree.

- Each program shall include post-master's doctoral course work approved by the school and the student's advisor.
- 1. A minimum of two years of doctoral study is required.
- 2. At least two-thirds of the required doctoral course work must be in courses graded with an A–F grading scheme.
- 3. A minimum of 32 credits of the doctoral course work must be taken in residence at Andrews University. A portion of an EdS that is completed elsewhere may apply to this minimum residence requirement as defined by the school.
- 4. The minimum number of dissertation credits required is 16.
- Written and/or oral comprehensive examinations are required of all doctoral students, normally after all course work has been completed.
- The doctoral student must demonstrate competence in conducting research in his/her field of study by completing an approved dissertation.

General Minimum Requirements for Theological Seminary Professional Ministerial Degrees.

The requirements for ministerial degrees may be found in the Theological Seminary section of this bulletin.

Transfer Credits

Credit for prior learning (CPL) credits on transcripts are not articulated. Students may present the original documentation (transcripts, certifications, portfolios, etc.) to their academic or program advisor and the Prior Learning Coordinator for evaluation in accordance with Andrews University CPL policies and procedures.

Transferring Credits from Another Institution into the Graduate Certificate Program.

Credits from other institutions will not transfer into a graduate certificate program.

Transferring Master's Degree Credits from Another Graduate School.

Graduate credits taken at another accredited/recognized institution less than six calendar years before the expected graduation year may be transferred and applied toward a master's degree at Andrews University subject to the following conditions:

- The grade earned in each course accepted for transfer is at least a B (3.00).
- The courses can be applied toward a comparable degree at the institution where the credit was earned.
- The courses meet similar requirements or electives within the master's program at Andrews University.
- The Andrews University credits taken toward the master's degree constitute at least 80% of the requirements for the degree.
- Grades earned in transfer courses are not included in the computation of the GPA. Courses to be taken at another university and transferred to Andrews after a student is enrolled in an Andrews' graduate program must be approved by petition before being taken.
- Such transfer courses are identified and approved by the dean/graduate program coordinator within the first semester of the student's residence.
- An official transcript listing transfer credits is on file in the Office of Academic Records. Credits received from institutions generally considered to be diploma/degree mills are not eligible to be transferred into a degree program.

Seminary professional degree programs have transfer limitations unique to each program. See the appropriate section of this bulletin for details.

Transferring Credit from an Andrews Graduate Certificate Program to Another Program.

All credits in an Andrews University graduate certificate program are eligible for transfer into a graduate degree program subject to approval by the program faculty and the school dean if taken within the established time limits for the degree.

Transferring Master's Degree Credits from Another Andrews Program. Graduate courses taken at Andrews University as part of another graduate degree may be transferred subject to the following conditions:

- The grade earned in each course is at least a B (3.00) and the overall GPA at Andrews University is at least 3.00.
- The courses meet similar requirements or electives within the new master's program.
- A minimum of 80% of the requirements for the master's degree must be taken as Andrews University credits that are not applied towards any other Andrews University master's degree.
- The grades earned in courses transferred from another master's program at Andrews University are included in the computation of the GPA. Both the overall GPA and the GPA of the remaining courses taken for the master's degree must meet the minimum required (3.00) for graduation.
- The credits to be transferred were taken fewer than six calendar years before the expected graduation year of the master's program.

Seminary professional ministerial degree programs have special transfer limitations. See the appropriate section of this bulletin for details.

Transferring Specialist Degree Credits. Read the Educational Specialist section of this bulletin or the School of Education Handbook for Educational Specialist Students.

Transferring Doctoral Degree Credits. Post-master's transfer credit, if appropriate to the student's program, may be accepted if (1) the credits were completed within the time limitations indicated in the appropriate section of this bulletin and (2) the transfer complies with the provisions in the School of Education and the Seminary Handbooks for doctoral students. A petition for transfer of credit is considered only after an official transcript for the course is received. Credits received from institutions generally considered to be diploma/degree mills are not eligible to be transferred into a degree program.

Exceptions. Exceptions to course-transfer regulations must be approved by the dean of the School of Graduate Studies on a standard petition form upon the recommendation of the dean/graduate program coordinator of the college/school. Any such exceptions will be considered individually in the light of the master's requirements. Exceptions for whole programs must be voted by the Graduate Council but thereafter do not need individual approval on petitions.

Credit for Prior Learning (CPL)

In addition to acceptance of transfer credits from accredited colleges and universities (see Transfer Credit section), some graduate programs approve credit for prior graduate-level learning earned through departmental placement and challenge exams, competency and portfolio assessments. As needed, other options may be reviewed by the Graduate Admissions and Academic Policy Committee.

In order for credit to be assessed and articulated:

1. The student has matriculated and is in good and regular standing at the time CPL is requested.
2. The total of credits awarded for prior learning, excluding credits transferred from accredited institutions, and practicum and ex/internships recognized by the program, will not exceed 6 graduate credits.
3. The total of all credit awarded for prior learning and transfer credits will not exceed 20% of the credits required for the graduate program to which the student is admitted.
4. No form of CPL will be approved to replace grades earned through Andrews University.

Students should discuss any prior graduate-level learning independent of transfer credits with their academic or program advisor and the Prior Learning Coordinator in their first semester. All forms of credit for prior learning are evaluated on a pass/fail scale, with transcript record of passing grades only.

Advanced Placement. Graduate credits earned through undergraduate dual enrollment opportunities will be subject to the policies outline in the Transfer and Dual Enrollment/Dual Degree Status sections of this bulletin.

Departmental Placement and Challenge Exams. In some programs, challenge or performance exams can be arranged to waive requirements, place into courses (meet prerequisites), or earn credits meeting program requirements. Departmentally-constructed tests may be written, oral or skill assessments, or external exams administered by the department for internal evaluation.

Validation of Non-traditional Learning. Professional certifications or performance exams may be evaluated for alignment to graduate course outcomes. Some transfer credits from unaccredited entities not recognized by ACE may be approved upon review by the department offering similar courses.

Portfolio Assessment. In some graduate programs, CPL may be validated and granted through the Andrews graduate portfolio process, with pre-approval from the student's program director and the Prior Learning Coordinator. Students must complete at least one semester in an Andrews graduate program before portfolio submission will be approved. Visit the Portfolio Assessment webpages for procedural information.

NOTE: Any competency-based graduate programs using portfolios to document both prior and current learning are subject to program-specific portfolio guidelines. See program requirements for details.

Visit the Credit for Prior Learning webpage for more information.

Student Supervisory Committees

Master's Degree Committees. A student's project supervisory committee normally consists of a minimum of two members nominated by the department chair/program director/area coordinator in consultation with the student and appointed by the appropriate dean or graduate program coordinator. For a master's thesis, the committee consists of the thesis advisor and normally two other members. Exception: For an interdisciplinary master's degree, a committee is appointed before initial registration. All other master's-degree student committees are appointed after some course work has been completed and before registration for thesis credits. Only rarely may a student's committee be changed while study or research is still in progress. This may be done only in consultation with the appropriate dean or graduate program coordinator. The chair of the supervisory committee is the student's chief advisor. The function of the committee is to guide the student in his/her research and writing of the project/thesis.

A student's supervisory committee may be augmented with additional members for the oral defense of the thesis. These additional committee members have full voting rights.

The term of service of a student's committee is deemed to have expired when a student has graduated or when registration has been terminated.

Doctoral Degree Committees. The dissertation committee shall consist of a minimum of three members, including the chair. Two of the three members, including the chair, shall be selected from among the current full time Andrews graduate faculty at the appropriate category with at least one member being from the school in which the student is enrolled. The third member may be from the Andrews graduate faculty at the appropriate category or a person outside the University whose record of scholarship is equivalent to that required of a member of the Andrews graduate faculty at the appropriate category. Additional persons may be added either from the Andrews graduate faculty or from outside the University where specialized expertise is needed with the approval of the School of Graduate Studies.

Comprehensive Examinations

Most master's- and all specialist- and doctoral-degree candidates are required to take prescribed written and/or oral comprehensive examinations as required by the department.

Master's-degree students are not permitted to sit for these examinations until they have been officially advanced to degree candidacy. EdS and doctoral students normally sit for comprehensive examinations after all course work is completed and after applying for degree candidacy. Candidacy is not granted to doctoral students until the comprehensive examinations have been passed.

See the appropriate sections of this bulletin and the School of Education Handbook for Doctoral Students, the School of Education Handbook for Educational Specialist Students; the Doctor of Physical Therapy Student Handbook, t-DPT/DScPT Student Handbook; or the Graduate Programs Manual for details about examinations for master's, specialist, or doctoral students.

Advancement To Degree Candidacy

Master's Degree. During the semester before graduation, a student must apply for advancement to degree candidacy. Forms are available at the office of the appropriate dean or graduate program coordinator. The forms should be completed by the student, approved by the advisor and the department chair, and returned to the office of the dean or graduate program coordinator.

- At the time a student files an application for advancement to degree candidacy, he/she must have:
 - Received regular admission status
 - Applied for graduation

- Completed all curriculum and English-language deficiencies that may have existed
- Demonstrated foreign-language proficiency where required.

- A student who has not completed the Advancement to Degree Candidacy form during the semester before graduation is not allowed to register for further course work until the advancement to degree candidacy forms have been filed with the appropriate dean or graduate program coordinator.
- After a student has been advanced to degree candidacy, he/she may then request to take the comprehensive examinations.
- An application form for the comprehensive examinations is sent to the student at the time of notification of advancement to degree candidacy.

Educational Specialist Degree. Read Educational Specialist section of this bulletin and the School of Education Handbook for Educational Specialist Students for information on degree procedures.

Doctoral Degree. The Application for Admission to Doctoral Candidacy form must be filed at least one month prior to the scheduled date of the comprehensive examination.

Approval for degree candidacy is granted when the student has

- Received regular admission status
- Completed all curriculum and English-language deficiencies that may have existed
- Demonstrated research tool proficiency, including foreign language when required
- Passed all comprehensive examinations
- Completed all other degree requirements except the dissertation.

Projects, Theses and Dissertations

Projects. The student who elects to complete a research project or projects as part of fulfilling the research requirement for the master's degree or clinical doctorate reports it/them in conformity to the Andrews University Standards for Written Work. One copy of each report is submitted to the instructor under whose supervision it was prepared. It becomes the property of the department. Completed and signed approval forms for the project(s) must be filed in the Office of Academic Records no later than noon on Friday, one week before graduation, unless an earlier time is specified by the department. Some departments require approval of the project(s) before writing the comprehensive examinations. If students need time for project preparation beyond the semester(s) when regular project credits are accumulated, they may register for project continuation. Project continuation is a non-credit enrollment status that requires a small fee for each semester of registration.

Master's Thesis. To fulfill the thesis option for the master's degree, a student is required to write a thesis and successfully defend it in an oral examination at an officially designated time and place.

Doctoral Dissertation. For doctoral programs requiring a dissertation, the student is required to write and successfully defend a dissertation in an oral examination at an officially designated time and place.

Registration for Thesis Credits—Committee Guidance. When a master's student is required or elects to write a thesis, he/she should register for it initially no later than one semester before the anticipated graduation date. The student may register for 2–6 thesis credits per semester with a maximum of 9 total credits for the thesis. The student is guided from the beginning of thesis preparation by a committee, normally consisting of two to three members, appointed before registering for thesis credits. The committee chair serves as thesis advisor.

Dissertation Credits—Committee Guidance. Doctoral students are required to register for a minimum of 16 dissertation credits. Students in the School of Education should consult the general requirements under Doctoral Degrees and the Handbook for Doctoral Students for information regarding dissertation credits. Students in the Seminary should read the Academic Policies in the Theological Seminary section of this bulletin. The doctoral committee is appointed following the guidelines of the appropriate section of this bulletin and the appropriate handbook for doctoral students.

Standards for Writing—Dissertation Office. The Dissertation Office contact information is: phone: 269-471-3276, e-mail: dissertationoffice@andrews.edu. The master's thesis and doctoral dissertation must demonstrate the candidate's capacity for original and independent work, include a critical evaluation of previous research, and emphasize new conclusions. The format of the thesis/dissertation also must conform to the guidelines found in the Andrews University Standards for Written Work.

When, in the opinion of the student and his/her full committee, the thesis/dissertation has been completed satisfactorily and a final draft has been submitted, the committee, by official action, declares it to be ready for the oral defense. Before a defense can take place, however, the candidate must submit the committee-approved thesis/dissertation to the Dissertation Office who checks it for conformity to the Andrews University Standards for Written Work. After it is approved, a date for the defense may be set in consultation with the chair of the department or the program director.

Defense of Thesis/Dissertation. The oral defense must be completed no later than four weeks before a candidate plans to graduate. A thesis/dissertation is approved if no more than one negative vote is given. An abstention is recorded as a negative vote. The department chair or program director is responsible for notifying the appropriate dean or graduate program coordinator of the outcome of the defense.

The decision of a student's examining committee is recorded and signed on the appropriate form and submitted to the appropriate dean or graduate program coordinator. A copy is sent to the Office of Academic Records.

A committee chair usually assists a student by way of a check sheet to ensure the prescribed deadlines are met. The thesis/dissertation may be handed in at any time during the year, but the deadlines listed here determine the date of graduation.

After the defense. After the defense

- The student makes all corrections.
- As soon as possible, but no later than two weeks before graduation, the student submits a complete corrected copy of the thesis/dissertation to the School of Graduate Studies via the Dissertation Office for approval to duplicate. At that time any changes made after the defense should be pointed out.
- After the Dissertation Office gives approval to duplicate, the student has two options:
 - Option 1. The Dissertation Office arranges for duplicating with Andrews University LithoTech, and the student's account is billed for duplicating the copies that stay with the University. The School of Education requires four copies (two for the Library and two for its own use). The Seminary requires five copies (two for the Library and three for its own use). These copies do include one copy for the student's dissertation chair. Master's students are billed for only three copies: two for the Library and one for the School involved.
 - Option 2. The student personally arranges for duplicating the required number of copies of the thesis or dissertation. These are delivered to the Dissertation Office.
- Doctoral students must submit a digital PDF file of their dissertation to (1) ProQuest/UMI and (2) the Dissertation Office (for inclusion in the James White Library catalog). Contact the Dissertation Office for assistance and forms.
- Master's students must submit a digital PDF file of their thesis to the Dissertation Office for inclusion in the James White Library catalog. Contact the Dissertation Office for assistance and forms.
- At this point, the Dissertation Office submits the Notification of Thesis/Dissertation Completion form to the Office of Academic Records, and the thesis/dissertation process is complete.
- Strict adherence to the deadline of 10 days before graduation is essential or graduation is postponed.

Ordering Extra Copies. Students wanting to purchase additional bound copies identical to those kept at Andrews University must fill out mailing labels and customs declaration forms (when applicable). These are available from the Dissertation Office. Students are billed for photocopying and binding.

Grades for Thesis/Dissertation. The grade for a thesis/dissertation is S or U. A deferred grade (DG) is given while a thesis/dissertation is still being written or corrected.

Andrews Partnership Scholarship

Andrews University is pleased to offer its full-time undergraduate students the Andrews Partnership Scholarship in recognition of their academic achievement. This scholarship affirms the university's commitment to partnering with families and students to achieve an educational dream in a Christian environment at Andrews University. Scholarships range from $24,000 to $48,000 to complete a four-year degree for incoming freshmen who have never attended college. Andrews University also has an Andrews Partnership Scholarship to honor its continuing, transferring, Canadian and international students.

Fees

Distance fee, per semester, for all distance degree students $130
Guest fee, per semester, for all non-degree or guest students $60
 These fees support library and technology services available to all students. Students admitted to on-campus programs pay a general fee in place of the distance or guest fee each semester they register.

Additional fees apply to both main campus and distance students for specific services elected, or related to specific course registrations.

See the Financial Information section of this bulletin for full details.

Withdrawals and refunds for interactive and self-paced full-term online courses follows on-campus policy. The Self-Paced Calendar for open learning includes all details for the alternate withdrawal and refund deadlines for this type of course only. All withdrawals after the last day to drop or add a course require a drop/add form submitted to the Office of Academic Records. Distance students can email sderegister@andrews.edu to request assistance with this procedure.

International Students must provide the following information

International Students

- Balanced Estimated Budget Sheet
- Letter of financial support
- Bank documentation
- Copy of Passport
- Mailing Address for I-20
- $3,100 advance deposit includes $100 non-refundable New Student International Fee (Except Citizens of Bahamas, Bermuda, Canada and Mexico)
- MDiv Students need to pay full semester in advance

Refer to International Students for details.

Who To Contact

The Office of Student Financial Services (SFS) assists applicants in making financial arrangements to attend Andrews University through financial clearance. Students with questions about financial assistance that they may qualify for should contact Student Financial Services. Applicants of Federal Financial Aid need to apply and complete the process well in advance of enrollment to assure consideration of all resources, particularly limited ones, and to assure a smooth registration process. Contact information:

 E-mail: sfs@andrews.edu

Office of International Student Services. All international students who enter the U.S. on an Andrews University I-20 Form are considered Andrews University students. They must report immediately upon arrival to the Office of International Student Services. The office is located on the third floor in the Administration Building, Room 307.

Telephone: 269-471-6395 or 800-253-2874
 Fax: 269-471-6246
 E-mail: iss@andrews.edu
 Website: www.andrews.edu/iss

Office of Employment

The Office of Employment, which is part of Human Resources, assists students with on-campus employment needs. The office provides information regarding employment opportunities, assistance with necessary paperwork, administers employment tests and is responsible for updating employment files. The office is located in the Administration Building, Second Floor.

Insurance

Rates

Single student premium (approximately)	$1,575
Each additional dependent coverage for one year	$1,650

*Rates reflect 2017-2018 school year and are subject to change each school year.

Accident/Sickness. Every international student in "student status" and every other student registered for 6 or more credit hours is to be covered by at least an Accident and Sickness Plan. This may be purchased through the university by signing up online in Registration Central at registration time. International students are required to include all dependents that are here in the U.S. and there is an additional fee for adding dependents. Payment for this coverage can be charged to the student's account. The insurance is non-refundable after the drop/add date.

International students and their accompanying dependents are required to have health insurance irrespective of their class load.

Waivers. Students who have comparable coverage from elsewhere may waive the student health insurance plan by entering their health insurance information in Registration Central at the time of registration. Proof of health insurance must be taken to the Office of Student Insurance in the Administration Building before the drop/add date for verification of coverage each semester.

Brochures. Information describing the health insurance coverage can be viewed at www.andrews.edu/hr/stu_insurance.html

The health insurance premium is charged to the student's account via information entered in Registration Central. A waiver will prevent this charge from occurring (see Waivers above).

Medicaid. Michigan Medicaid is considered proof of insurance for U.S. citizens and Permanent Residents and should be entered into the waiver section of Registration Central at the time of registration. The only difference is that the student will be required to bring their current Medicaid card to the Student Insurance office in the Administration Building before drop/add date for verification of current coverage. This must be done for each registration period that the student is enrolled in school. If proof of current Medicaid is not provided, the student will be charged for the student insurance and the charge will be non-refundable.

Note: Medicaid from any other state will not be accepted as a valid waiver.

Student Employment

Students desiring part-time employment must be enrolled fulltime (12 undergraduate credits, 8 graduate credits, or 9 Master of Divinity credits) and they must complete the necessary paperwork at the Office of Employment. To be employed, students must show the Office of Employment original documents (no photocopies) that establish their identity and employment eligibility, such as a U.S. passport, birth certificate, or social security card.

The University allows students to work, as work is available, up to 20 hours per week during the academic year. To maximize work opportunities, the student should schedule their classes so that large portions of the mornings or afternoons are free. Professional performance and conduct is expected in all on-campus employment.

Payroll Schedule. Andrews University follows a biweekly payroll schedule. Student employees are responsible for having their time submitted to their department supervisors each Monday morning. The university does not issue payroll advances for time turned in late.

Dictionary of Miscellaneous Money Matters & General Fees

Students have two types of expenses while attending the university—educational (tuition, books, insurance and fees) and living (housing and meals).

The University makes every effort to maintain the costs published in this bulletin. The University reserves the right to make changes as necessitated by unexpected increases in costs. Such changes are announced in advance of the semester in which they become effective.

Additional Costs. The online registration process, Financial Plan, assesses the two types of costs mentioned in the preceding section. However, students may incur additional expenses that are not estimated at the time of pre-registration. These billed expenses may include, but are not limited to, class fees, trips and tours, club fees, printing charges, and expenses related to a major such as photo store charges. Many of these expenses are described in more detail in the following pages. Fees are non-refundable.

Alternative Loans. Student Financial Services considers all awarded grants, scholarships and loans for a student's cost of attendance as resources when certifying an eligible amount of private educational loan funds. See Cost of Attendance Limitations for a list of these resources.

Application Fee

Undergraduate non-refundable	$30
Online undergraduate non-refundable	$30
Undergraduate Late application fee non-refundable	$50
Graduate non-refundable	$60
Online graduate non-refundable	$60

March 15	For summer term 1
April 15	For summer term 2
May 15	For summer term 3

Auditing a Class. The cost of auditing a class is the same as the cost of enrolling for credit.

Carrying Charge of 1% is charged on all unpaid account balances including those in a payment plan monthly.

Cash Withdrawal. Andrews University is unable to serve as a bank for students. Sometimes students have a credit balance on their student account they need to withdraw. Students may request a cash withdrawal at the front desk in Student Financial Services. A maximum of three cash withdrawals not exceeding $300 may be requested during an academic term. Cash withdrawals are not available if payment was made by credit card. Cash withdrawals may not be paid on monies anticipated in a future term. The student must present a current AU student ID or valid driver's license for release of funds.

Change of Registration $35

Dropping/adding a course, changing from credit to audit, or from audit to credit after the "last day to enter any class" as published in the academic calendar, will be assessed a fee.

Club Dues. Clubs approved by Student Activities may recommend a maximum of three club dues to student accounts only during September and January. Appropriate forms with required information are turned in to Student Financial Services by September 25 and January 25. Student accounts cannot be used for fund-raising. Each club can only charge maximum annual dues of $50.

Course/Lab Fees listed in online class schedule

Credit Balances on student accounts may be withdrawn by or at the direction of the person responsible for the student's account after the final statement is issued—usually thirty days after the last day of attendance.

Credit Card Payments will be accepted to pay account balances, but cannot be accepted for a student to make a cash withdrawal from his/her student account. Secure payment can be made via the Andrews web page at www.andrews.edu/sf We use a 3rd party provider, "TouchNet" to process credit card payments. This requires a login and password through TouchNet. There is a convenience fee of 2.75%. The following information is required:

Exit Procedures. Check-out procedures must be followed when a student leaves Andrews University outside of the graduation process. Students should ask for Andrews University Student Exit Procedure Forms from the dean's office in the school in which they are enrolled or from the Student Services office. All required signatures on the form must be obtained to ensure that the necessary information has been given both to the student and to the departments listed on the form.

Financial Clearance is required in order to:

- Complete registration at the beginning of each semester
- Graduate or receive a certificate or diploma
- Move into residence hall
- Receive a transcript or other certification of academic achievement

In order to obtain financial clearance to complete registration, any previous account balance (academic or housing) must be paid in full. All required documents must be turned in to Student Financial Services 30 days prior to registration.

Non-Current Student Accounts on which no payments are being made, may be turned over for third party collection. Students whose accounts are non-current must pay the account in full, including collection costs, before they may register for any additional coursework.

By enrollment, students agree to the following responsibility statement:

In consideration for any and all credit extended to me at any time in the past, present or future, I agree to give Andrews University a security interest in my student records. I understand that, in giving the University such an interest, I may not obtain a diploma or transcript of my record at any time for any reason unless my account is paid in full. The security interest I grant to the University is intended to cover any and all current indebtedness as well as any and all future advances of credit which the University may grant me at any time. I also understand that a 1% per month carrying charge will be added on my unpaid balance and I agree to pay this carrying charge in addition to any other debt. I recognize that the above figures displayed in Registration Central are estimates and I accept the responsibility for the payment of actual charges incurred. I explicitly agree to be responsible for those collection expenses in addition to the unpaid debt. I understand that Andrews University will be adding additional collection and attorneys' fees (within a range of 33.333% to 40%) if an account goes into default. I understand that sundry charges not listed in the above estimate are due the month in which they appear on the statement.

I also acknowledge that, should I choose a monthly payment plan, my monthly amount is required in full by the 25th of each month.

I give authorization for my Title IV aid after current term institutional costs are covered to: 1) pay non-institutional charges such as my living expenses while attending Andrews University, 2) apply to prior year balances, if any. I authorize Andrews University to hold my Title IV credit balances on my account unless requested by me through University procedure.

I have read and accepted the responsibility statement as presented.

Non-Sufficient Funds (NSF). Charge for returned checks. $40

Payment Plans

1. Cash Rebate Plans

- 3% Rebate Plan—Full time regular students with at least 12 undergraduate credits or at least 8 graduate credits may choose to pay their estimated Out-of- Pocket Expenses (charges less financial aid resources) for the full year by August 15 to receive a 3% rebate. After making payment, e-mail sfs@andrews.edu by the first day of class to request the 3% rebate. The student's minimum Out-of- Pocket Expenses as calculated online in TouchNet must be at least $100 to qualify for a payment plan. The rebate is unavailable for payment made after the first day of class. Cash withdrawals and refunds are unavailable until the end of spring semester. All approved rebates will be applied to the student account during the fall semester.
- 1% Rebate Plan—Full-time regular students with at least 12 undergraduate credits or at least 8 graduate credits may choose to pay their estimated Out-of- Pocket Expenses (charges less financial aid resources) in full for the semester to receive a 1% rebate per semester. The student's minimum Out-of-Pocket Expenses as calculated online in TouchNet must be at least $100 to qualify for a payment plan. Each payment must be received by August 15 for fall semester and December 15 for spring semester. After making payment, e-mail sfs@andrews.edu by the first day of class to request the 1% rebate. The rebate is unavailable for payment made after the first day of class. Cash withdrawals and refunds are unavailable until the end of that semester. All approved rebates will be applied to the student account during that semester.
- Monthly Payment Plan—Arrange to make monthly payments toward estimated Out-of-Pocket Expenses for the semester and any previous balance.
 - All previous account balances (including monthly payment plan balances) must be paid in full.
 - The plan is not to exceed more than 50% of the estimated Out-of-Pocket Expenses for the semester.
 - Payments are to zero the account by the end of the semester to which the plan applies.
 - Late payments will incur a late payment fee of $25.
 - A 1% carrying charge will be posted to an unpaid balance at the end of the month.
 - Minimum balance for monthly payment plan is $100 or above.

Permission to Take Class Fee $30

Post-Dated Checks are not accepted.

Prior Accounts. Students may register only when accounts with other schools have been paid or arrangements made with them.

Portfolio Assessment and Recording Fee

non-refundable, per credit $160

Refund Check Policy

- Refund checks resulting from credit on the student's account will not be available to the student until approximately five days after the semester drop/add date. The checks will be mailed to the address the student wrote on the request form or for pickup at the office of Student Financial Services front desk.
- Refund checks will only be issued from credit on the account at the time the check is requested. Students should monitor their account balances carefully since funds from a future semester are unavailable until the appropriate time.
- Student Financial Services is unable to serve students as a bank. A maximum of three credit refund checks may be requested during a semester.
- Students receiving federal loans are encouraged to carefully read their Disclosure Statements so they know the loan disbursement schedule.
- Funds from future semesters are unavailable until the funds reach the University's bank. Students should plan their budgets accordingly.
- Half-time enrollment is required for student loans to disburse to the account. A class does not count toward the half-time enrollment status until within ten (10) days of its start date.
- To pick up a refund check in Student Financial Services, the student must show current Andrews University ID or valid driver's license.

- For anyone other than the student to pick up the refund check, the student must sign a letter giving permission for that person to pick up their check. Without the appropriate documentation, the refund check will not be released.
- Federal regulations require that credit from Parent (PLUS) loans be returned to the parents. Written authorization from the parents is required before these funds can be released to the student.
- If you have received or are planning to receive Federal student loans, please be aware that you have the right to cancel all or a portion of your loan disbursements. However, you must act within 30 days of your loan disbursement. Contact your financial advisor if you need more information.
- Credit refund checks not picked up will be mailed to your statement mailing address.

Registration Central. For information on how to financially clear and register online, visit vault.andrews.edu and log on to "Registration Central."

Rescheduling senior exit tests and major field tests. $85 required for:

- Academic tours
- Adventist Colleges Abroad applicants
- Off-campus academic experiences
- Taskforce and Student Missionary appointees

Account balances, including monthly payments not yet due, must be paid in full before students are financially cleared. When a student on tour is sent home for medical, financial, or citizenship reasons, all travel costs must be paid by the student and/or family.

Student Missionary

IDSC296 Recording fee—per semester	$85
Independent Study Recording fee—per credit (undergraduate only)	$50
Mission Preparedness Assessment Fee	$50
Student Missions Application Fee	$30
Student Missions Background Check Fee	Up to $40
International Student Missionary Service	$4500
Domestic Student Missionary Service	$3000

Student Status. Student status is achieved only after a student is both academically and financially cleared. Only then may students attend classes, take examinations, participate in graduation exercises, and live in university housing.

Textbooks $550

The estimated semester cost of textbooks is $550. Students are charged the estimated amount of their bookstore purchases based on their selection.

Thesis/Dissertation Fees

Binding (each volume) for AU copies	$20
Binding (each volume) for personal copies	$30

Fees for copyediting of theses/dissertations are on a sliding scale basis, starting at $140 for 50 pages, plus $5 for each additional 10-page increment.

Transcript and Diploma. Students may not receive a transcript or diploma under the following circumstances:

- Owing on a student or housing account, including payment plans not yet due
- Being in default on a government loan
- Needing to complete loan exit counseling

Transcript Exception. Students may request that a transcript be sent to the following:

- An organization for scholarship or licensure purposes (AMCAS, AADS, or PTCAS)

Academic Transcript Exception Policy for Student Loan Borrowers in Default

University policy prevents the Office of Academic Records from releasing academic transcripts for borrowers who are not paying on their Federal Stafford (Subsidized/Unsubsidized), GSL or Federal Supplemental Loan for Students (SLS). Every request is handled on an individual basis; however, if the borrower complies with the appropriate guidelines below, the academic transcript requested directly from the Office of Academic Records may be issued for the following two limited purposes:

For Educational Purposes

- The transcript is to be sent directly to the academic institution.

- The borrower must have made six consecutive monthly payments as scheduled prior to release of the transcripts.
- The provisions and conditions in #2 above are certified in writing by the lending institution or the guaranty agency handling the loan.
- A copy of the letter described in #3 above confirming satisfactory status is sent to Student Financial Services. The confirmation letter is valid for the purposes of this policy for six months from its date, and future requests may be denied if the satisfactory status is not maintained.

For Employment Purposes

- The transcript is released for employment purposes only and is so stamped.
- The transcript is sent directly to the prospective employer and may not be shared with any other party.
- The borrower in default must contact the guaranty agency (or agencies) in writing to acknowledge the student loan debt and make an acceptable repayment commitment of a specified monthly amount.
- A copy of the letter written to the borrower's lender or guaranty agency, as stated in item #3 above, must be sent to Student Financial Services.
- Future requests for academic transcripts may be denied should a borrower not fulfill his/her promise as stated in the letter to the guaranty agency.

Updating Course Work Fee—20% of graduate tuition per credit

Wiring Funds

International wire fee	$55
Domestic wire fee	$30

International Students

Advance Deposit. Applicants attending the main campus from outside the United States (except Bahamas, Bermuda, Canada and Mexico) must make an advance deposit of $3,100 (includes $100 non-refundable new international student fee) before an I-20 will be issued. No university scholarships may be applied to pay the deposit. All international students (except Bahamas, Bermuda, Canada and Mexico) who apply for the MDiv program in the SDA Theological Seminary must pay for the first semester (tuition, general fee and health insurance) before an I-20 will be issued. Returning students must pay their balance in full before an updated I-20 will be issued. Exceptions to the deposit requirement are made if a student is staying on campus for less than a month. Under these circumstances, no deposit is required.

All students requiring an I-20 must be officially accepted into their chosen academic program. Students must also submit the following: an Estimated Budget for Students Attending on a Visa form, International deposit of $3100.00 (includes a $100 non-refundable new student international fee), financial statements showing that they can cover their first year expenses (see Resource Verification for more information), a copy of their passport, the mailing address and telephone number of the address where the I-20 is to be mailed. Please contact isfs@andrews.edu for the budget sheet and additional information.

All students are encouraged to pay the $200 SEVIS I-901 fee (subject to change) online at www.fmjfee.com or at the Western Union Quick Pay services or to contact Andrews University International Recruiter in case of unavailability of the Western Union services in their countries. This fee is required by the U.S. Immigration and Customs of all students seeking an F-1 or J-1 visa from an embassy or consulate as well as students applying for admission at a U.S. port-of-entry (such as Canadians) to begin initial attendance at U.S. schools.

SEVIS Fee. International students coming to the United States for the first time must pay a $200 SEVIS fee (subject to change), as mentioned previously, and the cost of the visa at the American Consulate of his/her home country. International students and exchange visitors are subject to the $200 SEVIS fee. To make this payment online or to find out more about the SEVIS fee please visit www.fmjfee.com. Please be sure to bring your original SEVIS payment receipt with you to the U.S. port of entry.

Unclaimed International Deposits Policy. International student deposits that have not been refunded within three years after the student reaches non-current status shall be transferred from the student's international student deposit account to a quasi endowment account.

Student Financial Services will monitor the international student deposit account on an annual basis to determine the appropriate transfer of funds to the International Graduate Assistance Fund Account. At the discretion of Student Financial Services, these funds will be available as payment on account to assist graduate international students in their financial clearance process.

The initial funds shall be established as a quasi endowment from which 80% will be invested and 20% will be available annually. Any subsequent requests will be claimable after identifying that the person is the one who paid the deposit to the account.

International Deposit Allocation. This deposit is not available to cover registration expenses; the deposit earns interest during the time the student is enrolled with full-time tuition. The deposit plus interest is refunded when the student's degree is completed or enrollment is terminated; alternatively, it can be used as partial payment for the final semester of registration. If the student doesn't complete the educational program during the term the deposit is used to meet expenses, the deposit must be reinstated for financial clearance.

Resource Verification. Bank documentation as well as other forms of financial documentation are required to prove ability to support one's educational expenses. Returning students needing an updated I-20 will also need to supply bank documentation.

I-20 Form. Once the deposit and resource verification are received and accepted, the university authorizes the Office of International Student Services to issue the I-20 Form for the purpose of securing a United States student visa. There is an individual I-20 shipment charge that will be billed to your account. This shipment charge varies according to the country of destination.

Arrival to Andrews University Campus. All international students who enter the U.S. on an Andrews University I-20 Form are considered Andrews University students and must report immediately to the Office of International Student Services.

Exchange Visitor General Conference Sponsorships. The General Conference of the Seventh-day Adventist Church is the sponsoring organization of the Exchange Visitor program and is authorized by the Department of State to issue the DS2019 document. The exchange visitor is required to present the DS2019 and a copy of the $200 SEVIS Fee Receipt at the American Consulate in order to obtain a J-1 visa. This visa (J-1) enables the exchange visitor to pursue his/her study or to do other options as indicated on the DS2019.

Class Loads and Financial Aid

Aid is awarded for an entire academic year (two semesters) and is based on full-time enrollment. The summer session usually is not part of the regular academic year. Students do not receive aid during non-enrollment periods. Most aid programs require students to be enrolled at least half-time. Students who enroll with a half-time class load may receive a maximum of 50% of the full-time award. Three fourths time enrollment permits students to receive a maximum of 75% of the full-time award. Students who change their course load during a given semester should read the Financial Aid Refund policy, see Undergraduate Financial Assistance.

Tuition Adjustment Policies

Tuition adjustments are given to students who withdraw from school or drop individual courses during the academic term. These tuition adjustments are based on the date when all the appropriate drop forms with all the required signatures are completed and filed with the Office of Academic Records.

Fall and spring semester adjustments
100%	1st–10th calendar day
70%	11th–17th calendar day
40%	18th–24th calendar day
0%	25th–last day of semester

Summer session adjustments will differ based on the summer session you are enrolled in.

Courses with Special Schedules. When courses are scheduled for irregular periods of time, adjustments are based on the ratio of the length of the course to the length of the academic period for that course. See also: Withdrawals and Refunds for Self-paced Courses.

Fees. All fees are non-refundable.

Financial Assistance Adjustments after withdrawal. Federal and State regulations require the university to return a portion of program funds when a student withdraws completely from school after receiving financial assistance under any Federal Title IV program (other than Federal Work Study). Refer to Undergraduate Financial Assistance for Financial Aid Refund Policy.

Gifts and Bequests

Each year the university has increased needs for scholarship funds to aid students. The Trustees of Andrews University invite alumni, friends, and members of the university family to join them in providing an increased opportunity for training youth in the traditions of a Christian university. The following supplies contact information for making a gift, either unrestricted or designated for a specific purpose, to Andrews University:

Current Gifts

Individuals interested in making a current donation to Andrews University of either cash or non-cash assets should contact:

Charges

Residence Hall Charges

Residence hall occupancy is based on two persons per room, for the duration of an entire term. All single undergraduates under 22 years of age should plan on living in the residence hall, unless living full-time with their parents.

Before the room assignment process is initiated, receipt of both the residence hall application and the room deposit are required. Prior to moving in, students must have been accepted for the session in question and be financially cleared.

Residence Hall Package Plans*

For fall and spring semesters

Double Occupancy (Lamson, Meier, Burman)	$2,389
Double Occupancy (Damazo)	$2,639
Single Occupancy (Lamson, Meier, Burman)	$3,584
Single Occupancy (Damazo)	$5,278
(if available space in Lamson, Meier, Burman, Damazo)
Double Daily Rate (Lamson, Meier, Burman)	$20
Single Daily Rate (Lamson, Meier, Burman)	$30
Double Daily Rate (Damazo)	$22
Single Daily Rate (Damazo)	$44

For summer sessions

Summer room charges are calculated on a per day basis.

* The residence hall package plan includes unlimited access to laundry facilities, utilities, basic telephone, health club membership, and limited health care. It does not include health care lab work and x-rays, comprehensive psychological or substance use/abuse interventions or testing, health insurance, or miscellaneous expenses such as linens, cleaning, books, supplies, transportation or food. University Medical Specialties (UMS) charges the insurance company for any coverage applicable to the services provided to residence hall students, thus students should take their insurance information with them when utilizing UMS services. UMS waives any copay or deductible (for the student/family) for the limited health care provided. Note: Lamson and Meier Halls will close at 9am on Wednesday morning following the end of Fall Semester and will reopen at 9am on Wednesday morning before the beginning of Spring semester. Residents needed housing during the closure time should speak with a residence hall dean.

Residence Hall Room Deposit Payment

The room deposit is $250, payable by each resident prior to room assignment. Assignments are made on a first-come first-served basis. For priority room assignment, submit your application and deposit by August 1 for fall term, December 1 for spring term, and May 1 for summer terms. If a deposit is received after those dates, expect to be assigned to temporary housing.

Residence Hall Room Deposit Refund

Room deposits are refunded if you do not move into the residence hall and cancel your application by August 1 for fall term, December 1 for spring term, and May 1 for summer term. Cancellation must be made through the residence hall housing office. Students will receive room assignment notification during the month of July for the upcoming fall semester. They are expected to confirm this room assignment online. Failure to confirm or cancel by August 1 will result in room cancellation as well as release of the room deposit. Rooms that have been confirmed and then canceled after August 1 will result in forfeiture of the room deposit.

Failure to Check Out Properly

Students are charged if they leave the residence hall without following checkout procedures. Additional charges may be assessed depending on the amount of cleaning and/or repairs required.

Residence Hall Unreturned Key Charges (subject to change)

Unreturned or lost key fee	$75
Unreturned or lost security drawer key fee	$10

Personal Effects Insurance. The University does not provide personal effects insurance coverage. The University is not responsible for the loss or damage, from any cause, of personal belongings brought to the campus. This is true even though students are required by the University to purchase certain items or to keep them in a specified place. The University strongly recommends that students secure their own personal effects insurance coverage.

Meal Plan Charges

Residence Hall Meal Plan

Undergraduate residence hall students under age 22 are required to participate in the Declining Balance Meal Plan. The minimum meal plan charge is $1,800 per semester. The meal plan can be used for purchases at the Terrace Café, Gazebo and campus vending machines. In some cases, the minimum meal plan will not meet your complete food needs for the semester (for example, $1,800 should cover approximately two average meals each day, every day, throughout the semester). Students who know they will require a larger meal plan amount may opt to add additional funds through Dining Services.

Students who run out of funds in the meal account during the semester may add to the balance in increments of $100 by request at the Office of Dining Services in the Campus Center.

No refund will be credited to the student's account at the end of the semester if funds remain in the meal plan.

All residence hall students of Andrews University employees receiving 60% educational allowance must select a meal plan regardless of the student's age. Women living in Damazo Hall can select the Damazo Meal Plan. please contact your Student Financial Services financial advisor.

Meal plan cost per semester ($1,800)

Café Account

Minimum amount to open a Café Account ($50)

The Café Account is a plan for graduate and undergraduate students not living in a dormitory. Students may use their Café Account card to purchase food from the Terrace Café, Gazebo, or vending machines. To open a Café account with cash, check or credit card, visit the Office of Dining Services. To open a Café account with a credit balance on a student account, visit the Office of Student Financial Services.

Security Deposit	$300
Cleaning Fee, non-refundable	$100

Monthly Rental Rates

One-three bedroom houses ($555-1000)

The Office of University Apartments provides apartment descriptions and application forms upon request. Application forms can also be downloaded from www.andrews.edu/apartments/. If notice of cancellation is received before the date of stated occupancy, the application fee is refunded minus the $20 processing fee. Apartments or houses are assigned from the processing list in the order in which the application fee is received.

A student's immediate family only includes husband, wife, children, parents and biological siblings. Birth certificates must be provided showing the relationship to the student. Any other relatives (cousins, nieces, nephews, in-laws, etc.) who desire to live with students must first receive permission from the University Apartments director. Rent is increased by $20 per month for each additional person that is not immediate family as described above or the student does not have legal guardianship over. No overcrowding is allowed.

Single students wanting to share an apartment with a roommate will pay an additional $20 rent per month. The monthly rent, along with the additional extra person charge, will be divided between the roommates.

Rent Payments

The first month's rent is prorated to the date of occupancy. Students are required to pay the first month's rent in advance. Thereafter, rent is due in advance on the 1st of each month. A late fee of $30 is charged for any payment made after the 10th of the month. Payments can be made in person, by using the drop box, by mail or online. Address all payments and inquiries to:

Office of University Apartments

Andrews University
Box 10920
Berrien Springs MI 49104

Termination of Occupancy

All tenants are required to sign a year lease at the time of occupancy. At the end of the initial lease a new lease has to be signed if the tenant wishes to continue occupancy.

Department of Aviation Charges

Flight Majors: Flight-training fees are to be paid at the beginning of each semester. This is to insure that flight training progresses without interruption due to financial limitations. Any additional flight or ground instruction, beyond each training module, will incur additional hourly training fees. Students must plan to cover their own costs of the 1st class FAA medical, and in the case of international students, the TSA application fee. FAA written flight tests, charts and other materials are additional and cannot be charged against the flight training fees.

Please note: Flight training fees are non-refundable. Students should plan to complete their training within the semester they have enrolled for the course. If, due to special circumstances, approved by the department; students unable to complete the training may be given a specified extension to finish their flight during the following break or semester. Beyond that exception, unused hours after the semester enrolled are forfeited and will be unusable.

Aviation Professional Fee

Fall $100

Spring $100

International Flight Students: TSA Application Fee for Permission to Commence Flight Training $130

The fee is required for all non-U.S. students training as Private, Instrument and Multi-engine pilots. An approved application allots one year of training for each of the above flight ratings. If a student does not complete the rating in that time frame, they will be required to repay the TSA fee and reapply to continue training.

Community (Non-Flight Majors) Taking Flight Training

Flight-training fees will be on a pay-as-you-go basis. Ground School classes are available with no university credit for $370 per course for the private, instrument and commercial courses and $980 for the CFI course. Credit for such courses may be obtained by registering through the registrar's office and paying regular tuition. For flight certificates without credit call the Department of Aviation for a cost estimate.

Flight Training Fees and Rates

Rates and fees are subject to change without notice due to changes in operating costs (insurance, fuel, etc.). Every attempt will be made to maintain published rates. Check with the airport administration for current rates. Flight-training fees listed below apply to this bulletin:

Community Non-Credit Classes for Aviation Airframe and Powerplant Certificate

For those wishing to attend classes to earn the FAA Airframe and Powerplant certificates without university credit, there is a cost of $30,628 (52 credits) for the program ($589 per AU credit equivalent, includes lab fee). Should the student want university credit at a later date, the difference between the then-current university tuition rate and the non-credit rate would have to be paid. FAA test fees are additional. Tool costs may be waived for students who own their own tools appropriate for program requirements. Contact the Department of Aviation for more details.

Transfer

Certain seminary programs are discounted to prepare students for specific ministries. If a student enrolls and takes classes in a discounted or reduced fee program (less than the published Doctoral or Master's rate) and then wishes to apply those credits earned to a higher priced program, the student will pay the difference in Tuition and Fees to transfer or apply the discounted credits to the higher priced program at the time of transfer.

Program Specific Fees and Discounts

MA: Full-time on-campus students may apply for a tuition discount (based on GPA and other criteria), at the Seminary Dean's office each semester by drop/add date (see below).

MAR, MA (Rel Ed) Tuition Adjustment: 25% discount
 MAM, MAYAM Tuition Adjustment: 25%–38% discount

MDiv: The MDiv fee is already discounted down to a flat registration fee (automatic). No further discounts are available except during summer semester, when an on-campus student taking less than 8 credits on campus may apply for a reduction/proration of the summer fee. Applications available in the Seminary Dean's office. Must be submitted by drop/add date of third session.

The registration fee is due August 15 for fall semester, December 15 for spring semester, and May 10 for summer term. Any credits (over 14/16 for fall and spring semesters or over 12 for the summer) are charged at the regular per-credit master's tuition rate.

MDiv students taking a graduate course in the College of Arts & Sciences in fulfillment of their elective course requirement may request a 50% tuition reduction (up to 9 credits), provided the class is not full and there are a sufficient number of students paying full tuition to warrant the teaching of the course. Directed study, laboratory courses, and study tours are not eligible for reduced tuition. Neither is this discount available for dual-enrollment students who have been accepted in a graduate degree program in the College of Arts & Sciences. Application form is available in the MDiv office, but should be submitted to the Dean of Arts & Sciences.

A per-credit recording fee is charged for prior learning (CPL).

DMin: NAD employees are eligible for a 56% discount off the published doctoral rate. Tuition includes general, graduation and editing fees.

DMiss: 50% discount off the published doctoral rate.

PhD/ThD: Visit the PhD program office for scholarship applications in January of each year

Seminary Scholarships and Discounts

Scholarships

Endowed/Named Scholarships—Application deadline will be set some time during spring semester for the next year.

Emergency Scholarship

Visit the Seminary Dean's office for details.

Seminary Spouse Discount

Available to master's-level students enrolled in Seminary programs whose spouses are enrolled full-time in a Seminary program. Student must submit application to Seminary Dean's office each semester by drop/add date. Details and applications are available in the Seminary Dean's office. Discount, if granted, would net Seminary master's tuition to $150 per credit (maximum 9 credits per semester).

Note: The purpose of this section is to summarize the most common Seminary fees. Seminary students are still responsible for all fees and policies as set forth in this Bulletin.

Other departmental charges for individual courses are listed in the Class Schedule. These charges, which may be significant, are added to tuition.

Undergraduate Financial Assistance

GPA	Scholarship Amount
3.50 and higher	$9,000
3.00 to 3.49	$7,000
2.50 to 2.99	$5,000
Below 2.50	$3,000

Transfer students may qualify for full tuition scholarship if they were National Merit/National Achievement Finalist, National Hispanic Recognition Scholar or ACT/SAT Scholarship.

Academic Scholarships Funded by Andrews University

The Andrews Partnership Scholarship reflects the university's desire to recognize academic achievement as well as assist students in achieving a degree in a Christian environment at Andrews University.

Andrews Partnership Scholarship

Merit-based

The Andrews Partnership Scholarship is available to accepted undergraduates including Canadian and international students. The Office of Undergraduate Admissions will determine the scholarship amounts for incoming freshmen and transfer students. To establish the scholarship amount, the Office of Undergraduate Admissions will determine a rating based on the following guidelines:

FTIACS (defined below)

- Confirmed U.S. SAT or ACT scores (Test must be taken by July 15)
- Confirmed U.S. cumulative GPA (following the conclusion of the sixth semester for academy or high school)

Transfer Students (defined below)

- Confirmed cumulative college GPA

Contact the Office of Undergraduate Admissions for further details.

FTIAC (First Time In Any College)

Andrews Partnership Scholarships are merit scholarships awarded to students who have taken fewer than 25 college semester credits after graduating from high school. The award amounts are based upon a combination of cumulative high school GPA and ACT or SAT and can be calculated at the website www.andrews.edu/aps. The award levels are as follows:

Scholarship	4-Year Total
$12,000	$48,000
$10,000	$40,000
$8,000	$32,000
$6,000	$24,000

Additional Andrews Partnership Scholarship for FTIAC (First Time In Any College) Students

In addition to the Andrews Partnership Scholarship (based upon the combination of high school cumulative GPA and ACT/SAT scores) freshmen are eligible for an additional annual $2,000 special APS for either (only one) of the following categories:

- ACT composite of 30 to 33
- SAT Evidence-based Reading and Writing (ERW) + Mathematics combination score of 1390 to 1510.
- pSAT-NMSQT ERW + Math Combinations score of 1350 to 1460.

Note: Andrews University awards the ACT/SAT Scholarship for students scoring a composite score of 34 (ACT) or 1520 (SAT Evidence-based Reading and Writing + Math) or higher or pSAT-NMSQT of 1470 (ERW and Math) or higher. This scholarship covers 100% tuition for up to 144 undergraduate credits for incoming freshman. For details listed below under National Merit/National Achievement Finalists Scholarship, National Hispanic Recognition Program Scholar and ACT/SAT Scholarship.

Continuing eligibility and time frames for this scholarship are the same as for the regular APS. Transfer students do not qualify for the additional APS for ACT or SAT scores since their APS is based upon their transfer cumulative college GPA. Transfer students may qualify for full tuition scholarship if they were National Merit/National Achievement Finalists, National Hispanic Recognition Scholar or ACT/SAT Scholarship. Students qualifying for the National Merit/National Achievement Finalists, National Hispanic Recognition Program Scholars or ACT/SAT Scholarship are not eligible for additional APS. All tests must be taken by July 15 to be evaluated to raise their APS.

Transfer Students (transferring 25 or more semester credits taken after graduating from high school) to Andrews University who are full-time undergraduates and in their first degree program may be eligible for an Andrews Partnership Scholarship. Based on their incoming cumulative college GPA, the Office of Undergraduate Admissions will grant an Andrews Partnership Scholarship according to the following:

Named Scholarships

Endowments and other restricted scholarship funds from alumni and friends of the university provide specially named scholarships as part of the Andrews Partnership Scholarship. Selected students are awarded, by their school, a named scholarship based on academic performance, declared major, and career goals. Because of this special recognition a thank-you letter is required to be submitted electronically to the Office of Development through finVue (can be found under the requirements section). Receipt of a named scholarship will not increase the total amount of financial aid awarded if an Andrews Partnership Scholarship was already given.

Student Missionary/Taskforce Volunteer Scholarship

This scholarship is awarded to an undergraduate student who has served as an AU Student Missionary or Taskforce Volunteer through Andrews University and enrolls full-time at Andrews University the year following the year of service. The scholarship is up to $1,500 scholarship. It is not transferable to any other school nor any other student. To apply for this scholarship fill out an application accompanied by a letter of evaluation from your mission field supervisor with the Student Missions Program in the Office of Campus Ministries. This scholarship is not part of the Andrews Partnership Scholarship.

Summer Ministries Scholarship Program

Summer camp scholarship will be based on $190 per week for a maximum of $2,470. Summer camps that pay minimum wage or higher are not eligible for this scholarship. Student Financial Services will determine the amount of the scholarship based on the information received from camp directors in time for financial clearance.

Magabooks and HHES are matched 50% of the net earnings. The entire net earnings must be placed onto the student's account at Andrews University before the scholarship is given. The scholarship cap is $2,600.

Summer scholarships for Andrews University Religion Department Barnabas Connection (Undergraduates Only) and Church/Conference outreach programs are matched 100% based on the information given to Student Financial Services from each organization. The entire scholarship must be placed onto the student's account at Andrews University. The scholarship cap is $ 2,400.

All summer scholarships are awarded to full-time undergraduate and graduate students in a degree program attending the Berrien Springs campus and require full-time service. The scholarship closing date for consideration is October 31 of the current academic year.

If a student attends Adventist Colleges Abroad, Student Missionary or Task Force that fall, their scholarship will be held until the following year and funds disbursed the next fall semester. If they also work in a summer ministries program that year, the scholarship would be given the following fall semester.

Included and Excluded Funds

Funding for Andrews Partnership Scholarships may include Andrews University grants, named scholarships, and departmental scholarships, as well as the value of spouse free tuition. Funds not included in the Andrews Partnership Scholarship are Summer Ministries, Student Missionary/Taskforce, General Conference Missionary Matching, Undergraduate Research grants, the DeHaan Work Excellence Award, employer-provided scholarship or assistance, music performance, and non-Andrews outside resources.

Continuing Eligibility

To retain the Andrews Partnership Scholarship each student must meet all of the following:

- The university's Satisfactory Academic Progress policy
- Complete a four-year degree in ten semesters or get permission for an APS extension from the associate vice president for Enrollment Management. Students are allowed terms of prorated APS for less-than-full-time attendance (minimum 6 full-price credits, i.e. half time; handled manually upon written request to Student Financial Services). A prorated term counts as one complete term of the ten Andrews Partnership Scholarship terms allowed. 9–11 credits=75% APS; 6–8 credits=50% APS.

- Be a full-time (minimum 12 credit hours) undergraduate completing his/her first degree on the Berrien Springs campus
- Be a full-time (minimum 12 credit hours) student on the Andrews University main campus. Twelve Andrews undergraduate correspondence credits, 12 ELI non-credits, May Express, Sahmyook Top Scholar, and other discounted credits, do not qualify as full-time eligibility for the Andrews Partnership Scholarship.

Summer Enrollment

An Andrews Partnership Scholarship recipient may request the Andrews Partnership Scholarship during the summer term if all of the requirements are met. The summer term will count as one of the 10 semesters for which the Andrews Partnership Scholarship may be available. Usually the only aid available for summer is a student loan.

Special Andrews Partnership Scholarship

National Merit/National Finalists Scholarship, National Hispanic Recognition Program Scholar and APS/SAT Scholarship

Andrews University rewards National Merit/National Finalists, National Hispanic Recognition Program Scholar and ACT/SAT Scholarship (for a composite score of 34 ACT or 1550 SAT (Math + Verbal or higher) a special Andrews Partnership Scholarship that covers 100% tuition for four years for incoming freshmen with a cap of 144 credits and limited to a degree. To confirm receipt of the scholarship, submit appropriate records (award letter, certificate and/or official test scores) to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions. Gift aid is:

1. All gift aid received by the awardee, including a university scholarship or grant, cannot exceed the cost of full tuition. All gift aid is added in the following order: external scholarships, merit aid, and then need-based aid. Should the external scholarships and merit-aid portions exceed the cost of tuition per semester, then books, general fee, required course fees and the minimum costs of room and board may be included in the calculation. Gift aid, for the purpose of this policy, is defined as
 1. Any Andrews funds such as, but not limited to Andrews Gift, named scholarships, or honors scholarships.
 2. Any external aid received by the student for the purpose of school-related expenses such as, but not limited to, State grants, Federal grants, private scholarship grants, or denominational educational allowance.
2. No cash amount is paid directly to the student, nor may any funds be transferred to any other student's account. Tours are not included.
3. The length of the National Merit/National Achievement Finalists, National Hispanic Recognition Program Scholar and ACT/SAT Scholarship - Andrews Partnership Scholarship is nine (9) semesters with a cap of 144 credits and limited to a degree.
4. All National Merit/National Achievement Finalists, National Hispanic Recognition Program Scholar and ACT/SAT Scholarship - Andrews Partnership Scholarships may be renewed yearly if students maintain a 3.25 Andrews cumulative GPA.
5. Transfer National Merit/National Achievement Finalists, National Hispanic Recognition Program Scholar and ACT/SAT Scholarship are eligible to receive the scholarship according to the general scholarship rules plus the following additional rules:
 1. The scholar enters the scholarship program at his/her appropriate grade level. In no case is a transfer scholar eligible for a full four-year scholarship.
 2. The student must meet the GPA requirements as outlined in #5 above at his/her appropriate grade level.

Andrews Gift Aid

In addition to the Andrews Partnership Scholarship, Andrews University makes Andrews Gift monies available to help satisfy the student's need as determined by the financial aid information. To be eligible for Andrews Gift aid, students must file the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), www.fafsa.ed.gov. To complete your financial aid award, you will need to submit the AU Financial Information Sheet and any other documents required for verification by the Student Financial Services Office. If you did not or could not use the IRS Data Retrieval Tool on the FAFSA, we will need an IRS Tax Return Transcript. You can request one at www.irs.gov/individuals/get-transcript. The priority processing date is March 1. No electronic award letter will be prepared until Student Financial Services receives and processes these forms. Andrews Gift will be recalculated if outside resources are received after initial awarding.

Many of the financial aid programs presented in this bulletin are governed by Federal and State regulations. Every attempt has been made to be accurate in the program description at the time of printing. Changes, however, may be made over which the university has no control.

Defining Financial Need

When figuring eligibility for financial aid, need is determined by the following Financial Aid Formula: Cost of Attendance - Expected Family Contribution = Need

Cost of Attendance refers to the amount it costs to attend Andrews. This cost includes tuition, estimated cost of books, general fee, room and board, personal and travel allowances.

Expected Family Contribution is determined by taking financial information provided by the student on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and calculating a result.

Educational Need is the difference between cost of attendance and expected family contribution. Need-based aid comes from Federal, State, and/or institutional funds.

General Information

FERPA. Andrews University follows the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act guidelines.

Financial Aid Documents. To find required documents visit www.andrews.edu/sf. To complete your financial aid award, you will need to submit the Financial Information Sheet and other documents if selected for verification. If you did not or could not use the IRS Data Retrieval Tool on the FAFSA, we will need an IRS Return Transcript. You can request one at www.irs.gov/individual/get-transcript. No award letter will be prepared until Student Financial Services receives and processes these forms. Priority processing date is March 1. The United States Department of Education selects some students for whom the school must verify the information submitted on their FAFSAs.

When to do the FAFSA. Students can file the FAFSA online after October 1 for the following academic year and sign electronically with the student's FSA Id. The Federal office will process aid eligibility only after receiving an electronic signature.

School Name and Federal School Code. The FAFSA must include the name(s) of the college(s) to which the student is applying. Andrews University's Federal School code is 002238.

Federal, State, and Institutional Financial Aid. The information on Federal and State-based aid is in accordance with regulations and funding information available at the time this bulletin goes to press. Actual awards depend on Federal and State regulations and funding at the time aid is disbursed.

Aid money is credited to the student account each semester. Any change required in the student's verification process (check to be sure what was entered on the FAFSA matches what was entered on the verification forms) can change the financial aid award.

Master Promissory Note (MPN). Andrews University follows Federal guidelines for Master Promissory Notes. Students sign electronically a loan note only once indicating their intent to use loans to pay their tuition expenses and their commitment to repay the loans after graduation. Once electronically signed, the loan note remains active for ten years (unless it is canceled by the student). Andrews University uses an in-house loan-request form for students to indicate which loans and how much loan eligibility they will use each year.

Funding Limitations. Should university aid funds become over-committed, Andrews University reserves the right to reduce all previously granted awards, to discontinue making further awards, and/or to use other appropriate methods to bring aid expenditures into agreement with budgeted aid figures.

Financial Aid Eligibility. To be eligible for financial aid, a student must be:

- Accepted on regular, provisional, or probationary status (guest student status is not recognized for aid purposes).
- Enrolled in a program of study leading toward a degree or an approved certificate program.
- Registered for at least one-half of a full class load each semester.

A full class load is usually required for institutional aid.

Citizenship Requirements for Federal and State Aid.

1. A U.S. citizen or national (includes natives of American Samoa or Swains Island)
2. A U.S. permanent resident.

- Citizens of the Freely Associated States: the Federated States of Micronesia and the republics of Palau and the Marshall Islands. Eligible only for Pell Grant.
- Other eligible non-citizens.
- Only students who meet the Michigan residency requirements and filing dates will be eligible for Michigan aid consideration.

Non-citizen Eligibility. An eligible non-citizen is a student whose status matches one of the following:

- A U.S. permanent resident who has a Permanent Resident/Resident Alien card. (I-151, I-551, I-551C).
- A person who has an Arrival-Departure Record (I-94) from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services (BCIS) showing one of the following designations: "Refugee," "Asylee," "Parole," ["Conditional Entrant" (valid only if issued before April 1, 1980)]. They may also have a Refugee Travel Document (Form I-571).
- Cuban Haitian Entrant having a stamped across the face of the I-94 indicating that they have been classified as a "Cuban-Haitian Entrant (Status Pending)." Students without I-94 documentation may have their status confirmed by a Customs and Border Patrol stamp, showing class of admission and date admitted or paroled on their passport.
- Victims of human trafficking will have a letter from Health and Human Services or a T-visa. Battered immigrants under the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) will have an I-797 form, a court order from an immigration judge, or an I-360 form with approval or prima facie finding by USCIS.
- Persons with a passport with an Arrival/Departure Record (I-94) stamped with the following endorsement: "Processed for I-551. Temporary Evidence of Lawful Admission for Permanent Residence. Valid until _____, Employment Authorized" with an A-number and valid date.
- Persons with an unexpired foreign passport containing a machine readable immigrant visa (MRIV) in the passport, with a Customs and Border Protection inspector admission stamp and the statement "UPON ENDORSEMENT SERVES AS TEMPORARY I-551 EVIDENCING PERMANENT RESIDENCE FOR 1 YEAR." The MRIV must be in an unexpired foreign passport, endorsed, and is valid for one year from the date on the endorsement stamp.
- Persons with a U.S. Travel Document containing a Re-entry Permit (I-327) or Refugee Travel Document (I-571) annotated with "Permit to Re-enter Form I-327."
- Persons with at least 50% Native American blood born in Canada. They may need to provide proof of both qualifications.

Notes: Conditional Resident Aliens have documentation that expires. This documentation is acceptable to receive Federal Financial aid as long as the expiration date has not passed.

Students who have only a Notice of Approval to Apply for Permanent Residence (I-171 or I-464A), students who are in the United States on an F1 or F2 student visa only, or students on a J1 or J2 exchange visitor visa only cannot receive Federal and State aid. Also, persons with G series visas (pertaining to international organizations) are not eligible for Federal and State aid.

Certain Native American students born in Canada with a status under the Jay Treaty of 1789 may also be eligible for federal student aid.

Undocumented students, including DACA recipients, are not eligible for federal student aid, but you may still be eligible for institutional aid, in addition to private scholarships.

Class Loads and Financial Aid. Aid is awarded for an entire academic year (two semesters) and is based on full-time enrollment. The summer session usually is not part of the regular academic year. Students do not receive aid during non-enrollment periods. Most aid programs require students to be enrolled at least half-time. Students who enroll with a half-time class load may receive a maximum of 50% of the full-time award. Three-fourths time enrollment permits students to receive a maximum of 75% of the full-time award. Students who change their course load during a given semester should read the Financial Aid Refund Policy.

The student's continued eligibility for financial aid is also based on his/her academic progress as described in the following chart:

Credit Hours for Class Loads
Program/Level	Full-load	3/4 Load	Half-load
Undergraduate	12+	9-11	6-8
Physical Therapy	12+	9-11	6-8

Graduate School and Seminary	8+	6-7	4-5
MDiv	9+	6.75-8	4.5-6.74

Cost of Attendance Limitations. The maximum award a student can receive is regulated by Federal and State regulations. The university is required to ensure that the combined financial resources available to students from Federal and non-Federal sources do not exceed documented educational need. These sources include but are not limited to:

- Federal Perkins Loan Program
- William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan Program (formerly the Federal Stafford Loan Program—and hereafter referred to as the Federal Direct Loan)
- Federal Pell Grant
- Federal Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG)
- Tuition and fee waivers
- Andrews Partnership Scholarship
- Andrews Gift
- Scholarships or grants from parent's employer
- State grant and scholarship
- Any grant or scholarship from any source
- Federal work-study earnings

Student Financial Services monitors all aid and is required to adjust awards to conform to Federal, State, and institutional regulations.

Special Circumstances. Under certain situations, the United States Department of Education permits a school's financial aid office to make adjustments to the parent's or student's analysis information (provided on the FAFSA at the time of application). The adjustments permitted take into account changes in the family's financial situation that occurred since the FAFSA was completed. These special situations include, but are not limited to:

- Loss of employment
- Loss of untaxed income
- Separation or divorce
- Death of a parent
- Illness or excessive out-of-pocket medical expenses
- Tuition paid by parents for student siblings in elementary or secondary school

Students who have completed their financial aid process and later experience one of these special situations should ask their financial advisor to review their aid eligibility. To request this financial aid eligibility review, the independent student or the parent of a dependent student must provide a signed professional judgment request, with proof of change. Proof may include such documents as a death certificate, employer discharge letter, or last paycheck stub. When requesting a review, emphasis should be placed on information that was not available originally to the Student Financial Services Office. Anticipated changes are not grounds for a review. After reviewing the information submitted, Student Financial Services may require additional documentation.

Unfortunately, not all circumstances that are considered special by parents and students are permissible by the federal government. Appeals to the initial determination must be received in writing no later than three weeks after receiving the initial determination. Appeals are reviewed by the vice-president for Financial Administration and Enrollment Management together with the director of Student Financial Services. All information regarding financial aid in general and special conditions is treated confidentially.

Priority Dates for Financial Aid Applicants. Students desiring financial aid must apply each year and submit the following documents:

- October 1—The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) should be filed on-line at www.fafsa.ed.gov indicating Andrews University (school code 002238) as the first college to which the analysis report should be sent.
- After October 1—Submit the AU Financial Information Sheet (Undergraduates only) and other documents if selected for verification. If you did not or could not use the IRS Data Retrieval Tool on the FAFSA, we will need an IRS Tax Return Transcript. You can request one at www.irs.gov/individuals/get-transcript. Some campus based funds may not be available after March.

Financial Aid Refund Policy. This policy covers changes in the amount of financial aid due to the dropping of classes or withdrawal from school.

Students who receive financial aid from state or Federal funds must be aware that any change in the number of credits taken during each semester may affect the amount of financial aid they can receive. A smaller number of credits lessens the amount of aid. The amount of aid hereby forfeited must be returned to the aid fund. Likewise, a complete drop means that aid funds be returned, depending on the date of the complete drop. The rules controlling such refunds to the aid fund(s) are determined by the U.S. Department of Education and are used for all Title IV recipients nationwide.

Federal Title IV Aid Programs. After use of the Federal formula, funds are returned in the following order for students who drop all their classes:

William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan
Federal Perkins
Federal Pell
Federal SEOG
Other Title IV student assistance

State Grants and/or Scholarships. Michigan refunds are calculated using the following two-step formula.

|---|
|---|

Michigan Residents are defined as dependent students whose parents have resided in Michigan since June of the year before the enrollment year or as independent students who have resided in Michigan since June of the year before the enrollment year.

Pennsylvania, Vermont, Rhode Island, and other States. Determine grant eligibility following each State's applicable guidelines.

External Grants and/or Scholarships. Aid is returned to donor organizations according to each organization's own guidelines. Non-Title IV funds include: State Grant/Scholarship
External Scholarships/Grants
Educational Allowance/Discounts

Adjustments to Andrews University Funds. To figure the amount of adjustment, use the following two-step formula.

|---|
| <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Amount of aid for ÷ Tuition and fees = Percentage enrollment period for same period2. Percentage x Tuition and fee = Amount returned adjustment to aid fund |
|---|

Appeal Procedure. Students who think their needs have not been adequately met may follow this appeal procedure:

1. Students present all relevant facts for another evaluation to the Director of Student Financial Services.
2. Students wanting further consideration may appeal to the following administrators in order:
 1. The academic dean of the school/college in which the student is enrolled.
 2. The Vice President for Enrollment Management.
 3. The Vice President for Financial Administration.

All appeal decisions, of course, must conform to State and Federal government regulations.

Federal Perkins Loan Program

Students who are no longer enrolled, have not paid on a Federal Perkins Loan obtained at Andrews University and request their academic transcripts must contact the Perkins Loan Collection Office for more information. This office is part of Student Financial Services on campus and can be contacted by calling 269-471-6271.

Work Study Program

Students employed under the Federal Work Study (FWS) program receive their entire paycheck. Earnings are paid both by Andrews University and the Federal government. Students must do everything necessary to reach the work earnings that are estimated in their award. Otherwise they must be prepared to pay the difference from personal or parental resources.

Federal Work Study (FWS). To be eligible for assistance under the Federal Work Study program, students must demonstrate financial need and have a minimum overall GPA of 2.00. This program parallels the student labor program of the university. Eligibility for this program is determined through the standard financial aid application process. Students working under the Federal Work Study Program must be U.S. citizens or eligible non-citizens.

Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP)

Students must make Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) toward the completion of their associate, baccalaureate, or graduate degrees to qualify for financial aid. All students who receive assistance from a financial aid program that requires Satisfactory Academic Progress must follow the university's financial aid policy. The financial aid recipient's past academic work at Andrews University is reviewed regularly and must meet the standards of the Satisfactory Academic Progress policies noted below.

SAP Policy for Undergraduate Students with Financial Aid

The Satisfactory Academic Progress policy requires undergraduate students to maintain the following minimum standards:

- Full-time students must register for a minimum of 12 credit hours and must complete a minimum of 8
- Half-time students must register for a minimum of 6 credit hours and complete a minimum of 4

Students must complete at least 66.67% of the number of credits with a passing grade regardless of their enrollment status (full-time or half-time). Student Financial Services confirms that the student has met this requirement at the beginning of the student's new enrollment period. The student may attempt up to one and a half the number of credits required for their degree, over a six-year time frame. Credit grades include A, B, C, and D. Non-credit grades include withdrawal after drop-add date, audit, incomplete, failing, and non-credit.

Grade-Point Average (GPA) Required. To make satisfactory academic progress, students must maintain an Andrews overall GPA at or above the minimum levels listed below according to the number of semesters completed.

Semesters at AUMinimum AU GPA

2	2.00

Students who do not meet the SAP policy at the beginning of the school year are observed on a semester basis. Changes in GPA due to completion of "incomplete" or "deferred" grades or changes made for any other reason are considered when aid eligibility is reviewed at the next regular monitoring time.

At the beginning of each school year, students are placed into one of the following categories on the basis of the previous year's academic performance:

Satisfactory Progress. Students who meet all regulations outlined in the Satisfactory Academic Progress policy and new students beginning their academic work at Andrews University with the minimum GPA required for regular acceptance qualify as making SAP.

Financial Aid Warning. Students who fail to meet all regulations outlined in the SAP policy receive a Financial Aid Warning for one semester. During the Financial Aid Warning semester, students are eligible to receive financial aid as awarded. Academic Performance during this semester determines whether financial aid is given in future semesters. If students raise their overall GPA to the required minimum (see minimum AU GPA table above) and reach the minimum number of successfully completed credit hours required (two thirds of all hours attempted), they are returned to satisfactory progress status. Students who fail to reach the minimum required standards are no longer eligible for financial aid and their aid is ended. Students placed on Financial Aid Warning are encouraged to contact their academic department for assistance in planning for academic success.

Termination of Aid. Financial aid benefits are ended after the Financial Aid Warning semester if the student fails to reestablish a satisfactory overall GPA and/or reach the minimum credits required to be returned to satisfactory progress status. To receive financial aid again, the student must register for classes (at his/her own expense), successfully complete the required number of credit hours, and reach the minimum GPA required to meet the SAP criteria.

Financial Aid Probation Appeal. Students who fail to maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress and who lose current semester financial aid may appeal such an action. All appeals must be made in writing. Students must provide Student Financial Services with a copy of their Academic Plan made with their Academic Department. If an appeal is approved, a student will be placed on Financial Aid Probation. Students will be re-evaluated at the end of the probationary semester for continued Financial Aid eligibility.

Repeat Credits. Repeat credits are counted only once as part of the total credits attempted.

Adventist Colleges Abroad (ACA)

Eligibility Criteria. Students planning to attend an institution affiliated with Adventist Colleges Abroad (ACA) may be eligible to obtain Federal and State financial aid under the following conditions:

1. The student registers and has to be financially approved at the Andrews University Berrien Springs campus before attending Adventist Colleges Abroad (ACA).
2. The student must meet Andrews University's Satisfactory Academic Progress policy.
3. Aid-eligible students may receive Federal and/or State financial aid only as long as it takes to complete 25% or less of their total degree program (usually the equivalent of two academic semesters).
4. However, students are not eligible for:
 - Federal campus-based aid (Federal Work Study, Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant)
 - Andrews University scholarships and grants while attending an ACA campus.

Application Procedures. Students should follow the procedure outlined below to apply for financial aid for enrollment at an ACA college:

1. Complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) form online at www.fafsa.ed.gov indicating Andrews University as the first college of choice. Federal School code is 002238 for Andrews University.
2. Complete your financial aid award, you will need to submit the AU Financial Information Sheet and other documents if selected for verification. If you did not or could not use the IRS Data Retrieval Tool on the FAFSA, we will need an IRS Tax Return Transcript. You can request one at www.irs.gov/individuals/get-transcript.

All students planning to attend an ACA college must meet the University's financial aid deadlines. Students who miss the deadline may experience difficulty in having aid posted to their account when they need it. Students are advised to complete the entire financial aid process before leaving the U.S.

Application Process—ACA Affiliated Colleges. A student planning to enroll at an ACA college should submit an ACA application form to Andrews University Enrollment Services.

A student is accepted only when all the necessary financial aid documents are received and Student Financial Services can process an aid application. The student is informed if he/she is eligible for aid.

When the verification process is complete, Student Financial Services credits the student's aid award(s) directly to his/her student account at Andrews University. A student applying for the Federal Direct Loan or Federal Perkins Loan, Andrews University has a special academic loan deferral program for U.S.-citizen and permanent resident undergraduate students. This program allows student borrowers to remain in loan-deferment status (student loan repayment is postponed) while keeping student status with either a non-credit continuation course or independent study courses arranged before leaving Andrews. The following guidelines apply:

Student Missionary and Taskforce Worker Academic Credit/Loan Deferral Program

To enable students to participate in the Student Missionary and Taskforce volunteer service programs, especially students who have borrowed funds under the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan or Federal Perkins Loan, Andrews University has a special academic loan deferral program for U.S.-citizen and permanent resident undergraduate students. This program allows student borrowers to remain in loan-deferment status (student loan repayment is postponed) while keeping student status with either a non-credit continuation course or independent study courses arranged before leaving Andrews. The following guidelines apply:

While away, students may choose either Continuation or Independent Study.

1. Continuation Study
 1. All Andrews Student Missionary or Taskforce workers must register (before leaving for service) for IDSC296 or IDSC596 Student Missionary/Taskforce Experience for each semester they plan to be away. Students are charged a semester recording fee of $84. Students that have not completed any Andrews credits must pay the recording fee up front. (AU students are students that have applied, been accepted and have an AU ID number.)
 2. Students receive a non-credit continuation entry on their grade for each semester.
 3. During this time financial aid is not available.
2. Independent Study, TESOL Certificate, and Preparation for Mission Courses

1. Students that have completed one term at Andrews are eligible to register for 6 undergraduate credits each semester (a total of 12 credits) at the reduced tuition rate of $47 per credit. Student missionaries are eligible to register for up to 8 credits of mission preparation courses during the summer prior to departure. These courses include: TESOL Certificate Program ENGL435 Topics in Linguistics: TESOL Certificate, ENGL460, ENGL465 and RELP325 Preparation for Mission Service.
2. In consultation with the appropriate academic dean, students must develop an individualized list of courses for which they register that will apply toward general education requirements, majors, minors, emphases, or electives as approved by the dean.
3. For each course in which they are registered, students work with a teacher before leaving to identify the course requirements. They must remain in regular contact with the teacher during the time spent off-campus.
4. Students will receive a deferred grade (DG) for each course. Upon their return from service, students must contact the course teacher and complete all requirements within one semester after the date of return from service. (A suggested list of alternative courses is available from the dean's office.)

Both categories of students must complete registration for both semesters before leaving the Andrews University campus for Student Missionary or Taskforce services. Financial Aid is not available for students enrolled in this program. A detailed procedure sheet for these programs may be secured from the Office of Campus Ministries.

3. Non-Andrews students do not register for any classes and work directly with Campus Ministries when requesting deferred payment on student loans.

Loan Deferment Regulations. According to U.S. Department of Education rules governing the Federal Direct Loan Program, students who no longer are enrolled on at least a half-time basis must make their first student-loan payment six months from the last date of enrollment. The time limit for Federal Perkins Loan holders is nine months.

The Student Missionary/Taskforce Experience course is designed so students who are registered will not lose their grace period and will not have to begin repayment of their student loan.

Students Ineligible for Program Benefits. The following students would not need to enroll for Student Missionary Experience classes because they do not need the credits to ensure that their loans remain in deferment:

- Students currently choosing to make loan payments
- Students already in a loan deferment
- Students who have a Canadian Student Loan

Gift Assistance

Honors Audit Program. Honor students may audit a class each semester if they are enrolled for at least 12 regular credits. Honors audit credits are not taken into account when determining a student's academic progress. Also, honors audit credits do not count for determination of enrollment status for financial aid purposes. The student must complete an Honors Audit form during regular registration. For more information, consult with the Honors office.

Bureau of Indian Affairs. Grants are offered to students who are enrolled members of a federally recognized American Indian tribe and demonstrate financial need. Visit www.bia.gov and click "How do I...." to select your regional contact office.

Veterans' Education Benefits & Services. The University is approved for certification of students eligible to receive educational assistance from the Department of Veterans Affairs (DVA). Eligibility for VA educational assistance is determined by the Department of Veterans Affairs. Our regional office is located in St. Louis, Missouri. University services for students who receive educational assistance through the DVA are located in the Administration Building, first floor, in the Office of Student Financial Services. Information concerning VA educational assistance may be obtained by phone 269- 471-3286, e-mail veterans@andrews.edu, or a visit to the Office of Veterans Services. VA forms used for making application for educational assistance are available at the GI Bill webpage: www.benefits.va.gov/gibill. A printed copy of an application submitted online to the VA will be required by the University's Office of Veterans Services.

It is the responsibility of the student to complete a Veterans Registration form every term to continue receiving G.I. Bill money. The form is available in the Office of Veterans Services. Each term the required Certification of Enrollment (VA Form 22-1999) will be electronically submitted by the University's Veterans Certifying Official to the VA Regional Processing Office after the last day to add or drop a course. An earlier date for certification may be requested if the veteran feels certain his schedule will not be changed.

Students receiving benefits are expected to attend all classes and to progress satisfactorily toward their objective. Any change of degree program, change with class registration, or withdrawal from school must be reported immediately to the VCO in the Office of Veterans Services. Failure to comply with VA regulations may result in loss of benefits and/or legal action on the part of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. If the student does not make satisfactory academic progress and is academically dismissed from the University, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs is notified and all veterans' benefits are ended by the USDVA. If a veteran is academically dismissed from the University but is later readmitted, the VA benefits cannot be resumed until the veteran has met the University requirements for reinstatement.

Vocational Rehabilitation & Employment. The University is approved for enrollment certification of veterans with service-connected disabilities who are eligible to receive Chapter 31, Title 38, U.S.C., educational assistance from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. University services for veterans are coordinated through the Veterans Certifying Official in the Office of Veterans Services which is located in the Administration Building, first floor, in the Office of Student Financial Services. Information concerning educational assistance and campus procedures may be obtained by phone 269-471-3286, e-mail veterans@andrews.edu, website www.andrews.edu/sf or by visiting the Office of Veterans Services.

The veteran should make contact with the Vocational Rehabilitation & Employment Office (28), Detroit Regional Office at 313-471-3800. Veterans use VA Form 28-1900 to apply for the Chapter 31 benefit. The form is available online at www.benefits.va.gov/vocrehab. Information and instructions are included on the reverse side of the application form. Following receipt of the application in the regional office, VA will make a determination of eligibility. If the veteran is eligible, VA will schedule an appointment with a Counseling Psychologist (CP) or Rehabilitation Counselor (RC) for an initial evaluation to establish the veteran's entitlement to vocational rehabilitation. Contractors may be utilized to assist in working with the veteran to gather information needed for the CP or RC to make an entitlement determination. The VRE case manager will provide VA Form 28-1905 Authorization and Certification of Entrance or Reentrance into Rehabilitation and Certification of Status. This form is required for certification of enrollment which will be submitted to the VRE by the University Veterans Program Administrator in the Office of Veterans Services.

If the veteran requires academic accommodations due to a disability, he/she should contact the Student Success Center in Nethery Hall to coordinate the University's accommodations with those provided by the Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment Office. Student Success can be contacted at 100 Nethery Hall, success@andrews.edu or 269-471-6096.

It is the responsibility of the student to visit the University's Office of Veterans Services at the beginning of each term for which the student desires to receive VRE educational assistance. All required paperwork must be completed before the Certification of Enrollment (VA Form 28-1905) will be submitted to the Vocational Rehabilitation & Employment Regional Office. Certification will be submitted after the last day to add or drop a course each term. An earlier date for certification may be requested if the veteran feels certain his schedule will not be changed.

A Purchase Request Form that includes VRE purchasing guidelines is available in the campus bookstore. It is required for all purchases at the campus bookstore. Written approval must be obtained from the VRE case manager for certain purchases. Veterans should plan to make their purchases within thirty (30) days after the first day of classes each term. An invoice for tuition, academic fees, and books/ supplies will be sent to the VRE after that date. Payment will be made to the University and credited to the veterans's student statement.

Students receiving benefits are expected to attend all classes and to progress satisfactorily toward their objective. Any change of degree program, change with class registration, or withdrawal from school must be reported immediately to the VCO in the Office of Veterans Services. Failure to comply with VA regulations may result in loss of benefits and/or legal action on the part of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs.

Vocational Rehabilitation State/Federal Programs. Students who have permanent disabilities which may limit their employment (after completion of their study program) should contact the Vocational Rehabilitation Regional Office in their state of residence for possible assistance.

If the student requires academic accommodations due to a disability, he/she should contact the Student Success Center in Nethery Hall to coordinate the University's accommodations with those provided by the Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment Office. Student Success can be contacted at 100 Nethery Hall, success@andrews.edu or 269-471-6096.

Tuition Discounts

Local Business Employee—33 Percent Tuition Discount. Full-time employees of companies located in Berrien County and the South Bend/Mishawaka area may receive a 33% reduction of tuition for undergraduate courses. Application for the tuition reduction can be obtained at the dean's office and must be completed no later than the first two weeks of each semester. Students eligible for the reduction are not eligible to receive APS or any other Andrews discretionary funds. This discount does not apply to courses taken in the Center for Intensive English or online classes.

Prior Baccalaureate Degree—33 Percent Tuition Discount. Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree may receive a 33% tuition reduction for courses taken for a second baccalaureate degree. This discount applies only to courses required to complete the 2nd degree. Courses included in the package tuition, but are not required for the 2nd degree, will be billed at full tuition. This discount does not apply to courses taken in the Center for Intensive English or online classes.

Application forms are available at the offices of the respective deans. The completed forms must be filed with the respective dean no later than two weeks after the beginning of each semester for which the 33% tuition reduction is requested. An official transcript showing all class work and the awarding of a bachelor's degree must be on file with the Office of Academic Records of the university before the 33% tuition reduction can be applied. Students eligible for the reduction must be enrolled for a second undergraduate degree and are not eligible to receive any other Andrews discretionary funds. Students enrolled in a graduate program but who must complete undergraduate prerequisites are eligible. Note: Forms are to be picked up at the dean's office of your appropriate school.

Limitations to the Prior Baccalaureate Degree Tuition Discount. The following limitations apply to this plan:

1. No course taken under this plan may receive graduate credit or apply to a graduate degree.
2. In the School of Health Professions, this discount does not apply to PTH courses. The plan only applies to students accepted and enrolled for prerequisite requirements under the preferred acceptance guidelines.
3. This tuition reduction does not apply towards architecture degree.
4. In the School of Education, the student must be enrolled in a second baccalaureate degree; however, this plan is not available until one calendar year after graduation and is limited to 16 credits each semester.
5. In the School of Business Administration, the plan does not apply to independent study/readings/research or internship credits. Also, it does not apply to any course not offered as a regularly scheduled class in a given semester.
6. The plan applies to tuition only, not for housing, food and similar charges.
7. The discount does not apply to laboratory fees, surcharges for applicable courses, private music or flight lessons, independent study or reading courses, student teaching, courses in the Center for Intensive English, international languages taught as prerequisites for advanced degrees, courses taken off campus, study tours, May Express classes or private tutoring GNST 091.
8. This plan is applicable to classes where space is available and where hiring of additional faculty or staff is not required. In the event a class is not available, notification is given as soon as possible after the end of the drop/add period.

Local Area Educators—33 Percent Tuition Discount. Full-time teachers employed in Michigan and Indiana area schools who are not fully credentialed may receive a 33% reduction of tuition for undergraduate, Master of Arts in Teaching, and Master of Arts in Educational Administration courses taken toward the completion of their teacher certification requirements. Application for the tuition reduction can be obtained in the dean's office and must be completed no later than the first two weeks of each semester. The student must provide proof of area school employment. Students eligible for this reduction are not eligible to receive APS or any other Andrews discounts or any other discretionary funds applied to the program receiving the 33% reduced tuition. This discount does not apply to courses taken in the Center for Intensive English or online classes.

Workers from Overseas Divisions—Tuition Discount. "When any division other than the North American Division sends its workers or their dependent children to attend colleges in the North American Division and makes financial payments from denominational funds on behalf of such students directly to the college concerned, the college will match dollar for dollar with the sending division, up to 25% of undergraduate tuition. If the person also receives a Federal or State scholarship (or grant), the school may reduce this discount in direct proportion to the amount of such scholarship. Such remittance must come through the division and on approval of the division committee" (North American Division Working Policy, F 80 15).

Retiree Tuition Discount. A retired person who has reached age 65 may receive a 50% tuition discount for up to three undergraduate or graduate credits annually.

Former Andrews University employees who have retired may receive a 50% tuition discount. Admission to limited enrollment courses is contingent upon space available in the class, with preference being given to students paying regular tuition rates. Any additional class fees and/or supply fees are the responsibility of the student.

This discount applies to credit, audit, or non-credit classes. This discount does not apply to independent study, directed reading, private music lessons, practicums, clinical experiences, or any instruction outside of the normal classroom setting. Application for this 50% discount should be made to the dean of the school involved. The dean then authorizes the appropriate discount.

Students eligible for this reduction are not eligible to receive APS or any other Andrews discounts or discretionary funds.

Graduate Financial Assistance

Qualifying Criteria

For financial aid eligibility, graduate students must meet the rules in the following two areas:

- Enrollment Status—Students must be accepted into a curriculum authorized by the faculty of their respective school. Students enrolled on guest student status are not eligible to receive federal or institutional financial aid.
- Course Load—Students are awarded financial aid based on their percentage of full-time enrollment as defined in Class Loads and Financial Aid.

Special regulations apply to students who have completed all course work and are preparing theses, projects, or dissertations.

College of Arts & Sciences

Students who have completed all course work in an approved graduate program may not have completed all work needed to complete a degree. A student may be deemed to be enrolled fulltime provided the student meets one of the following criteria:

1. Is enrolled in one of the following courses:
COMM 589 (Internship)
2. Is enrolled in a Project Continuation, Recital Continuation or Thesis Continuation course. Only students who have enrolled for the required number of project, recital or thesis credits but have not completed the work are eligible.

School of Health Professions

Students who have completed all course work in an approved graduate program may not have completed all work needed to complete a degree. A student may be deemed to be enrolled fulltime provided the student meets one of the following criteria:

1. Is enrolled in one of the following courses:
PTH 881, PTH 882, PTH 883, PTH 884 (Clinical Internship)
NRSG 680 (Internship)
2. Is enrolled in a Project Continuation or Thesis Continuation. Only students who have enrolled for the required number of project or thesis credits but have not completed the work are eligible.

Theological Seminary

Doctoral Students. Students who have completed all course work in an approved doctoral program must register for 1-6 credits under GSEM 796 - DMin Project/ Dissertation or 1-12 credits under GSEM 995 PhD-ThD Dissertation, or 1-14 credits under DSRE 995 - Doctoral Dissertation. If the candidate does not complete the dissertation, he/she must register for GSEM 788 - DMin Project Continuation or GSEM 888 - PhD-ThD Dissertation Continuation until the dissertation is completed to qualify for status as a full-time student. Confirmation by the dissertation chair that full-time work is being done must be sent to Student Financial Services.

Master's Students. To obtain full-time status for the MA degree, the student must register for GSEM 688 Master's Degree Continuation after he/she has registered for the allowable thesis credits but has not finished the work. Confirmation by the dissertation chair that full-time work is being done must be sent to Student Financial Services.

Andrews Graduate Scholarship

The Graduate Scholarship is a tuition reduction percentage, based on the GRE or GMAT scores and admission GPA.

Availability

1. The Graduate Scholarship is available for students in:
 - All on campus Master programs (except professional master programs).
 - Professional Doctoral level programs: EDS, EDD, DPT.
 - Doctoral programs PhD, ThD.
2. The Graduate Scholarship may be overlap with another scholarship from an Andrews University budget.
3. The Graduate Scholarship will not be available for programs that already have a discounted tuition below the standard tuition rate. If the Graduate Scholarship is greater than the discount provided by the specific program, then the difference will be awarded as an additional scholarship.

4. The Graduate Scholarship does not apply for staff members that are using the free class benefit from Andrews University. If the Graduate Scholarship is greater than the discount for which the staff member is eligible for, the difference will be awarded as an additional scholarship.
5. The Graduate Scholarship will be assigned by the School of Graduate Studies and Research and applied by the Office of Student Financial Services at the time of a student's registration.

Scores

The scholarship is awarded if the student meets the GRE or GMAT scores as listed below and an admission GPA equal or greater than 3.0:

Tuition Reduction	Combined Verbal and Quantitative GRE scores	GMAT Scores	Admissions GPA
10%	≥300	≥500	≥3.00
25%	≥310	≥550
50%	≥320	≥600

Time Limits

The scholarship is available for the following number of semesters:

Master's Level programs	4 Semesters
EDS, EDD, DPT	6 Semesters
PHD, THD	8 Semesters

Eligibility

1. Graduate students who meet the appropriate GRE/GMAT scores and cumulative GPA are eligible for the Graduate Scholarship. Students are required to take the GRE/GMAT and submit official transcripts prior to admission. Students who take the GRE/GMAT and submit official transcripts during their first semester (for example, the test is offered only on Sabbath or once per year in their home country) and are eligible for the scholarship will receive the scholarship during their first semester.
2. A new graduate student may take the GRE/GMAT test multiple times during their first semester for the purpose of increasing their scholarship. In that case, the highest score will count toward the GRE/GMAT scholarship.
3. In order to retain the Graduate Scholarship, students are required to maintain the minimum GPA for their program. Students whose GPA falls below the required minimum for their program will permanently forfeit the scholarship.
4. Students applying and accepted to a second graduate degree, who already had received the Graduate Scholarship, may be eligible for the scholarship for the new program.

Federal Aid

Students should read the General Information and Satisfactory Academic Progress sections to determine their eligibility for financial aid.

Federal Direct Loans are available to graduate students. To apply for this aid, refer to General Information.

Grants and Scholarships

Grant, scholarship, and assistantship funds are available through the offices of the various academic deans and department chairs. Grants and scholarships are gift aid; however, if a student is given an assistantship, this is considered to be employment and is processed through the Office of Employment. Application forms, if required, must be requested from and returned to the respective dean's office. The student does not need to complete any application paperwork for Student Financial Services to apply for and receive institutional aid. All aid received by the student (except assistantships), is taken into account when determining eligibility for a student loan.

Seminary Emergency Aid Fund. This emergency aid fund is available to seminary students for emergency relief only and is not a form of continuous financial aid. Students may apply for assistance through the seminary dean's office.

Student Employment Program

Work opportunities for graduate students are available through the university's Employment Office. Assistantships are available as arranged by the dean or department chairs of the school where the student is enrolled. For information regarding employment contact the Employment Office. The website is www.andrews.edu/hr/.

Federal Loans and Scholarships

Information on the following sources of financial aid may be obtained from Student Financial Services.

Loans

- Federal Direct Loan Program (Unsubsidized)
- Federal Graduate PLUS Loan

Scholarships

- Paul Douglas Teacher Scholarship

SAP Policy for Graduate Students with Financial Aid

Graduate students must meet the Andrews University Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) policy. The following minimum standards must be met for Federal and State financial aid purposes.

Students must maintain the minimum Andrews University graduate overall GPA required for the degree program in which they are enrolled. The SAP summary below indicates the minimum GPA required to meet the university's SAP policy for each type of degree program.

Degree	School	GPA	Maximum below B
PhD, EdD	SED	3.30	3
PhD, ThD	SEM	3.00	3
DMin	SEM	3.00	No policy
DPT, DScPT	SHP	3.00	See PT Student Handbook
EdS	SED	3.20	3
Master's	ALL	3.00	4
Professional Master's	SEM	2.50	No policy

Compliance with these requirements is monitored by Student Financial Services on a regular basis. Students must complete at least two-thirds of the number of credits attempted, regardless of their enrollment status (full-time or half-time), and maintain a 66.67% completion ratio. Exception may be made for courses whose requirements have a time-frame by design that extends beyond the limit of the semester in which it is registered.

Financial Aid Warning. Students who fail to meet the required SAP are placed on Financial Aid Warning status during the following semester. During the Financial Aid Warning semester, the student is eligible to receive financial aid as awarded. The student is allowed only one Financial Aid Warning semester for each degree program, except under extenuating circumstances. Academic performance during the warning semester determines the aid given in the following semesters. If the student again meets the minimum required, the student is returned to satisfactory progress status and is eligible to continue receiving aid as awarded. Students who fail to attain satisfactory progress after the Financial Aid Warning semester are no longer eligible for Federal financial aid.

Appeal Procedure. When failure to attain the required GPA is due to extenuating circumstances or circumstances beyond the reasonable control of the student, he/she may appeal for a semester of financial aid probation. All master's-level students may be allowed a maximum of a one semester probation. Doctoral-and specialist-level students may be allowed a maximum of a two-semester probation extension. However, the student must make the appeal for the second probation extension in the same manner as for the first appeal. Students should recognize that appeals are not "automatically" granted. Future financial aid is dependent on meeting SAP standards by the end of the probationary semester(s). All appeals must be made in writing and submitted to the appointed representative of the student's respective school. Proof must support the stated extenuating circumstances. The appropriate authorizing office sends written notification to Student Financial Services of the appeal details.

Explore Andrews Program

Aaron Moushon, Director

The Andrews Exploration Program recognizes that university provides students an invaluable opportunity to find personal and career focus through a range of academic and personal experiences. While many students start university with a determined plan, many need a structured way to clarify their future pathways.

The Andrews University Academic Exploration Program, also known as Explore Andrews, is designed to assist students in finding a desired academic plan and career through intentional and personal advising. Each student will be assigned an Explore academic advisor who will help guide the student through the first year of study at Andrews University. Students may choose an academic major at any time, but will continue to be advised by their Explore academic adviser until the end of the academic year. Students in the Explore Andrews Program may choose any major they desire, and the professional advisers in the Explore office will ensure that students are on a progressive graduation track regardless of major.

The Andrews University Academic Exploration Program will work closely with each student to better understand their abilities, talents and goals to help students understand their place in the world both before and after graduation. A review of high school curriculum, standardized test scores and institutional testing will help the student and their academic adviser explore program and career options suitable for each participant.

J.N. Andrews Honors Program

L. Monique Pittman, Director

In 1966 Andrews University determined to offer undergraduate students greater opportunities for intellectual, spiritual, and social development. To reach this goal, it created the honors program to foster an atmosphere that is both intellectually challenging and distinctively Christian.

Starting in 2001–02, the program offered a completely new curriculum. SAGES is a text-based alternative to the standard General Education requirements. It involves 37 semester hours of honors courses and leads to the designation "John Nevins Andrews Scholar" at graduation.

SAGES (Scholars' Alternative General Education Studies)

Reflecting suggestions from students, faculty and alumni for a curriculum based on the study of original texts, independent research, and writing, SAGES provides a series of interdisciplinary courses that REPLACE General Education requirements for the bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees. Following a year-long introduction to Western civilization and culture, students pursue a series of thematically-organized seminars similar to a "Great Books" approach, though broader in sources and subjects. The track concludes with independent research resulting in a senior project.

Because SAGES replaces many lower-division courses, admission at the beginning of a college career is advisable. However, transfer and currently enrolled students with demonstrated academic achievement (GPA>3.33) may apply to SAGES and receive individual waivers for some—but not necessarily all—specific courses based on previous academic study. Those admitted as juniors and seniors must complete at least five seminars plus the Research Pro-Seminar and the senior project.

Students wishing to transfer out of SAGES should do so at the end of the first year and apply the courses taken towards a standard General Education track. In the sophomore and junior years, SAGES involves significantly different categories of courses than the standard General Education track. These will not replace many of the freshman and sophomore courses required at most universities.

Progress in SAGES. Students in SAGES who fail to enroll in honors courses, or whose cumulative GPA falls below 3.33, will be asked to withdraw from the program at the end of the academic year.

Graduation as a John Nevins Andrews Honors Scholar

At graduation, the university confers the distinction "John Nevins Andrews Scholar" on students recommended by the Honors Council who display outstanding scholarship, achieve a minimum overall college and honors GPA of 3.50, and complete SAGES. Titles of the senior thesis or project are listed in the graduation bulletin.

Honors Service Requirement

All honors students are required to complete 12 hours of voluntary service per academic year to total 48 hours by graduation.

Replacing General Education Requirements

Because of the integrated and interdisciplinary courses, students completing SAGES will satisfy their General Education requirements for the Bachelor of Science degree with 37 credits of honors courses and 13 credits of mathematics, science, and physical education. The Bachelor of Arts degree requires the identical courses and foreign language proficiency. In each case, the normal requirements are significantly reduced, which frees students' schedules for cognate courses and electives.

Admission to The Honors Program

Each summer the honors program admits a limited number of prospective freshmen whose interests and achievements—as portrayed in part by the application essay—suggest they will benefit from participation in SAGES.

Students accepted into honors surpass the following qualifications:

- A minimum overall GPA of 3.50 on all secondary credits
- Scores of 25 on the ACT or 1200 on the SAT mathematics and verbal sections combined

Recognizing that for some students either high school grades or standardized test scores may not satisfactorily predict the potential for academic success in college, a small number of students who show considerable promise on one measure but not the other may be admitted to the program upon the director's discretion.

Admission for Transfer and Currently Enrolled Students

Applications are welcomed from currently enrolled students and transfer students who wish to participate in the program. Successful applicants demonstrate an interest in Honors and possess at least a B+ average on all college courses. Application forms are available in the Honors Office and on the Honors website.

Society of Andrews Scholars

Students in Honors form a society dedicated to spiritual, social, and intellectual activities outside the classroom. The society's logo depicts hands sheltering the flame of truth, which symbolizes the search for truth by students and faculty together. Excellence, Commitment, and Service is the society's motto. Membership fees and fees charged as part of the honors application process are used exclusively for student activities by the Society of Andrews Scholars. Annual participation in the service/citizenship/leadership program which is organized by the Society of Andrews Scholars, is required to continue in the J. N. Andrews Honors program.

National Honors Societies

The honors program works with the university's 17 departmental national honor societies to coordinate information and enhance their activities. It also works closely with the prestigious interdisciplinary national honor society Phi Kappa Phi which inducts about 30 junior and senior Andrews students each year who meet the rigorous requirements. See Accreditations, Approvals & Memberships for more information.

Graduation Distinctions

Designations are conferred at graduation on students who, one semester before graduation, have completed 16 semester hours at Andrews University with the following overall GPAs:

3.500–3.749 Cum Laude
3.750–3.899 Magna Cum Laude
3.900–4.000 Summa Cum Laude

Both the Andrews and Cumulative GPAs must be a minimum of 3.50 in order to be considered for the above designations.

Honors Audits

To enhance Andrews Scholars' opportunities to learn for the sake of learning, a scholar enrolled full time (a minimum of 12 regular credits) may attend one course free each semester, registering as an Honors Audit (HN), which is indicated on the transcript. Though no credit is earned, an Honors Audit provides a significant opportunity to broaden one's knowledge at no cost even if it forms an overload. Registration for an Honors Audit (HN) should take place during regular registration, and in no case later than the regular drop/add date. Attendance and other regulations for an audit apply.

Honors

HONS 105H - Western Heritage

Credits: 5

A study of significant issues that emerged in Western civilization, approached through the reading of major works. The first semester's topics involve the era from the ancient world to the Reformation; the second, the Enlightenment to the modern world. In both semesters, spiritual and religious themes are emphasized, and the combined semesters replace one 3-credit religion course. Small-group projects and discussions, field trips, and cultural events enrich the lectures. Required for SAGES during the first year.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 2-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

HONS 215H - Scripture

Credits: 3

The reading of Biblical passages chosen for qualities such as centrality to Christian belief, power as literature, and variety of expression. Entire books will be addressed thematically, including Genesis, Job, Romans, and Revelation. A portion of the course will involve the detailed interpretation of a selected section. Required.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: HONS

HONS 225H - Materialism & Idealism

Credits: 3
Philosophers and prophets often approach wealth with caution or hostility, but modern culture flaunts status symbols and values self-worth by material accumulation. Considering such differences, readings from Plato to contemporary authors will raise questions about the level of wealth we ought to desire, the thoughtful use of that wealth, and reconciling a Christian life of service with professional success today. Elective.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: HONS

HONS 245H - Meanings of America

Credits: 3
Examines understandings of American society, culture and physical environment by a variety of observers, including native, foreign and minority, through study of prose, poetry, music, film and the visual arts. Core readings will include works by Jefferson, Tocqueville, Martineau, Douglass, Bourne, Friedan and King. Elective.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: HONS

HONS 265H - Literature and the Arts

Credits: 3
Explores the ways in which visual, musical, and literary arts address the human experience. Through close analysis of primary texts, students become conversant in the distinctive and overlapping discourses of the various art forms. Drawing upon this fine arts literacy, they will examine concerns of primary importance to creative minds from the ancient world to the postmodern era. These themes will include several of the following: the sacred, the quest for knowledge, gender relations, ethnicity and identity, social order and/or violence.

Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: HONS

HONS 325H - Justice

Credits: 3
What is justice? Is it a process, an end result, or both? Using concepts of right and wrong developed by Classical writers, medieval philosophers and recent Christian theologians, this course considers the relationships between justice and religious understandings of human nature and society. It then analyzes selected policies where concepts of justice can or should play a role, and critically examines the practical results of attempts to create greater social justice.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): HONS 115H. Elective.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Odd years
College Code: HONS

HONS 345H - What Is "Other?" The Non-Western World

Credits: 3
An introduction to the diversity and commonality of the global human experience and world views as expressed in literature, the arts, religion and other intellectual endeavors with special focus on the non-Western world. Small group activities, field trips, guest presenters, films and special projects enrich the discussion of significant texts.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): HONS 106H, HONS 115H. Required.
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: HONS

HONS 365H - Cosmos

Credits: 3
An interdisciplinary, readings-based course which considers the nature of science and its relationship to other approaches to truth. Selected "key ideas" in science will be examined to explore how science informs our understanding of who we are and our place in the universe. Particular attention will be given to the interplay between Christian faith and science.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): HONS 115H. Required.
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: HONS

HONS 380 - Topic in Bioethics & Christian Faith

Credits: 3
A capstone seminar for Honors students in biology and related majors that engages the interface of biology and ethics from a biblical and Seventh-day Adventist perspective. Focused attention on select bioethical issues and their relationship to Scripture and Christian practice, including but not limited to: biblical and environmental stewardship, the molecular revolution, genomics and genetic manipulation, human nature, communication in science, and dilemmas in the health professions.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166 , HONS 265H

Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: HONS

HONS 380 - Topic in Cognitive Science and Faith

Credits: 3
This topics course will be a readings-based seminar considering the possibility of integrating cognitive science (especially neuroscience and psychological science) and Christian faith in the domain of understanding human nature. The course will focus particularly on Adventist theological understandings of human nature in the context of ongoing debates about human free will in the cognitive sciences.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): Elective.
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: HONS

HONS 380 - Topic in Physics and Faith

Credits: 3
An interdisciplinary readings-based course which considers the relationship between Christian faith and science. Developments in physics and cosmology will be examined in light of Adventist Christian theological understanding.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): HONS 365H,PHYS 142 or PHYS 242 or consent of instructor.

Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Lecture, Blended Learning
College Code: HONS

HONS 398H - Research Pro-Seminar

Credits: 1
Preparation for the senior project. Expectations for the senior thesis are addressed, including consideration of alternative topics, refining the thesis proposal, the role of literature review, formal public speaking, presentation software, and evaluation. The letter grade assigned reflects the presentation of the project at the Interdisciplinary Honors Seminar; a DG is assigned until then. Strongly recommended for all sophomores and must be completed prior to beginning Honors Thesis research.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Schedule Type: Seminar
College Code: HONS

HONS 415H - Thinking Theologically: Christian Life and Faith

Credits: 3

A capstone Honors course exploring the intersection of constructive theology and contemporary issues from a distinctly Adventist perspective. Special attention is given to the correlation of God and human flourishing as enunciated through a wide range of pressing questions raised in the postmodern context. The aim of such an exploration is to deepen the faith of the participants and to instill a new appreciation for the conceptual and spiritual richness of the Great Controversy theme central to the Adventist worldview. Students are encouraged to foster critical reasoning and integrative thinking through a seminar-style engagement with selected primary texts in theology and philosophy.

Certificate

Interdisciplinary Innovation and Entrepreneurship Certificate

The Innovation and Entrepreneurship Certificate (I&E Certificate) is a 15-credit sequence to actively lay a foundation, build a core, shape and polish a student's capacity for Innovation and Entrepreneurship (I&E) through engagement in advanced projects and ancillary coursework in the Andrews Interdisciplinary Institute of Innovation and Entrepreneurship (AIIE) . This program complements any major and can be completed in 4 to 9 semesters. Completion involves a capstone course that is a practical implementation of a project or launch of a business. This program is designed to be of special interest to traditional and non-traditional students who have ambitions for establishing a startup company developing or offering an innovative product, process, ministry, organization, or service.

Total Credits - 15

Pre-I&E - 3

Courses available before formal acceptance into the I&E Certificate program.
INEN 221 - Introduction to Innovation & Entrepreneurship - Foundations of Play
Credits: 3
INEN 300 - I&E Seminar Credits: 0

Capstone - 3

A capstone that integrates all Interdisciplinary project work into a successful point of launch.
INEN 455 - Advanced Project - The Launch Credits: 3

Skill and Knowledge Development and Application - 6

Courses that will give students opportunities to develop and apply the knowledge and skills necessary for a successful launch.
INEN 225 - Prototyping and Tinkering Credits: 3
INEN 309 - The Implementation Tool Box Credits: 3

Elective - 3

Three credits of electives to be chosen in consultation with and approved by student's primary I&E advisor.

Innovation & Entrepreneurship

INEN 221 - Introduction to Innovation & Entrepreneurship - Foundations of Play

Credits: 3
An introductory course developing skills needed for creativity, innovation, problem solving, and entrepreneurship. Students play, tinker, and try new ideas with like-minded people. They will create a project proposal that demonstrates "spark" suitable for application for formal admission into the I&E Certificate program. Upon completion of this course, students will implement design thinking principles, uncover forces that drive economic and social vitality, develop an innovative and viable solution-based model, and recognize the difference between ideas and opportunities.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: SBA

INEN 225 - Prototyping and Tinkering

Credits: 3
Students grow ideas through advance play in a creative maker-space. I&E players learn a variety of prototyping approaches and techniques ranging from the quick and dirty, useful for the brainstorming stage, to more precise and sophisticated, best for final design presentation. Upon completion of this course, students will experiment with prototyping processes and reflect on successes and failures, apply discipline-specific methods of prototyping, and demonstrate the use of design thinking in model-making through an iterative process.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: SBA

INEN 300 - I&E Seminar

Credits: 0
A required weekly seminar that incorporates rich discussion, selected readings, and guest speakers addressing topics in innovation and entrepreneurship. Students in this learning community connect with entrepreneurs and faculty across campus to gain access to new ideas and opportunities, learn from a cross-section of experts and problem-solvers, and exchange ideas with their peers. Students in the introductory course and after acceptance into the I&E Certificate program register for this course every semester. It is required for a minimum of four semesters, but continuation is strongly recommended until completion of the project. Upon completion, students will have made significant connections with faculty, entrepreneurs, experts, and peers and used ensuing ideas and opportunities to develop their project.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)
Schedule Type: Seminar
College Code: SBA

INEN 309 - The Implementation Tool Box

Credits: 3
Students apply the knowledge and skills used in previous I&E courses to the planning process required for new venture development. They explore the legal, regulatory, and ethical issues faced by innovators and entrepreneurs as well as what it takes to be an effective member of a new venture team. Upon completion of this course, students will develop a business plan or philanthropic proposal and present a needs analysis with regards to social innovation, patents, copyrights, funding, and venture capital.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: SBA

INEN 455 - Advanced Project - The Launch

Credits: 3
A practicum that focuses on the actual launch of the project with a mentor. Upon completion of the course, students, under the mentorship of an appropriate expert, will demonstrate the steps required to launch the proposed idea.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Independent

Mission

To empower students for academic, professional, and service excellence in the liberal arts and sciences with distinctive Seventh-day Adventist perspective and purpose.

Pre-Professional

Pre-Professional Program in Dental Assistant and Dental Hygiene

Rob Zdor, Coordinator

zdor@andrews.edu

269-471-6696

Price Hall (Science Complex)

Students interested in a dental assistant career should obtain information concerning the program from the school to which they wish to apply.

Students planning a career in dental hygiene should complete two years of college work before entering a professional school.

Upon completion of an additional two years of prescribed college work at a professional school, the student will earn a bachelors degree in dental hygiene. For more information about dental hygiene, contact the American Dental Hygienists' Association: www.adha.org.

Pre-Professional Programs

Although essentially a liberal arts college, the College of Arts & Sciences offers certain pre-professional curricula for students who plan to enter professional schools. For medical and paramedical curricula, Andrews University maintains a special relationship with Loma Linda University.

Pre-dental Hygiene Curriculum—64

Loma Linda University admission requirements

- At least 64 semester units of accredited college coursework
- GPA of 3.0 or higher in science courses is recommended
- Courses must be a C or higher to meet LLUSD requirements
- Science courses must be completed within five (5) years of admission
- Proficiency in verbal and written English
- 20 hours minimum of observation/shadowing
- Dental assisting experience is strongly recommended

- Three letters of reference, including: spiritual leader, science professor, and employer
- A formal interview (by invitation only)
- Official transcripts from all schools attended

The following courses are recommended for the first two years before entering Loma Linda University. Students interested in applying to other professional schools should obtain specific entrance requirements for those schools. *Specifically required courses are signified with an .

Cultural and Spiritual Heritage—17-20

(must include both areas)

- Religion—3 semester units per year of attendance at an SDA college
- Humanities—14 semester units from three of the content areas listed below
 - History & Civilization
 - Art History & Art Appreciation
 - Music History & Music Appreciation
 - Performing Arts (4 units max)
 - Literature
 - Foreign Language
 - Philosophy & Ethics

Scientific Inquiry and Analysis—32

Physical & Natural Sciences—23

- BIOL 221* & BIOL 222*
- BIOL 260*
- BCHM 120* and CHEM 110*—one academic year covering inorganic, organic, and biochemistry with lab
- MATH 145*

Social Sciences—9

- SOCI 119*
- PSYC 101*
- ANTH 200*

Communication Skills—9

- ENGL 115* and ENGL 215*
- COMM 104*

Health and Wellness—5

- 1 course covering Personal Health or Nutrition
- Physical education (2 activity courses)

David Randall, randalld@andrews.edu; 269-471-3259, Halenz Hall (Science Complex)

Preference is given to applicants who have a broad academic background with a baccalaureate degree. The minimum entrance requirement is 96 semester credits with a 2.70 GPA (C=2.00) in both science and non-science courses, although it is recommended that students should maintain an A/B average in science, as well as overall. The Dental Aptitude Test (DAT) must be taken not later than October of the year preceding admission. Minimum entrance requirements for most dental schools follow. For more information, contact the American Dental Education Association: www.adea.org/ and the American Dental Association www.ada.org.

Pre-Professional Program in Law

Paula Dronen, Coordinator
269-471-3216, dronenp@andrews.edu
Buller Hall, Room 135

Law schools prescribe no particular college program. Therefore, a pre-law student may select his or her major(s) and minor(s) according to interest and aptitude without adversely affecting admission to law school. The prospective lawyer's education should be as broad as possible, including the development of writing and reading skills, logical and analytical thinking, and understanding of legal, political, social and economic issues and institutions. Because competition for admission to reputable law schools is intense, it is important to maintain a high level of academic achievement.

Students who want to go on to law school should consult frequently with the pre-law advisor, at least once per year and preferably more often. The Pre-Law Society, a student-led and student-run organization, provides additional opportunities and resources for the pre-law student.

The website for the Law School Admission Council: www.lsac.org provides a great deal of helpful information and is a good resource for students who are interested in preparing for, and getting into, law school.

Although allopathic (MD) and osteopathic (DO) medicine represent different philosophies of patient care, a physician in either branch of medicine is required to pass the same national board examination to practice.

Students seeking admission to medical schools are encouraged to plan a baccalaureate degree that includes courses which meet the stated entrance requirements of the medical school of their choice as listed in Medical School Admissions Requirements or the websites of the Association of American Medical Colleges: www.aamc.org and the American Association of Colleges of Osteopathic Medicine: www.aacom.org. The pre-medical student may choose any major or minor and is encouraged to become acquainted with the main bodies of knowledge as represented by the various academic disciplines.

In light of adequate preparation for the Medical College Admissions Test (MCAT) and changes in medical school requirements, students should incorporate coursework in the following areas into their curriculum:

- Biochemistry
- Sociology
- Psychology
- Statistics

An occupational therapist helps people cope with psychological or physiological dysfunction.

Pre-Professional Programs

Although essentially a liberal arts college, the College of Arts & Sciences offers certain pre-professional curricula for students who plan to enter professional schools. For medical and paramedical curricula, Andrews University maintains a special relationship with Loma Linda University.

Prerequisites for Loma Linda University

Admission

To be eligible for admission, the applicant must have completed a minimum of 96 quarter units (64 semester units) at an accredited college or university. The following prerequisites are required and must be completed successfully with a grade of C or better. Upon successful completion of didactic and fieldwork requirements, students will graduate from LLU with a bachelor's degree in health science and a master's in occupational therapy. Students are then eligible to take the NBCOT's National OT board exam.

Prerequisites: Domain 1: Spiritual and Cultural Heritage

Religious studies, 4 quarter units per year of full-time study.

(Applies only to students attending Seventh-day Adventist colleges.)

Minimum 20 quarter units, or 14 semester units. Choose from three subject areas: fine arts, history, civilization, literature, modern language, or philosophy. English as a second language may not be included. A maximum of 4 quarter units will be accepted in applied or performing art/music.

Prerequisites: Domain 2: Scientific Inquiry and Analysis: Natural Sciences

Human Anatomy with lab

Human Physiology with lab: 2 semesters or quarters of A&P are required.

Select one additional science course from chemistry, physics or physical science.

Mathematics: Two years of HS mathematics or equivalent. Accepted courses include algebra I&II, geometry, with grades of C or better. (These credits do not transfer although they meet the math requirement.)

Completed Need Social Sciences:

Sociology

General Psychology

Human Growth & Development. (Other acceptable equivalents are Developmental Psychology, Life Cycle, or Child Psychology and Adolescent Psychology.)

Prerequisites: Domain 3: Communication (9–13 quarter units, or 6–9 semester units)

Freshman English Composition, complete sequence, as required by the college you attended or are currently attending.

Note: If you test out of any Freshman English courses, you are still required to meet the minimum number of units for this Domain.

Speech, public speaking

Domain 4:

Health education (personal health or nutrition)

Two physical activities courses

Electives

Minimum requirement for entry is 96 quarter units, or 64 semester units.

Computer knowledge in the following areas is required: creating college level papers and assignments, Internet-based research, e-mail usage, PowerPoint presentations, online learning components.

Observation/Volunteer Service

40 hours of observation in occupational therapy settings. Documentation of community service performed is permissible as partial fulfillment of this requirement. Documentation of observation and/or community service must be submitted prior to admission consideration.

CPR—infant, child and adult. BLS health care provider. We only accept CPR from American Heart Association. This certification is not needed for the admissions process, but will be required upon acceptance to the program.

Note:

A minimum grade of C is required for transfer credit. C- and D grades are not transferable.

Pre-Professional Program in Optometry

Marlene Murray, Coordinator

Entrance requirements to colleges of pharmacy vary; therefore, it is imperative that students familiarize themselves with the requirements of the school of their choice. (Ferris State University [FSU], Wayne State University, and University of Michigan operate accredited colleges of pharmacy in the state of Michigan.) Information about the various schools of pharmacy can be found on the American Associate of Colleges of Pharmacy website: www.aacp.org. The doctor of pharmacy curriculum requires 2 years of pre-pharmacy and 4 years of professional pharmacy education.

The following prepharmacy courses are those required by FSU. FSU offers a calculus course in the summer that satisfies the prepharmacy requirements and require the PCAT for admission. Science courses with a grade of D are not transferable.

Physician assistants (PAs), members of a health-care team, practice medicine with supervision of licensed physicians. PAs perform a wide range of medical duties from basic primary care to high-technology specialty procedures. Professional PA education offered at any one of more than 100 accredited schools is an intensive 2–3 year program. Most PA programs are moving toward requiring a bachelors degree, including courses in biology, chemistry, English, humanities/social science, mathematics, and psychology. The level of the science courses varies from program to program; consequently, each school should be consulted about its prerequisite requirements. Acceptance to a professional program typically requires extensive health-care experience such as nurse assistant, medical/X-ray lab technician, respiratory therapist, paramedic, hospital aide, or emergency medical technician.

The National Directory of PA Programs may be ordered from APAP at 950 N. Washington St., Alexandria, VA 22314 or via phone at 800-708-7581. PA programs and education can be accessed via the web: www.aapa.org.

Pre-Professional Program in Public History

Stephanie Carpenter, Coordinator

269-471-3291
Buller Hall, Room 135

Public or applied history refers to careers in history-related fields other than teaching, including museum management, archival management, and historic preservation, as well as the production of historical media programs. In most cases, a master's degree in a public or applied history or certification upon completion of certain graduate courses is needed prior to employment. The Department of History & Political Science recommends as curricula a major in history with a second major or minor and electives as the most advantageous undergraduate basis for a public-history career. Curriculum recommendations are available from the department chair.

Pre-Professional Program in Respiratory Care

Bill Chobotar, Coordinator
269-471-3262
Price Hall (Science Complex)

Andrews University offers prerequisite course work to prepare students who wish to enter a 2-year Associate of Science degree program or a 4-year Bachelor of Science degree program in Respiratory Care. Admission requirements vary among professional respiratory care programs. Not all professional programs accept transfer credits. Therefore, as soon as possible, interested students should contact the programs of choice for the most current prerequisite requirements. A list of accredited respiratory care programs may be obtained from the American Association for Respiratory Care, 11030 Ables Lane, Dallas, TX 75229 (phone 972-243-2272 and ask for the Education Department) or explore the web at: www.aarc.org/patient_resources/schools.html.

Loma Linda University:

Interested students may complete the prerequisites for Loma Linda University's Respiratory Care Education Program while attending Andrews University. Check with the above listed coordinator for the required course work. The Pre-LLU/RC student may then apply and transfer to LLU through its selective admissions process as a second-year student in their program.

Pre-Professional Program in Veterinary Medicine

Katherine Koudele, Coordinator
269-471-6299
Smith Hall 112

Entrance requirements vary among veterinary medical colleges. Students should check the websites of their choice for the most current requirements. Accredited veterinary schools are listed on the website of the American Veterinary Medical Association (www.avma.org). Students, in consultation with their departmental advisor, can develop individualized programs to meet the entrance requirements for their preferred veterinary schools.

Mission

The mission of the Agriculture Department at Andrews University is to transform our students as they are educated to:

- Seek Knowledge
 - Learn current, sustainable, practices and procedures in their chosen area of agriculture based on a strong scientific foundation and hands-on experience
- Affirm Faith
 - Realize our sacred obligation as the caretakers of this planet to preserve and improve it
- Change the World
 - Put the knowledge and experience gained into practice to improve:
 - the production and quality of life of animals and the humans who interact with them
 - the quality of the soil and water in agriculture areas
 - the beauty of living spaces with plants
 - food security for those in need now and for all of us in the future

Programs

Bachelor of Science. The BS degree prepares individuals to pursue advanced degrees for careers in teaching or research. Students may major in animal science with a minor to complement their intended purpose.

Bachelor of Technology. The BT degree is a professional degree. Graduates are prepared for supervisory and management positions in production agriculture such as crops or dairy herd management, horticulture or the landscape industry.

Associate of Science. The two-year AS degree programs provide students with adequate skills and working knowledge to apply for entry-level positions in their area of specialization.

Certificate. The Horticulture Certificate is designed to be a supplemental credential to equip those who desire to achieve the goals of improving the health of themselves and others through healthy food production and/or beautiful landscape development and maintenance with the knowledge they need. The classroom knowledge is put into practice in laboratories associated with classes as well as in an on-campus internship in the University's gardens, orchards, and greenhouses.

Associates

Agriculture AS

The Associate of Science degree in Agriculture prepares students for entry-level positions in their chosen area of specialization. It also provides a science-based foundation for students who already have significant practical experience. The credits earned in this two-year degree are fully transferrable to the four-year BT Agriculture degree at this university.

Bachelors

Agriculture, Agribusiness Concentration BT

The Bachelor of Technology degree in Agribusiness is a professional degree for students looking for a future in agricultural management or supervision. This degree is a preparation for a sales position or large farm/production management role. Additionally, because of the business component of this degree, it is an easy blend into the AU MBA program. The agricultural portion is widely flexible to allow focus on a specific area of interest: corps, greenhouse production, horticulture, dairy management or another area of animal science.

International Agriculture Development BT

The Bachelor of Technology in International Agriculture Development is designed to provide students with knowledge, skill and experience to prepare them for entry-level positions in agriculture or international development. Additionally, students who complete this degree and suggested electives will be eligible to enter the one-year Master of Science in Community & International Development program at Andrews University with Advanced Standing. Students are required to participate in a domestic as well as an international internship so that the experience of other cultures is embedded in the program. Job opportunities are numerous with NGO's, domestic and international governments and the mission field.

Students interested in smaller scale agriculture and international adventure with a purpose will find this degree a good fit.

Program Description

The BT degree is a professional degree. Graduates are prepared for supervisory and management positions in production agriculture such as Agribusiness, crops, dairy herd management, horticulture or the landscape industry.

Entrance requirements vary among veterinary medical colleges. Students should check the websites of their choice for the most current requirements. Accredited veterinary schools are listed on the website of the American Veterinary Medical Association (www.avma.org). Students, in consultation with their departmental advisor, can develop individualized programs to meet the entrance requirements for their preferred veterinary schools.

Agriculture

AGRI 118 - Soil Science

Credits: 4

Factors affecting soil formation, soil texture, particle size, pore space and their impact on soil air/water relations, and chemical characteristics of soils, including pH, ion exchange, and maintenance of soil fertility.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Alternate years

College Code: CAS

AGRI 137 - Practicum in _____

Credits: 1-6

Fifty hours per credit of supervised practical experience in one area of concentration. May be repeated in different areas for a maximum of 6 credits. Topics to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits

Schedule Type: Practicum

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

AGRI 175 - First Year Seminar

Credits: 1

This course is an orientation to the diverse field of agriculture. It covers the departmental expectations, goal setting for senior year, internship and project possibilities, and senior portfolio development. Also covered are department/university resources designed to help students be successful in college and in preparation for their eventual career.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

AGRI 206 - Farm Machinery

Credits: 3

Selection and operation of farm equipment, based on the initial cost and economic performance, including factors governing the site and type of farm machines, their capacity, efficient use, adjustment and repair.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab

Year Offering: Alternate years

AGRI 240 - Fundamentals of Irrigation

Credits: 3

Design, installation, drawing, interpretation and maintenance of plastic or metal irrigation systems and control devices for proper sprinkler coverage.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Alternate years

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

AGRI 270 - Management of Agriculture Enterprises

Credits: 3

An introduction to acquiring and analysis of management information for decision making; an understanding of basic economic principles that impact biological production systems and implementation of the principles for total quality management for increased productivity.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture, Interactive Online
Year Offering: Alternate years
College Code: CAS

AGRI 285 - Undergraduate Research

Credits: 0–3
Students will either assist a faculty member in an ongoing research project or develop a project of their own with the help and approval of the faculty member in their areas of interest or study. This course is for students who are beginning to establish their knowledge of Agriculture, Horticulture or Animal Science at the college level.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: Minimum of four hours of work per credit.
Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 3 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
Special Approval: Instructor permission required

Term Offering: fall, Spring
College Code: CAS

AGRI 304 - Forage Crop Production

Credits: 3
Basic principles of forage crop production, emphasizing choice of crop, establishment, growth, maintenance, harvesting, storage and feeding.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Alternate years
College Code: CAS

AGRI 308 - Principles of Weed Control

Credits: 3
Control of weeds in horticultural and field crops, utilizing biological, cultural, mechanical, and chemical practices. Class study also involves preparation and testing for pesticide applicator's license.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab
Year Offering: Alternate years
College Code: CAS

AGRI 330 - Economic Botany

Credits: 3
This class explores the botany of commercial crops worldwide including: importance, distribution, economic adaptation, and botany of leading farm crops, emphasizing rotation, seedbed preparation, and economic production. Production and management of commercial vegetable crops; includes planting, cultural care, harvesting and post-harvesting procedures and marketing.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

AGRI 335 - Research Methods

Credits: 1
A preparation for a successful project in Agriculture related fields, that has been explored and practiced: this includes learning how to ask a good research question, conduct a literature review, develop appropriate research methodology, find resources to fund research, and properly present project results

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

AGRI 345 - Topics in _____

Credits: 1–4
A class based on selected topics of current interest in agriculture.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics
Schedule Type: Lecture, Blended Learning
College Code: CAS

AGRI 390 - Agriculture Study Tour

Credits: 0
Travel to destinations relevant to individual programs of study. Classes will be selected from department offerings. Fee may be required.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Noncredit (NC,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Blended Learning
College Code: CAS

AGRI 394 - Internship & Career Preparation

Credits: 1
An exploration of job possibilities in each student's area of study. Includes: job searching, expectation development, opportunity evaluation and professional communication skills. To be taken in tandem with first semester of AGRI 395.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite/Corequisite: AGRI 395 or AGRI 498
Schedule Type: Practicum
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

AGRI 395 - Internship in _____

Credits: 1–6
Supervised internship of on-the-job work experience in some field of agriculture under the direction of the employer and evaluated by a departmental faculty member. Students submit a report of their experience and must complete a minimum of 120 hours of work experience for each credit earned.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Practicum
College Code: CAS

AGRI 415 - Senior Seminar

Credits: 1
A synthesis course required of all bachelor degree students, in which each student assembles a portfolio, conducts career research and prepares for job or graduate school interviews.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Seminar
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

AGRI 440 - Topics in _____

Credits: 1–4
A class based on selected topics of current interest in agriculture.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics
Schedule Type: Lecture, Blended Learning
College Code: CAS

AGRI 450 - Environmental Leadership

Credits: 3
The study of an individual's leadership role within environmental complexities. This class will integrate current leadership theory with disciplines steeped in our natural environment. Animal scientists, agriculturalists, landscape architects are some of our first responders to environmental issues on this earth. This class will explore many of those environmental issues while developing better leadership understanding and one's own leadership ideology.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture, Interactive Online
College Code: CAS

AGRI 467 - Concepts of International Agriculture

Credits: 3
A study of the relative significance of the role of external institutions and agency, financial programs for agricultural development, human resource development and agricultural education as a means of fostering worldwide agricultural development to counter-balance the threat to global food security and to overcome food deficits.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Alternate years
College Code: CAS

AGRI 468 - International Agricultural Implementation

Credits: 3

The application of scientific agricultural principles of food production, utilizing cultural practices based on appropriate agricultural technologies that support a philosophy of sustainability for future generations.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Alternate years
College Code: CAS

AGRI 497 - Capstone In _____

Credits: 1–6

A capstone class to combine and apply a student's learning and acquired skill-set to specific research, program development, or design demands. This class will result in publishable quality artifacts used in senior portfolio development, and should consist of one sizable project in the senior's area of expertise. Planned to progress into Spring semester as AGRI 499, for a full year experience. To be taken in the Fall of the senior year.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Schedule Type: Independent
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

AGRI 498 - International Internship in _____

Credits: 1–6

Supervised internship of on-the-job international work experience in agriculture/horticulture. Students submit a report of their experience to be evaluated by a departmental faculty member and must complete 120 hours of work experience for each credit earned.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Practicum
College Code: CAS

AGRI 499 - Project in _____

Credits: 1–6

Individual research in some field of agriculture under the direction of the faculty.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 10 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: CAS

AGRI 540 - Topics in:

HORT 136 - Landscape Drafting and GraphicsCredits: 4

Introduces and develops proficiency in technical drafting for landscape design including symbols, 2-D and 3-D drawings, sections and elevations, titles blocks, legends and plan organizations. Studio puts graphics to work with a broad range of landscape projects represented. Introduces students to the residential design process and uses live projects to practice skills.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture/lab

College Code: CAS

HORT 137 - Fundamentals of Landscape Design

Credits: 4

Introduces and develops the principles of design, design theory, site analysis, functional diagramming, circulation, spatial planes and design schematics. Course will explore both hardscape and softscape principles. Class integrates the design process in drawing plans of all sizes.

Course/Lab Fee: YesGrade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Recommended: HORT 136Schedule Type: StudioTerm Offering: SpringCollege Code: CASHORT 150 - iGrow*Credits: 4

An introduction to the horticultural and landscape field. This class offers basic care of the home landscape with ornamental trees and shrubs, perennials and annuals. This class covers growing fruits and vegetables for the small garden as well as some of the horticultural basics of plant science and soil science. Topics will cover pruning, training, insects, pests and disease, fertilizing techniques, plant basics, landscape design and more. Labs in the greenhouse and gardens while exercising scientific methods.

Course Attribute: Life ScienceGrade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab, Interactive OnlineCollege Code: CASHORT 205 - Plant Science*Credits: 4

Introduces students to the requirements of plant growth and development. Understanding of these processes is gained by studying topics such as plant cells, tissue, and organ structure; photosynthesis, cellular respiration, plant reproduction, including flowering, fruit development, seed set, the role of hormones, and plant nutrition.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour labCourse/Lab Fee: YesGrade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Schedule Type: Lecture/LabYear Offering: Alternate yearsTerm Offering: FallCollege Code: CASHORT 208 - Propagation of Horticultural Plants*Credits: 3

Intended to acquaint students with the processes of sexual and asexual reproduction, especially as it applies to the horticultural industry. Asexual reproduction investigates methods of clonal reproduction utilizing non-flowering plant parts such as cutting, grafting, layering, and micro propagation (tissue culture).

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour labCourse/Lab Fee: YesGrade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Recommended: HORT 150 or HORT 205Schedule Type: Lecture/LabTerm Offering: SpringCollege Code: CASHORT 226 - Plant Systematics & ID*Credits: 3

Plant systematics, keying native plants & plant morphology. The identification and recognition of local woody and herbaceous specimen. Focus on identification, environmental requirements, domestic and native value, nomenclature and preservation. Class introduces botanical principles and mastering a broad range of local flora.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Schedule Type: LectureTerm Offering: FallCollege Code: CASHORT 227 - Woody Plant Identification II*Credits: 3

Introduction to the identification and recognition of the deciduous, evergreen and broad leafed evergreen shrubs and vines of the northern. Focus will be on shape, color, size, texture, environmental requirements and the landscape value of native and cultivated shrubs and vines of the northern temperate zone.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Schedule Type: LectureTerm Offering: SpringCollege Code: CASHORT 228 - Herbaceous Plant Identification*Credits: 3

Identification and recognition of shape, size, color, texture, and environmental requirements of the nonwoody plants providing color and ground cover in the landscape.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Schedule Type: LectureYear Offering: Alternate yearsTerm Offering: FallCollege Code: CASHORT 315 - Landscape Structures and Materials*Credits: 3

Course combines lecture, drawing and hands-on labs covering an array of hardscape materials including retaining walls, decks and arbors, patios, fencing, edging, pools and more.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour labCourse/Lab Fee: YesGrade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Schedule Type: Lecture/LabYear Offering: Alternate YearsCollege Code: CASHORT 340 - Land Surveying*Credits: 2

Course introduces the principles of land surveying such as measurements of distance, elevation and angles, instrumentation and mapping, and GIS.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and a 2-hour labCourse/Lab Fee: YesGrade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Schedule Type: Lecture/LabTerm Offering: FallCollege Code: CASHORT 350 - History of Landscape Architecture*Credits: 3

A study of landscape history throughout civilization and its impact upon society and the environment. Course will look at the origin of landscape architectural styles and characteristics, and explore the influence of historical landscape design personalities upon the American landscape.

Course Attribute: Art History courseGrade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Schedule Type: Lecture, Interactive OnlineTerm Offering: SpringCollege Code: CASHORT 360 - Arboriculture*Credits: 3

Care of shade and ornamental trees living under environmental stress of urbanization, their legal protection and value. Includes tree anatomy and physiology, soils, nutrition and water relationships, transplanting, disease and insect control, mechanical injury and pruning to develop a healthy tree.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour labCourse/Lab Fee: YesGrade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)Schedule Type: Lecture/LabYear Offering: Alternate yearsTerm Offering: FallCollege Code: CASHORT 365 - Urban Landscape Design*Credits: 3

Designing landscapes to meet the environmental challenges and conditions of urban spaces. Circulation patterns for conducting business, aesthetic and functional aspects of design for corporate/institutional, governmental agencies and municipal areas.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Course Attribute: Service course

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Recommended: HORT 136, HORT 137

HORT 375 - Landscape Estimating

Credits: 3
An introduction to the estimating process for landscape design, construction and maintenance work. Various schedules and forms are used to assign costs of equipment, plants, hardscape materials, labor and overhead. The many variables from project to project are explored and then formulas are applied to arrive at making landscape installations an efficient and profitable business.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

HORT 378 - Integrated Insect/Disease Management

Credits: 4
Study of significant diseases and insects of agricultural and horticultural plant materials, including life cycles and influence of environmental conditions; determination of effective control methods for crop, ornamental and turfgrass production.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lecture/Lab
Year Offering: Alternate years
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

HORT 429 - Computer Landscape Design

Credits: 3
Principles and practices of computer-aided landscape design, including creating scale perimeter plot plans, using drawing tools, plant/site relationships, and graphic imaging leading to a computer-generated landscape drawing. Studio emphasizes skill development and proficiency in integrating software and hardware to create CAD-generated landscape designs. Prior landscape drawing course work is recommended.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Studio
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

HORT 441 - Advanced Landscape Graphics

Credits: 4
Advanced exploration and application of graphics applying to all aspects of landscape architecture. Working in multiple environments and media. Work will include plan view, 2D and 3D hand graphics. Products will be professional quality presentations including both artistic and verbal communication skills.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Recommended: HORT 136 and HORT 137
Schedule Type: Studio

Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

HORT 442 - Advanced Site Design

Credits: 4
Landscape Architecture concepts relating to the challenging problems of design. Field application through live projects encompassing all aspects of landscape architecture and presentation. This class is focused on synthesizing significant previous class work and applying it to a real customer setting.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Recommended: HORT 136, HORT 137, HORT 226, HORT 227, HORT 228 and HORT 441

Mission

The Department of Behavioral Sciences is concerned with the study of how human beings think and behave, both as individuals and in social, spiritual and cultural settings. By providing students with the discoveries and procedures accumulated from this versatile field of study, our goal is to empower students to utilize their knowledge to further the mission of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and to restore men and women to the image of our Maker.

The Department of Behavioral Sciences is organized as a consortium where faculty share expertise and research endeavors in related disciplines. The behavioral sciences are concerned with the study of how human beings think and behave as individuals, and in sociocultural and ecological systems.

Undergraduate Program Policies/Administration

Computer Policy

In the behavioral sciences, the computer is an indispensable tool for collecting and working with data, accessing scientific reports, and for writing and critical thinking. As a result, the Department of Behavioral Sciences requires students to have a laptop computer in order to meet the requirements of the curriculum; this computer must be purchased by the student's second year in the program or the semester of the first research class, whichever is earlier. Students are responsible for maintaining their computer with the required software appropriate for the courses that they are enrolled in as they progress through the curriculum. A list of required software and minimum specifications that a laptop must meet is available in the Department of Behavioral Sciences office; use of the computer varies by course.

Department Aims

This department aims (1) to introduce students to the salient discoveries and procedures accumulated from research in behavioral sciences disciplines and (2) to empower students to utilize this knowledge in furthering the mission of Seventh-day Adventists: restoring men and women to the image of their Maker. The department fulfills these aims by three principal means: (1) instruction by Christian professors; (2) course work which develops a strong liberal-arts foundation and interdisciplinary preparation leading to many different fields of Christian service; and (3) extracurricular participation by students in voluntary religious activities, community service, and research.

Minors, Cognates and Electives

Majors should take advantage of the variety of undergraduate courses available at Andrews to acquire a broad education. Combining behavioral science courses with other areas such as business, health, and language provides avenues for reaching individual professional goals. Students should counsel with advisors in selecting cognates and electives. Volunteer work is most beneficial and majors are urged to seek opportunities through the Service Learning Program. Those planning to pursue graduate studies should seek opportunities in research.

Research Sequence

It is strongly recommended that all BS majors take the Research Methods Sequence during their junior year.

Research Application Process

This section describes the competitive application process for undergraduate research beyond the undergraduate research methods sequence in the Behavioral Sciences Department. Students wishing to be considered as undergraduate researchers will need to write a cover letter with a statement of research interests (based on either current faculty interests or the students' own interests or prior in-class assignments), and attach a resume to an application (which has a section that includes the research classes and experience) to be considered as an undergraduate researcher. Applications will be reviewed at Spring faculty meetings for the next academic year, and each faculty member may select up to three projects to mentor for the following year (depending on other load considerations) from these applications. Students will receive an acceptance or rejection letter following the decision of the faculty. Faculty may also select students to mentor by direct invitation of the faculty member. A goal of this requirement is to set clear expectations for a specific end goal for the research project (such as conference poster, presentation, or research article).

Program Description

The Department of Behavioral Sciences offers master's-level education leading to a Master of Science in Community & International Development (MSCID). The competencies graduates are expected to acquire include social-science foundations of community and international development, especially with regard to understanding the causes of poverty and the meaning of people-centered development; skills related to planning, implementing, and evaluating development projects including grantsmanship; knowledge of basic principles of organizational behavior; leadership and management as they relate to not-for-profit organizations; understanding of ethical principles and financial analysis for assuring individual and organizational accountability; competency in at least one concentration area of development emphasis to meet the student's career goals; mastery of social research methods appropriate to the chosen field of concentration, and the ability to communicate effectively to stakeholders about community development program and plans. Courses are taught on the campus of Andrews University: students who are interested may attend up to one off-campus intensive session with the MS in International Development.

Depending in part on previous work experience, graduates who pursue the Master of Science in Community and International Development may find employment working for inner-city development agencies, education based service-learning organizations, faith-based community service organizations, grass-roots community advocacy groups, national and international faith-based NGOs, United Nations organizations, government organizations, and other development and relief agencies. Graduates are not limited by their concentration to opportunities in the humanitarian industry as the MSCID training make students viable candidates for a host of consultancy positions requiring persons with skills in grant writing, not-for-profit administration, education and philanthropy.

Program Description

Education at Andrews University has always been rooted in the concept of Christian service. Educators, administrators, nurses, agronomists, and various technicians have developed schools, hospitals, agricultural programs, and a host of other institutions and facilities that can improve the quality of life for people everywhere. Through its Off-Campus Programs, Andrews University has made it possible for students to earn degrees at off-campus locations around the world. The International Development Program is one such option. The principal purpose of this program is to provide a venue for leadership training of professionals whose work responsibilities and life situation do not permit a return to full-time study at a university campus. The interdisciplinary program takes three to five years to complete and it draws on the strength of all six schools of the university. Students attend 2-3 week intensive sessions at extension sites in various locations around the world. The goal of the program is to strengthen organizations in project management skills and administration. The ultimate goal is to enable graduates to acquire whatever capacities they need to be effective agents in assisting communities to attain well-being for its present members and their future generations.

Administration of the Program

The Master of International Development Administration degree follows an off-campus format and is known as the International Development Program (IDP). This program is administered by a number of committees. The IDP Coordinating Committee includes program administrators and faculty (current and emeritus) of Andrews University who regularly attend the off-campus sessions to advise students, provide guidance on curricula, selection of teachers, and student learning outcomes. Program recommendations are also sent to the following committees for appropriate action: IDP Council, Department of Behavioral Sciences, Off-campus Programs, CAS Graduate Council, and the University Graduate Council. Further, these committees receive council from the IDP Advisory Board, which consists of academics, representatives of NGO organizations, and church administrators.

The day-to-day administration of the program is the responsibility of the International Development Program office headed by the Director of the International Development Program.

Teaching Sites

The International Development Program offers its classes in multiple regions and languages around the world. Venues and languages are subject to change but currently include Chile (Spanish), Ghana (English), Italy (English), Kenya (English), Rwanda (French and English), South Africa (English), South Sudan (English), and Togo (French). A university campus is the preferred venue in each region for the teaching sessions.

Computer Policy

In the Behavioral Sciences, the computer is an indispensable tool for collecting and working with data, accessing scientific reports, and for writing and critical thinking. As a result, the Department of Behavioral Sciences requires students to have a laptop computer in order to meet the requirements of the curriculum. Students are responsible for maintaining their computer with the required software appropriate for the courses they are enrolled in as they progress through the curriculum. Use of the computer varies by course.

Psychology, General BA

Within the BA in Psychology program, two tracks are available: General and Pre-Professional. The Pre-Professional track is designed for students planning a graduate degree. Whichever program students choose, they should consult with their advisors and classes should be chosen with occupational goals in mind. Students planning on graduate school should choose classes related to that area of specialization. For both options, 21 credits must be selected from courses numbered 300 or above.

Sociology BA

Sociologists study the formation and interaction of human groups and the individual's relationship to social groups. There is a focus on the role of various groups in socialization of the individual into norms, values and behaviors. There is also a focus on the development of major social institutions and how they interact with each other and impact socialization across time and cultures. Sociologists use a theoretical framework that examines how institutions and groups function for the success of a society, the conflicts that may be inherent in group interaction and how human beings can change institutions and their relationship.

Completion of this concentration prepares a student for Track 2 within the Master of Science in Community & International Development (MSCID) program, which allows students to finish the degree in one year instead of the usual two.

Computer Policy

In the Behavioral Sciences, the computer is an indispensable tool for collecting and working with data, accessing scientific reports, and for writing and critical thinking. As a result, the Department of Behavioral Sciences requires students to have a laptop computer in order to meet the requirements of the curriculum. Students are responsible for maintaining their computer with the required software appropriate for the courses they are enrolled in as they progress through the curriculum. Use of the computer varies by course.

Sociology, Emergency Preparedness Concentration BS

Andrews University's BS in Sociology, with a concentration in Emergency Preparedness provides students with an "all hazards" approach in understanding the emergency preparedness process which includes understanding the core tenants of emergency management: preparedness, prevention, response, recovery and mitigation. Students will develop skills in planning and preparing for emergencies, the management of operations during an emergency, the implementation of recovery efforts after an emergency, and the after action assessment process. Opportunities in also developing essential skills such as, ethical decision making, critical thinking, analytical inquiry, and strategic planning are part of the curriculum. The concentration will also prepare students to assess risk and vulnerability associated with natural and man-made disasters and terrorism. Key principles and methods of incident management of various types of disasters, including the collaboration with all stakeholders, will be examined. Students will have the opportunity to understand the emergency preparedness process in the context of a Christian worldview. Upon completion of the concentration, students will be able to work in various areas of emergency preparedness at the local, state or federal level, including non-governmental disaster relief agencies.

Sociology Minor

Sociologists study the formation and interaction of human groups and the individual's relationship to social groups. There is a focus on the role of various groups in socialization of the individual into norms, values and behaviors. There is also a focus on the development of major social institutions and how they interact with each other and impact socialization across time and cultures. Sociologists use a theoretical framework that examines how institutions and groups function for the success of a society, the conflicts that may be inherent in group interaction and how human beings can change institutions and their relationship.

Masters

Community and International Development MSCID

The Community and International Development program requires 35+ credits of coursework and internship. SOCI 421 and SOCI 455 (CIDS 520 and CIDS 555) are required to meet degree requirements. If the courses were not taken at the undergraduate level, the student will be required to take them in addition to the requirements for the degree.

Students with previous completed or current enrollment in a masters will only need to complete 30 credits and a concentration will not be required.

All applicants must meet the following criteria, in addition to general admission requirements of the Andrews University School of Graduate Studies & Research:

- A Bachelor's Degree from an accredited college or university.
- An overall undergraduate GPA of 3.00 or 3.0 in 8 or more credits of previously taken graduate courses graded A-F. Students may be admitted provisionally with a GPA of 2.6 or higher. Such students must maintain a GPA of 3.0 or higher during their first 12 graduate credits to continue in the program.
- Completed Graduate Application packet.
- Completed coursework in Statistics and Research II. Provisional acceptance may be granted without these courses with the expectation that the student will take them during the first year of enrollment. Credits for these prerequisites will not apply toward the MSCID.
- The director of the program may request a personal interview or a third reference and/or other information.

Students who apply for admission to the MSCID program have two options related to the Graduate Record Exam (GRE). For those students who are seeking a graduate scholarship, the GRE must be taken. Scholarship amounts are based on the score achieved on the exam. For students who do not seek a graduate scholarship based on the GRE score, the exam is not required. A reading knowledge of a foreign language is strongly recommended for those planning on graduate work.

Students may have the opportunity to apply for graduate assistantships within the Community and International Development Program. Please apply in the CIDP Office.

Additional Information

The schools and departments regulate policies that govern the elective courses offered as part of the concentration package and some may not be available. Some elective courses may require prerequisites and should be discussed in advance with the program director/advisor for guidance in completing the concentration.

The Field Practicum and Research Project/Thesis will necessarily be related to the area of concentration in order to provide students with an in-depth understanding of the chosen area, and with the possibility of applying course work in practice. Students are required to undertake a 720-hour internship (approximately 6 months at 30 hours per week) through a field placement with a domestic, national, or international organization/project. Internships are based on prior approval and advice from the program director. Arrangements for the internship will be made by the program director/advisor pending availability and feasibility of the placement proposed by the student.

Masters Dual Degrees

Note: Because each dual degree is listed in two schools you will find duplicates. The content is identical except for order of information.

Master of Science in Community & International Development/Master of Youth &

Young Adult Ministry Dual Degree MSCID/MAYYAM

Dual Degree Program Description

The Dual Degree Program in Community and International Development (CIDP) and Youth and Young Adult Ministry (MAYYAM) allows students to complete two degrees in three years. To facilitate this objective, the two programs will reduce the total number of required credits and will share a practicum and a limited number of elective courses. This amounts to a total of 69 credits to fulfill the Dual Degree.

The MAYYAM program is a 48-credit degree but it will share (use) six elective credits with the CIDP program thereby reducing MAYYAM credits to 42.

The CIDP program will reduce the required number of credits from 39 to 30 by removing the concentration requirement. In addition, up to two CIDP elective credits can be fulfilled through MAYYAM courses reducing the CIDP credits to 28. Finally, CIDP's 1-credit Practicum requirement will be fulfilled through MAYYAM's required practicum. Reducing the CIDP credits to 27.

Since both the CIDP and MAYYAM programs reduce the total credits in order to reduce costs and achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, both degrees must be received simultaneously in order to fulfill the requirements of either degree.

CIDP Admission Requirements

Acceptance Criteria

Applicants to the regular two-year standing program must meet the following criteria, in addition to other general admission requirements of the Andrews University School of Graduate Studies & Research.

A bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university.

An overall undergraduate GPA of 3.00 or 3.50 in 8 or more credits of previously taken graduate courses graded A-F. Students may be admitted provisionally with a GPA of 2.6 or higher. Such students must maintain a GPA of 3.0 or higher during their first 12 graduate credits to continue in the program;

Completed Graduate Application packet.

Completed coursework in Accounting, Statistics and Research II. Provisional acceptance may be granted without these courses, and the student would be expected to take them during the first year of enrollment.

Credits for prerequisites do not apply toward the MSCID.

The director of the program may request a personal interview or a third reference and/or other information.

GRE

Students who apply for admission to the MSCID program have two options related to the Graduate Record Exam (GRE). For those students who are seeking a graduate scholarship, the GRE must be taken. Scholarship amounts are based on the score achieved on the exam. For students who do not seek a graduate scholarship based on the GRE score, the GRE is not required.

Language Requirements

A reading knowledge of a foreign language is strongly recommended for those planning on graduate work.

MAYYAM Denominational Certification

The Basic Teaching Certificate for denominational certification may be issued to the candidate presenting a Verification of Eligibility form from Andrews University. The certificate is issued by the union conference where the candidate takes his/her first teaching position.

Requirements for this certificate may be completed by taking additional courses along with the MA in Youth and Young Adult Ministry. More information about preparing to teach religion in Adventist schools is available from the University Certification Registrar in the School of Education.

MAYYAM Graduation Requirements

The MA in Youth and Young Adult Ministry degree is awarded upon successful completion of a minimum of 48 semester credits with a cumulative GPA of 2.5 or better. A minimum of 24 semester credits are to be taken at the Theological Seminary or at an authorized extension center. The course work for the MA in Youth and Young Adult Ministry normally should be completed within seven years.

MAYYAM Additional Information

Transfer Credits

A maximum of 24 transfer graduate credits, when applicable, may be accepted from approved seminaries or universities upon approval of the dean. Credits approved under the Credit Through Learning in Professional Experience provision (see below) are considered part of the maximum of 24 transfer credits.

Master of Science in Community and International Development/ Master of Divinity MSCID/MDiv

To provide a Dual degree option for seminary students who are interested in pursuing a career in providing humanitarian or development services either as missionaries or as development practitioners.

Distinctive Features:

Students will receive practical training in:

Finding Innovated approaches to improving quality of life of church and community members

Addressing Urban Issues that affect the church: poverty, economic crisis, unemployment, etc.

Assessing the needs of the community they will serve

Fundraising and Grant writing

Program Management

Managing Humanitarian Crisis and Programs

Program Design, Monitoring & Evaluations

Analyze, evaluate and design and execute Policy that affect constituents and local community.

Advocacy

Research (design, analysis and recommendations)

Students will receive 6 months of Field experience. This increases their job readiness and marketability. CID/Seminary based Dual degree students will have two options:

A six-month supervised internship abroad or in a local community full time.

Utilizing knowledge and skills from both degrees. This is the regular standard for the HDS degree.

Work 6 months in the church and community selected for TFE assignment. Students will be expected to identify humanitarian needs and issues in their churches and surrounding community and provide a feasible solution.

The knowledge and skills provided will allow students to more confidently address issues in their church and community. Student will be able to use both biblical and research/professional based answers to respond to social and economic issues in their community. An understanding of the humanitarian field and its expectations will increase the legitimacy of programs they implement and chances of receiving funding.

A CID degree will allow students to be more marketable to other fields outside of the church and improve their chances for employment. CID degree holders have a wide range of potential career paths in which the spiritual and physical contributions could be greatly beneficial. These roles generally fall into the following categories (not including exclusively pastoral roles):

- Practitioner: project management and implementation in the field
- Policy/Advisory: research, evaluation, lessons learned and developing policy recommendations to use within the organization and to advocate outside of the organization
- Advocacy & Outreach: ministry, campaigning, lobbying, fundraising, media, communications
- Support: human resources, finance, logistics, IT, etc.

General Information

Andrews University has formed a collaborative program between the Master of Divinity Program of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary and the Community and International Development Program in the College of Arts & Sciences. Students can potentially complete the two degrees in 3 years; 2 years in the Theological Seminary and 1 year in the Community and International Development Program.

The objectives of this program are to prepare students to better follow Christ's model for ministry by Equipping Pastors, Evangelists and missionaries with important tools, skills and knowledge in order to address the socio and economic needs of their churches and community.

Students who receive this degree will have a more holistic view of the Church's mission and their community. They will receive practical training in:

- Finding Innovative approaches to improving quality of life of church and community members
- Addressing Urban Issues that affect the church: poverty, economic crisis, unemployment, etc.
- Assessing the needs of the community they will serve
- Fundraising and Grant writing, Program Management
- Managing Humanitarian Crisis and Programs
- Program Design, Monitoring & Evaluations
- Analyze, evaluate and design and execute Policy that affect constituents and local community.
- Advocacy
- Research (design, analysis and recommendations)

Since both the MSCID and MDiv programs share certain cognate courses to achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, both degrees must be conferred simultaneously in order to fulfill the requirements of each degree. In the event that one degree was completed prior to enrollment for the dual degree program, the cognate requirements for the other degree will be adjusted as shown below. A dual student cannot march in graduation or March-without-Completion if both halves of the dual degree are not completed.

Total Credits: 95

Graduation requirements consist of the satisfactory completion of 95 semester credits with an overall grade point average of 3.0 GPA for the MA CIDS program. and 2.75 or higher for the MDiv program. 65 credits are MDiv credits, and 30 credits are Master of Community and International Development credits.

13 MDiv credits are used to fulfill equivalent MSCID requirements:

- MSSN 546 - Mission in Cultural and Religious Context (3 Cr)
- CHMN 543 - Christian Leadership in a Changing World (2 Cr)
- CHMN 560 - Theological Field Education (2 Cr)
- 6 Credits of Electives with consultation of advisors

Admissions Requirements

Master of Divinity

All MDiv applicants must meet the Graduate Programs Admission Requirements applicable to all graduate students and the general seminary requirements.

Hold a baccalaureate degree: A four-year degree from an accredited United States institution, or its equivalent from an institution outside the U.S.

Minimum of 2.5 Undergraduate GPA

Normally hold membership in the Seventh-day Adventist Church inasmuch as the MDiv program is specifically designed for Adventist ministers and is sponsored and financed by the Adventist church.

Represent high moral integrity with a character, lifestyle, and spiritual commitment reflective of the beliefs and practices of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and show promise of usefulness for Adventist ministry through personal maturity and adequate experience in the Church. (Persons of other faiths who are willing to live in harmony with these standards are welcome to apply.)

Submit an autobiographical history and a 350+ word statement of purpose reflecting the applicant's family and spiritual development, sense of calling to ministry, experience in church work, and future goals in relationship to the MDiv program. A guideline is provided in the admissions package.

If married, the spouse of the applicant is also asked to complete a statement in regard to his or her feelings and relationship to the partner's aspirations for future ministry.

Background Check. Applicants to all Seminary programs are required to undergo a criminal background check and to make the results of the check available to the Seminary. The cost of the criminal background check is the responsibility of the applicant. Details about this requirement may be obtained from the MDiv office.

An interview with a representative of the MDiv program may be required, either by personal contact, telephone, or video.

Complete and return the Sixteen Personality Factor Questionnaire as directed.

Pre-admission Conduct Disclosure Statement - Applicants to all Seminary programs are required to complete and submit to the Seminary the "Pre-Admission Conduct Disclosure Statement."

Recommendations

Church board where the applicant is a member

Church administrator, pastor, or elder

General Recommendation from: College teacher or advisor, recent employer, or some other non-family member

English Language Requirements

Students whose language of education is not English must submit one of the following tests and minimum scores:

TOEFL Paper-based - 565

TOEFL Internet-based - 85

MELAB - 81

IELTS - 6.5

PTE - 58

Application Deadline

Given that applying and obtaining pertinent documents for admission can be a long endeavor, the student must start the application process at least 4-6 months before the the desired starting semester. See University deadlines for individual semesters here.

Master of Science in Community and International Development

Applicants to the Dual degree program must meet the following criteria, in addition to other general admission requirements of the Andrews University School of Graduate Studies & Research:

A bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university;

An overall undergraduate GPA of 3.00 or 3.50 in 8 or more credits of previously taken graduate courses graded A–F. Students may be admitted provisionally with a GPA of 2.6 or higher. Such students must maintain a GPA of 3.0 or higher during their first 12 graduate credits to continue in the program;

Completed Graduate Application packet.

Completed coursework in Accounting, Statistics and Research II. Provisional acceptance may be granted without these courses, and the student would be expected to take them during the first year of enrollment.

Credits for prerequisites do not apply toward the MSCID.

The director of the program may request a personal interview or a third reference and/or other information.

Students who apply for admission to the MSCID program have two options related to the Graduate Record Exam (GRE). For those students who are seeking a graduate scholarship, the GRE must be taken. Scholarship amounts are based on the score achieved on the exam. For students who do not seek a graduate scholarship based on the GRE score, the GRE is not required.

Recommended: A reading knowledge of a foreign language is strongly recommended for those planning on graduate work.

Master of Science in Community and International Development/Master of Social Work Dual Degree MSCID/MSW

Dual Degree Program Description

Andrews University has chosen to explore a collaborative between the Community & International Development Program (CIDP) and the Department of Social Work in the College of Arts & Sciences to prepare students for service in occupations where social work and international development intersect. Social Workers, particularly those in the areas of Administration and Development and International Social Work, may have an interest in international work. In such situations, the MSCID could equip them with a complementary skill set. Likewise, development and relief workers often find themselves in situations where social work skills in counseling and therapy would be useful. In addition, the MSCID/MSW collaborative allows for a greater breadth of employment opportunities for students.

Since both the MSW and MSCID programs reduce the total credits in order to reduce costs and achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, both degrees must be received simultaneously in order to fulfill the requirements of either degree. In the event that one degree was completed prior to enrollment for the dual degree program, the requirements for the second degree would be met through completion of the requirements shown below.

Collaborative Program Objectives

To prepare students for various forms of work in which clinical and administrative skills in development and social work are needed;

To enable students to integrate development and social work knowledge, values, and skills into a multifaceted approach to service, thereby enhancing their value in the world.

Distinctive Features of the Program

The program is designed to give students an integrated approach to both international development and social work. Students who take a social work emphasis in Administration and Development and International Social Work can choose a dual degree with CIDP.

Admission Requirements

Applicants to the MSCID/MSW dual degree program typically will have received a bachelor's degree (BA, BS, BSW) from an accredited four-year college or university in the U.S., or hold an equivalent educational credential from another country.

Application must be made separately to both the MSDIC and MSW programs. Acceptance into one program does not guarantee acceptance into the other. Applicants must meet the admissions requirements for each program, including all required prerequisites for each degree. Students in both programs must meet the following minimum requirements:

Students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0;

No grade of D or F (or U) may count toward either degree.

Credits for Each Program

MSCID students are required to complete 39-40 credit hours for the two-year regular program, which includes 12 elective credits (minimum of 4 courses). Students with certain prerequisites may qualify for the 30-credit advanced standing program. The two-year regular MSW degree requires 46 core credit hours, plus 10 elective hours. Due to the strict requirements of the Council on Social Work Education's accrediting mandates, these core courses must all be taught or co-taught within the department by faculty holding an MSW degree. Occasionally, a student who has already earned a BSW from an accredited program may apply to this program. In this case, the student would be placed in the Advanced Standing program, and take either 33 credits (Advanced Standing) or 39 credits (Advanced Standing Plus). Students with an undergraduate GPA of 3.0 or higher are eligible to complete the Advanced Standing Program, while those with a lower GPA must complete the Advanced Standing Plus requirements.

These program models create a curriculum that allows for the integration of 21–24 Social Work and CIDP credits, giving students the advantage of being able to reduce their total credit load. Since both MSCID and MSW programs already share courses in order to reduce costs and achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, the course work for both degrees must be taken either simultaneously or within one academic year of completion of one of the degrees in order to fulfill the requirements of either degree.

Because of CSWE requirements, students in the MSCID/MSW SOCIAL WORK COURSES 215 dual degree program would register for social work core classes in lieu of certain CIDP courses and would take an emphasis in either Administration & Development or International Social Work. Students will take shared courses as outlined below.

MSW Requirements

Student Handbook

The MSW Student Handbook has been designed as the social work student's aid in understanding the program requirements, Social Work Department, and relevant policies of Andrews University. Inside the handbook you will find information such as expectations of students, the MSW curriculum, departmental policies, and other relevant information.

You are responsible for the information found in this handbook, so please take the time to familiarize yourself with the handbook and know where to find questions and answers if the need arises.

Field Manual

The Field Manual has been designed as your aid in understanding field education requirements, your role as a student in a field agency, and relevant policies of Andrews University.

You are responsible for the information found in this handbook, so please take the time to familiarize yourself with the handbook and know where to find questions and answers if the need arises.

English Language Requirement

For those applicants whose native language is not English, the following is required:

1. Demonstration of English proficiency by obtaining at least a minimum score on any one of the following exams. Exam must be taken within two years prior to enrollment.

TOEFL ITP (paper-based) - A minimum score of 550

TOEFL iBT (internet-based) - 80 with a minimum of 20 on each section

MELAB - 80 with a minimum of 80 on each section

IELTS (Academic version) - 6.5

PTE (Academic version) - 54

2. Nelson Denny - score of 13 and

3. Personal interview with MSW program director or designee.

Applicants who fail to meet any of the above may be admitted only after committee consideration of the specific circumstances. Additional course work in English may be required. A student who graduated from a four-year English-speaking high school, college or university may be exempted from all or parts of the above requirements.

Graduate Record Examination (GRE)

Students who are applying for admission to the MSW program have two options related to the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). For those students who are seeking a graduate scholarship, the GRE must be taken. The amount of a potential scholarship is related to the score achieved on the GRE as follows:

GRE ScoreScholarship

320 50% tuition reduction

310 25% tuition reduction
300 10% tuition reduction

For students who do not seek a graduate scholarship based on the GRE score, the GRE examination is not required.

PSYC 483 - Disaster Psychology

Credits: 3

This course focuses on the psychological and physiological human response to natural and man-made disasters. Using research from the field, students will examine normal and abnormal reactions, the recovery process, resilience, and various disaster mental health response modalities. Differences between natural and man-made disasters are explored, along with factors that contribute to and mitigate post-traumatic effects.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Alternate years

College Code: CAS

PSYC 485 - Professional Portfolio

Credits: 0

A student portfolio demonstrating that the student has met the program learning outcomes in the psychology major. Required as part of the capstone for all students who do not complete a research project (PSYC498) along with PSYC4xx (MPA), complete field work (PSYC480), or complete a practicum project (PSYC490). The portfolio will be introduced along with other capstones in PSYC1xx (Careers and Plans).

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Independent

Introduction to concepts and methods of conducting a Community needs assessment and mapping community capacity to address those needs. Development of skills in selecting, analyzing, understanding, and interpreting assessment outcomes to inform policy and practice. Consider complex interactions between community and international development stakeholders and other factors affecting accountability, project planning, and outcomes. Open to seniors only.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

SOCI 432 - Research Methods II: Introduction

Credits: 3

Asking researchable questions. Reviewing the literature. Hypothesis formulation. Research methodology emphasizes qualitative approaches but includes discussion of instrumentation, subject selection, and data collection procedures. Andrews' human subject research review process. Informed consent. Writing assignments include theoretical essay, pilot study, second pilot study, research journal. Lab schedule will be arranged.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite/Corequisite: BHSC 230 or STAT 285.

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

SOCI 433 - Research Methods III: Advanced Research Design- Experimental and Survey

Credits: 3

The principles of designing, administrating, interpreting, and writing experimental research, questionnaires and interview schedules. Survey also focuses on coding procedures and scale construction. Structured around a research project, and the interpretation of scientific reports and professional journals. Lab schedule will be arranged.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Corequisite(s): PSYC 434.

Prerequisite(s): BHSC 230 or STAT 285 and PSYC 432.

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

SOCI 434 - Research Methods IV: Advanced Statistical Analysis & SPSS

Credits: 3

A study on advanced parametric and non-parametric techniques such as two-way ANOVA, regression and power. The utilization of SPSS in the analysis and interpretation of statistical data. An analysis of professional journals and reports with an emphasis on the statistical reasoning.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Corequisite(s): PSYC 433/SOCI 433.

Mission

The Department of Biology provides transformational education in the biological sciences for a diverse student population, set in the context of a Seventh-day Adventist Christian worldview. To achieve this mission we:

- Seek knowledge and develop skills for lifelong learning through rigorous research, teaching and learning in the biological sciences;
- Affirm faith, engender integrity and honor the Creator through personal mentoring, intentional study of life as God's creation, and the ethical practice of science; and
- Change the world by active service, promoting responsible living as stewards of creation, and preparing students for meaningful careers in church and society.

Each degree offered by the Department of Biology includes a common core curriculum and additional courses tailored to students' special needs.

Bachelors

Biology, Biological Science Concentration BS

The Department of Biology provides transformational education in the biological sciences for a diverse student population, set in the context of a Seventh-day Adventist worldview. Our graduates pursue diverse careers: as physicians, dentists, pharmacists and other health care providers; as high school and college biology teachers; and in other fields such as environmental biology, biomedical research, and as museum scientists. We offer a BS in Biology with three concentrations, as well as the MS in Biology. We also offer, collaboratively with the Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry, a BS in Biotechnology.

Andrews Core Experience 43-49*

Students must take all courses designated in the BA & BS Degree Requirements of the Andrews Core Experience or the Honors Andrews Core Experience (SAGES) while noting the following requirements and recommendations.
*49 credits for standard GE package; 41 credits for Honors.

Religion

- RELT 385 - Bioethics and Christian Faith Credits: 3
- Or HONS 380 - Topic in Bioethics & Christian Faith Credits: 3 (for SAGES students)

Math

Choose one of the following courses:

- MATH 168 - Precalculus Credits: 4
- MATH 191 - Calculus I Credits: 4 (recommended)
- MATH 195 - Calculus I for Biology Credits: 4 (recommended)

Social Sciences

Pre Med Students will need to take the following courses:
PSYC 101 - Introduction to Psychology Credits: 3
SOC 119 - Principles of Sociology Credits: 3

Biology, Biomedical Science Concentration BS

Total Credits: 124

Major: Core Requirements — 27

Biology Core

BIOL 165 - Foundations of Biology Credits: 4,5
BIOL 166 - Foundations of Biology Credits: 4,5
BIOL 280 - Biostatistics and Research Design Credits: 3
BIOL 285 - Research Seminar in Biology Credits: 0

Undergraduate Electives — 6-12

Students must take 6-12 elective credits from any college level courses.

Thesis (Optional)

A minimum of 3 credits of BIOL 495 or HONS 497H. Biology majors may elect to complete a minimum of 3 credits of original research in a topic of mutual interest with a Department of Biology faculty member and present this original work in the form of a senior thesis. This research experience may be supported by a research scholarship.

Biology, Neuroscience Concentration BS

One of three concentrations available to students pursuing a BS Biology, the Neuroscience emphasis provides a strong foundation for those interested in medicine or other health-science related career as well as those who wish to enter a career in neuroscience. Students build on a shared cognate and biology core and add specialized courses in neurobiology and related fields.

Biology MS

Admission Requirements

In addition to the general admission requirements under the School of Graduate Studies & Research, students must meet the following departmental requirements.

A bachelor's degree with major in biology or an approved, related discipline, with appropriate upper division courses. The following courses are recommended: cell/molecular biology, organismal physiology, developmental biology, genetics, and ecology.

A minimum GPA of 3.00 (B) in the undergraduate major.

GRE scores are required in order to review the application for admission (see required tests under the School of Graduate Studies and Research).

Cognate sciences, including full-year courses in general chemistry, organic chemistry, and physics. Mathematics through calculus and a course in statistics are strongly recommended.

Degree Requirements

BIOL 550 - Issues in Origins and Speciation Credits: 3

BIOL 681 - Research Methods and Biology Seminar I Credits: 2

BIOL 682 - Research Methods and Biology Seminar II Credits: 2

BIOL 670 - Comprehensive Exam Credits: 0 (A written comprehensive examination completed before the end of the third semester in residence)

BIOL 699 - Master's Thesis Credits: 4

A thesis earning 8 credits (Two registrations for BIOL 699)

Other Requirements

A final oral examination in defense of the thesis.

A minimum of 30 credits of approved course work and thesis.

Group A: Cell and Molecular Biology

BIOL 415 - Genomics, Proteomics, and Bioinformatics Credits: 3

BIOL 416 - Cell Signaling Mechanisms in Human Disease Credits: 3

BIOL 418 - Immunology Credits: 3

BIOL 419 - Immunology Lab Credits: 1

BIOL 445 - Molecular Genetics Credits: 3

Group B: Structural and Functional Biology of Organisms

BIOL 315 - Developmental Biology Credits: 3

BIOL 316 - Human Embryology Credits: 1

BIOL 444 - Electron Microscopy in Biological Investigations Credits: 3

BIOL 446 - Electron Microscopy Laboratory Credits: 2

BIOL 464 - Systems Physiology Credits: 4

BIOL 465 - Histology Credits: 3

BIOL 468 - Systems Physiology: Organismal Maintenance Credits: 3

BIOL 477 - Neurobiology Credits: 3

BIOL 486 - Neurobiology of Mental Illness Credits: 3

BIOL 477 - Neurobiology Credits: 3

Group C: Biodiversity and Environmental

Biology

BIOL 208 - Environmental Science Credits: 4
BIOL 417 - Virology Credits: 3
BIOL 425 - Parasitology Credits: 3
BIOL 428 - Paleobiology Credits: 3
BIOL 454 - Vertebrate Zoology Credits: 3
BIOL 455 - Medical Botany Credits: 3
BIOL 456 - Marine Botany Credits: 3.5
BIOL 458 - Marine Invertebrates Credits: 3.5
BIOL 459 - Entomology Credits: 3
BIOL 475 - Biology of Bacteria Credits: 3

BIOL 484 - Animal Behavior Credits: 3
BIOL 487 - Biogeography Credits: 3

Biology

BIOL 100 - Human Biology

Credits: 4

This course is designed to provide students with a basic understanding of the structure and function of the human body. Emphasis is placed on the practical application of principles learned in the areas of nutrition, anatomy and physiology. Does not apply to major or minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

BIOL 105 - Techniques of Molecular Biology

Credits: 3

Lab-based introduction to techniques in molecular biology and their application to forensics. Does not apply to major or minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and a 3-hour lab
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab
Special Approval: Only available for RESA students.

Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 110 - Principles of Biology

Credits: 4

A one-semester survey of the principles of biology as they apply to the study of biological molecules, cells, multicellular organisms, and ecosystems. The course will introduce key concepts of biological function, inheritance, adaptation, and diversity. Does not apply to major or minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 121 - Introduction to Dentistry

Credits: 1

This class will serve as an introduction to the many facets of the dental profession. Through both a didactic and hands-on set of experiences, students will explore a broad range of topics, spanning from pre-dental training to private practice. Topics will include tooth anatomy, dental subspecialties, DAT preparation, and dental school experience. Hands-on experiences will focus on work with common dental materials as well as activities that will help students to assess and develop their hand-eye coordination and spatial perception. Not applicable for major or minor requirements.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

BIOL 122 - Introduction to Medicine

Credits: 1

A seminar-type discussion-formatted exploration for the premedical student intended to expose students early in their collegiate preparation to the spectrum involved in entering and practicing medicine. Topics include the AAMC personal competencies, the application process, medical school curriculum, residence training, the patient-physician relationship, inter-professional collaboration, and "What is an Ideal Physician?" Students will be asked to develop a plan of preparation for their premedical undergraduate experience. Not applicable for major or minor requirements.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 165 - Foundations of Biology

Credits: 4,5

First semester of a full-year sequence addressing the foundational principles in biology. Explores the cellular and molecular basis of life, principles of heredity, biodiversity and classification of organisms excluding animals, and plant form and function. 5 credits when offered during the academic year, 4 credits when taken at the Rosario Beach Marine Laboratory during the summer.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 5 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

BIOL 166 - Foundations of Biology

Credits: 4,5

Second semester of a full-year sequence addressing the foundational principles in biology. Explores biodiversity and classification of animals, animal form and function, history of life on earth, and ecology. Five credits when offered during the academic year, 4 credits when taken at the Rosario Beach Marine Laboratory during the summer.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 5 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 170 - Rocks, Fossils, and Life

Credits: 4

What can we learn from the study of rocks and fossils and the processes that form them? How does this study help us understand the past, and why is it important to our understanding of life today—especially human life and culture? How can rocks and fossils give us insight into global change and environmental degradation? How do these questions interface with Christian belief and responsibility? The course will explore these and similar questions in geology and paleontology. Meets the life science general education requirement; no previous science background required.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Year Offering: Odd years
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

BIOL 208 - Environmental Science

Credits: 4

Study of basic ecological principles as applied to human activities. Discussions deal with contemporary environmental issues. Lab includes field trips, guest speakers, and experiments. Meets certain state educational certification requirements.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab, Interactive Online, Self-Paced

Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

BIOL 221 - Anatomy and Physiology I

Credits: 4
First semester of a full-year sequence addressing the structure and function of the human organism. Surveys introductory biological chemistry, cell biology, histology, and the structure, function, and control of the integumentary, skeletal, muscular, nervous, and sensory systems. Does not apply to a biology major or minor; applies to a human biology minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

BIOL 222 - Anatomy and Physiology II

Credits: 4
Second semester of a full-year sequence addressing the structure and function of the human organism. Surveys the structure, function, and control of the endocrine, cardiovascular, circulatory, respiratory, urinary, digestive and reproductive systems. Does not apply to a biology major or minor; applies to the human biology minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): BIOL 221
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 260 - General Microbiology

Credits: 4
Includes history, morphology, classification, control, growth, transmission, and pathogenicity of selected bacteria, viruses, rickettsia, fungi, and parasites. Covers the nature of host defenses against pathogens, including the acquisition of specific immunity and immune disorders. Does not apply to a biology major or minor; applies to the human biology minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and two 1.5-hour labs
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 280 - Biostatistics and Research Design

Credits: 3
An introduction to research design and statistical methods in quantitative biology. Topics include probability, basic study design, descriptive statistics, sampling, contingency tables, t-tests, one- and two-way analysis of variance, correlation, and simple linear regression. Both parametric and non-parametric techniques are explored. Computational exercises will use the Excel and SPSS packages.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): BIOL 165, BIOL 166, MATH 145 or higher or MPE ? 3
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 285 - Research Seminar in Biology

Credits: 0
Required for at least 5 semesters for biology or biotechnology (biology emphasis) majors (or each semester for students who transfer into biology with less than 5 semesters remaining). Each registration will require students to attend and report on at least 3 departmentally approved research seminars during that semester.

Lecture/Lab: For semester: Attend and report on at least 3 approved research seminars.
Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Seminar

Term Offering: Fall, Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 305 - Scientific Communication

Credits: 2
A practical introduction to scientific communication. This course will focus on developing the fundamental skills required to convey information in the form of grant proposals, oral and poster presentations and research articles.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Corequisite(s): BIOL 280
Prerequisite(s): COMM 104 and ENGL 215. Honors students: HONS 115H.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 316 - Human Embryology

Credits: 1
Acquaints students with the process of human development and embryology.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Recommended: Prior or concurrent registration in BIOL 485 is recommended.
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 345 - Field Ecology

Credits: 3–6
The course will introduce core ecological principles as applied to individual, population, community, and ecosystem levels of organizations along with hands-on experience in field ecology. Students will develop group and individual projects in aquatic and terrestrial ecosystems and develop skills in natural history observation and journaling and field research design, data analysis, and scientific communication.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166
Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics
Schedule Type: Lecture
Special Approval: Instructor permission required

College Code: CAS

BIOL 348 - General Ecology

Credits: 3
Ecological principles as applied to individual, population, community, and ecosystem levels of organization. Labs feature the characterization of ecological systems using standard field and lab techniques.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): BIOL 165, BIOL 166 or BIOL 208
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

BIOL 371 - Genetics

Credits: 3
Mechanisms of heredity are considered in light of classical population and molecular genetics. Labs feature experience in Drosophila genetics, chromosome analysis, statistical techniques, and recombinant DNA technology.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures, a recitation and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166, and completion of or simultaneous enrollment in CHEM 131.
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

BIOL 372 - Cell and Molecular Biology

Credits: 3
Information from molecular biology, biochemistry, biophysics, physical chemistry, and electron microscopy are integrated to present the cell as a functional unit.

Labs provide experience in the collection and analysis of quantitative data about cells.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166, and completion of or simultaneous enrollment in CHEM 132.

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BIOL 405 - Topics in _____

Credits: 1-4

Investigates various specialties of biology.

Lecture/Lab: One lecture or lab for each credit

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: CAS

BIOL 415 - Genomics, Proteomics, and Bioinformatics

Credits: 3

An examination of the wealth of information to be found in our genomes and proteomes, the techniques used to produce and analyze these data, and its implications for biomedicine and related fields. Online databases and bioinformatics tools will be used extensively.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 165 and BIOL 166. Laptop required.

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Even years

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BIOL 420 - Immunology

Credits: 3

This course introduces principles of immunology, including cells and organs comprising the immune system, innate and adaptive immune responses, generation of lymphocyte receptor diversity, antibody structure and function, and cell mediated immunity, as well as clinical applications such as autoimmune disease, tumor immunology and vaccination. Integrated into the course is a laboratory offering practical experience with basic techniques used in immunology.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and 1 lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 165, BIOL 166.

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Even years

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 428 - Paleobiology

Credits: 3

Covers various specialties including general and vertebrate paleontology. Surveys the origins, history, adaptations, diversity and paleoecology of ancient organisms as documented by the fossil record.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166.

Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Even years

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 430 - Molecular Laboratory Techniques

Credits: 3

Acquaints students with modern lab techniques of molecular biology. The manipulation and study of nucleic acids and proteins using model systems.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and 2 labs

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 440 - Electron Microscopy in Biological Investigations

Credits: 3

Lectures cover the theory, functions, and use of the transmission and scanning electron microscopes. Two 3-hour labs per week provide hands-on experience in the techniques involved in scanning and transmission electron microscopy, including use of the ultramicrotome.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and two 3-hour labs

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Alternate years (even)

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 447 - Cell and Tissue Culture

Credits: 3

A study of the methods and applications of animal cell culture. Topics will include laboratory safety and equipment, primary and established cell lines, culture contamination, cell transformation and differentiation, and cell transfection.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and 1 lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166.

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Odd years

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BIOL 449 - Historical and Philosophical Biology

Credits: 3

Examination of biological, paleontological, and geological concepts central to the study of historical events in biological systems. Considers the interactions of data, theories, and extra scientific concepts in historical biology, within the particular context of a biblical worldview.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166.

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BIOL 450 - Neuropsychopharmacology

Credits: 3

A study of the mechanisms of actions of psychotropic agents and how they affect human perception and behavior. Emphasis is placed on the organization and function of the nervous system and the molecular and biochemical basis of drugs used to treat behavioral and clinical disorders.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 180; BIOL 221, BIOL 222 or BIOL 165, BIOL 166.

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BIOL 454 - Vertebrate Zoology

Credits: 3

Covers the various specialties of vertebrate biology, including herpetology, ornithology, and mammalogy.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics.

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Special Approval: Open to non-science majors.

Term Offering: Mammalogy (Fall), Ornithology (Spring)

College Code: CAS

BIOL 456 - Marine Botany

Credits: 3.5

Biology of the marine plants found in Puget Sound, with a survey of marine plants from other areas.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Corequisite(s): BIOL 590

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: As scheduled - only at the Rosario Beach Marine Laboratory

Term Offering: Summer

College Code: CAS

BIOL 458 - Marine Invertebrates

Credits: 3.5

Biology of invertebrates studied in the marine environment of Puget Sound. A survey of the various phyla is conducted by studying the living animals in the field, and by tide pool observation, dredging, and scuba diving. A project on a specific group or species is required.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Corequisite(s): BIOL 590

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: As scheduled - only at the Rosario Beach Marine Laboratory

Term Offering: Summer

College Code: CAS

BIOL 459 - Entomology

Credits: 3

Study of the fundamental aspects of insect biology.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Odd years

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 464 - Systems Physiology

Credits: 4

Functional processes used by animals in adjusting to their external environment and controlling their internal environment. Labs involve the firsthand analysis of selected aspects of the major functional systems.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3.5-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166, CHEM 131.

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 465 - Histology

Credits: 3

Microscopic anatomy, cytology, ultrastructure of tissues and organ systems are correlated with function. Emphasis on normal tissues of vertebrates.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BIOL 475 - Biology of Bacteria

Credits: 3

Study of the properties of bacteria that illustrate their function and relationship to other living systems. Topics include structure and function, classification, and interaction with the environment.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166; Organic Chemistry recommended (CHEM 231, CHEM 232, CHEM 241, CHEM 242).

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 476 - Biodiversity of Vascular Plants

Credits: 4

A taxonomic and morphological study of vascular plants emphasizing the plants found in the Great Lakes area. Field trips.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Special Approval: Open to non-science majors.

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 477 - Neurobiology

Credits: 3

The neural basis of behavior, with some emphasis on the human nervous system, including cellular and molecular approaches to neuron function, development of neurons and circuits, and neuro-endocrine mechanisms. Labs develop skills in electrophysiology and neuroanatomy.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 478 - Study Tour:

Credits: 0

Travel to destinations relevant to individual programs of study. Classes will be selected from department(s) offerings. Fee may be required.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Noncredit (NC,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Blended Learning

College Code: CAS

BIOL 479 - Marine Ecology

Credits: 3.5

A study of interspecific, intraspecific, and community relationships demonstrated by marine organisms.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: As scheduled - only at the Rosario Beach Marine Laboratory

Term Offering: Summer

College Code: CAS

BIOL 484 - Animal Behavior

Credits: 3

Behavior of animals including considerations of social interactions, learning processes, instinct, motivation, experimental methods, and the analysis of behavior patterns characteristic of various species.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Even years

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 485 - Developmental Biology

Credits: 3

A study of the cellular and tissue-level events that result in the development of integrated organisms. Vertebrate and invertebrate model systems will be examined and compared with plants. Lab activities include vertebrate developmental anatomy and experimental approaches to understanding basic developmental processes.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 166 Foundations of Biology

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 487 - Biogeography

Credits: 3

The distribution of plants and animals in relation to their environment, including consideration of major biogeographic regions of the world and the role of distribution in adaptive change and diversification of life in the past and present.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour conference period

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BIOL 495 - Independent Research in Biology

Credits: 0–4

An independent research project in biology under the direction of a biology instructor. A minimum of 4 hours work per week is required for each credit earned (and for the 0-credit option), and a written paper is required.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Independent

Special Approval: Instructor permission required.

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: CAS

BIOL 496 - Independent Study in Biology

Credits: 1–4

Independent study of a selected field in biology under the direction of a biology instructor. A minimum of 4 hours work per week is required for each credit earned and a written paper is required.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Schedule Type: Independent

Special Approval: Instructor permission required.

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: CAS

BIOL 497 - Internship in Biotechnology

Credits: 1–6

An internship where students apply course and lab preparation in an extended hands-on laboratory experience in either on- or off-campus setting. 50 hours of work per semester credit hour.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): Permission of biotechnology faculty.

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits

Schedule Type: Practicum

College Code: CAS

BIOL 515 - Genomics, Proteomics, and Bioinformatics

Credits: 3

An examination of the wealth of information to be found in our genomes and proteomes, the techniques used to produce and analyze these data, and implications for biomedicine and related fields. Online databases and bioinformatics tools will be used extensively. Students will deeply engage selected topics through original research, or through synthesis and critical analysis of primary literature.

Lecture/Lab: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 165 and BIOL 166 . Laptop required.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Alternate years (even)

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BIOL 516 - Behavior of Marine Organisms

Credits: 3.5

Study of inter- and intra-specific behavior of marine animals and their behavioral response to the physical environment. Involves lab experience, field observation, and a research project.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Special Approval: Instructor permission required.

Year Offering: As scheduled - only at the Rosario Beach Marine Laboratory

Term Offering: Summer

College Code: CAS

BIOL 521 - Immunology

Credits: 3

This course introduces principles of immunology, including cells and organs comprising the immune system, innate and adaptive immune responses, generation of lymphocyte receptor diversity, antibody structure and function, and cell mediated immunity, as well as clinical applications such as autoimmune disease, tumor immunology and vaccination. Integrated into the course is a laboratory offering practical experience with basic techniques used in immunology. In addition to a broad survey of immunology, students will deeply engage selected topics through original research, or through synthesis and critical analysis of relevant literature.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Alternate years (even)

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 526 - Mathematical Modeling in Biology

Credits: 3

Theory and application of linear and nonlinear mathematical models of biological processes. Topics selected from discrete- and continuous-time deterministic and stochastic modeling, analytic solution techniques, linearization, bifurcations, chaos, computer simulation, model parameterization, and model validation.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 191 or MATH 195, or permission from instructor.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Alternate years (odd)

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 528 - Paleobiology

Credits: 3

Covers various specialties including general and vertebrate paleontology. Surveys the origins, history, adaptations, diversity and paleoecology of ancient organisms as documented by the fossil record. Students will also engage selected topics more deeply through original research, or through synthesis and critical analysis of relevant literature.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Alternate years (even)

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 530 - Molecular Laboratory Techniques

Credits: 3

Acquaints students with modern lab techniques of molecular biology. The manipulation and study of nucleic acids and proteins using model systems. In addition, students will deeply engage in selected topics through an additional research project and lecture topic presentation.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and two 3-hour labs

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Year Offering: Alternate years (odd)

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 540 - Electron Microscopy in Biological Investigations

Credits: 3

Lectures cover the theory, functions, and use of the transmission and scanning electron microscopes. Two 3-hour labs per week provide hands-on experience in the techniques involved in scanning and transmission electron microscopy, including use of the ultramicrotome. In addition, students will deeply engage selected topics through additional research project and lecture topic presentation.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and two 3-hour labs
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Year Offering: Alternate years (even)
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

BIOL 547 - Cell and Tissue Culture

Credits: 3
A study of the methods and applications of animal cell culture. Topics will include laboratory safety and equipment, primary and established cell lines, culture contamination, cell transformation and differentiation, and cell transfection. In addition to this survey of topics, students will deeply engage selected topics through original research, or through synthesis and critical analysis of relevant literature.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Year Offering: Alternate years (odd)
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 550 - Issues in Origins and Speciation

Credits: 3
A comparative survey of the assumptions, attitudes, methods, and conclusions of science and religion in the handling of data. Attention is given to current scientific data and their relationship to an understanding of earth history and the present diversity of life.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 554 - Vertebrate Zoology

Credits: 3
Covers the various specialties of vertebrate biology, including herpetology, ornithology, and mammalogy. In addition to a broad survey of vertebrate biology, students will deeply engage selected topics through original research, or through synthesis and critical analysis of relevant literature.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
College Code: CAS

BIOL 555 - Neuropsychopharmacology

Credits: 3
A study of the mechanisms of actions of psychotropic agents and how they affect human perception and behavior. Emphasis is placed on the organization and function of the nervous system and the molecular and biochemical basis of drugs used to treat behavioral and clinical disorders. In addition to a broad survey of neuropsychopharmacology, students will deeply engage selected topics through original research, or through synthesis and critical analysis of relevant literature.

Lecture/Lab: 2 lectures & a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 180 ; BIOL 221 , BIOL 222 or BIOL 165 , BIOL 166
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

BIOL 559 - Entomology

Credits: 3
Study of the fundamental aspects of insect biology. In addition to a broad survey of entomology, students will deeply engage selected topics through original research, or through synthesis and critical analysis of relevant literature.

Lecture/Lab: 2 lectures & a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Alternate years (odd)
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

BIOL 564 - Systems Physiology

Credits: 3

BIOL 575 - Biology of Bacteria

Credits: 3
Study of the properties of bacteria that illustrate their function and relationship to other living systems. Topics include structure and function, classification and interaction with the environment. Students will deeply engage selected topics through original research, or through synthesis and critical analysis of relevant literature.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Recommended: CHEM 231 CHEM 232 CHEM 241 CHEM 242 or equivalent, full year course in Organic Chemistry
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

BIOL 576 - Biodiversity of Vascular Plants

Credits: 4
A taxonomic and morphological study of vascular plants emphasizing the plants found in the Great Lakes area. In addition to a broad survey of vascular plants, students will deeply engage selected topics through original research, or through synthesis and critical analysis of relevant literature. Field trips.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

BIOL 590 - Topics in _____

Credits: 1–4

Investigates various specialties of biology.

Lecture/Lab: One-hour lecture or a 3-hour lab for each credit

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lecture/Lab

College Code: CAS

BIOL 648 - Workshop

Credits: 1–4

Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Workshop

College Code: CAS

BIOL 655 - Program Continuation

Credits: 0

Students may register for this non-credit continuation course to maintain active status. For additional information on active status, refer to the Graduate Academic Policies. Registration does not indicate full-time status.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Independent

College Code: CAS

BIOL 660 - Thesis Continuation

Credits: 0

Student may register for this title while clearing deferred grade (DG) and/or incomplete (I) courses with advisor approval only. This course qualifies for full-time status, requiring a minimum of 480 hours of work per semester of registration.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

BIOL 681 - Research Methods and Biology Seminar I

Credits: 2

An introduction to graduate studies in biology, the nature and methods of science, principles of research ethics, and exploration of research opportunities in the Department of Biology. Attendance to all biology department seminars is required.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)

Schedule Type: Seminar

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BIOL 682 - Research Methods and Biology Seminar II

Credits: 2

In this second semester of Research Methods and Biology Seminar, graduate students survey current literature and prepare a formal research proposal. Students give an oral presentation of the research proposal at the end of the semester. Attendance to all biology department seminars is required.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)

Schedule Type: Seminar

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BIOL 690 - Independent Study

Credits: 1–4

Independent study in biology under the direction of the instructor. Consent of instructor required.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Independent

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

Mission

The mission of the Department of Chemistry & Biochemistry within the context of a Seventh-day Adventist Christian worldview is to assist all students to excel in developing their analytical and critical reasoning skills, using fundamental chemical principles and computational methods; prepare our chemistry and biochemistry majors to enter graduate school, professional school, the chemical industry, or the teaching profession, in a diverse world; develop in our students an understanding of responsible, environmentally sensitive use of global resources; engage students and faculty in the process of discovery and creativity in the research lab and the classroom to model a life of personal and professional integrity.

Students who plan to major in chemistry or biochemistry are expected to have entrance credit in the preparatory subjects of chemistry and mathematics (including algebra and trigonometry); a background in physics is desirable. Those who do not have entrance credit or equivalent training in these subjects, particularly mathematics, may not fulfill the department graduation requirements in four years.

Students are encouraged to plan early for an on-campus or off-campus research experience required of all students in the Bachelor of Science degree programs in chemistry and biochemistry (ACS) and strongly recommended for those in the Bachelor of Science degree program in biochemistry. This experience may take the form of a cooperative educational research experience or research in an academic, industrial, or governmental laboratory setting. Interested students should consult the department chair.

American Chemical Society Certification

Students desiring American Chemical Society certification must

Complete the required courses for the (ACS) Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry or biochemistry as spelled out in this bulletin.

Achieve a minimum GPA of 3.00 in all chemistry courses taken at Andrews University.

Satisfactorily complete a research or cooperative educational experience in chemistry.

A complete statement of certification requirements is available from the department chair.

Biotechnology, Chemistry Concentration BS

Program Description

Biotechnology is an industry that is growing by leaps and bounds. The biotechnology program at Andrews University aims to transform students into scientists of the highest caliber and ethical standard that can contribute to this industry in many capacities. Through a broad and interdisciplinary training in the biosciences, students will develop the practical scientific and communication skills necessary for employment in biotechnology. They will also develop in their knowledge of the ethical issues that frequently arise in this discipline. Areas of study include genetics, genomics and proteomics, biochemistry, and techniques in molecular cloning and analysis. Students specialize in either biological or chemical aspects of biotechnology. An internship requirement will introduce students to the biotechnology workforce and help them to make connections that may lead to future employment.

Andrews Core Experience 43-49*

Students must take all courses designated in the BA & BS Degree Requirements of the Andrews Core Experience or the Honors Andrews Core Experience (SAGES) while noting the following requirements and recommendations.

*49 credits for standard GE package; 41 credits for Honors.

Religion

RELT 385 - Bioethics and Christian Faith Credits: 3

Or HONS 380 - Topic in Bioethics & Christian Faith Credits: 3 (for SAGES students)

Math

Choose one of the following courses:

MATH 168 - Precalculus Credits: 4

MATH 191 - Calculus I Credits: 4 (recommended)

MATH 195 - Calculus I for Biology Credits: 4 (recommended)

Social Sciences

Pre Med Students will need to take the following courses:

PSYC 101 - Introduction to Psychology Credits: 3

SOCI 119 - Principles of Sociology Credits: 3

Undergraduate Electives: 7-19

Students must take 10-17 credits from any college level courses.

Program Objectives

Program Outcomes

Knowledge: Students will demonstrate a comprehensive knowledge and understanding of the properties and interrelationships of materials relevant to biological and chemical analysis.

Communication Skills: Students will effectively communicate biotechnical information to a diversity of audiences using a variety of formats. Students will obtain relevant biotechnical information from web-accessible databases.

Technical Skills, Safety, and Environmental Stewardship: Students will demonstrate competency in common biotechnology lab activities and instrumentation. Students will demonstrate commonly accepted laboratory safety and waste management practices.

Interdisciplinary Teamwork: Students will utilize positive team behaviors to accomplish interdisciplinary tasks.

Ethical Use of Biotechnical Information and Techniques: Students will execute the highest standards of integrity and ethics during their professional training activities.

Mission

To transform the student of science into a scientist of the highest caliber and ethical standard.

Goals

The biotechnology program aims to

- provide a broad and interdisciplinary training in the biosciences,
- educate students in the communication of science and the ethical use of scientific knowledge and skills,
- foster the development of practical scientific skills necessary for employment in the biotechnology sector,
- introduce students to the workforce through internship opportunities.

Note:

Courses in economics and marketing are strongly recommended.

A reading knowledge of German or French, although not required for professional undergraduate education in chemistry, is strongly recommended for students planning advanced study.

Students desiring American Chemical Society certification must achieve a minimum GPA of 3.00 in all chemistry courses taken at Andrews University.

Chemistry BS (Secondary Education)

Students majoring in chemistry or biochemistry in preparation for teaching in secondary schools must complete the degree requirements for Chemistry BS, Chemistry BS (ACS approved), Biochemistry BS or Biochemistry BS (ACS Approved), and the Andrews Core Experience listed below. They must also consult with an advisor in the department of Teaching, Learning & Curriculum who can guide them through the teacher preparation program successfully. In order for Andrews University to recommend a student for certification, the Michigan Test for Teacher Certification (MTTC) subject area exams must be passed in both the major and minor chosen by the student.

Students minoring in chemistry in preparation for teaching in secondary schools must complete the degree requirements for Chemistry Minor, Secondary Education Emphasis.

Andrews Core Experience

For more information regarding Andrews Core Experience or Secondary Certification with a BA or BS degree see the department of Teaching, Learning & Curriculum.

BCHM 421 - Biochemistry I

Total Credits: 24

Biochemistry

BCHM 120 - Introduction to Organic and Biological Chemistry

Credits: 4

A survey of major concepts in organic chemistry and biochemistry. Organic foundation of structures and basic reactions of organic molecules emphasizing functional groups and establishing foundation for understanding structure and function of biological molecules, regulation of biochemical pathways. For nursing, dietetics, and allied health students. Not applicable toward a major or minor in chemistry or biochemistry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 110

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BCHM 421 - Biochemistry I

Credits: 4

Study of the fundamental principles of enzyme kinetics and mechanisms based on the structure and chemistry of biomolecules including amino acids, carbohydrates, lipids, proteins, nucleotides, nucleic acids, and biological membranes.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 4 lectures

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 232

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

BCHM 422 - Biochemistry II

Credits: 3

Continuation of BCHM 421 including selected topics of hormone and regulatory biochemistry, the study of the four primary neurotransmitter systems and an overview of selected human pathologies emphasizing cancer biochemistry and biology.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BCHM 421

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BCHM 430 - Biochemistry Lab

Credits: 1

Introduction to quantitative and qualitative methods for the isolation, purification and identification of biological materials and applications of enzyme kinetics.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: one 4-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): BCHM 421

Recommended: BCHM 422

Schedule Type: Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

BCHM 521 - Biochemistry I

Credits: 3

Study of the fundamental principles of enzyme kinetics and mechanisms based on the structure and chemistry of biomolecules including amino acids, carbohydrates, lipids, proteins, nucleotides, nucleic acids and biological membranes.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 232

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Summer

College Code: CAS

Chemistry

CHEM 100 - Consumer Chemistry

Credits: 4

A one-semester course primarily for non-science majors presenting an introduction to fundamental concepts of chemistry to convey an appreciative understanding of the nature of chemistry and how it is applied to our daily lives. Topics of consumer chemistry to be studied will be selected from fuels, energy, polymers, fertilizers, pesticides, food and food additives, household cleaners, cosmetics and personal care chemicals, pharmaceuticals, and air and water pollution. Not applicable toward a major or minor in chemistry or biochemistry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Course Attribute: Fulfills the General Education Natural Science requirement

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

CHEM 110 - Introduction to Inorganic Chemistry

Credits: 4

An introduction to the principles and applications of inorganic chemistry; for nursing, dietetics, and allied health students. Not applicable toward a major or minor in chemistry or biochemistry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Course Attribute: Fulfills the General Education Natural Science requirement

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

CHEM 120 - Introduction to Biotechnology

Credits: 1

Introduces students to the field of biotechnology through lecture and guest presentations.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

CHEM 131 - General Chemistry I

Credits: 4

This first course in chemistry is for students planning to major in science and engineering. Topics include stoichiometry, atomic and molecular structure, bonding, states of matter, solutions, chemical kinetics, and chemical equilibrium.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 5 lectures and one 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MPE greater than or equal to P3, or passing grade in MATH 165, MATH 166, MATH 168 or above, or MATH 191, MATH 195

Recommended: High school chemistry or physics strongly recommended.

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

CHEM 132 - General Chemistry II

Credits: 4

A continuation of CHEM 131 with topics including thermodynamics, acid and base chemistry, descriptive and nuclear chemistry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 5 lectures and one 3-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): a grade of C- or better in CHEM 131

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

CHEM 175 - Topics in _____

Credits: 1–4

Investigates various subdisciplines of chemistry or biochemistry. This course does not contribute to a major or minor in chemistry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and/or lab for each lower-division credit taken

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Prerequisite(s): Permission of instructor and chair.

Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: CAS

CHEM 195 - Independent Research I

Credits: 0–3

Students will either assist a faculty member in an ongoing research project or develop a project of their own with the help and approval of the faculty member in their areas of interest or study. This course is for students who are beginning to establish their knowledge of chemistry and biochemistry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: a minimum of 4 hours of work per credit

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Independent

Special Approval: Permission of faculty member required.

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: CAS

CHEM 200 - Quantitative Analysis

Credits: 4

Lecture topics include statistics, chemical equilibrium, titrimetric procedures, gravimetric procedures, and electrochemistry. Laboratory experiments include gravimetric procedures and titrimetric procedures of acid and base systems and redox systems, electrochemistry, and an introduction to instrumental methods.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and two 4-hour labs

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 132

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

CHEM 210 - Current Chemistry Topics

Credits: 0

Attendance at departmental seminar series devoted to topics in current chemical research as presented by students, faculty, and guest speakers.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 seminar

Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring
College Code: CAS

CHEM 231 - Organic Chemistry I

Credits: 3

The chemistry of carbon-containing compounds with emphasis on nomenclature, molecular structure, spectra-structure relationships, and a mechanistic approach to organic reactions.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 4 lectures
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 132
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CHEM 232 - Organic Chemistry II

Credits: 3

This course is a continuation of CHEM 231

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 4 lectures
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 231
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CHEM 241 - Organic Chemistry Laboratory I

Credits: 1

Experiments related to the course content of CHEM 231 .

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and one 4-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 231 or concurrent enrollment in CHEM 231
Schedule Type: Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CHEM 242 - Organic Chemistry Laboratory II

Credits: 1

Experiments related to the course content of CHEM 232 .

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and one 4-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 232 or concurrent enrollment in CHEM 232 .
Schedule Type: Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CHEM 290 - Independent Study

Credits: 1-3

Independent study of selected topics in biochemistry or chemistry under the supervision of a biochemistry or chemistry professor. Ordinarily a minimum of three hours of study per week is expected for each credit. The instructor may require written reports or oral presentations.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable to 4 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
Special Approval: Instructor permission required

College Code: CAS

CHEM 295 - Independent Research II

Credits: 0-3

Students will either assist a faculty member in an ongoing research project or develop a project of their own with the help and approval of the faculty member in their areas of interest or study. This course is for students who are establishing their knowledge of chemistry and biochemistry at the college level.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: a minimum of 4 hours of work per credit
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Prerequisite(s): A passing grade in CHEM 132 required
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Independent
Special Approval: Permission of faculty member required.

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: CAS

CHEM 300 - Laboratory Glassblowing

Credits: 2

Practice of fundamental glassblowing skills common to both scientific and creative glassblowing. Two projects are required. The student may choose between scientific and creative projects. Not applicable toward a major or minor in chemistry or biochemistry. Does not meet the general education requirement in natural science.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture demonstration and a 4-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab
Year Offering: Even years
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CHEM 311 - Seminar in Chemistry

Credits: 0.5

First half of semester consists of two meetings per week: one is an introduction to chemical literature and computer searching of Chemical Abstracts and chemical databases, the other meeting is the regular seminar series presented by students, faculty, and invited speakers. This course is required of, and open only to, junior chemistry and biochemistry majors, and attendance for both semesters is required for one credit.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two meetings during first half of semester, one meeting during remainder of semester
Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 232
Schedule Type: Seminar
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CHEM 312 - Seminar in Chemistry

Credits: 0.5

Continuation of CHEM 311. This course is required of, and open only to, junior chemistry and biochemistry majors.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 seminar
Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 311
Schedule Type: Seminar
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CHEM 340 - Environmental Chemistry

Credits: 4

A survey of environmental and energy-related problems. Topics include air, soil, and water pollution, energy and other resources, solid wastes and recycling, and toxic chemicals. Not applicable toward a major in chemistry or biochemistry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 4-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 132
Recommended: CHEM 200 or CHEM 232 strongly recommended
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab
Year Offering: Odd years
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CHEM 375 - Topics in _____

Credits: 1-4

Investigates various subdisciplines of chemistry or biochemistry. Each individual topics course will be evaluated to determine whether it contributes to a major or minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and/or lab for each upper-division credit taken
Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Prerequisite(s): Permission of instructor and chair, and appropriate foundational courses.
Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab
Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: CAS

CHEM 400 - Chemical Separations and Analysis

Credits: 2

Theory and practice of analytical separations by extraction and chromatographic methods including flash column, thin layer, high pressure liquid, gas, and affinity chromatography. After separation, the components of mixtures are analyzed by a variety of spectroscopic techniques that may include nuclear magnetic resonance, infrared spectroscopy and/or mass spectrometry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and a 4-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 200, CHEM 231, and CHEM 241

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

CHEM 405 - Medicinal Chemistry

Credits: 2

Medicinal Chemistry is an interdisciplinary subject incorporating basic principles of organic chemistry, biology, biochemistry, toxicology, pharmacology, and molecular biology to understand how biologically active compounds (pharmaceuticals) operate in living systems. Selected topics in medicinal and pharmaceutical chemistry including the design and synthesis of new drugs as well as their pharmacodynamic and pharmacokinetic properties will be covered. We will also examine the path of pharmaceuticals from inception to clinical use by studying specific classes of drugs.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 232

Recommended: BCHM 421 is recommended either as a prerequisite or corequisite.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

CHEM 410 - Forensic Chemistry

Credits: 2

Principles of chemistry as applied to the methods of analysis and identification of drugs. Rules of evidence as they apply to testimony in court. Observation of drug-related court procedures.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and two 3-hour labs

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 200, CHEM 232

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Special Approval: Participation must be arranged with the instructor at least 2 months prior to beginning of course.

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

CHEM 411 - Seminar in Chemistry

Credits: 0.5

Departmental seminar series devoted to topics in current chemical research as presented by students, faculty, and guest speakers. During the semester, each student prepares and presents a seminar. This course is required of, and open only to, senior chemistry and biochemistry majors, and attendance for both semesters is required for one credit.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 seminar

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 312

Schedule Type: Seminar

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

CHEM 412 - Seminar in Chemistry

Credits: 0.5

Continuation of CHEM 411. During the semester, each student prepares and presents a seminar. This course is required of, and open only to, senior chemistry and biochemistry majors.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 411

Schedule Type: Seminar

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

CHEM 415 - Advanced Inorganic Chemistry

Credits: 4

Atomic and molecular structure, symmetry, group theory, solid state, acids and bases; structure, bonding, spectra, and reaction mechanisms of d-metal complexes, systematic chemistry of non-metals; organometallic chemistry and catalysis.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 4 lectures

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 232, CHEM 431

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Alternate years (even)

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

CHEM 418 - Chemistry & Biochemistry Seminar

Credits: 2

In this course, each student will demonstrate and integrate chemistry- and/or biochemistry-specific knowledge, communication skills and critical thinking acquired during the student's study of chemistry and biochemistry. A comprehensive written paper explaining the student's literature-based or lab-based research and a publically presented technical seminar are required. Students are also expected to demonstrate the development of professional skills. This course is recommended for students within 1-3 semesters of graduation. Enrollment is limited.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)

Corequisite(s): CHEM 210

Prerequisite(s): COMM 104 or COMM 320

ENGL 215

CHEM 232 and CHEM 242

And one of the following: CHEM 200, BCHM 421, or CHEM 431 (with CHEM 441)

Recommended: One of the following is required, but more are recommended: CHEM 200, BCHM 421, or CHEM 431 (with CHEM 441)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

CHEM 430 - Instrumental Analysis

Credits: 2

Theory and practice of chemical analysis by spectroscopic and electrochemical methods. Introduction to automated data collection and computer control of instruments. Operational theory that emphasizes hands-on student learning for a broad range of analytical instruments commonly used by industry and academia including: UV-Vis-NIR, fluorescence, atomic, and laser spectrophotometers; potentiostats; and analog and digital electronics.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and a 4-hour lab

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 200, MATH 192

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

CHEM 431 - Physical Chemistry I

Credits: 3

Fundamental concepts in chemical thermodynamics, free energy, chemical equilibria, phase changes, solutions, molecular transport, chemical dynamics, and electrochemistry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): Choose one set.

Set 1: CHEM 200, MATH 192, PHYS 142 (or PHYS 242, PHYS 272)

Set 2: MATH 192, PHYS 241, PHYS 271, ENGR 285, and one of (MATH 240, MATH 286). Co-requisite: CHEM 200

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

CHEM 432 - Physical Chemistry II

Credits: 3

Wave mechanics, atomic and molecular structure, chemical bonding, atomic and molecular spectroscopies, and applications to chemical dynamics and statistical thermodynamics.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 431,
and one of: MATH 286 or MATH 240
Recommended: Both MATH 286 and MATH 240 are strongly recommended
Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Alternate years (odd)
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CHEM 441 - Physical Chemistry Laboratory I

Credits: 1
Experiments related to the course content of CHEM 431.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: one 4-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): concurrent enrollment in CHEM 431
Schedule Type: Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CHEM 442 - Physical Chemistry Laboratory II

Credits: 1
Experiments related to the course content of CHEM 432.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: one 4-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): concurrent enrollment in CHEM 432
Schedule Type: Lab
Year Offering: Alternate years (odd)
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CHEM 470 - Modern Synthetic Techniques

Credits: 2
An advanced laboratory course designed to incorporate a wide variety of modern synthetic techniques of organic, organometallic, and inorganic chemistry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 4-hour labs
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 474, CHEM 415 or concurrent enrollment in CHEM 415
Schedule Type: Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CHEM 474 - Advanced Topics in Organic Chemistry

Credits: 2
Study of the principles of modern synthetic organic chemistry with applications from one or more of the following areas: natural product, medicinal, or polymer chemistry.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 232
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CHEM 475 - Advanced Topics in Physical Chemistry

Credits: 2
Advanced study of molecular spectroscopy, statistical thermodynamics, chemical dynamics, or the application of quantum mechanics.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 432 or CHEM 431 and permission of the instructor
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

CHEM 490 - Independent Study

Credits: 1-3
Independent study of selected topics in biochemistry or chemistry to enable advanced students to pursue topics not offered in scheduled courses. The student will study under the supervision of a biochemistry or chemistry professor. Ordinarily a minimum of four hours of study per week is expected for each credit. The instructor may require written reports or oral presentations.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: CAS

CHEM 495 - Advanced Independent Research

Credits: 0-4
Students will either assist a faculty member in an ongoing research project or develop a project of their own with the help and approval of the faculty member in their areas of interest or study. This course is for students who have a reasonably established knowledge of chemistry and biochemistry at the college level.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: a minimum of 4 hours of work per credit
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Prerequisite(s): Passing grade in CHEM 232/CHEM 242 or (CHEM 200 and CHEM 231 /CHEM 241) required
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Independent
Special Approval: Permission of faculty member required.

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: CAS

CHEM 497 - Internship in Biotechnology

Credits: 1-6
An internship where students apply course and lab preparation in an extended hands-on laboratory experience in either on- or off-campus setting. 50 hours of work per semester credit hour.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Practicum
Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: CAS

CHEM 530 - Topics in Teaching _____

Credits: 2-4
Each time the course is offered, it treats one of the following areas: Concepts in Chemistry; Fundamental ideas of chemistry Demonstrations; Simple experiments which illustrate chemical principles Problem-Solving Strategies; Exploration into the mental processes and logic behind problem-solving; None of the above areas are to occur twice in one student's program.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 232
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

CHEM 540 - Topics in _____

Credits: 2-4
Independent readings to be chosen in consultation with the instructor. A written report and an oral presentation covering the materials read are required. A minimum of 60 hours of work is required for each credit.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 431
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

Mission

The Engineering and Computer Science department aspires to be a place of choice for engineering and computer science education where dedicated students and faculty grow together to reach their God-given potential for service to society and the church.

Faculty and students in the Engineering and Computer Science Department will:

Seek Knowledge by:

- Exploring current knowledge in engineering and computing from a Christian viewpoint, within the broader context of the liberal arts.
- Creating a nurturing environment for a committed lifetime of intellectual discovery, problem-solving, and innovation.
- Enhancing learning through research and scholarship.
- Preparing students to join their chosen profession or attend graduate school.
- Engaging industry and professional stakeholders in the planning and assessing of our curriculum.

Affirm Faith by:

- Acknowledging the leadership of God in their lives.
- Acting with personal and moral integrity.
- Serving humanity in a complex, technological, global society.

Change the World by:

- Applying knowledge and skills to the care of their God-given home.
- Solving contemporary societal problems.
- Providing selfless service to others.

Bachelors

Computer Science BS

Computer Science prepares students to design and implement innovative computing solutions to real world problems. Areas of study include (but not limited to) algorithms, software engineering, graphics, artificial intelligence, robotics, databases, theory of computation, networks and Internet technologies. The program emphasizes both theory and practical applications of computing. A degree in Computer Science prepares students for employment in developing and maintaining commercial applications and for graduate studies.

Undergraduate Electives: 1-3

Program Objectives

Student Outcomes

- An ability to apply knowledge of computing and mathematics appropriate to the discipline
- An ability to analyze a problem, and identify and define the computing requirements appropriate to its solution
- An ability to design, implement and evaluate a computer-based system, process, component or program to meet desired needs
- An ability to function effectively on teams to accomplish a common goal
- An understanding of professional, ethical, legal, security, and social issues and responsibilities
- An ability to communicate effectively with a range of audiences
- An ability to analyze the local and global impact of computing on individuals, organizations and society
- Recognition of the need for, and an ability to engage in, continuing professional development
- An ability to use current techniques, skills, and tools necessary for computing practices
- An ability to apply mathematical foundations, algorithmic principles, and computer science theory in the modeling and design of computer-based systems in a way that demonstrates comprehension of the tradeoffs involved in design choice
- An ability to apply design and development principles in the construction of software systems of varying complexity
- A well-rounded, Christ-centered life perspective through the integration of the entire Andrews University curriculum

Computing, Computer Science Concentration BS

Computer Science focuses on a study of computing as well as on its role in an application area. Areas of interest include artificial intelligence, compilers, computer architectures, computer graphics, computer networks, operating systems, program development, and analytical theory. A degree in computing with the Computer Science emphasis prepares students for graduate study, employment in computer systems/networks, administration/ development, software development/maintenance, and for careers in education.

Andrews Core Experience

Students must take all courses designated in the BS Degree Requirements of the Andrews Core Experience.

Program Requirements

Progression Requirements:

No grade lower than C- may be counted toward any degree requirement. An Engineering or Computing course may be repeated only once. Students may repeat only two Engineering or Computing courses. Students will be asked to withdraw from the program if they fail two Engineering or Computing courses in the same semester. Readmission will be considered on an individual basis. All prerequisites for CPTR courses must be passed with a minimum grade of C- before entry into the class it is required for. Transfer credits need to be submitted a minimum of six weeks prior to beginning of classes. Transfer students will be considered on an individual basis. Courses 200-level and above are restricted to admitted majors/minors only.

The major field examination in Computing is part of the senior exit test.

Computer Policy

The computer is a tool that is integral to the success of the computer scientist in her/his professional development. All students in the Computing program are required to have a computer and software meeting the program guidelines. The policy is updated yearly and will be in effect at the beginning of the Fall semester. It includes changes to reflect continual changes in technology. Computer purchases should be made such that the computer is ready for use on the first day of the semester.

Program Objectives

Student Outcomes

- An ability to apply knowledge of computing and mathematics appropriate to the discipline
- An ability to analyze a problem, and identify and define the computing requirements appropriate to its solution

Computing, Software Systems Concentration BS

Software Systems is focusing on the development and maintenance of software in an application area. A minor in an application area is included as part of the degree. Typical minors might include one of the sciences, behavioral science, or business. Supervised "real-world" projects are a requirement for this degree. A degree in Computing with the Software Systems emphasis prepares students for employment in developing and maintaining commercial applications and for graduate studies in applied computing such as software engineering.

Maintaining Academic Standing

No grade lower than C- may be counted toward any degree requirement. An Engineering or Computing course may be repeated only once. Students may repeat only two Engineering or Computing courses. Students will be asked to withdraw from the program if they fail two Engineering or Computing courses in the same semester. Readmission will be considered on an individual basis. All prerequisites for ENGR courses must be passed with a minimum grade of C- before entry into the class it is required for. Transfer credits need to be submitted a minimum of six weeks prior to beginning of classes. Transfer students will be considered on an individual basis.

Program Objectives

Student Outcomes

- An ability to apply knowledge of mathematics, science, and engineering.
- An ability to design and conduct experiments, as well as to analyze and interpret data.
- An ability to design a system, component, or process to meet desired needs within realistic constraints such as economic, environmental, social, political, ethical, health and safety, manufacturability, and sustainability.
- An ability to function on multidisciplinary teams.
- An ability to identify, formulate, and solve engineering problems.
- An understanding of professional and ethical responsibility.
- An ability to communicate effectively.
- The broad education necessary to understand the impact of engineering solutions in a global, economic, environmental, and societal context.
- A recognition of the need for, and an ability to engage in life-long learning.
- A knowledge of contemporary issues.
- An ability to use the techniques, skills, and modern engineering tools necessary for engineering practice.
- A well-rounded, Christ-centered life perspective through the integration of the entire Andrews University curriculum.

Undergraduate Minors

Computing Minor

Required courses—9

CPTR 151 - Computer Science I Credits: 3
CPTR 152 - Computer Science II Credits: 3
CPTR 276 - Data Structures and Algorithms Credits: 3

Minor electives—11

Chosen from CPTR courses in consultation with a CS academic advisor.

Note:

No course grade below a C- may apply to a major or minor in Computing. All prerequisites for CPTR courses must be passed with a minimum grade of C- before entry into the class it is required for.

MATH 192 - Calculus II Credits: 4

Computing & Software Engineering

CPTR 151 - Computer Science I

Credits: 3

An introduction to programming methodology using a high level language, advanced operating system usage, problem-solving, algorithm development, control structures, arrays, program style, design correctness and documentation techniques, as well as a brief overview of computer systems and computer history.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

CPTR 152 - Computer Science II

Credits: 3

A continuation of CPTR151. Examines program specifications, design, coding, correctness, and style with additional coverage of pointers and arrays, and an in-depth study of recursion and data structures. Includes files, lists, stacks, queues, trees, graphs, and an overview of computer ethics.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): CPTR 151

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

CPTR 245 - Discrete Structures

Credits: 3

Formal mathematical structures and methods used in developing computing solutions are introduced. Their application in computer science is emphasized.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 168 or MPE score of P4 or higher

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CPTR 251 - Application Development I

Credits: 3
A study of techniques and concepts used for developing service applications. Aspects covered include the internet, web, databases, networking and object-oriented. Content adjusted based on current trends.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 151
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CPTR 252 - Application Development II

Credits: 3
A study of techniques and concepts used for developing endpoint applications for modern computing platforms such as mobile devices. The content is adjusted based on current trends.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 152
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CPTR 276 - Data Structures and Algorithms

Credits: 3
A study of techniques for the design and analysis and implementation of data structures and algorithms commonly used in computing. Includes introductions to asymptotic notation, sorting, search trees, hash tables, and graphs.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 152
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CPTR 285 - Systems Programming

Credits: 3
Organization of programs and data; program analysis, pointers, manual memory management, system calls, introduction to threads, embedded programming.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 151
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CPTR 295 - Directed Computer Language Study

Credits: 1–3
Directed study of computer language in consultation with the instructor. Normally, the language is not included in other courses taught by the department. A programming project may be required.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 152 or equivalent.
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: CAS

CPTR 425 - Programming Languages

Credits: 3
Survey of current programming languages, including structure, runtime systems, the specification of syntax, and semantics. Definition of syntax for formal languages with emphasis on context-free languages. Techniques for scanning and parsing programming languages.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 276
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CPTR 430 - Analysis of Algorithms

Credits: 3
An introduction to the design and analysis of advanced algorithms. Topics include asymptotic complexity bounds, graph and tree algorithms, and algorithmic strategies (such as greedy, divide-and-conquer and dynamic programming).

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 245 or MATH 355, CPTR 276
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

CPTR 436 - Numerical Methods and Analysis

Credits: 3
A study of common numerical techniques applicable on a computer. Includes interpolation, extrapolation, approximation techniques, numerical methods for linear problems, root finding, function fitting, numerical integration, location of extremes, efficiency of numerical algorithms, and minimization of computational error.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 152 and MATH 215
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

CPTR 437 - Formal Theory of Computation

Credits: 3
Study of the various classes of formal languages, their grammars, properties and recognizing machines. Turing machines. Computability.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 245 or MATH 355, CPTR 276
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CPTR 440 - Operating Systems

Credits: 3
Process management, including asynchronous concurrent processes and deadlock, virtual storage management and job and process scheduling, multiprocessing, disk scheduling and file and database systems, performance and security.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 276
CPTR 152 - Computer Science II
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CPTR 450 - Network Computing and Architecture

Credits: 3
Concepts applicable to constructing a computer network and the application of computing algorithms and solutions using networked computers and devices. Study topics such as physical transmission media, protocols and associated layers, TCP/IP, application programming interfaces and frameworks, sockets, clustering and security.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 276
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CPTR 460 - Software Engineering

Credits: 3
Surveys basic software engineering topics associated with the processes, documents, and products of the entire software life cycle. Topics include software evolution, project organization, and management, feasibility studies, product definition, design, implementation, and testing issues, and the role of the software engineer within the life cycle.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 276
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CPTR 465 - Computer Architecture

Credits: 3
Focus on hardware aspects of computing and logical concepts. Includes data representation for numbers and other data types, Boolean algebra, digital logic circuit representations of basic computational building blocks, CPU components, interrupt schemes and buses. Relevance of supporting concepts is discussed, including system software, assemblers, assembly language programming and operating systems.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 152, ENGR 385
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CPTR 467 - Database Concepts and Theory

Credits: 3
Study of issues relevant to abstract and concrete aspects in both the creation of database management system software and its use. Indexing, buffering and other internal and physical database design issues. Relational model algebra, calculus and query languages. Functional dependencies and normalization. Study of and modeling using Entity-Relationship and other relevant paradigms. Common application databases. Introduction to the use of transactions, query optimization and non-relational database models. Design and programming assignments using databases.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 152, CPTR 276
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

CPTR 475 - Topics in _____

Credits: 1-4
Selected topics of current interest in computing such as Robotics, advanced languages, or others.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 151
Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

CPTR 485 - Computer Graphics

Credits: 3
Introduction to computer graphics focusing on the algorithms and data structures for the modeling and shading of 3-d images. Topics include basic OpenGL programming, mesh generation, shading, raytracing, radiosity methods, procedural textures, and fractal methods.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 276
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CPTR 487 - Artificial Intelligence

Credits: 3
Provides the conceptual basis for understanding current trends in Artificial Intelligence. Topics include both symbolic and numeric processing, intelligent search methods, problem representation, machine learning, expert systems, and a survey of some social implications of AI.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 276
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

CPTR 490 - Research

Credits: 0-6
Students will either assist a faculty member in an ongoing research project or develop a project of their own with the help and approval of the faculty member in their areas of interest or study. This course is for students who have a reasonably established knowledge of computing at the college level. A minimum of 3 hours work per week is required for each credit earned and a written paper is required.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: CAS

CPTR 493 - Practicum

Credits: 0-6
This course facilitates a professional experience for the student. It functions with the consent and advice of the computer science program faculty. Opportunities and venues vary, and must include designing and implementing an innovative and novel computing solution. Three primary approaches are undergraduate research, professional internship, or a major design project. A minimum of 3 hours of work per week per credit is required.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)
Prerequisite/Corequisite: CPTR 460
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Practicum
College Code: CAS

CPTR 495 - Independent Study

Credits: 1-3
Directed study of material of special interest chosen in consultation with the instructor. No more than 6 credits may be earned in CPTR495.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: CAS

CPTR 496 - Special Projects

Credits: 1-3
Project chosen in consultation with instructor. No more than 6 credits may be earned in CPTR 496.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: CAS

Engineering

ENGR 120 - Introduction to Engineering & Design

Credits: 2
An introductory course in engineering and design. It teaches the basic principles of design and related design tools from a basic level. Students will be taught to use computer tools for engineering analysis.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 125 - Engineering Graphics

Credits: 3
Fundamentals of drawing as applied to mechanical engineering problems. Orthographic projections, auxiliary and sectional views, dimensioning and tolerancing, oblique and isometric views, detail and assembly drawing. Sketching and computer aided drafting.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 1-hour lectures and two 1.5-hour labs
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 180 - Materials Science

Credits: 4
Introduction to the study of materials. Covers physical properties, application and relevant properties associated with engineering material. A weekly hands-on laboratory helps demonstrate the relationship of properties of materials studied in lecture.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3-hour lecture and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 131
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 185 - Engineering Statics

Credits: 3
Principles of statics and their application to engineering problems; forces, moments, couples, friction, centroids and moments of inertia.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite/Corequisite: MATH 191
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 215 - Robotics Programming

Credits: 2,3
This course covers the basic operations of a robotic arm using the teach pendant as the main interface. A Robotics Handling Tool Software Package is used in this course. Students successfully completing this course will be able to: Safely power up and jog the robot; recover from common errors and robot faults; execute production operation; create, modify and execute a teach pendant program; and abort and access teach pendant programs. This course consists of lectures, demonstrations and a series of lab exercises.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a lab
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Year Offering: Even years
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 225 - Circuit Analysis

Credits: 3
Resistive circuit analysis, network theorems, dependent sources, energy storage elements, 1st and 2nd order circuit transient responses, ac circuit analysis using phasors and impedances, and ac complex power.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2-hour lecture and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 191
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 248 - Workshop

Credits: 1–4
Provides flexibility for the occasional workshop where it is appropriate to offer engineering credit. Workshop requirements must be approved by the department.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Workshop
Special Approval: Advisor permission required.

College Code: CAS

ENGR 275 - Electronics I

Credits: 3
Introduction to diodes and transistors and their applications in switching and amplification circuits. Introduction to the basic op-amp circuits and their characteristics. Binary numbers and codes, Boolean algebra, logic circuits, flip-flops and registers. Digital circuit applications.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2-hour lecture and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 225
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 285 - Engineering Dynamics

Credits: 3
Vectorial kinematics of moving bodies in fixed and moving reference frames. Kinetics of particles, assemblies of particles, and rigid bodies, with emphasis on the concept of momentum. Keplerian motion, elementary vibrations, and conservative dynamic systems.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 185 and MATH 192
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 310 - Linear Systems Analysis

Credits: 3
Convolution, analysis and spectra of continuous time domain signals, Fourier and Laplace transforms, discrete time domain signals, and the z-transform.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 215, MATH 286, CPTR 151
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 320 - Manufacturing Processes

Credits: 3
Deals with today's technologies and the future of manufacturing. It includes details of product design process, rapid prototyping and a survey of manufacturing technologies.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 180
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 325 - Electronics II

Credits: 4
Modeling of transistors, biasing of transistors in amplifier circuits, and amplitude and frequency limitations of transistors. Linear and switching electronic circuits with an emphasis on op-amps.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3-hour lecture and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 275
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 330 - Thermodynamics

Credits: 3
Introduction to the nature of energy and study of energy transport conservation in closed and flowing systems; properties and states of solids, liquids, vapors, and gases; enthalpy; meaning and production of entropy and introduction to cyclic systems.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 241
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 331 - Thermodynamics II

Credits: 3
Principles of phase and chemical equilibria in the solution of chemical engineering problems in the traditional process industries, biological systems, materials processing, pharmaceutical manufacturing and other industries.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 330
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

ENGR 335 - Logic Circuit Design

Credits: 3
Modern digital logic families, state machines, design of digital logic circuits in FPGAs, and VHDL specification of logic circuits.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 275
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 340 - Mechanics of Materials

Credits: 3
Mechanics courses geared towards developing the ability to analyze a given problem in a simple and logical manner using fundamental and well-understood principles of mechanics. free-body diagrams will be used extensively to determine external and internal forces.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 185
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 345 - Chemical Engineering Fundamentals

Credits: 3
Introduction to Separation Processes of gas absorption, distillations, leaching/extraction, etc. Introduction to Methods of Chemical Engineering calculations and analysis. Stoichiometric relations, material and energy balances, and behavior of gases, vapors, liquid and solids.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 191, CHEM 131
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

ENGR 355 - Chemical Engineering Lab

Credits: 4
Introduction to various measurement techniques available for chemical and general engineering application. National Instrument LabVIEW Data Acquisition system is used to collect data for analysis.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 1.5 hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CHEM 200
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 360 - Fluid Dynamics

Credits: 3
Fluid statics and dynamics of fluid motion. Conservation of mass, momentum, and energy in laminar and turbulent flow. Boundary layer flow, lift and drag forces, viscous flow in conduits, open channel flow, flow measurements.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 285, ENGR 330, MATH 286
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 385 - Microprocessor Systems

Credits: 4
Introduction to computer organization, microprocessors, assembly language programming, memory devices, I/O devices, interfacing with emphasis on control applications.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3-hour lecture and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 335 or CPTR 276
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 390 - Engineering Measurements

Credits: 4
Introduction to measurement theory with statistics and uncertainty analysis. Principles of Instrumentation including temperature, pressure, velocity, strains and flow measurements. Use of National Instrument LabVIEW Data Acquisition System to collect data for analysis.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 2-hour Classes, One 1.25-hour Lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 330 ENGR 340
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 391 - Electric Motors

Credits: 1
Study of transformers, ac, dc, and stepping motors; and motor control requirements.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 275

Recommended: ENGR 390
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
College Code: CAS

ENGR 410 - Feedback Control Systems

Credits: 4
Fundamentals of control design and analysis of linear feedback systems, their characteristics, performance and stability. The Routh-Hurwitz stability, root-locus, Bode plots, and Nyquist techniques. Performance criteria, design, and compensation of feedback control systems.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3-hour lecture and a 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 275 ENGR 285 ENGR 310
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 415 - Virtual Instrumentation

Credits: 3
For engineering majors. Introduction to virtual instrumentation with emphasis on the sampling requirements and the signal conditioning requirements. Data logging and control applications.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 275, CPTR 151
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 415-002 - Virtual Instrumentation

Credits: 1
Introduction to virtual instrumentation with emphasis on the sampling requirements and the signal conditioning requirements. Data logging and control applications.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): CPTR 151
Schedule Type: Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 420 - Machine Design

Credits: 3
This course emphasizes both failure theory and analysis as well as the synthesis and design aspect of machine elements. It touches on the commonality of the analytical approaches needed to design a wide variety of elements and the need to use computer aided engineering as an approach to the design and analysis of these classes of problems.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 320 ENGR 390
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 425 - Project Management

Credits: 3
Methodology used successfully to carry out a technical project including proposals, planning, work breakdown, scheduling, creativity, monitoring progress, and documentation.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): STAT 285 or STAT 340
Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Odd years
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 430 - Quality Control

Credits: 3
Analysis of the factors affecting product quality during manufacturing. Topics include use of basic statistics and probability for measurements, observations, sampling, control charts and reliability.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): STAT 285 or STAT 340
Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 435 - Electromagnetic Fields

Credits: 3
Study of static and dynamic electric and magnetic fields. Unbounded and bounded fields, fields in materials, force and torque, energy and potential functions, and Faraday induction. Propagation of electromagnetic energy; plane waves, transmission lines, and waveguides; radiation from dipole antennas; introduction to arrays.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 240, MATH 286, PHYS 242
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 440 - Heat and Mass Transfer

Credits: 3
Study of steady-state and transient heat conduction, forced and non-forced convection through ducts and over surfaces, blackbody thermal radiation, solar radiation, heat exchangers, and mass transfer.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 360, MATH 286
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 450 - Engineering Economy

Credits: 2
Study of engineering decision methodology and criteria used to evaluate the economic aspects of selection of equipment, structures, methods, and processes.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 145 or MATH 191
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 455 - Communication Systems

Credits: 4
Introduction to the fundamentals of communication systems including signals and spectra, information theory, sampling and quantization, coding, modulation, signal detection and system performance in the presence of noise.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 310, ENGR 325, STAT 340
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 464 - Kinetics and Reactor Design

Credits: 3
Basic concepts of chemical rate processes as applied to the theory of the design and operation of various types of commercial reactors for both non-catalytic and catalytic reactions; including mole balances, rate laws and stoichiometry, collection and analysis of rate data, multiple reactions, isothermal and non-isothermal reactor design, catalysis and catalytic reactors.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 345
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

ENGR 465 - Operations Analysis and Modeling

Credits: 3
The methodology of mathematical modeling and its relation to solving problems in industrial and public systems. Linear programming, scheduling, queuing, simulation, optimization, and decision analysis.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 192, STAT 340.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

ENGR 470 - Finite Element Methods

Credits: 3
Introduction of finite element methods for the solution of problems in solid mechanics and heat transfer. Techniques for obtaining approximate numerical solutions to governing differential equations in the problem areas are covered. Industrial software is applied to the analysis and design of a broad range of engineering problems.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 330, ENGR 340, MATH 286
Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Even years
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

ENGR 475 - Topics in

Credits: 1–4
Selected topics of current interest in engineering.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): Dependant on topic
Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics
Schedule Type: Lecture, Blended Learning
College Code: CAS

ENGR 478 - Study Tour

Credits: 0
Travel to destinations relevant to individual programs of study. Classes will be selected from department offerings.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Noncredit (NC,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Blended Learning
Year Offering: Odd years
Term Offering: Summer
College Code: CAS

ENGR 480 - Process Design

Credits: 3
Application of the basic concepts learned in previous courses to the design and analysis of a chemical processing system, primarily through a design project; Computer-Aided Design (process simulation), economic analysis, process safety, flow-sheet synthesis (conceptual design), and decision-making analysis (optimization) are covered.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 464
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

ENGR 485 - Community Project in Engineering

Credits: 2–6
"Hands-on" involvement in humanitarian and/or service-oriented projects. Work initiated by students requires prior approval of faculty.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

ENGR 490 - Research

Credits: 0–3
Students will either assist a faculty member in an ongoing research project or develop a project of their own with the help and approval of the faculty member in their areas of interest or study. This course is for students who have a reasonably established knowledge of engineering at the college level. A minimum of 45 hours for each credit earned and a written paper is required.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 3 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
Special Approval: Instructor permission required.

College Code: CAS

ENGR 491 - Review of Engineering Design

Mission

The Andrews University Department of English constitutes a vital component of this distinctive Seventh-day Adventist institution of higher learning. It draws together a diverse community of learners committed to seeking knowledge, affirming faith, and changing the world. Within the framework of Christian faith and purpose, it develops graduates who are competent, creative and critical readers, writers and thinkers, capable of a variety of careers and scholarly pursuits.

English Proficiency Requirements

Students whose first language is not English must provide evidence of English-language proficiency before they are accepted into any program in the Department of English. To qualify for admission, students must obtain at least a minimum composite score on one of the following exams, with component score(s) at or above those indicated:

Paper-based TOEFL (ITP) composite score of 600 with no component score lower than 55. An additional written essay exam is required with a minimum score of 80, and an additional speaking evaluation with a score of not less than 3.

Internet-based TOEFL (iBT) composite score of 100, with Reading and Listening component scores of at least 15, Writing component score of at least 17, and Speaking component score of at least 18.

MELAB composite score of 84 with no component score lower than 80.

IELTS composite score of 7, with Reading, Listening, and Speaking component scores of at least 6, and a Writing component score of at least 5.

The exam must be taken within two years prior to enrollment. Students who score below these levels may complete language requirements by enrolling in Intensive English Program courses (ENSL) on campus. Students with a score on the TOEFL ITP of 575-599 (or the equivalent on any of the four other exams) may be eligible for the Language Bridge Program which allows students to take a limited number of degree program courses while completing language proficiency requirements in Intensive English Program courses. Students in the Language Bridge Program must demonstrate language proficiency within two semesters in order to continue in the degree program. Exceptions to these requirements may be granted by the Department of English on an individual basis.

English as a Second Language

Housed in the Department of English, the Center for Intensive English Programs (CIEP) offers programs to assist students in improving their English language proficiency. Students may enroll in the English for Academic Purposes (EAP) Program, which offers courses in grammar, reading, writing, critical thinking, and oral/aural practice. Students who complete all Level 4 classes in this program with a grade of B or better, who pass a required speaking test, and who pass the required exit exam, will be granted a certificate of completion. The certificate indicates that the student has completed the CIEP EAP program and has completed the university's language requirements.

Bachelors

English, English Education Concentration BA

A degree for students seeking careers as K-12 teachers in pre-collegiate denominational or public schools. Students normally spend four to five years in residence to complete the requirements.

All students who graduate with a BA in English will be able to:

Demonstrate familiarity with a diversity of Anglophone literature, its historical and cultural contexts, its genres, and major critical approaches.

Produce interpretive and analytical texts that are clear, organized, supported with evidence, and accurately documented.

Identify and discuss elements of a Christian perspective in the analysis and creation of texts and in language use.

Students who graduate with a BA in English, Literature Emphasis, will be able to:

Demonstrate cohesive knowledge of the scope and sequence of Anglophone literature, and broad knowledge and application of critical theories.

Project/Thesis

Candidates must complete one of the following options:

- A. Project paper (7,000-9,000 words)
- B. MA Thesis (18,000+ words)

Admission Requirements

Applicants must meet the English Proficiency Requirements.

Applicants must have earned a minimum of 20 semester hours (30 quarter credits) in English courses as prerequisites, including ENGL 460 (or its equivalent).

These prerequisites are in addition to the General Education composition requirement.

It is desirable to have completed an English undergraduate major of at least 30 semester hours (45 quarter credits).

Students taking the MA: English (TESOL) must have completed ENGL 300 (or its equivalent) as a prerequisite.

Applicants with fewer English prerequisite credits than the minimum number required must remove the deficiencies by taking additional English courses other than those required for the MA degree.

Applicants must demonstrate proficiency in a foreign language by having done one of the following:

Earned credit through the intermediate college level with a minimum average grade of C.

Passed an exam approved by the English Department.

Completed their education through secondary school in a first language other than English.

English Language Requirements

Students whose first language is not English must provide evidence of English-language proficiency before they are accepted into any program in the Department of English. To qualify for admission to the English MA, students must obtain at least a minimum composite score on one of the following exams:

- Paper-based TOEFL (ITP) composite score of 600
- Internet-based TOEFL (iBT) composite score of 100
- MELAB composite score of 84
- IELTS composite score of 7

The exam must be taken within two years prior to enrollment. Students who score below these levels may complete language requirements by enrolling in Intensive English Program courses (ENSL) on campus. For required scores on other standardized proficiency exams, contact the department.

Mission

The Center for Intensive English Programs (CIEP) at Andrews University seeks to provide students with an opportunity to develop the skills needed to:

- Meet life's needs in aural/oral and written communication
- Communicate within the language formalities of an academic institution
- Prepare for college/university entrance

Methods

- CIEP offers a rigorous academic English program to help students prepare to apply to college/university
- CIEP enhances English skills through a variety of academic, cultural, and professional experiences
- CIEP establishes tutorials and conversation partners to encourage interaction with native English speakers
- CIEP maintains small class sizes for optimal learning

Results

- Participants matriculate into undergraduate and graduate programs
- Professionals achieve English language proficiency
- Participants function within the various English language formalities

Non-degree Majors

English for Academic Purposes (EAP) Program

Program Information

The EAP Program develops and assesses college-level academic English language proficiency, and completing the EAP Program gives both undergraduate and graduate students at Andrews the opportunity to meet university English requirements. The EAP Program is offered during Fall semester, Spring semester, and in an eight-week Summer semester, which counts as a full semester. EAP classes are offered for credit or for non-credit hours.

Placement

The CIEP English Placement Test (EPT) is used to place new students into one of four levels in the EAP Program: Level 1 (Beginning), Level 2 (Lower Intermediate), Level 3 (Upper Intermediate), and Level 4 (Advanced). The Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL), or any other English language proficiency test accepted by Andrews University, is not required for individuals to be placed into one of the four levels; however, if an individual has an English language proficiency score on record, this score may be used in determining level placement, though the EPT score is the primary level placement indicator.

Classes

Each of the four levels has core classes in grammar, reading, writing, listening, and speaking. Additional skill-building classes focus on pronunciation, conversation and discussion, academic presentations, and American culture and values.

CIEP Certificate

The CIEP Certificate is awarded to students who successfully complete the EAP Program, and earning the CIEP Certificate demonstrates completion of university language requirements. To earn the CIEP Certificate, an individual must do all of the following:

Pass (B grade or higher) all EAP classes starting at the level in which an individual was initially placed until Level 4 is completed (16 credits or non-credit hours per level in Fall and Spring semesters and 12 credits or non-credit hours per level in Summer semester)

Pass the required EAP Speaking Test, which is given as part of the Level 4 Speaking & Listening class

Pass the required EAP Exit Exam, which is given upon successful completion of all Level 4 classes

Note: The TOEFL (or any English language proficiency test other than the EAP Exit Exam) is not required to complete the EAP Program.

Certificates

Andrews English Experience

Andrews English Experience is a short intensive English program offered in July and/or January in sessions of two or three weeks on the Andrews campus or on the campus of another institution. Andrews English Experience has a general track open to all learners and professional tracks open to cohorts of ten individuals or more (for each professional track) in specific disciplines or professions (e.g., professional workshops can focus on business English, medical English, English for church leaders, etc.). Core English classes are offered in the mornings for all learners and specialized general track and professional track workshops are offered in the afternoons. Field trips and other cultural activities may be offered as part of Andrews English Experience for an additional cost. The Andrews English Experience Certificate is awarded to all individuals who complete the program.

Other Programs

Conversation Partner Program, Tutorials, and Community English Workshops

A conversation partner program is offered most semesters to students enrolled in certain CIEP classes. In addition, both one-on-one tutorial services and short-term group tutorial sessions can be arranged for a fee on a case-by-case basis. Finally, certain specialized English tutorials, such as a TOEFL preparation workshop, are offered for a fee and are open to the community.

Language Bridge Program

The Language Bridge Program allows students to take a limited number of degree program courses while completing language proficiency requirements in CIEP. To be eligible for the Language Bridge Program, individuals must have a TOEFL ITP score of 500-549 (or the equivalent on another English language proficiency test accepted by Andrews University) for most degree programs. Degree programs with higher admissions requirements will also have higher requirements for participation in the Language Bridge Program, and not all degree programs at Andrews allow students to participate in the Language Bridge Program. For full details on this program, see the Language Bridge Program Policy.

Mission

The Department of International Language Studies strives to develop students' knowledge of foreign languages and cultures in a Christian environment. It provides a broad range of educational courses and programs that build foreign language competence and enhance the understanding of foreign literatures and cultures. The department not only helps students develop a global perspective by training them to use their foreign language skills in a variety of fields, but also to develop critical understanding of world culture in its complexity and diversity, supporting and promoting Christ's appeal to this generation, "And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached in all the world as a witness to all the nations, and then the end will come."

The department provides students with communicative competence in a second language, promotes a greater understanding of and appreciation for the significance of language in human interaction, fosters interest in other cultures, and encourages intellectual development through enhanced cognitive and analytical skills.

The department offers many opportunities for language students to enhance an appreciation of other cultures and to develop fluency in the use of another language by participating in the Adventist Colleges Abroad (ACA) programs, language clubs, the National Language Honor Society, and religious activities.

Departmental Tours

The Department of International Language Studies offers two study tours: Europe and South America. Each tour is equivalent to six credits that count towards majors and minors. The South American tour may be taken only as Portuguese and Spanish credits; the European tour can be taken as French or Spanish credits. A maximum of 6 tour credits may be applied to the major or minor for students participating in the ACA program. All courses included in the tour are taught in the target language. Andrews University policies apply to the tour.

Bachelors

French BA

The BA in French is designed for students who want to know more about French civilization and who are interested in professions such as medicine, law, teaching, and journalism, as well as those wishing to pursue graduate studies in French. Certificates

Business French Certificate

Andrews University is an approved examination center of the Paris Chamber of Commerce. Students may take the Diplome de Francais des Affaires I or II at Andrews University. These French diplomas, identical to the ones taken in France, are highly respected in the United States, Canada, France, and Europe. Students who succeed in obtaining the Diplome de Francais des Affaires I or II will be able to handle basic business tasks in a French setting.

Business Spanish Certificate

Andrews University is also an approved examination center for the Madrid Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Students may take the Examen de Español de Negocios and receive the Diploma or Certificate from the Chamber of Commerce and Industry of Madrid and the prestigious University of Alcalá de Henares. The purpose of this exam is to prove that students have an in-depth knowledge of the Spanish language and that they can work in any business-related field. The deadline for registration is February 15.

Spanish Translation/Interpretation Certificate

The Department of International Language Studies offers a Certificate in Spanish Translation/Interpretation. Students who wish to obtain the Certificate should demonstrate fluency in both English and Spanish.

Other Programs

Adventist Colleges Abroad Program

Andrews University, as a member institution, participates in the Adventist Colleges Abroad (ACA) program which gives North American students an opportunity to enhance their ability to use a foreign language and to experience a foreign culture while completing the requirements for a baccalaureate degree in the regular four-year period without losing credits or extending their courses of study. The Adventist Colleges Abroad program offers a wide variety of courses in composition, phonetics, reading, literature, folklore, culture, business, and civilization. Other courses may be taken to fulfill Andrews Core Experience requirements. In addition, students participate in on-site guided field trips of geographic, historic, or economic significance.

Admission Requirements

Admission as a student at Andrews University.

Competence in the language at the intermediate level is recommended.

However, applicants with two to three years of secondary or one year of elementary-level college language study may be admitted.

GPA of 2.25 in the language and 2.00 overall.

Good citizenship record

Completion of ACA application with all required information and signatures (academic and financial arrangements).

Fulfilling Major/Minor Requirements.

Adventist Colleges Abroad students with majors or minors in a language are encouraged to take the required conversation, composition, civilization, and literature courses at the upper division level while studying abroad if their level of proficiency enables them to do so (see major requirements). Upon their return to Andrews University, students must take in residence the following minimum number of credits:

For a language major: 12 upper division credits

For a language minor: 6 upper division credits

These requirements apply to all students who spend a full school year abroad, including transfer students. Students should take a normal load of 16 credits each quarter or 12 credits per semester. Students also are encouraged to take as many Andrews Core Experience courses as possible.

Additional Information

Language Honor Society. The local Beta Kappa chapter of AlphaMu Gamma, the national collegiate honor society for foreign languages, gives recognition to outstanding students.

Language Clubs. The Department of International Language Studies sponsors two language clubs. The purpose is to promote cultural, academic, social and spiritual activities. "Adelante" is the Spanish club and "Oh la la" is the French club. Both clubs require membership fees.

Language Requirements for Andrews Core Experience. Students who wish to have the language requirement waived (with or without credit) by passing a proficiency exam should apply at the Department of International Language Studies. Exams are given in the languages taught at the department: French, German, Korean, Portuguese, and Spanish. Exceptions can be made for other languages by the chair of the Department of International Language Studies. The examination will reflect the student-performance outcomes expected at the intermediate level in the four language skills of reading, writing, listening, and speaking according to the American Council of Teaching Foreign Languages (ACTFL) guidelines. Upon written approval by the instructor, the Department of International Language Studies will grant up to 12 credits per language examined. See here for fees for Language Proficiency exams. See p. 44 for CLEP options.

Preparation for Teaching. Students preparing to teach French or Spanish at the elementary or secondary level must qualify for teaching credentials as outlined in the School of Education section of this bulletin. The program leading to the Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) degree in French or Spanish is described in the School of Education section of this bulletin.

Mission

The Liberal Arts, General Studies & Interdisciplinary Studies programs serve students who need an individualized and interdisciplinary degree, and house specific courses that do not naturally fit within any existing departments. The goal is to cooperate with the mission of the sponsoring departments and the fundamental mission of Andrews University.

Associates

General Studies AA

The General Studies Associate of Arts degree is designed to serve students seeking to complete a degree for personal or professional goals.

On-campus students looking to complete the General Studies AA will need to make application in the College of Arts & Sciences Dean's Office (Nethery Hall, Room 135).

Online delivery: Students electing to complete more than 50% of the program online will choose the distance education version, coordinated through the School of Distance Education. This program is offered in a self-paced online format (see School of Distance Education and International Partnerships Definitions). This self-paced online degree does not require any on-campus time unless on-campus courses are selected.

Degree Requirements

Complete a minimum of 62 semester credits
Fulfill the Andrews Core Experience for an Associate degree
Fulfill the general associate degree requirements

Course selection is made in consultation with the advisor

Earn a minimum of 15 semester credits through Andrews University

A minimum of 9 credits of the major must be taken in residence

The overall GPA for all courses (including transfer credits) must be 2.0

The GPA for all focus-area courses (including transfer credits) must be 2.25

General Studies AS

The General Studies Associate of Science degree is designed to serve students seeking to complete a degree for personal or professional goals.

On-campus students looking to complete the General Studies AS will need to make application in the College of Arts & Sciences Dean's Office (Nethery Hall, Room 135).

Bachelors

General Studies BA

The General Studies Bachelor of Arts degree is designed to serve students seeking to complete a degree for personal or professional goals.

On-campus students looking to complete the General Studies BA will need to make application in the College of Arts & Sciences Dean's Office (Nethery Hall, Room 135).

Online delivery: Students electing to complete more than 50% of the program online will choose the distance education version, coordinated through the School of Distance Education. This program is offered in a self-paced online format (see School of Distance Education and International Partnerships Definitions). This self-paced online degree does not require any on-campus time unless on-campus courses are selected.

Program Requirements

Complete a minimum of 124 semester credits

Fulfill the Andrews Core Experience for a BA degree

Fulfill the general baccalaureate degree requirements

A minimum of 33 semester credits in the student's chosen focus area, with at least 11 credits numbered 300 or above

A minimum of 30 semester credits from courses numbered 300 or above

Earn a minimum of 30 semester credits through Andrews University

Elective courses to fill the balance of 124 semester credits

The overall GPA for all courses (including transfer credits) must be 2.0

The GPA for all focus-area courses (including transfer credits) must be 2.25

No course with a grade below C- may count toward the focus area

General Studies BS

The General Studies Bachelor of Science degree is designed to serve students seeking to complete a degree for personal or professional goals.

On-campus students looking to complete the General Studies BS will need to make application in the College of Arts & Sciences Dean's Office (Nethery Hall, Room 135).

Online delivery: Students electing to complete more than 50% of the program online will choose the distance education version, coordinated through the School of Distance Education. This program is offered in a self-paced online format (see School of Distance Education and International Partnerships Definitions). Degree Requirements

- A minimum of 124 semester credits
- Fulfill the Andrews Core Experience requirements for a BS degree
- Fulfill the general baccalaureate degree requirements
- A minimum of 39 semester credits in the student's chosen focus area, with at least 13 credits numbered 300 or above
- A minimum of 30 semester credits from courses numbered 300 or above
- Earn a minimum of 30 semester credits through Andrews University
- Elective courses to fill the balance of 124 semester credits
- The overall GPA for all courses (including transfer credits) must be 2.0
- The GPA for all focus-area courses (including transfer credits) must be 2.25
- No course with a grade below C- may count toward the focus area

Liberal Arts, Humanities Concentration BA

Program Description

The Andrews University liberal arts curriculum seeks to challenge students by preparing them for an increasingly complex and interconnected world.

The liberal arts degrees demonstrate the following learning objectives in each of the concentrations: critical thinking, effective communication, and life-long learning and the preparation of students for lives of leadership and service.

The degree on the diploma and transcript will be listed as a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Science. The major on the transcript will be Liberal Arts, with a listing of one of four concentrations: Humanities, Sciences, Social Sciences, Interdisciplinary.

The Liberal Arts degree program will be administered from the College of Arts and Sciences Dean's Office, with the Associate Dean assigned the responsibility to coordinate the advising of students. Academic oversight of the program will be the responsibility of the Liberal Arts Advisory Committee whose membership will include representation from the departments represented by the curricular requirements.

Liberal Arts students will be required to keep a portfolio of work done during their education in order to demonstrate progress toward meeting learning objectives.

Degree Details

- Divided into four Concentrations
 - Humanities
 - Sciences
 - Social Sciences
 - Interdisciplinary

- Governed by an Andrews University Advisory Committee
- A minimum of 124 semester credits must be earned, including a concentration of 45 credits plus general education requirements and electives
- A minimum of 30 semester credits in the degree must be from courses numbered 300 and above
- A minimum of 60 credits must be earned from approved AU courses
- A minimum of 15 credits in the concentration must be earned from approved AU courses numbered 300 and above
- Why and For Whom

- Person with a broader interest than a single discipline
- For those who switched majors
- Fall-back for the capable student
- More flexible than single-discipline degree
- For affiliate campuses – only approved concentrations

Humanities Concentration

Required course: PHIL 224 - Introduction to Philosophy

Three foundation classes are required.

RELG 350 - World Religions and

Two from the following list:

ARTH 220 - Language of Art

MUHL 214 - Enjoyment of Music

ENGL 255 - Studies in Literature

33 credits taken from three of the six areas listed below (including 15 upper-division credits from two of the six following areas):

- Fine Arts
- Philosophy
- Music
- Literature
- History
- Religion

Social Sciences Concentration

Required course: PHIL 224 - Introduction to Philosophy

Three foundation classes are required. It is highly recommended that you take upper-division courses in the two focus areas you choose, since they are likely to be prerequisites for some of the other upper-division classes you will need. Choose three from the following list:

ANTH 124 - Introduction to Anthropology
FMST 115 - Introduction to Family Studies or FMST 201 - Personal Relationships
PSYC 101 - Introduction to Psychology
SOC 119 - Principles of Sociology
PLSC 104 - American Government
ECON 225 - Principles of Macroeconomics or ECON 226 - Principles of Microeconomics

27 upper-division credits in two of the following six areas with a minimum of 4 upper-division classes from the two focus areas (for a total of 12 credits). The other 15 upper-division credits may come from any of the areas in the social sciences noted below:

Anthropology
Family Studies
Psychology
Sociology
Political Science
Economics

Two classes of electives (6 credits) from any of these acronyms: ANTH, FMST, PSYC, SOCI, PLSC, or ECON

Undergraduate Minors

General Studies Minor

A minor in General Studies may be used in conjunction with regular degrees or with a General Studies major

A GPA of at least 2.00 is required in all transfer credits—and in all credits earned at Andrews University that are counted for the minor—with no grade below C-

At least 3 semester credits must be earned on campus in courses numbered 300 or above

No more than 5 semester credits from the major can be used in the minor

Total Credits: 20

General Studies

GNST 091 - Academic Tutorial Support

Credits: 1–4

A tutorial application of the principles of academic success. Includes one-on-one tutoring and/or group-learning experiences. Could also include academic or cognitive evaluations when necessary.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor required.

Schedule Type: Independent

College Code: CAS

GNST 298 - PLA: (Special Topic)

Credits: variable

PLA (Prior Learning Assessment) is a process which validates learning experiences that have occurred outside traditional college/university academic programs. A portfolio of evidence for demonstrating experience and competency justifies and determines the amount of credit granted.

Grade Mode: By examination (P)

Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics

Schedule Type: Independent

College Code: CAS

GNST 416 - GRE Standardized Test Preparation: Verbal

Credits: 1

Review of topics covered on the standardized GRE exam. Includes at least one full-length practice exam.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

GNST 417 - GRE Standardized Test Preparation: Quantitative

Credits: 1

Review of topics covered on the standardized GRE exam. Includes at least one full-length practice exam.

Mission

Through teaching, research, and service, the Department of Mathematics seeks to provide leadership by

- Preparing a diverse student body with the mathematical understanding, problem-solving skills, and dispositions that enable career excellence;
- Increasing mathematical and scientific knowledge through publication and presentation and engaging undergraduates in research;
- Supporting the broader mathematics education community and mentoring others for generous service through a committed Christian life.

Mathematics is foundational to physics, engineering, and computer science, and is increasingly important in many fields of study such as finance, accounting, economics, biology, medicine, and environmental science. Students majoring in these and other fields will find that acquiring an additional major in mathematics or mathematical studies greatly enhances the marketability of their degree.

Special Requirements and Placement Test

Non-overlapping Credit Restrictions

Because there is substantial overlap in material covered in the following groups of courses, no student is granted credit (other than general elective credit) in more than one course from each group:

- MATH182, 191, 195 (Calculus with Applications, Calculus I, Calculus I for Biology)
- MATH145, 165, 166 (Reasoning with Functions, College Algebra, College Algebra for Business)

Minimum Grade for Prerequisites

Except for MATH191 and 195 which require a C in the prerequisite class (MATH168), the minimum grade to satisfy prerequisites is C-.

Mathematics Placement Examination (MPE) and General Education Mathematics Requirement

Information on the MPE and Andrews Core Experience Mathematics requirements is available in the section on Andrews Core Experience Mathematics and on the Department of Mathematics Web site.

Bachelors

Mathematics BS

Program Goals: BS Mathematics

- Students will demonstrate breadth and depth in their grasp of undergraduate mathematics.
- Students will conduct research projects, write papers, and make presentations.
- Graduates will be successful in obtaining employment or acceptance into graduate or professional programs.
- Graduates who enter graduate programs will be successful in completing the first year and eventually a master's or doctoral degree.
- Students will demonstrate a commitment to Jesus, the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and service to others.

Major Requirements: 39

Required courses

- MATH 191 - Calculus I Credits: 4 or MATH 195 - Calculus I for Biology Credits 4
- MATH 192 - Calculus II Credits: 4
- MATH 215 - Introduction to Linear Algebra Credits: 3
- MATH 240 - Calculus III Credits: 4
- MATH 286 - Differential Equations Credits: 3
- MATH 315 - Linear Algebra Credits: 3
- MATH 355 - Foundations of Advanced Mathematics Credits: 3
- MATH 389 - Mathematics Colloquium Credits: 0 or PHYS 277 - Physics Colloquium Credits 0
(4 semesters)
- MATH 431 - Real Analysis I Credits: 3
- MATH 432 - Real Analysis II Credits: 3
- MATH 441 - Abstract Algebra I Credits: 3

At least 6 credits in additional courses

In consultation with a Department of Mathematics advisor, students should choose at least 6 credits from the following courses:

- MATH 405 - Applied Mathematics Credits: 3
- MATH 408 - Complex Analysis Credits: 3
- MATH 426 - Mathematical Modeling in Biology Credits: 3
- MATH 442 - Abstract Algebra II Credits: 3
- MATH 475 - Geometry Credits: 3
- MATH 487 - Special Topics in _____ Credits: 1–3
- MATH 495 - Independent Study Credits: 1–3
- MATH 497 - Research in Mathematics Credits: 0–3
- STAT 340 - Probability Theory with Statistical Applications Credits: 3

Students in a secondary teacher certification program are required to take

- MATH 375 - Secondary School Mathematics Teaching Credits: 3
- MATH 475 - Geometry Credits: 3
- STAT 285 - Elementary Statistics Credits: 3

Note:

MATH 375 and STAT 285 do not count toward the 39 major credits. A major field test in mathematics is required during the senior year.

Cognate Course—3

- CPTR 151 - Computer Science I Credits: 3

Mathematics Education BS

Program Goals: BS Mathematics Education

- Students will demonstrate breadth and depth in their knowledge of undergraduate mathematics.
- Students will have teaching-related work experience during their college years.
- Graduates will be successful in obtaining employment or acceptance into graduate or professional programs.
- Graduates who accept teaching jobs or enter graduate programs will be successful in completing the first year. Those who enter graduate programs will eventually complete a master's or doctoral degree.

Students will demonstrate a commitment to Jesus, the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and service to others.
Graduated and student teachers will demonstrate a good understanding of the mathematics that they are teaching and the ability to communicate it clearly.

HIST 118 - Civilizations and Ideas II Credits: 3

Fine Arts/Humanities:

Choose one course from:

ARTH 220 - Language of Art Credits: 3
PHTO 210 - History of Photography Credits: 3
Studio Art (3)
ENGL 255 - Studies in Literature Credits: 3
PHIL 224 - Introduction to Philosophy Credits: 3
MUHL 214 - Enjoyment of Music Credits: 3
Ensemble Music (3)

Life/Physical Sciences:

Take one course from the Life Sciences and one from the Physical Sciences. Choose from the General Education Program requirements.

Mathematics:

Covered in major

Service:

EDTE 165 - Introduction to Teaching Credits: 4

Social Sciences:

GDPC 302 - Educational Psychology Credits: 3 &
EDTE 228 - Strategies for Educating Exceptional and Diverse Learners Credits: 3

Fitness Education:

HLED 120 - Fit for Life Credits: 1 plus two Fitness Education courses

Non-degree Majors

Mathematical Studies Major

Program Goals: Mathematical Studies

Students will demonstrate breadth and depth in their grasp of undergraduate mathematics.

Students will conduct research projects, write papers, and make presentations.

Graduates will be successful in obtaining employment or acceptance into graduate or professional programs.

Graduates who enter graduate programs will be successful in completing the first year and eventually a master's or doctoral degree.

Students will demonstrate a commitment to Jesus, the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and service to others.

Major Requirements: 30

Required courses:

MATH 191 - Calculus I Credits: 4 or MATH 195 - Calculus I for Biology Credits: 4
MATH 192 - Calculus II Credits: 4
MATH 215 - Introduction to Linear Algebra Credits: 3
MATH 240 - Calculus III Credits: 4
MATH 389 - Mathematics Colloquium Credits: 0 or PHYS 277 - Physics Colloquium Credits: 0 (2 semesters)

At least 15 credits in additional courses

In consultation with a Department of Mathematics advisor, students will take at least 15 additional credits from the following courses:

MATH 286 - Differential Equations Credits: 3
MATH 315 - Linear Algebra Credits: 3
MATH 355 - Foundations of Advanced Mathematics Credits: 3
MATH 405 - Applied Mathematics Credits: 3
MATH 408 - Complex Analysis Credits: 3
MATH 426 - Mathematical Modeling in Biology Credits: 3
MATH 431 - Real Analysis I Credits: 3
MATH 432 - Real Analysis II Credits: 3
MATH 441 - Abstract Algebra I Credits: 3
MATH 442 - Abstract Algebra II Credits: 3
MATH 475 - Geometry Credits: 3
MATH 487 - Special Topics in _____ Credits: 1–3
MATH 495 - Independent Study Credits: 1–3
MATH 497 - Research in Mathematics Credits: 3
STAT 340 - Probability Theory with Statistical Applications Credits: 3
CPTR 151 - Computer Science I Credits: 3

Note:

This major is available only as a second major, to those taking a major in another field.

Undergraduate Minors

Mathematics Education Minor

This minor is available only to those obtaining elementary teacher certification. For more information regarding teacher certification with a minor, see the department of Teaching, Learning & Curriculum.

Minor Requirements - 23

MATH 168 - Precalculus Credits: 4
MATH 191 - Calculus I Credits: 4 or MATH 195 - Calculus I for Biology Credits: 4
MATH 215 - Introduction to Linear Algebra Credits: 3
MATH 221 - Mathematics for Elementary Teachers I Credits: 3
MATH 222 - Mathematics for Elementary Teachers II Credits: 3
MATH 355 - Foundations of Advanced Mathematics Credits: 3

MATH 191 - Calculus I Credits: 4 or MATH 195 - Calculus I for Biology Credits: 4
MATH 192 - Calculus II Credits: 4
MATH 215 - Introduction to Linear Algebra Credits: 3

At least 9 credits in additional courses

Choose at least 9 credits of additional courses in consultation with a departmental advisor:

MATH 240 - Calculus III Credits: 4
MATH 286 - Differential Equations Credits: 3
MATH 315 - Linear Algebra Credits: 3
MATH 355 - Foundations of Advanced Mathematics Credits: 3
MATH 405 - Applied Mathematics Credits: 3

MATH 495 - Independent Study Credits: 1–3
MATH 497 - Research in Mathematics Credits: 0–3
STAT 340 - Probability Theory with Statistical Applications Credits: 3

Minor Requirements for elementary or secondary certification

For more information regarding teacher certification with a minor see the department of Teaching, Learning & Curriculum. Students in a secondary teacher certification program are required to take the following courses:

MATH 355 - Foundations of Advanced Mathematics Credits: 3
MATH 375 - Secondary School Mathematics Teaching Credits: 3
MATH 475 - Geometry Credits: 3
STAT 285 - Elementary Statistics Credits: 3
STAT 340 - Probability Theory with Statistical Applications Credits: 3

NOTE: A major field test in mathematics is required during the senior year.

Students in an elementary teacher certification program should take MATH 221 and MATH 222 instead of MATH 375.

Minor in Mathematics of Economics and Finance

This minor is available only to students obtaining a degree in the School of Business Administration.

Minor Requirements - 20

MATH 191 - Calculus I Credits: 4 or MATH 195 - Calculus I for Biology Credits: 4
MATH 192 - Calculus II Credits: 4
MATH 215 - Introduction to Linear Algebra Credits: 3

STAT 340 - Probability Theory with Statistical Applications Credits: 3

Mathematics

MATH 091 and MATH 092 are provided for students not achieving a score of at least P2 on the Mathematics Placement Examination (MPE).

Students complete the sequence MATH091/092 by passing a set of proficiency tests in arithmetic and algebra, at which time a P2 score is awarded. When this occurs, the student has completed the Math Skill part of the General Education requirement, and is considered ready to take MATH 145, MATH 165, MATH 166 or STAT 285. Depending on the diligence and previous preparation of the student, this may occur at any time in the MATH 091/MATH 092 sequence.

MATH 091 - Arithmetic and Algebra Review I

Credits: 3

Individualized review of arithmetic and algebra skills. Algebra topics include linear, quadratic and rational equations; graphs and systems of linear equations; and polynomial operations and factoring. Students completing all of the required topics and exams while enrolled in MATH091 will receive an MPE score of P2 and are not required to take MATH 092. Students earning a passing grade in MATH 091 but not completing all of the required topics and exams must enroll in MATH 092. This developmental course does not count toward college credit.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal with R (A-F,I,W,R)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 092 - Arithmetic and Algebra Review II

Credits: 3

Continuation of MATH 091. Students not completing the sequence requirements but fulfilling attendance, participation, and progress requirements may receive an R grade requiring re-registration the next semester. This developmental course does not count toward college credit.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal with R (A-F,I,W,R)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 091

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 145 - Mathematics for the (Mis)Information Age

Credits: 3

A quantitative reasoning course that teaches how to use algebraic tools and real-world data to make informed decisions and avoid being misled in public policy, science, health, and business. Topics include logic; interpreting graphs and tables; functions such as linear, quadratic, exponential, and logarithmic with applications to population growth and personal finance; and fundamentals of probability and statistics such as false positives and statistical significance.

Course Attribute: Fulfills the General Education Mathematics reasoning requirement

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MPE \geq P2.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 165 - College Algebra

Credits: 3

Introduction to precalculus. Linear, quadratic, radical, and absolute value equations and inequalities; graphs of lines, parabolas, circles, ellipses and hyperbolas; composition and inverses of functions; transformations of graphs, symmetry; linear, quadratic, exponential, logarithmic, polynomial, and rational functions. Introduction to derivatives of polynomials. Applications to business and science, including interpretation of graphs and charts.

Course Attribute: Fulfills the General Education Mathematics reasoning requirement

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MPE \geq P2.

Schedule Type: Lecture, Self-Paced

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 166 - College Algebra for Business

Credits: 3

Introduction to precalculus. Linear, quadratic, radical, and absolute value equations and inequalities; graphs of lines, parabolas, circles, ellipses and hyperbolas; composition and inverses of functions; transformations of graphs, symmetry; linear, quadratic, exponential, logarithmic, polynomial, and rational functions. Introduction to derivatives of polynomials. Applications to business and science, including interpretation of graphs and charts.

Course Attribute: Fulfills the General Education Mathematics reasoning requirement

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MPE \geq P2

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 167 - Precalculus Trigonometry

Credits: 1

Trigonometric functions and their inverses, identities, trigonometric equations; laws of sines and cosines, vectors, applications, and selected topics.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MPE \geq P3 or MATH 165 or MATH 166

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

MATH 168 - Precalculus

Credits: 4

Linear, quadratic, and absolute value equations and inequalities with applications; radical equations; polynomial, rational, exponential, logarithmic, inverse, trigonometric functions; higher order equations; exponential and logarithmic equations; the unit circle, trigonometric identities and equations; Law of Sines and Cosines; vectors in the plane, polar coordinates and graphs; complex numbers and De Moivre's Theorem; conic sections.

Course Attribute: Fulfills the General Education Mathematics reasoning requirement

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MPE \geq P3 or MATH 165 or MATH 166

Schedule Type: Lecture, Interactive Online, Self-Paced

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 182 - Calculus with Applications

Credits: 3

Introduction to single-variable calculus, including limits, differentiation, optimization, and integration with applications to problems in business and the social sciences. Some topics from multivariable calculus, including partial derivatives and extrema of functions of two variables.

Course Attribute: Fulfills the General Education Mathematics reasoning requirement

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MPE \geq P4 or MATH 167 or MATH 168

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

MATH 191 - Calculus I

Credits: 4

MATH191, 192 is a standard introduction to single-variable calculus. MATH 191 includes limits, continuity, derivatives, applications and integration up through substitution and integration by parts. Formal definitions of limit, derivative, and Riemann integral. Proofs of standard theorems, including the Fundamental Theorem of Calculus.

Course Attribute: Fulfills the General Education Mathematics reasoning requirement

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MPE=P5 or MATH 167 or MATH 168 with grade no lower than C.

Schedule Type: Lecture, Interactive Online

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 192 - Calculus II

Credits: 4

Continuation of MATH191. Techniques of integration, improper integrals, applications of integrals, sequences, power series, Taylor and Maclaurin series, tests of convergence, error estimates, polar coordinates, parameterized curves, vectors, dot and cross products.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 191 or MATH 195.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring, Summer

College Code: CAS

MATH 195 - Calculus I for Biology

Credits: 4

Introduction to single-variable calculus in the context of the life sciences from the dynamical systems point of view. Limits, continuity, derivatives, integration by substitution and by parts. Formal definitions of limit, derivative, and Riemann integral. Proofs of standard theorems, including the Fundamental Theorem of Calculus. In addition to standard topics, includes research applications to biology and medicine, an introduction to mathematical models and differential equations, equilibria, stability, and eigenvalues. Equivalent to MATH191.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Corequisite(s): BIOL 165 or BIOL 166 or consent of the instructor

Prerequisite(s): MPE=P5 or MATH 167 or MATH 168 with grade no lower than C

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 215 - Introduction to Linear Algebra

Credits: 3

Vectors, Euclidean n-space, matrices, systems of linear equations, determinants, eigenvalues, eigenvectors, vector spaces, and linear transformations with emphasis on applications and computation.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 182, MATH 191, or MATH 195.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

MATH 221 - Mathematics for Elementary Teachers I

Credits: 3

This is the first of two courses that equip prospective elementary and middle school teachers with the deep conceptual knowledge, reasoning skills, and teaching methods for becoming effective mathematics teachers. This course emphasizes active engagement, conceptual understanding, mathematical reasoning, and hands-on teaching methods. Topics include numeration systems, sets of numbers (whole numbers, integers, rational numbers, and real numbers) and their properties, computational algorithms, and basic concepts of algebra and functions. Required of all students in the elementary education program.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MPE \geq P2

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

MATH 222 - Mathematics for Elementary Teachers II

Credits: 3

This is the second of two courses that equip prospective elementary and middle school teachers with the deep conceptual knowledge, reasoning skills, and teaching methods for becoming effective mathematics teachers. This course emphasizes active engagement, conceptual understand, mathematical reasoning, and hands-on teaching methods. Topics include geometric figures and their properties, proofs in algebra and geometry, geometric transformations, symmetry, congruence, similarity, measurement, data analysis, and probability. Required of all students in the elementary education program.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 221 with a grade of C or higher

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 240 - Calculus III

Credits: 4

Standard introduction to multivariable calculus. Vectors and vector functions, curves and surfaces, partial derivatives, multiple integrals, line and surface integrals. Stokes', Green's, and divergence theorems.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 192.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

MATH 286 - Differential Equations

Credits: 3

Ordinary differential equations as dynamical systems. Linear and nonlinear first order equations and systems, higher order linear equations, modeling, standard analytic and qualitative methods of solution, equilibria and stability, phase plane analysis. Computer graphing tools will be used.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 192.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 295 - Independent Study

Credits: 1–3

Independent study of selected topics in mathematics under the supervision of a mathematics professor. Ordinarily a minimum of three hours of study per week is expected for each credit. The instructor may require written reports or oral presentations.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Independent

College Code: CAS

MATH 315 - Linear Algebra

Credits: 3

A rigorous proof course on vector spaces, linear systems, linear transformations, matrix representations, eigenspaces, and diagonalization.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 215, MATH 355.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Even years

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 355 - Foundations of Advanced Mathematics

Credits: 3

An introduction to concepts and methods that are fundamental to the study of advanced mathematics. Topics include logic, proof methods, set theory, relations, functions, number theory, and other selected topics from discrete mathematics. Mathematical reasoning and the reading and writing of proofs are emphasized.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 182, MATH 191, or MATH 195.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 375 - Secondary School Mathematics Teaching

Credits: 3

Content, methods, and materials for secondary school mathematics teaching, including secondary mathematics content, mathematical problem solving, lesson preparation, teaching of skills and concepts, use of technology, assessment of learning, issues in teaching and learning, and other selected topics.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 355.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Odd years

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 389 - Mathematics Colloquium

Credits: 0

Participation in at least 10 departmental colloquia or approved colloquia of other departments. Meets weekly, grade is based on attendance.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 405 - Applied Mathematics

Credits: 3

Solutions of first- and second-order partial differential equations and applications.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 240, MATH 286.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Even years

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

MATH 408 - Complex Analysis

Credits: 3

Elementary complex analysis, contour integrals, complex series.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 240, MATH 355.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Odd years

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 426 - Mathematical Modeling in Biology

Credits: 3

Theory and application of linear and nonlinear mathematical models of biological processes. Topics selected from discrete- and continuous-time deterministic and stochastic modeling, analytic solution techniques, linearization, bifurcations, chaos, computer simulation, model parameterization, and model validation.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 191 or MATH 195.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Odd years

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

MATH 431 - Real Analysis I

Credits: 3

Theorems on continuity, differentiation, integration, and convergence; additional selected topics such as topology, differentiable manifolds, and real analysis.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 240, MATH 355.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Odd years

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: CAS

MATH 432 - Real Analysis II

Credits: 3

Theorems on continuity, differentiation, integration, and convergence; additional selected topics such as topology, differentiable manifolds, and real analysis.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 240, MATH 355, MATH 431.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Even years

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: CAS

MATH 441 - Abstract Algebra I

Credits: 3

A rigorous proof course on groups, rings, fields, and homomorphisms. Topics include cyclic groups, Cayley's Theorem, Lagrange's Theorem, factor groups, integral domains, and factor rings.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 240, MATH 355.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Even years
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

MATH 442 - Abstract Algebra II

Credits: 3
A continuation of MATH 441. Topics include polynomial rings, divisibility in integral domains, and extension fields. Additional topics may include geometric constructions, Sylow Theorems, and Galois Theory.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 240, MATH 355, MATH 441
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

MATH 475 - Geometry

Credits: 3
Axiomatic development and history of Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometries, constructions, geometric transformations, and selected topics from finite, fractal, affine, and projective geometries. Relation of these topics to secondary teaching.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 355.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Even years
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

MATH 487 - Special Topics in _____

Credits: 1–3
Consult the instructor in regard to the topic to be covered.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.
Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

MATH 495 - Independent Study

Credits: 1–3
Independent study of selected topics in mathematics to enable advanced students to pursue topics not offered in other scheduled courses. The student will study under the supervision of a mathematics professor whose prior approval is required. Ordinarily a minimum of three hours of study per week is expected for each credit. Grades are assigned on the basis of an instructor-selected procedure such as oral or written exams or reports.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: CAS

MATH 497 - Research in Mathematics

Credits: 0–3
A research project in mathematics supervised by a faculty mentor. A minimum of 4 work hours per week is required for each credit earned and a minimum of 4 work hours per week is required for the zero-credit option. A written paper is required for both the zero-credit option and all other credit options. Students register for each semester of ongoing research.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Prerequisite(s): Approval of the instructor.
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: CAS

MATH 530 - Topics in Teaching _____

Credits: 2,3
A. Algebra; B. Geometry; C. Analysis; D. Applications; Consult with department chair regarding availability in any given year.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

MATH 540 - Topics in _____

Credits: 2,3
Consult with the instructor in regard to the topic to be covered.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Lecture

Statistics

STAT 285 - Elementary Statistics

Credits: 3
A study of basic descriptive and inferential statistics, including elementary probability and probability distributions, statistical inference involving binomial, normal, and t-distributions, and hypothesis testing.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MPE \geq P2.
Schedule Type: Lecture, Self-Paced
Term Offering: Fall, Spring
College Code: CAS

STAT 340 - Probability Theory with Statistical Applications

Credits: 3
Probability theory and statistics for students having preparation in calculus. Topics include probability models, combinatoric problems, random variables, discrete and continuous distributions, expectation, moment generating functions, central limit theorem.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 191 or MATH 195.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

Mission

To mentor students in artistic, intellectual, and character development. Faculty of the Department of Music are committed to providing a vibrant musical and learning environment to nurture artistic and creative growth in all students of music, to encourage and guide students through dynamic interaction in classroom and practical experiences as they mature into tomorrow's music professionals, and to mentor students in responsible use of their talents for service to Christ and to humanity.

Undergraduate Information

Bachelor curricula in Music provide a comprehensive exposure to and experience with the performance, history, and theory of music. Students receive hands-on supervised teaching experience in studio or classroom teaching.

Non-music majors may take courses in music or participate in music lessons or ensembles for credit or non-credit. See the Andrews Core Experience in each program for more information.

The Andrews University Department of Music has been a member of the National Association of Schools of Music since 1964. Music majors may choose to join the student chapter of Music Educators National Conference.

Enrollment

Status as an undergraduate music major is provisional until the student demonstrates academic and performance skills on an acceptable level. All first-year students must take the Freshman Theory Placement Exam and arrange for an audition with the coordinator of their applied area prior to being considered for acceptance as a music major. After the student successfully completes these two admission requirements the Music Department freshman advisor makes a recommendation to the music faculty concerning the student's application for admission as a music major. See the Department of Music Student Handbook for further information.

Student Handbook. The Department of Music Student Handbook, available on the Department of Music webpage, provides clarification of general guidelines, requirements, and standards as well as information concerning recital attendance, recital requirements, and financial aid and departmental scholarships.

Applied Music General Requirements. All music majors register in applied music for every semester in residence and until they complete their senior recital.

Applied Music Examination Requirements. All music majors participate in an applied music examination at least twice during the school year. See the Department of Music Student Handbook for full details.

Ensemble Requirements. All music majors must enroll in a music ensemble each semester of residence for a minimum of 8 credits. Students who require more than eight semesters to complete their degree must participate in an ensemble during each semester of residence.

Minimum Passing Grades. No grade lower than a C in an applied lesson, ensemble, or music class will count towards fulfillment of degree or program requirements for the music major or music minor. This includes transfer music credits.

Piano Proficiency. All music majors and minors are required to achieve an acceptable level of piano proficiency. This requirement may be met by one of the following two ways: 1) by passing the piano proficiency requirement as stated in the document Andrews University Department of Music Information Sheet: Piano Proficiency Examination available at the Music Office as well as at the Department of Music web page, or 2) by taking four semesters of piano instruction for credit at the Andrews University Department of Music with a minimum passing grade of a B in each semester. Students choosing the first of these two options are expected to take the Piano Proficiency Examination before the end of the second semester of their freshman year; students choosing the second option are expected to start taking piano lessons during their first year in residence. If one of these two options is not met, students will not be allowed to register for upper-division classes (with the exception of ensembles) or upper-division applied lessons until the Piano Proficiency requirement has been met.

Recital Attendance. All music majors are required to enroll in the course MUPF 489 - Recital Attendance each semester in residence. Music minors are required to enroll in this course for four (4) semesters.

Upper-division Status. Request for advancement to upper-division status is submitted by the end of the sophomore year. See the Department of Music Student Handbook for full information.

State Certification. Students planning to teach music in K-12 must take the Bachelor of Music in Music Education degree and also complete required education courses specified by the School of Education.

Denominational Certification is not automatic with state certification and is not required for graduation. Contact the certification clerk in the School of Education for full information.

Music Performance Credits

The Department of Music offers private instruction in all major instruments and voice which may fulfill music major or non-music major elective requirements. Course outlines detailing specific course content are available from the instructor. The requirements correlate with guidelines suggested by the National Association of Schools of Music as outlined in the Department of Music Student Handbook.

Graduate Information

Master curricula in Music provide a comprehensive exposure to and experience with the performance, history, and theory of music. Students receive hands-on supervised teaching experience in studio or classroom teaching.

Non-music graduate students may take courses in music or participate in music lessons or ensembles for credit or non-credit. The Andrews University Department of Music has been a member of the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM) since 1964. Music Education students may choose to join the student chapter of Music Educators National Conference.

Graduate Programs Admission Requirements

General requirements for admission to graduate study as stated in the Admissions section of this bulletin.

Musicians with various backgrounds often qualify to study music at the graduate level. Normally, a baccalaureate degree with a major in music is required; however, the following categories may also qualify:

1. Students with an earned baccalaureate degree within any major, assuming adequate undergraduate preparation in music. Adequate preparation includes mastery of music theory equivalent to content of MUCT242 Music Theory IV and MUCT153 Ear Training Laboratory III; mastery of music history equivalent to content of MUHL446-448 Music Literature and Style (Antiquity to 20th Century); and mastery of level of performance appropriate to the specific chosen master's program.
2. Students who have completed programs comparable to the baccalaureate degree from non-United States institutions, with the level of mastery described in segment 1.

The Department of Music requires placement examinations in music history and literature, music theory, and an audition in the major area of performance for all entering students prior to registration. Admission status is provisional until these examinations are completed and any deficiencies removed. Courses used to make up for a deficiency may be taken for graduate credit but may not count for graduate requirements; a minimum grade of B must be earned.

A Graduate Scholarship Tuition Reduction is available to students with a minimum GRE Exam score of 297 (quantitative + verbal) or Music Placement Exam average score of 70 or higher.

Student Handbook. The Department of Music Student Handbook, available on the Department of Music webpage, provides clarification of general guidelines, requirements, and standards as well as information concerning recital attendance, recital requirements, and financial aid and departmental scholarships.

Piano Proficiency. Music majors must pass a piano proficiency examination. Graduate students who have not passed this examination on the undergraduate level may meet this requirement by one of the following two ways: 1) by passing the piano proficiency test as stated in the document Andrews University Department of Music Information Sheet: Piano Proficiency Examination available on the Department of Music web page, prior to the first registration, or 2) by taking four semesters of MUPF 516 Piano Proficiency with a minimum passing grade of a B in each semester.

Language Proficiency. For admission to the Master of Music, Voice Performance, language proficiency is required in French, German and Italian. Proficiency in these languages can be validated by evidence of coursework in each of these languages equivalent to two semesters of college level study, or by passing a language proficiency exam. Lack of proficiency in these three languages can be addressed by taking additional remedial coursework. Remedial coursework does not count toward completion of the graduate degree.

Non-degree (Guest) Students. A student who plans to study music under this classification may be admitted to courses as approved by the department chair.

Double Major Policy for Graduate Music Programs:

Two majors may be allowed only within a specific program such as the Master of Arts in Music or the Master of Music. No more than two majors are allowed.

Only one degree is granted. The different majors will only be listed in the transcript.

Candidates must complete the specific requirements for both majors.

Candidates must enroll for Final Project (thesis option, project option, or recital option as it may apply) twice to fulfill final project requirements for each of the two majors.

Candidates take comprehensive examinations that cover both concentration areas.

Decision on adding a second major must be made before the candidate fills out and submits the Advancement to Candidacy Form.

Once a degree is earned, a second major area may not be added to the transcripts.

Ensemble Requirements

Participation on a no-credit basis is required for four semesters in one of the following Andrews University ensembles: Wind Symphony, University Singers or AU Symphony Orchestra. Keyboard majors: see note below. Students who require more than four semesters to complete their degree must participate in an ensemble during each semester of residence.

Keyboard students in the MA and MMus (music education) programs on the Andrews University campus are required to enroll for one semester of MUPF505 Keyboard Accompaniment or one semester of MUPF510 Collaborative Piano. This may apply as one of the minimum four semesters of ensemble.

Performance majors in piano and organ are required to enroll for one semester of MUPF510 Collaborative Piano and one semester of MUPF515 Recital Accompaniment and may apply these towards the minimum four semesters of ensemble.

Recital Attendance

All Graduate music majors are required to enroll in the course MUPF 489 Recital Attendance each semester in residence.

Practical Training Requirement

All students pursuing master's programs (MA: Music, MMus: Conducting, MMus: Music Education, MMus: Music Ministry; MMus: Performance) are required to take the 0-credit course MUED655 Practical Training to develop professional experience in music. To fulfill this requirement, students are required to meet a minimum of 50 hours of work/service while enrolled in the masters program. This could be done over the summer. Some recommended areas of work/service that may count toward this practical training experience are as follows:

- Music ministers in church settings
- Music teachers or instructors for a public or private school
- Instrumentalists performing in professional or community ensembles
- Research assistants in approved music research projects
- Other alternative activities must be approved by the student's major professor

After completing this requirement students will fill out and submit the form Completion of Practical Training Requirements to Graduate Program Director for evaluation and signature. Students who have developed experiences equivalent to this practical training before entering the masters program may fulfill this requirement by submitting appropriate evidence showing sufficient work/ service experience.

Thesis/Project/Recital Requirement

This requirement for an MA in music, MA in music ministry or MMus in music education may be met by one of the following:

A thesis—6 credits of MUHL699 and/or EDRM505.

Two projects—2 credits of MUHL698 for each project.

A credit recital—2 credits plus a minimum of 6 credits of applied music.

One project plus a one-credit recital—2 credits of MUHL698 for the project plus a minimum of 4 credits of applied music.

The MMus: Performance degree requires a 2-credit recital. Recitalists must have taken in residence at least one-half of their applied music credit in their major performance area. They must enroll in applied lessons for at least two consecutive semesters prior to the recital date and must audition before a committee of music faculty one month prior to the recital. Students majoring in performance without an undergraduate major in the same performance area (or the equivalent) must offer two recitals, only the second of which is for credit.

Students who opt for the project or thesis or Project Continuation must take concurrently the Research Master class.

Comprehensive Examinations. All graduate students in music take the 0-credit course MUHL670 Comprehensive Exam toward the end of their studies. Students should consult with their advisor concerning the appropriate time to apply for these examinations and for guidance in preparing for them.

Active Status. After completing all course requirements, all graduate music students must maintain an active status continuous enrollment for both Fall and Spring semesters until the degree is granted. This is accomplished by enrolling in MUHL665 Comprehensive Exam Preparation (non-repeatable with fee attached), MUHL670 Comprehensive Exam (non-repeatable), or MUHL655 Program Continuation (repeatable with fee attached) until the degree is earned. Students who fail to maintain continuous enrollment as defined here, will not be allowed to finish their degree requirements until they apply to the Department of Music for degree reactivation and pay the established fees for each semester of absence in the program. The reactivation fee used will be the latest AU Bulletin fee listed for MUHL655 Program Continuation.

Bachelors

Music BA

A liberal arts degree allows one to pursue a broad range of interests while majoring in music. The BA with a major in music is viable as a double major.

Admission Requirements

Graduate Programs Admission Requirements and Procedures

General requirements for admission to graduate study as stated in the Admissions section of this bulletin.

Musicians with various backgrounds often qualify to study music at the graduate level. Normally, a baccalaureate degree with a major in music is required; however, the following categories may also qualify:

1. Students with an earned baccalaureate degree within any major, assuming adequate undergraduate preparation in music. Adequate preparation includes mastery of music theory equivalent to content of MUCT242 Music Theory IV and MUCT153 Ear Training Laboratory III; mastery of music history equivalent to content of MUHL446-448 Music Literature and Style (Antiquity to 20th Century); and mastery of level of performance appropriate to the specific chosen master's program.
2. Students who have completed programs comparable to the baccalaureate degree from non-United States institutions.

The Department of Music requires placement examinations in music history and literature, music theory, piano proficiency, and an audition in the major area of performance for all entering students prior to registration. Admission status is provisional until these examinations are completed and any deficiencies removed. Courses used to make up for a deficiency may be taken for graduate credit but may not count for graduate requirements; a minimum grade of B must be earned.

A Graduate Scholarship Tuition Reduction is available to students with a minimum GRE Exam score of 297 (quantitative + verbal) or Music Placement Exam average score of 70.

Double Major Policy for Graduate Music Programs:

Two majors may be allowed only within a specific program such as the Master of Arts in Music or the Master of Music. No more than two majors are allowed.

Only one degree is granted. The different majors will only be listed in the transcript.

Candidates must complete the specific requirements for both majors.
Candidates must enroll for Final Project (thesis option, project option, or recital option as it may apply) twice to fulfill final project requirements for each of the two majors.
Candidates take comprehensive examinations that cover both concentration areas.
Decision on adding a second major must be made before the candidate fills out and submits the Advancement to Candidacy Form.
Once a degree is earned, a second major area may not be added to the transcripts.

Ensemble Requirements

Registration is required for four semesters in one of the following: any Andrews University Department of Music band, choir or orchestra.
Keyboard majors: see note below. Students who require more than four semesters to complete their degree must participate in an ensemble during each semester of residence.
Keyboard students in the MA and MMus (music education) programs on the Andrews University campus are required to enroll for one semester of MUPF505 Keyboard Accompaniment or one semester of MUPF510 Collaborative Piano. This may apply as one of the minimum four semesters of ensemble.
Performance majors in piano and organ are required to enroll for one semester of MUPF510 Collaborative Piano and one semester of MUPF515 Recital Accompaniment and may apply these towards the minimum four semesters of ensemble.

Thesis/Project/Recital Requirement

This requirement for an MA in music, MA in music ministry or MMus in music education may be met by one of the following:
A thesis—6 credits of MUHL699 and/or EDRM505.
Two projects—2 credits of MUHL698 for each project.
A credit recital—2 credits plus a minimum of 6 credits of applied music.
One project plus a one-credit recital—2 credits of MUHL698 for the project plus a minimum of 4 credits of applied music.
The MMus: Performance degree requires a 2-credit recital. Recitalists must have taken in residence at least one-half of their applied music credit in their major performance area. They must enroll in applied lessons for at least two consecutive semesters prior to the recital date and must audition before a committee of music faculty one month prior to the recital. Students majoring in performance without an undergraduate major in the same performance area (or the equivalent) must offer two recitals, only the second of which is for credit.

Piano Proficiency. Music majors must pass a piano proficiency examination. Graduate students who have not passed this examination on the undergraduate level must take the examination prior to the first registration. Students who do not pass this examination must enroll in applied piano until the examination is passed.

Language Proficiency. For admission to the Master of Music: Performance (voice performance specialization), language proficiency is required in French, German and Italian. Proficiency in these languages can be validated by evidence of coursework in each of these languages equivalent to two semesters of college level study, or by passing a language proficiency exam. Lack of proficiency in these three languages can be addressed by taking additional remedial coursework. Remedial coursework does not count toward completion of the graduate degree.

Electives. Each area of study has appropriate choices of electives.

Practical Training Requirement. All students pursuing master's programs (MA: Music, MMus: Conducting; MMus: MUSIC 195 Music Education; MMus: Music Ministry; MMus: Performance) are required to take the 0-credit course MUED655 Practical Training to develop professional experience in music. To fulfill this requirement, students are required to meet a minimum of 50 hours of work/service while enrolled in the masters program. This could be done over the summer. Some recommended areas of work/service that may count toward this practical training experience are as follows:

- Music ministers in church settings
- Music teachers or instructors for a public or private school
- Instrumentalists performing in professional or community ensembles
- Research assistants in approved music research projects
- Other alternative activities must be approved by the student's major professor

After completing this requirement students will fill out and submit the form Completion of Practical Training Requirements to their major professor for evaluation and signature. Students who have developed experiences equivalent to this practical training before entering the masters program may fulfill this requirement by submitting appropriate evidence showing sufficient work/ service experience.

Comprehensive Examinations. All graduate students in music take the 0-credit course MUHL670 Comprehensive Exam toward the end of their studies. Students should consult with their advisor concerning the appropriate time to apply for these examinations and for guidance in preparing for them.

Non-degree (Guest) Students. A student who plans to study music under this classification may be admitted to courses as approved by the department chair.

Active Status. After completing all course requirements, all graduate music students must maintain an active status continuous enrollment for both Fall and Spring semesters until the degree is granted. This is accomplished by enrolling in MUHL665 Comprehensive Exam Preparation (non-repeatable with fee attached), MUHL670 Comprehensive Exam (non-repeatable), or MUHL655 Program Continuation (repeatable with fee attached) until the degree is earned. A student who fails to maintain continuous enrollment as defined here, will not be allowed to finish their degree requirements until he/she applies to the Department of Music for degree reactivation and pays the established fees for each semester of absence in the program. The reactivation fee used will be the latest AU Bulletin fee listed for MUHL655 Program Continuation.

Admission Requirements

Graduate Programs Admission Requirements and Procedures

General requirements for admission to graduate study as stated in the Admissions section of this bulletin.

Musicians with various backgrounds often qualify to study music at the graduate level. Normally, a baccalaureate degree with a major in music is required; however, the following categories may also qualify:

1. Students with an earned baccalaureate degree within any major, assuming adequate undergraduate preparation in music. Adequate preparation includes mastery of music theory equivalent to content of MUCT242 Music Theory IV and MUCT153 Ear Training Laboratory III; mastery of music history equivalent to content of MUHL446-448 Music Literature and Style (Antiquity to 20th Century); and mastery of level of performance appropriate to the specific chosen master's program.
2. Students who have completed programs comparable to the baccalaureate degree from non-United States institutions.

The Department of Music requires placement examinations in music history and literature, music theory, piano proficiency, and an audition in the major area of performance for all entering students prior to registration. Admission status is provisional until these examinations are completed and any deficiencies removed. Courses used to make up for a deficiency may be taken for graduate credit but may not count for graduate requirements; a minimum grade of B must be earned.

A Graduate Scholarship Tuition Reduction is available to students with a minimum GRE Exam score of 297 (quantitative + verbal) or Music Placement Exam average score of 70.

Double Major Policy for Graduate Music Programs:

Two majors may be allowed only within a specific program such as the Master of Arts in Music or the Master of Music. No more than two majors are allowed.

Only one degree is granted. The different majors will only be listed in the transcript.

Candidates must complete the specific requirements for both majors.

Candidates must enroll for Final Project (thesis option, project option, or recital option as it may apply) twice to fulfill final project requirements for each of the two majors.

Candidates take comprehensive examinations that cover both concentration areas.

Decision on adding a second major must be made before the candidate fills out and submits the Advancement to Candidacy Form.

Once a degree is earned, a second major area may not be added to the transcripts.

Ensemble Requirements

Registration is required for four semesters in one of the following: any Andrews University Department of Music band, choir or orchestra. Keyboard majors: see note below. Students who require more than four semesters to complete their degree must participate in an ensemble during each semester of residence.

Keyboard students in the MA and MMus (music education) programs on the Andrews University campus are required to enroll for one semester of MUPF505 Keyboard Accompaniment or one semester of MUPF510 Collaborative Piano. This may apply as one of the minimum four semesters of ensemble.

Performance majors in piano and organ are required to enroll for one semester of MUPF510 Collaborative Piano and one semester of MUPF515 Recital Accompaniment and may apply these towards the minimum four semesters of ensemble.

Thesis/Project/Recital Requirement

This requirement for an MA in music, MA in music ministry or MMus in music education may be met by one of the following:

A thesis—6 credits of MUHL699 and/or EDRM505.

Two projects—2 credits of MUHL698 for each project.

A credit recital—2 credits plus a minimum of 6 credits of applied music.

One project plus a one-credit recital—2 credits of MUHL698 for the project plus a minimum of 4 credits of applied music.

The MMus: Performance degree requires a 2-credit recital. Recitalists must have taken in residence at least one-half of their applied music credit in their major performance area. They must enroll in applied lessons for at least two consecutive semesters prior to the recital date and must audition before a committee of music faculty one month prior to the recital. Students majoring in performance without an undergraduate major in the same performance area (or the equivalent) must offer two recitals, only the second of which is for credit.

Piano Proficiency. Music majors must pass a piano proficiency examination. Graduate students who have not passed this examination on the undergraduate level must take the examination prior to the first registration. Students who do not pass this examination must enroll in applied piano until the examination is passed.

Language Proficiency. For admission to the Master of Music: Performance (voice performance specialization), language proficiency is required in French, German and Italian. Proficiency in these languages can be validated by evidence of coursework in each of these languages equivalent to two semesters of college level study, or by passing a language proficiency exam. Lack of proficiency in these three languages can be addressed by taking additional remedial coursework. Remedial coursework does not count toward completion of the graduate degree.

Electives. Each area of study has appropriate choices of electives.

Practical Training Requirement. All students pursuing master's programs (MA: Music, MMus: Conducting; MMus: MUSIC 195 Music Education; MMus: Music Ministry; MMus: Performance) are required to take the 0-credit course MUED655 Practical Training to develop professional experience in music. To fulfill this requirement, students are required to meet a minimum of 50 hours of work/service while enrolled in the masters program. This could be done over the summer. Some recommended areas of work/service that may count toward this practical training experience are as follows:

Music ministers in church settings

Music teachers or instructors for a public or private school

Instrumentalists performing in professional or community ensembles

Research assistants in approved music research projects

Other alternative activities must be approved by the student's major professor

After completing this requirement students will fill out and submit the form Completion of Practical Training Requirements to their major professor for evaluation and signature. Students who have developed experiences equivalent to this practical training before entering the masters program may fulfill this requirement by submitting appropriate evidence showing sufficient work/ service experience.

Comprehensive Examinations. All graduate students in music take the 0-credit course MUHL670 Comprehensive Exam toward the end of their studies. Students should consult with their advisor concerning the appropriate time to apply for these examinations and for guidance in preparing for them.

Non-degree (Guest) Students. A student who plans to study music under this classification may be admitted to courses as approved by the department chair.

Active Status. After completing all course requirements, all graduate music students must maintain an active status continuous enrollment for both Fall and Spring semesters until the degree is granted. This is accomplished by enrolling in MUHL665 Comprehensive Exam Preparation (non-repeatable with fee attached), MUHL670 Comprehensive Exam (non-repeatable), or MUHL655 Program Continuation (repeatable with fee attached) until the degree is earned. A student who fails to maintain continuous enrollment as defined here, will not be allowed to finish their degree requirements until he/she applies to the Department of Music for degree reactivation and pays the established fees for each semester of absence in the program. The reactivation fee used will be the latest AU Bulletin fee listed for MUHL655 Program Continuation.

Mission

Advance the appreciation, understanding and application of physics in the context of personal integrity and service, scientific rigor, and Seventh-day Adventist faith.

Strategies

- Create an environment of scholarly inquiry, learning, and creativity
- Develop technical, analytical, and critical thinking skills
- Provide opportunities for intellectual independence, collaboration, and outreach
- Promote personal wholeness, integrity, balance, and spiritual well-being

Student and Faculty Goals

- Understand physics ideas, principles and interpretation, supporting and participating in research and education
- Measure, analyze and model physical phenomena, lending insight to other disciplines and professions
- Communicate scholarship in written and oral form, networking with scholarly, faith, and civic communities
- Connect scientific and religious world views, serving the Seventh-day Adventist Church and society

Physics describes the world in terms of matter and energy and relates phenomena to fundamental law using mathematical representations. Its scope includes systems that range in size from the sub-nuclear to the entire cosmos.

The BS: Physics program supports and enhances professional careers in all the physical sciences, engineering, and the life sciences. Its emphasis on problem-solving also provides a foundation for careers in medicine, business, law, and government.

The BS: Biophysics program prepares the graduate for direct entry into the workforce or advanced studies in medical and bioengineering fields as well as biophysics.

The BS: Physics Education program prepares the graduate for a career in secondary teaching.

The Major in Physics Studies is an add-on degree program that complements any baccalaureate degree without incurring additional general education requirements. It strengthens and expands marketability and interdisciplinary opportunities.

A Minor in Physics complements any baccalaureate degree. It is the minimum requirement for secondary teaching certification in physics. All physics majors and minors desiring certification should consult with the School of Education throughout their program.

Biophysics BS

Major Requirements: 40

Offered by the biology and physics departments

- BIOL 165 - Foundations of Biology Credits: 4,5 *
- BIOL 166 - Foundations of Biology Credits: 4,5 *
- BIOL 372 - Cell and Molecular Biology Credits: 3
- BCHM 421 - Biochemistry I Credits: 4 **
- PHYS 241 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers I Credits: 4
- PHYS 242 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers II Credits: 4
- PHYS 271 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers Laboratory I Credits: 1
- PHYS 272 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers Laboratory II Credits: 1
- PHYS 277 - Physics Colloquium Credits: 0 ***
- PHYS 311 - Classical Mechanics I Credits: 3
- PHYS 316 - Biophysics Credits: 3
- PHYS 330 - Thermodynamics and Statistical Mechanics Credits: 3
- PHYS 377 - Advanced Physics Laboratory I Credits: 1
- PHYS 431 - Electricity and Magnetism I Credits: 3
- 1 Credit minimum of PHYS 495 - Physics Research Credits: 0-3

Note:

*Students taking the 8-credit BIOL 165 and 166 Foundations of Biology course must take an additional credit of electives to meet the 40-credit requirement. Students taking the on-campus 10-credit BIOL 165 and 166 Foundations of Biology course will need to take a total of 41 credits in order to complete the requirements for the major.

By taking the cognate courses and BCHM 421, a student qualifies for a minor in chemistry.

PHYS 277 is required every semester. MATH 389 may substitute for PHYS 277.

Cognate Courses:

- CHEM 131 - General Chemistry I Credits: 4

- BCHM 430 - Biochemistry Lab Credits: 1
- MATH 215 - Introduction to Linear Algebra Credits: 3
- MATH 240 - Calculus III Credits: 4

Senior Thesis.

All Physics and Biophysics majors do some original research in collaboration with an established physicist on-campus or at another university, industrial or national laboratory. If students enroll for 3 credits of PHYS 495 or HONS 497H, they may prepare a Senior Thesis. Undergraduate Research Scholarships are available through the Office of Research & Creative Scholarship when students collaborate with Andrews Physics faculty.

MATH 191 - Calculus I Credits: 4 or
MATH 195 - Calculus I for Biology Credits: 4

MATH 192 - Calculus II Credits: 4
MATH 240 - Calculus III Credits: 4
MATH 286 - Differential Equations Credits: 3

Note:

This major is available only as a second major. It is designed to complement engineering, computer science, chemistry and mathematics degrees, but may be added to a major in any field.

Undergraduate Minors

Physics Minor

Minor Requirements: 20

PHYS 241 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers I Credits: 4
PHYS 242 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers II Credits: 4
PHYS 271 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers Laboratory I Credits: 1
PHYS 272 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers Laboratory II Credits: 1
PHYS 277 - Physics Colloquium Credits: 0 *
PHYS 311 - Classical Mechanics I Credits: 3
and electives chosen in consultation with the department chair.

Note:

*PHYS 277 is required every semester. MATH 389 may substitute for PHYS 277.

Secondary-teaching Certification:

Students in a teacher certification program are required to take PHYS 330, PHYS 377 and PHYS 495 (1) Research. They are also required to take MATH 191, CHEM 131, and BIOL 165 as cognates. Program is certified by the State of Michigan Department of Education and accredited by the National Science Teachers Association.

For more information regarding Secondary Certification with a minor see the department of Teaching, Learning & Curriculum

Physics

PHYS 107 - Concepts and Applications in Physics I

Credits: 3

Identifying and quantifying physics concepts that organize daily experience, selected from mechanics, waves, thermodynamics, electromagnetism, optics, and modern physics. Includes individual and collaborative development of abstract and practical problem solving skills and applications in the classroom and integrated laboratory experience. Intended to lay a foundation for pre-professional and calculus-based introductory physics courses. In combination with PHYS 108, meets the physical science requirement for Andrews University General Education. Does not apply to a physics major or minor.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Fall
College Code: CAS

PHYS 108 - Concepts and Applications in Physics II

Credits: 3

A sequel to PHYS107, identifying and quantifying the remaining physics concepts from mechanics, waves, thermodynamics, electromagnetism, optics, and modern physics. Includes individual and collaborative development of abstract and practical problem solving skills and applications in the classroom and integrated laboratory experience. Intended to lay a foundation for pre-professional and calculus-based introductory physics courses. In combination with PHYS 107, meets the physical science requirement for Andrews University General Education. Does not apply to a physics major or minor.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 107
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
College Code: CAS

PHYS 110 - Astronomy

Credits: 4

Exploring the cosmic environment—the solar system, stars and their development, star clusters, the interstellar medium, galaxies, and large-scale features of the Universe. Meets the Andrews General Education Physical Science requirement. Does not apply to a major or minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 2-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MPE P2 or MATH 145 or MATH 165 or STAT 285 or equivalent.
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab, Self-Paced
Term Offering: Fall, Spring
College Code: CAS

PHYS 115 - Mythbusting

Credits: 4

Examining what is commonly believed about the physical world and how to realign it with measurable reality. A conceptual and relevant understanding of physics—forces, matter and energy with 21st century applications. Meets the General Education Physical Science requirement. Does not apply to a major or minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 2-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MPE P2 or any GE-level math course.
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
College Code: CAS

PHYS 117 - Observational Astronomy Lab

Credits: 0,1

Practical experience and background in observational astronomy with modern optical instruments in laboratory, field or remote facilities. As weather permits, lab will include sessions at the Kingman Observatory with departmental or personal telescopes. This is a standalone laboratory course suitable for students in any major and for the general public. General Education Physical Science credit is limited to transfer students who are articulating a lecture course in astronomy or a Physical Science with 3 or more credits. Does not apply to a major or minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: one 3-hour activity
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Schedule Type: Lab
College Code: CAS

PHYS 141 - General Physics I

Credits: 4

Algebra based introduction to mechanics, wave motion, sound and thermodynamics.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures, 1 recitation, 1-hour of small-group learning and one 2.5-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MPE P4 or MATH 167 or MATH 168
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Workshop
College Code: CAS

PHYS 142 - General Physics II

Credits: 4

Algebra based introduction to electricity, magnetism, physical and geometric optics, relativity, and modern physics

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures, 1 recitation, 1-hour of small-group learning and one 2.5-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 141
Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Workshop
College Code: CAS

PHYS 225 - Sound and Waves

Credits: 4
The production, transmission, synthesis, and perception of sound as understood through the physical principles, properties, and nature of waves. Includes a survey of applications—music, speech, locomotion, and imaging—and comparisons with light and other kinds of waves. Meets the General Education Physical Science requirement. Does not apply to a major or minor.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 3 lectures and a 2-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): MPE P2 or MATH 145 or MATH 165 or STAT 285
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
College Code: CAS

PHYS 235 - MATLAB

Credits: 2,3
An introduction to MATLAB programming with a focus on its application to physics problems. The capabilities of MATLAB are explored in the areas of graphing, data analysis, numerical methods, Fourier analysis, and signal processing.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture and a 4-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lab
College Code: CAS

PHYS 241 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers I

Credits: 4
A calculus-based introduction to mechanics, wave motion and thermodynamics emphasizing the mathematical formulation and the physical significance of fundamental principles.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 4 lectures and 1 recitation
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Corequisite(s): PHYS 271
Prerequisite(s): MATH 192
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 242 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers II

Credits: 4
A calculus-based introduction to electricity, magnetism, geometric and physical optics, relativity, and modern physics emphasizing the mathematical formulation and the physical significance of fundamental principles.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 4 lectures and 1 recitation
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Corequisite(s): PHYS 272
Prerequisite(s): MATH 192 and PHYS 241
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 271 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers Laboratory I

Credits: 1
Laboratory experiments in mechanics, wave motion and thermodynamics, associated with the PHYS 241 course.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: one 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Corequisite(s): PHYS 241
Schedule Type: Lab
College Code: CAS

PHYS 272 - Physics for Scientists and Engineers Laboratory II

Credits: 1
Laboratory experiments in electricity, magnetism, geometric and physical optics, and modern physics associated with the PHYS 242 course.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: one 3-hour lab
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Corequisite(s): PHYS 242
Schedule Type: Lab
College Code: CAS

PHYS 277 - Physics Colloquium

Credits: 0
Current topics and issues of interest to the physics community. Required each semester of all students with a physics major or minor. Interchangeable with MATH 389.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture or activity
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Seminar
College Code: CAS

PHYS 280 - Topics in _____

Credits: 0–3
Introductory-level topics in astrophysics, other current physics area or associated scientific programming.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): Approval of the instructor.
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 4 credits. Minimum of 4 hours per week is required for each credit earned.
Schedule Type: Seminar
College Code: CAS

PHYS 295 - Independent Study/Research

Credits: 1,2
Individually directed reading and lab projects in physics (e.g., holography and astrophotography). A minimum of 4 hours per week is required for each credit earned.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Prerequisite(s): Approval of the instructor.
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 4 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: CAS

PHYS 311 - Classical Mechanics I

Credits: 3
Statics, kinematics, and dynamics for single particles, including Lagrangian and Hamiltonian formalisms.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): MATH 192
Prerequisite/Corequisite: PHYS 241 or PHYS 142
Recommended: PHYS 242
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

PHYS 316 - Biophysics

Credits: 3
Modeling and describing physical phenomena of living systems, including transport and diffusion across membranes and electrical processes in muscle and nerve tissue.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 242 (recommended) or PHYS 142; MATH 192
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 325 - Astrophysics

Credits: 3
The application of physics to astronomical objects and systems. Includes orbital mechanics, observing with light, planetary systems, stellar mechanics, galaxies, and cosmology.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 242 (recommended) or PHYS 142 ; MATH 192
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 330 - Thermodynamics and Statistical Mechanics

Credits: 3
Systematic introduction to thermodynamics, kinetic theory, and statistical mechanics (classical and quantum).

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 242 (recommended) or PHYS 142 ; MATH 192
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 350 - Optics

Credits: 3
Geometric and physical optics; interference and diffraction, polarization, Fourier optics, lasers, and holography.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 242 (recommended) or PHYS 142; MATH 192.
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 377 - Advanced Physics Laboratory I

Credits: 1
Development of advanced lab skills in the study of basic physical phenomena. Emphasis includes scientific instrumentation, scientific computing, lab procedure, data reduction, interpretation, and technical communication. A public presentation is required.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 2 credits
Schedule Type: Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

PHYS 400 - Demonstrations in Physics

Credits: 1,2
Identifying topics suitable for demonstration, surveying the literature, preparing demonstrations, finding suppliers of materials and equipment. Critically evaluating demonstrations—their design, preparation, and execution.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): Approval of the department chair.
Schedule Type: Lab
College Code: CAS

PHYS 412 - Classical Mechanics II

Credits: 3
Statics, kinematics, and dynamics of multi-particle systems, including Lagrangian and Hamiltonian formalisms.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 311 or ENGR 285 ; MATH 192
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 420 - Advanced Topics in _____

Credits: 2,3
Atomic physics, nuclear physics, or other current physics area.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 242 or PHYS 311
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 431 - Electricity and Magnetism I

Credits: 3
A treatment of electromagnetic phenomena in terms of potentials and vector fields. Develops Maxwell's equations with descriptions of electrostatics and magnetostatics as solutions to Laplace's and Poisson's equations.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 311
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 432 - Electricity and Magnetism II

Credits: 3
A treatment of electromagnetic phenomena in terms of potentials and vector fields. Addresses electromagnetic radiation in media, reflection and refraction, and the fields of waveguides and antennae.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 431
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 440 - Relativity

Credits: 3
Einstein's theories of Special and General Relativity. Includes introductions to black holes, relativistic cosmology and gravitational waves.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 242 (recommended) or PHYS 142 ; MATH 192
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 445 - Particle Physics

Credits: 3
A study of particle properties, forces, structure, decay and reaction mechanism in the context of the Standard Model.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 481
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 460 - Solid State Physics

Credits: 3
A study of crystallography, x-ray diffraction, properties of crystalline and amorphous solids, band theory of solids, and lattice dynamics.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 311
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: CAS

PHYS 475 - Physics Review

Credits: 3
A review and synthesis of physics concepts and analytical and experimental techniques in preparation for entry into a graduate program. Topics include classical, statistical and quantum mechanics, waves and classical fields.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 311
Schedule Type: Workshop
College Code: CAS

PHYS 477 - Advanced Physics Laboratory II

Credits: 1
Development of advanced lab skills in the study of basic physical phenomena. Emphasis includes scientific instrumentation, scientific computing, lab procedure, data reduction, interpretation, and technical communication. A public presentation is required.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 2 credits
Schedule Type: Lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: CAS

PHYS 478 - Study Tour:

Credits: 0
Travel to destinations relevant to individual programs of study. Classes will be selected from department(s) offerings. Fee may be required.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Noncredit (NC,W)
Schedule Type: Blended Learning
College Code: CAS

PHYS 481 - Quantum Mechanics I

Credits: 3
The mechanics of physical phenomena at small scales in formalisms developed by

Schrödinger, Heisenberg, and Dirac. Treatments of infinite and square well, barrier, step, and harmonic oscillator potentials; uncertainty relations and angular momenta.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 311

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

PHYS 482 - Quantum Mechanics II

Credits: 3

Matrix mechanics and spin, quantum mechanics applied to the hydrogen atom, many-electron atoms and solid state physics. Also an introduction to time-independent and time-dependent perturbation theory.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 481

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

PHYS 490 - Independent Study in Physics

Credits: 1–3

Individually directed study or problem-solving in selected fields of physics. A minimum of 4 hours work per week is required for each credit earned and a written paper is required.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits

Schedule Type: Independent

Special Approval: Instructor permission required.

College Code: CAS

PHYS 495 - Physics Research

Credits: 0–3

An independent research project in physics supervised by a faculty member. A minimum of 4 hours work per week is required for each credit earned. A written paper and an oral presentation are required. Students should register for credit, or for the zero credit option, for each semester during which research is being done.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits

Schedule Type: Independent

Special Approval: Instructor permission required.

College Code: CAS

PHYS 530 - Topics in Teaching _____

Credits: 1–3

Discussions on 1) the principles of physics and effective approaches for teaching them, or 2) the physics lab, its purposes, administrative and safety procedures, essential equipment, seminal experiments, data analysis, lab journal, and reports.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 9 credits

Schedule Type: Seminar

College Code: CAS

PHYS 540 - Topics in _____

Credits: 2,3

Study in one of the traditional areas of graduate physics such as electromagnetic theory, analytical or quantum mechanics, solid state, atomic, nuclear or high energy physics, astrophysics, relativity, or mathematical physics. Students complete readings and problems.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 9 credits

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

PHYS 577 - Physics Colloquium

Credits: 0, 0.5, 1

Current topics and issues of interest in the physics community. For non-zero credit options, includes specialized study and the preparation and delivery of a public presentation.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 1 lecture or activity

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 1 credit

Schedule Type: Seminar

College Code: CAS

PHYS 648 - Workshop

Credits: 1–3

An intensive program for middle school and secondary teachers and teachers-in-training who seek certification or endorsement in physics and who wish to update and expand their skills in the physics laboratory.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Workshop

College Code: CAS

PHYS 690 - Independent Study/Research

Credits: 1–3

Individually directed study, problem-solving, or research in selected fields of physics. Open to qualified students who show ability and initiative. A minimum of 4 hours work per week expected for each credit earned.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of department chair.

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits

Schedule Type: Independent

Mission

The Department of Religion & Biblical Languages seeks to engage majors and general education students through a biblically grounded, theologically astute and relevant process of spiritual formation; equipping and inspiring them to passionately serve the Seventh-day Adventist Church and the wider world beyond as dedicated lay persons and committed denominational employees in the expectation of the soon coming of Jesus Christ.

Students who are religion and theology majors must be in good and regular standing in terms of student life citizenship. As future ministers of the church, they are expected to live in harmony with Seventh-day Adventist beliefs and practices. Failure in any of these areas may lead to a student being placed on probation or being dismissed from the program. Academic requirements and other program standards are stated in detail in the departmental handbook.

Associates

Christian Discipleship AA

This degree prepares students for personal outreach ministries, including Bible instruction, and offers an opportunity to study a broad spectrum of courses covering both Old and New Testament.

This AS degree can be completed on-campus or online. Program requirements are the same for both the main campus and online options.

Main Campus: All courses for this program are available on the main campus. Campus course formats include lectures, labs, and more interactive learning experiences.

Online: All course requirements can also be completed online, with no time required on the main campus. Online courses are offered in self-paced open learning and self-paced full term formats, with a few also available in interactive online format (see School of Distance Education and International Partnerships Online Delivery Definitions).

Students must take the courses designated in the Andrews Core Experience: Associate Degrees outline.

Bachelors

Religion BA (Distance Ed)

Online Delivery: This degree is offered as self-paced online program, although some courses are sometimes available in an interactive online format (see School of Distance Education and International Partnerships Definitions). This program does not require any time on campus.

Total Credits: 124

Program Description

The BA in Religion is designed for students seeking a mastery of basic principles of biblical interpretation, theological reasoning, and practical ministry. This degree does not aim for intentional integration with a student's primary major and related vocational goals, but instead provides a broad-based immersion into Adventist theology and practice. As this degree fulfills part but not all of seminary prerequisites, it is a good fit for non-traditional students as they can finish their remaining prerequisites in the seminary.

Major: Core Requirements - 44-45

RELB 274 - Prophetic Writings of the Old Testament Credits: 3

RELB 335 - Acts and Epistles Credits: 3

Take 5-6 credits from the following:

RELG 225 - Foundations of Missions Credits: 3

RELP 240 - Personal Witnessing Credits: 2-3

RELP 330 - Homiletics—Introduction to Preaching Credits: 2

RELP 335 - Foundations of Youth Ministry Credits: 3

RELP 441 - Introduction to Pastoral Ministry Credits: 2,3

Andrews Core Experience

The Religion Andrews Core Experience requirement is fulfilled through completion of the religion major.

Students must complete an intermediate language course/requirement either through Greek, Hebrew, or a modern foreign language.

Students must take all courses designated in the BA/BS degree requirements of the Andrews Core Experience Program while noting the preceding specific considerations for this degree.

Program Outcomes

Seek Knowledge

Possess a foundational knowledge in the areas of Bible, history, and theology, from a Seventh-day Adventist perspective.

Affirm Faith

Expression of faith: In the context of present society, history, theology, be able to articulate the Seventh-day Adventist view of life both orally and in writing.

Exhibit growth in Christian life skills.

Change the World

Document an attitude of mission, experience & skills in personal service.

Note:

Students planning to enter the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary should select a major in theology. A religion major may be selected but must be supplemented with Seminary prerequisite courses. For entrance requirements, see the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary section of this bulletin.

Religion, BA

Total Credits: 124

Program Description

The BA in Religion is designed for students seeking a mastery of basic principles of biblical interpretation, theological reasoning, and practical ministry. This degree does not aim for intentional integration with a student's primary major and related vocational goals, but instead provides a broad-based immersion into Adventist theology and practice. It is suited as a degree for non-traditional students who for various reasons are not in the position to complete a BA in Theology. The degree does not meet pre-Seminary requirements and students are encouraged to add another major.

*Note: Language requirements may be fulfilled by any intermediate level foreign language course. Major requirement can be fulfilled by taking one of the Biblical languages.

Graduation Requirements

Minimum grade of "C-" for all major classes and cognates.

Minimum overall GPA of 2.25

Major GPA of 2.50

Practical service in accordance with the requirements of the department.

Program Outcomes

Seek Knowledge

Document foundational knowledge in the areas of Bible, history, and theology from an SDA perspective

Affirm Faith

Effectively communicate the global mission, beliefs, and heritage of the Seventh-day Adventist Church

Exhibit growth in awareness of Christian values and life skills

Change the World

Document service experiences & skills in community and cross cultural contexts

Off-campus Locations

This program is also offered at approved off-campus location(s).

Additional Information

For students wishing to directly enter the seminary, it is recommended that you choose the following prerequisite courses in addition to the prerequisites built into the degree: RELP 485 (Pastoral Ministry), RELH 316 (History of the Christian Church I), RELH 317 (History of the Christian Church II), and RELP 330 (Homiletics). One of the RELP courses can count towards your practical studies elective component of the degree, and two of the three remaining courses can fit into your general departmental electives, leaving you with only (1) additional course.

See Department of Teaching, Learning & Curriculum for Additional Secondary Education graduation requirements.

Employment/Future Academic Progress

Information

For students desiring to directly enter the ministry upon graduation, the Theology, BA is the standard, in-depth degree that has greater employment options. The religion degree should be done in conjunction with another major for employment purposes except for transfer/major change students attempting to finish up and go directly to the seminary.

Religion, Secondary Education Concentration BA

Total Credits: 124

Program Description

The BA in Religion for Secondary Education includes all requirements in Religion for SDA church certification and is designed for those seeking to teach religion on the secondary level. In order to meet Michigan State Teacher Certification requirements an additional major and minor must be earned. Mission

The Andrews University Department of Social Work, through excellence in teaching, research, and service, prepares students to be effective, knowledgeable, and qualified for practice in the twenty-first century. Using a person and environment perspective, graduates will enhance individual, family, group, organizational, and community well-being, celebrate difference, and promote social and economic justice for vulnerable populations. As a Seventh-day Adventist Christian institution, we build and disseminate knowledge, values, and skills that positively impact local, national, and international communities; affirm faith by integrating Christian compassion in action within generalist and advanced generalist social work practice; and change the world by enhancing the quality of life for all people by upholding the traditions, values, and ethics of the social work profession.

Bachelors

Social Work BSW

The Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) is a professional degree which prepares graduates for generalist professional practice and/or the opportunity to be admitted to a Master of Social Work (MSW) program with advanced standing within appropriate advanced standing GPA guidelines. In addition to the on-campus BSW program, the BSW program is offered as an off-campus program at Washington Adventist University, Takoma Park, Md. The off-campus BSW program is administered and delivered by the AU Department of Social Work and upon completion the BSW is conferred by Andrews University. The AU baccalaureate program is accredited by the Council on Social Work Education through the year 2019.

The foundation curriculum consists of 10 core competencies that are required in every BSW program: (1) Professionalism, (2) Values and Ethics, (3) Critical Thinking, (4) Diversity and Differences, (5) Human Rights and Social Economic Justice, (6) Research, (7) Human Behavior and the Social Environment, (8) Social Welfare Policy and Services, (9) Contextualization, (10) Social Work Practice, plus two (2) additional departmental competencies: (11) Global Worldview and (12) Christian perspective.

Throughout the curriculum, the program integrates concepts of professional ethics and values, critical thinking, and sensitivity to diversity, oppression, social and economic justice, and populations-at-risk. Field education is an integral component of the program.

Although students may declare themselves as social work majors in their freshman or sophomore year, they must apply for acceptance into the social work program. Application is made in January of the sophomore year for formal acceptance into the program by the end of March. Applications are available from social work academic advisors of both the on-campus and off-campus sites.

BSW Student Handbook

The BSW Student Handbook has been designed as the social work student's aid in understanding the program requirements, Social Work Department, and relevant policies of Andrews University. Inside the handbook you will find information such as expectations of students, the BSW curriculum, departmental policies, and other relevant information.

You are responsible for the information found in this handbook, so please take the time to familiarize yourself with the handbook and know where to find questions and answers if the need arises.

Field Education

The Field Manual has been designed as your aid in understanding field education requirements, your role as a student in a field agency, and relevant policies of Andrews University.

You are responsible for the information found in this handbook, so please take the time to familiarize yourself with the handbook and know where to find questions and answers if the need arises.

Admission Criteria

Students qualify for entry into the BSW program when they:

- Earn a minimum GPA of 2.5 overall.
- Receive grades of C- or better in all required program prerequisite and cognate courses.
- Complete SOWK 100, SOWK 101, SOWK 315, SOWK 320, SOWK 325.
- Maintain a GPA of at least 2.50 in these courses.

 - PTE (Academic version) - 54
 2. Nelson Denny - score of 13 and
 3. Personal interview with BSW program director or designee
- Applicants who fail to meet any of the above may be admitted only after committee consideration of the specific circumstances. Additional course work in English may be required.

A student who graduated from a four-year English-speaking high school, college or university may be exempted from all or parts of the above requirements.

Continued Enrollment and Professional Expectations

- Acceptable academic performance
- Ethical conduct in compliance with the National Association of Social Workers (NASW) Code of Ethics
- Adequate knowledge and practice performance in the practicum setting.
- Appropriate demonstration of Professional Expectations.

Students in the BSW and MSW Social Work programs are expected to read, know, and integrate the professional expectations listed in the Andrews University Department of Social Work Handbook. Consequences for violations of these expectations could include but are not limited to verbal or written warnings, denial of admission, suspension, dismissal, or expulsion from a course or the program. Student Handbook can be obtained on the departmental website at www.andrews.edu/socialwork/.

Masters

Social Work MSW

The Master of Social Work (MSW) degree is a professional degree enabling the graduate to enter practice as an advanced-level practitioner. Graduates are prepared to work in a variety of clinical, administration, and development focus areas. The foundation curriculum for the MSW consists of 12 core competencies: (1) Professionalism, (2) Values and Ethics, (3) Critical Thinking, (4) Diversity and Differences, (5) Human Rights and Social Economic Justice, (6) Research, (7) Human Behavior and the Social Environment, (8) Social Welfare Policy and Services, (9) Contextualization, (10) Social Work Practice, (11) Global Worldview, and (12) Christian Perspective. Accreditation for the MSW degree has been granted through the Council on Social Work Education through 2019.

Degree Requirements

- A minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 in Social Work Program
- No grade of D or F (or U) may count toward a graduate degree.

The maintenance at all times of professional conduct and behaviors appropriate for a social worker according to the National Association of Social Workers' Code of Ethics.

Defense of the professional degree portfolio. This portfolio is a demonstrative collection of professional competencies.

Other Andrews University degree requirements as presented in the Graduate Academic Information section of this bulletin

* Subject to change as necessary to improve the process and address accreditation issues.

Past experience strengthens all MSW student applications. However, following Council on Social Work Education requirements, no social work course credit can be given for life experience or previous work experience.

Curriculum

Core advanced interpersonal practice courses supplemented by optional areas of focus are offered. Students wishing to enroll in core graduate social work courses must be enrolled in the MSW program and/or have the instructor's permission. Students in the regular two-year program are required to take all foundation year courses. All students, both regular and advanced placement, must take all core advanced year courses, as well as those listed for any specific focus area they select and elective courses to complete the total credits required. Students who are accepted into the advanced one-year program must also take SOWK 515. Students may transfer up to 20% of the credits from one degree into the MSW program. All courses are subject to change based on accreditation needs.

Admission Requirements

English Language Requirements

Admission Requirements

Credit requirements are reduced by 23 based on previous BSW foundation courses taken. In addition to the requirements for the regular two-year program, the following are required for admission into the advanced one-year program.

Bachelor's degree in Social Work no more than five years old from a program accredited by the Council on Social Work Education or international equivalent approved by CSWE. If an applicant has a degree older than five years, he/she must have one year of post-bachelor's human-service work experience for every year beyond the five-year limit.

An overall undergraduate GPA of 3.0 and on graduate credits previously earned, and 3.2 on undergraduate Social Work classes.

Satisfactory completion of 33 credits:

Advanced Standing Plus (18 Months) Program

Students who have done generally very well in their BSW program, but do not meet the 3.0 GPA admission requirement for the one-year advanced standing program, may be eligible for the 18 month advanced standing program designed to remediate any areas of academic weakness. Credit requirements are increased by six credits in addition to the one-year advanced program requirements, designated by the advisor in consultation with the student to strengthen identified areas for growth. Students must receive at least a 3.25 GPA the first semester in order to take a full load of 12 credits the second semester.

Dual Degree Program Description

The MSW Dual Degree Programs allow the student to complete two degrees in one additional year, with a tuition reduction of 33% for the MSW credits. To facilitate this objective, the two programs will reduce the total number of required credits and will share a practicum and a limited number of elective courses. Specifically, the Social Work department will reduce the required number of credits by 9-10 credits by allowing students to take their required social work electives in the other graduate program. In addition, around sixteen credits will be shared between the two programs.

Additional Information

MSW Scholarship

Since the MSW program does not require the GRE, an equivalent graduate scholarship is offered in the department. The amount of potential scholarship is related to GPA and supporting documents. This applies to the last 3 semesters of the program. Please refer to the Department of Social Work website for further information:

<https://www.andrews.edu/cas/socialwork/scholarships/msw-scholarship-policy.pdf>

GPA	Scholarship
3.90 - 4.00	50% tuition reduction
3.50 - 3.89	25% tuition reduction
3.30 - 3.49	10% tuition reduction*

*available to Advanced standing 1 year students only, based on BSW GPA

Assistantships

Students have the opportunity to apply for graduate assistantships—teaching or research. These assistantships give students the opportunity to develop their expertise. Students interested in becoming social-work educators—especially those with years of clinical experience—may teach undergraduate courses. Research assistantships offer experiences in community consulting, grant writing, and/or conducting research.

Resources

MSW Student Handbook

The MSW Student Handbook has been designed as the social work student's aid in understanding the program requirements of the Social Work Department as well as relevant policies of Andrews University. Inside the handbook you will find information such as expectations of students, the MSW curriculum, departmental policies, and other relevant information.

Field Manual

The Field Manual has been designed as your aid in understanding field education requirements, your role as a student in a field agency, and relevant policies of Andrews University.

You are responsible for the information found in this handbook, so please take the time to familiarize yourself with the handbook and know where to find questions and answers if the need arises.

Masters Dual Degrees

Note: Because each dual degree is listed in two schools you will find duplicates. The content is identical except for order of information.

Master of Social Work/ Master of Divinity Dual Degree MSW/MDiv

General Information

Andrews University has formed a collaboration between the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary and the Department of Social Work in the College of Arts & Sciences to prepare students for service in occupations where social work and the pastoral mission of the church intersect.

The objectives of this program are to prepare students for various forms of ministry in which clinical and administrative skills in social work and theology are needed; to enable students to integrate both theological and social work knowledge, values and skills into a multifaceted approach to Christian service, thereby enhancing their usefulness as instruments of the Holy Spirit; and to sensitize students to nontraditional ministry opportunities by exposing them to theories and practice skills related to counseling approaches, person-in-environment, social and economic justice, human rights and global perspectives from a Christian worldview. The program is designed to give students an integrated approach to both theology and social work. Students can choose either a dual degree or an emphasis in either Social Work or Christian Ministry.

Since both the MSW and MDiv programs share certain cognate courses to achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, both degrees must be conferred simultaneously in order to fulfill the requirements of either degree. In the event that one degree was completed prior to enrollment for the dual degree program, the cognate requirements for the other degree will be adjusted as shown below. A dual student cannot march in graduation or March-without-Completion if both halves of the dual degree are not completed.

Total Credits: 111

MDiv: Graduation requirements consist of the satisfactory completion of 111 semester credits with an overall grade point average of 2.75 or better. 65 credits are MDiv credits, and 46 credits are social work credits.

11.5 credits of MSW core courses replace 9 credits of equivalent MDiv core courses. In addition the 6 credits of electives for each program are merged.

- SOWK 501 Foundations of Practice I (4 credits) replaces DSRE 503 Marriage, Family, and Interpersonal Relationships (2 credits)
- SOWK 510/535 Generalist Field Experience/Seminar) 2.5 credits replaces CHMN 560 Theological Field Education (2 credits)
- SOWK 601 Advanced Practice I (3 credits) replaces CHMN 555 Pastoral Counseling (2 credits)
- SOWK 515 Christian Perspectives on Professional Ethics (2 credits) replaces THST 643 Christian Professional Ethics (3 credits)

MSW: MDiv students are required to complete 46 core credit hours of the two-year regular MSW program. Due to the strict requirements of the Council on Social Work Education's accrediting mandates, these core courses must all be taught or co-taught within the department by faculty holding an MSW degree. However, these courses could be co-taught with faculty from the seminary. Occasionally, a student who has already earned a BSW from an accredited program may apply to this program. In this case, the student would be placed in the Advanced Standing program, and take either 33 credits (Advanced Standing) or 39 credits (Advanced Standing Plus). Students with an undergraduate GPA of 3.0 or higher are eligible to complete the Advanced Standing Program while those with a lower GPA must complete the Advanced Standing Plus requirements.

Admissions Requirements

Master of Divinity

All MDiv applicants must meet the Graduate Programs Admission Requirements applicable to all graduate students and the general seminary requirements.

English Language Requirements

Students whose language of education is not English must submit one of the following tests and minimum scores:

- TOEFL Paper-based - 565
- TOEFL Internet-based - 85
- MELAB - 81
- IELTS - 6.5
- PTE - 58

- Hold a baccalaureate degree: A four-year degree from an accredited United States institution, or its equivalent from an institution outside the U.S.
- Minimum of 2.5 Undergraduate GPA
- Normally hold membership in the Seventh-day Adventist Church inasmuch as the MDiv program is specifically designed for Adventist ministers and is sponsored and financed by the Adventist church.
- Represent high moral integrity with a character, lifestyle, and spiritual commitment reflective of the beliefs and practices of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and show promise of usefulness for Adventist ministry through personal maturity and adequate experience in the Church. (Persons of other faiths who are willing to live in harmony with these standards are welcome to apply.)
- Submit an autobiographical history and a 350+ word statement of purpose reflecting the applicant's family and spiritual development, sense of calling to ministry, experience in church work, and future goals in relationship to the MDiv program. A guideline is provided in the admissions package.
- If married, the spouse of the applicant is also asked to complete a statement in regard to his or her feelings and relationship to the partner's aspirations for future ministry.
- Background Check. Applicants to all Seminary programs are required to undergo a criminal background check and to make the results of the check available to the Seminary. The cost of the criminal background check is the responsibility of the applicant. Details about this requirement may be obtained from the MDiv office.
- An interview with a representative of the MDiv program may be required, either by personal contact, telephone, or video.

Complete and return the Sixteen Personality Factor Questionnaire as directed.

Pre-admission Conduct Disclosure Statement - Applicants to all Seminary programs are required to complete and submit to the Seminary the "Pre-Admission Conduct Disclosure Statement."

Recommendations

- Church board where the applicant is a member
- Church administrator, pastor, or elder
- General Recommendation from: College teacher or advisor, recent employer, or some other non-family member

Master of Social Work

Applicants for the MDiv/MSW dual degree program typically will have received a bachelor's degree (BA, BS, BSW) from a four-year college or university accredited by one of the nationally recognized accrediting agencies in the United States, or hold an equivalent educational credential from another country. Application must be made separately to both the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary and the Department of Social Work. Acceptance into one of the programs does not guarantee acceptance into the other. Applicants must meet the admissions requirements for each program, including all required prerequisites for each degree program.

MDiv:

Although MDiv students can transfer 11 electives into the MSW program, they can only receive a tuition reduction if they are simultaneously enrolled in the MDiv program. Students who have already completed an MDiv degree can receive the tuition reduction upon admission into the MSW program.

MSW:

1. Students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 in social work program courses;
2. No grade of D or F (or U) may count toward the MSW degree.

English Language Requirement MDiv

For those applicants whose native language is not English, the following is required:

MELAB—score of 81 (must achieve passing score on each section) or TOEFL (paper based)—score of 565 or (iBT Internet based)-score of 85. Minimum score of 20 in each section (reading, listening, speaking, writing).

IELTS (Academic Version)—score of 6.5

PTE - (Academic Version)score of 58

Language proficiency must be met before enrolling full-time in regular coursework.

English Language Requirement - MSW

For those applicants whose native language is not English, the following is required:

1. Demonstration of English proficiency by obtaining at least a minimum score on any one of the following exams. Exam must be taken within two years prior to enrollment

TOEFL ITP (paper-based) - A Minimum score of 550

TOEFL iBT (internet-based) - 80 with a minimum of 20 on each section

MELAB - 80 with a minimum of 80 on each section

IELTS (Academic version) - 6.5

PTE (Academic version) - 54

2. Nelson Denny - score of 13 and

3. Personal interview with MSW program director or designee

Applicants who fail to meet any of the above may be admitted only after committee consideration of the specific circumstances. Additional course work in English may be required. A student who graduated from a four-year English-speaking high school, college or university may be exempted from all or parts of the above requirements.

Graduate Record Examination (GRE)

Students who are applying for admission to the MSW program have two options related to the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). For those students who are seeking a graduate scholarship, the GRE must be taken. The amount of a potential scholarship is related to the score achieved on the GRE as follows:

GRE ScoreScholarship

320	50% tuition reduction
310	25% tuition reduction
300	10% tuition reduction

For students who do not seek a graduate scholarship based on the GRE score, the GRE examination is not required.

MAYYAM/MSW Dual Degree

Andrews University has formed a collaborative between the Department of Discipleship and Religious Education in the Seminary and the Department of Social Work in the College of Arts & Sciences to prepare students for youth and young adult ministry and social work. Students choosing this program would receive both a master's in Youth and Young Adult Ministry and a master's in Social Work. The objectives of this program are to equip students for various forms of ministry in which clinical and administrative skills in social work and ministry are needed; to enable students to integrate both ministry and social work knowledge, values and skills into a multifaceted approach to Christian service, thereby enhancing their usefulness as instruments of the Holy Spirit; and to sensitize them to nontraditional ministry opportunities by exposing them to theories and practice skills related to counseling approaches, person-in-environment, social and economic justice, human rights and global perspectives from a Christian worldview. The program is designed to give students both master's degrees within three years. The details of the program are as follows:

The dual degree will consist of 78 credits.

The student will need to be accepted into both programs.

There will be shared electives between the two programs:

- Eight credits for the MA in Youth & Young Adult Ministry; and
- Ten credits for the Master of Social Work.

Fieldwork will also be a shared experience, being cross-listed as SOWK 535 - Generalist Field Experience and DSRE 660 - Field Practicum: Youth and Young Adult Ministry. Four credit hours will be required for a total of 400 clock hours of field during this course. A total of nine credit hours or 900 clock hours will be required for the program.

One course will be cross-listed and be taken in the Department of Social Work:

- SOWK 501 - Foundations of Practice I will fulfill the requirements for DSRE 503 - Marriage, Family, and Interpersonal Relationships.

GSEM 525 - The Bible and Biblical History will be considered a prerequisite course. If the student passes the Biblical Literacy Exam, that will satisfy the prerequisite. If the student does not pass the exam, they will need to take the one-credit GSEM 525 in addition to the 78 credits for the dual degree.

Since both, the MSW and MAYYAM programs, reduce the total credits in order to reduce costs and achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, both degrees must be received simultaneously in order to fulfill the requirements of either degree.

MAYYAM/MSW with Campus Chaplaincy Emphasis

For those pursuing the MAYYAM/MSW with an emphasis in Campus Chaplaincy, please note the following differences:

The following course is not required for those pursuing the Campus Chaplaincy Emphasis:

- DSRE 656 - Counseling Youth and Young Adults Credits: 2,3

The following courses are required for those pursuing the Campus Chaplaincy Emphasis:

- DSRE 636 - Seminar in Youth Ministry Credits: 2,3
 - * In either DSRE564 or DSRE636, the student registers for a third credit requiring completion of a research/action research project
- DSRE 664 - Advanced Campus Ministry Credits: 3
- DSRE 669 - Reaching the Secular Mind Credits: 2,3

Master of Social Work/Master of Arts, Religious Education, Family Life Education Focus Dual Degree MSW/MA

Dual Degree Program Description

The Dual Degree Program in Family Life and Masters in Social Work allows the student to complete two degrees in 3 years, with a tuition reduction of 33% for the MSW credits. For seminary credits, the student may apply for the MA (Religious Education) tuition discount.

To facilitate this objective, the two programs will reduce the total number of required credits and will share a practicum and a limited number of elective courses. Specifically, the Social Work department will reduce the required number of credits from 56 to 46 by allowing students to take their required electives in the Seminary. Sixteen credits will be shared between the two programs.

The MA (Religious Education) is a 48 credit degree, but it will share 16 credits with the MSW program and accept 3 MSW credits as electives thereby reducing the MA (Religious Education) credits to 45.

Total Credits: 80

Program Description

Andrews University has chosen to explore a collaboration between the School of Business Administration and the Department of Social Work in the College of Arts & Sciences to prepare students for service in occupations where social work and an MBA intersect. Social Workers, particularly those in the areas of Administration and Development Social Work, may have an interest in administrative work. In such situations, the MBA could equip them with a complementary skill set. Likewise, MBA students may find themselves in situations where social work skills in counseling and therapy would be useful, especially if they work in the not-for-profit sector. In addition, the MSW/MBA collaborative allows for a greater breadth of employment opportunities for students.

Since both the MSW and MBA programs reduce the total credits in order to reduce costs and achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, both degrees must be received simultaneously in order to fulfill the requirements of either degree. In the event that a student decides to drop out of the dual degree program, the requirements for the single degree must be completed in their entirety. The MBA is a 33 credit degree, but it will share 5 credits with the MSW program, accepting 3 MSW credits as an elective (SOWK 630 or 660 which are taken under the MSW core), plus 2 MSW credits as part of the MBA ethics requirement (SOWK 515 from the MSW core). Likewise, the MSW is a 56 credit degree, but it will share 10 credits with the MBA program and accept 10 MBA credits as electives. This reduces the total credits for both degrees from 89 to 74.

Admission Requirements

In addition to the general admission requirements under Graduate Academic Policies, note also the requirements listed below.

Prerequisite Courses

MBA

These prerequisite courses may be waived for students with appropriate undergraduate course work from an accredited institution. If the prerequisite courses are more than five years old or the grades earned are below C, students may be required to repeat these courses.

Such courses must be taken by the time the student has completed no more than 50% of his/her course work for the master's degree. The following six courses constitute the prerequisites for the MBA degree:

Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT)

The GMAT admission requirements must be met for regular admission status. The student may not enroll for any graduate-level business credits (courses assigned as 515 or above) before the GMAT requirement is met. If the student chooses to waive the GMAT based on number 2 below, this must be done within the first semester of the MBA program.

Admission GMAT requirements can be obtained by ONE of the following:

Attain formula score of 1,000 points, calculated by taking the undergraduate cumulative GPA X 200 + GMAT score $\geq 1,000$.

OR

Five years of documented and approved related work experience and earned a grade of at least B- in statistics and a grade of at least B- in pre-calculus algebra.

OR

On-campus Andrews University undergraduate business students with a cumulative GPA ≥ 3.0 and earned a grade of at least a B- in statistics and a grade of at least B- in pre-calculus algebra.

OR

GPA ≥ 3.25 from a U.S. accredited institution.

GPA Requirements

Applicants must satisfy one of the criteria below:

Have an overall GPA of at least 2.75 in undergraduate courses.

Have a GPA of at least 2.75 on last 50% of undergraduate courses.

Have a graduate GPA of at least 3.5 on 8 semester credits or more earned in courses graded A-F.

Hold a previous master's degree.

Professional Resume

All applicants must submit a separate, attached copy of their complete professional resume with their application. Completing the "Professional History" section within the application will not be considered sufficient for acceptance to School of Business Administration graduate programs.

English Language Requirements

In addition to the English language requirements under Graduate Academic Policies, note also the requirements listed below.

Nelson Denny - score of 13

Personal interview with MSW program director or designee

Applicants who fail to meet any of the above may be admitted only after committee consideration of the specific circumstances. Additional course work in English may be required.

A student who graduated from a four-year English-speaking high school, college or university may be exempted from all or parts of the above requirements.

Maintaining Academic Standing

All graduate students are expected to maintain a 3.00 GPA in all graduate courses that apply to the degree requirements.

No grade of D or F (or U) may be used to satisfy degree requirements; however, these grades are included when computing the cumulative GPA and, if they occur in courses normally meeting degree requirements, the degree GPA.

Students admitted under provisional status (due to lack of prerequisites, GMAT, etc.) must make regular progress toward achieving regular enrollment status and toward completion of their selected graduate degree. If insufficient progress is made, provisional status will be revoked after four enrolled semesters.

Regular admission status must be met no later than the semester before the last semester in which the student expects to enroll, prior to graduation

Program Accreditation

The Master of Business Administration is accredited by the International Assembly for Collegiate Business Education (IACBE), located in Lenexa, Kansas.

The Master of Social Work program is accredited by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE) located in Alexandria, Virginia.

Master of Social Work/Master of Science in Community and International Development Dual Degree MSW/MSCID

Dual Degree Program Description

Andrews University has chosen to explore a collaborative between the Community & International Development Program (CIDP) and the Department of Social Work in the College of Arts & Sciences to prepare students for service in occupations where social work and international development intersect. Social Workers, particularly those in the areas of Administration and Development and International Social Work, may have an interest in international work. In such situations, the MSCID could equip them with a complementary skill set. Likewise, development and relief workers often find themselves in situations where social work skills in counseling and therapy would be useful. In addition, the MSCID/MSW collaborative allows for a greater breadth of employment opportunities for students.

Since both the MSW and MSCID programs reduce the total credits in order to reduce costs and achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, both degrees must be received simultaneously in order to fulfill the requirements of either degree. In the event that one degree was completed prior to enrollment for the dual degree program, the requirements for the second degree would be met through completion of the requirements shown below.

Collaborative Program Objectives

To prepare students for various forms of work in which clinical and administrative skills in development and social work are needed;

To enable students to integrate development and social work knowledge, values, and skills into a multifaceted approach to service, thereby enhancing their value in the world.

Distinctive Features of the Program

The program is designed to give students an integrated approach to both international development and social work. Students who take a social work emphasis in Administration and Development and International Social Work can choose a dual degree with CIDP.

Admission Requirements

Applicants to the MSCID/MSW dual degree program typically will have received a bachelor's degree (BA, BS, BSW) from an accredited four-year college or university in the U.S., or hold an equivalent educational credential from another country. Application must be made separately to both the MSDIC and MSW programs. Acceptance into one program does not guarantee acceptance into the other. Applicants must meet the admissions requirements for each program, including all required prerequisites for each degree. Students in both programs must meet the following minimum requirements:

Students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0;

No grade of D or F (or U) may count toward either degree.

Credits for Each Program

MSCID students are required to complete 39-40 credit hours for the two-year regular program, which includes 12 elective credits (minimum of 4 courses). Students with certain prerequisites may qualify for the 30-credit advanced standing program. The two-year regular MSW degree requires 46 core credit hours, plus 10 elective hours. Due to the strict requirements of the Council on Social Work Education's accrediting mandates, these core courses must all be taught or co-taught within the department by faculty holding an MSW degree. Occasionally, a student who has already earned a BSW from an accredited program may apply to this program. In this case, the student would be placed in the Advanced Standing program, and take either 33 credits (Advanced Standing) or 39 credits (Advanced Standing Plus). Students with an undergraduate GPA of 3.0 or higher are eligible to complete the Advanced Standing Program, while those with a lower GPA must complete the Advanced Standing Plus requirements.

These program models create a curriculum that allows for the integration of 21-24 Social Work and CIDP credits, giving students the advantage of being able to reduce their total credit load. Since both MSCID and MSW programs already share courses in order to reduce costs and achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, the course work for both degrees must be taken either simultaneously or within one academic year of completion of one of the degrees in order to fulfill the requirements of either degree.

Because of CSWE requirements, students in the MSCID/MSW SOCIAL WORK COURSES 215 dual degree program would register for social work core classes in lieu of certain CIDP courses and would take an emphasis in either Administration & Development or International Social Work. Students will take shared courses as outlined below.

MSW Requirements

Student Handbook

The MSW Student Handbook has been designed as the social work student's aid in understanding the program requirements, Social Work Department, and relevant policies of Andrews University. Inside the handbook you will find information such as expectations of students, the MSW curriculum, departmental policies, and other relevant information.

You are responsible for the information found in this handbook, so please take the time to familiarize yourself with the handbook and know where to find questions and answers if the need arises.

Field Manual

The Field Manual has been designed as your aid in understanding field education requirements, your role as a student in a field agency, and relevant policies of Andrews University.

You are responsible for the information found in this handbook, so please take the time to familiarize yourself with the handbook and know where to find questions and answers if the need arises.

English Language Requirement

For those applicants whose native language is not English, the following is required:

1. Demonstration of English proficiency by obtaining at least a minimum score on any one of the following exams. Exam must be taken within two years prior to enrollment.

TOEFL ITP (paper-based) - A minimum score of 550

TOEFL iBT (internet-based) - 80 with a minimum of 20 on each section

MELAB - 80 with a minimum of 80 on each section

IELTS (Academic version) - 6.5

PTE (Academic version) - 54

2. Nelson Denny - score of 13 and

3. Personal interview with MSW program director or designee.

Applicants who fail to meet any of the above may be admitted only after committee consideration of the specific circumstances. Additional course work in English may be required. A student who graduated from a four-year English-speaking high school, college or university may be exempted from all or parts of the above requirements.

Graduate Record Examination (GRE)

Students who are applying for admission to the MSW program have two options related to the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). For those students who are seeking a graduate scholarship, the GRE must be taken. The amount of a potential scholarship is related to the score achieved on the GRE as follows:

GRE Score	Scholarship
320	50% tuition reduction
310	25% tuition reduction
300	10% tuition reduction

For students who do not seek a graduate scholarship based on the GRE score, the GRE examination is not required.

Why an Undergraduate Leadership Program?

Society often encourages us to think of leadership as reserved for people with charismatic personalities or those in high-profile positions. Many would argue that effective leaders are born rather than made, and that those who lack the stereotyped traits associated with leadership must settle to be followers. Andrews University rejects the notion that leadership is only for the few. We define "leadership" as individualized, intentional influence, believing that a well-trained leader will be better able to affect meaningful change regardless of their career path.

The question is not whether Andrews students are leaders. They are. The question is whether or not they are maximizing their natural leadership potential. While leadership growth is a lifelong process—one that will obviously continue beyond the undergraduate college years—participation in the Leadership Program provides a vital grounding in leadership thinking and practice that places graduates ahead of their peers in terms of self-knowledge, creativity, positive change, interpersonal communication, teamwork, engaged citizenship and many other traits.

Program participants may pursue any of three tracks in approaching their leadership development, depending on what works best for the individual. Some may wish to take advantage of an individual course, created especially for those seeking a single game-changing elective. Those students who would like a more in-depth leadership experience can opt for the Undergraduate Leadership Certificate. The certificate embeds in their current academic program, allowing for maximum flexibility. Still others will want to pursue the most complete opportunity by accomplishing the Leadership Minor. Any Andrews' student should be able to take part in this program without adjusting the course of study for their major.

Undergraduate Leadership Courses

Fundamentals of Leadership is a class created with every student in mind. Whether a stand-alone, game-changing course or the entryway to a Leadership Certificate or Minor, this class is designed to bring immediate and long-term value to any undergraduate degree by exploring basic leadership concepts and why leadership applies to them, their individualized approach to leading, team dynamics, and unlocking their creativity.

Creative Problem Solving seeks to dive deeply into the creative and critical thinking process that should prepare students to address new and emerging issues in the world around them.

Theories of Leadership provides students with an understanding of the leadership points of view swirling around them. It will help decode the conversation and actions of others who may use similar language while intending different things. Finally, this course will facilitate the student's personalized construction of a practicable theory of leadership.

Introduction to Coaching gives the student theory and practice in impacting those around them to become a better version of themselves. Participants in this class will acquire the coveted skills allowing them to move into groups or teams and increase the performance and engagement of others.

Leadership Practicum (0 credits, required every semester a student is enrolled in the certificate/minor program) helps students learn how to navigate their college experience from a leadership perspective with the help of one-on-one coaching. They will engage with a mentor, expand their knowledge base of leadership, and develop a growth plan designed to help them lead self, others, and organizations.

Leadership Capstone is a course that helps students to develop and present their leadership portfolio, an experience that includes a reflection process describing personal growth and increasing theoretical understanding, as well as a focus on preparing students to present their skills to future employers.

Change Project allows students to identify needed change, create a plan, attempt the change and study the resulting relationships and processes required to become a change agent.

Diversity & Inclusion in Leadership will equip students with the tools to manage intercultural conflict, identify and utilize inclusive language, and explore the relationship among diversity, inclusion and the gospel. Emphasis will be given to learning the strategies needed for effective, inclusive leadership in diverse settings, giving special consideration to conversations around religion, gender, orientation, ability, and race/culture.

Undergraduate Minors

Leadership Minor

This world desperately needs engaged young leaders—those prepared to positively impact teams, organizations, and movements. The leadership minor signifies a bold claim of readiness to do just that. The leadership minor builds on the leadership certificate by diving deeper into the mechanics of leadership, learning to listen well and ask good questions, and creatively addressing complex problems within a team.

Total Credits: 20-21

The leadership minor can be completed in 20 to 21 credit hours. The minor adds three courses to the foundation of the leadership certificate. As in the certificate, LEAD 101 is offered for 2 or 3 credits to give students flexibility in their schedule, as well as allowing 3 credit students to take a deep dive into strengths identification, an integral component of the leadership program curriculum.

Mission

We, the Andrews University Department of Visual Art, Communication & Design, mentor students in a nurturing, spiritual environment to be Christ-centered, socially responsible individuals by developing their creative gifts for visual and verbal communication.

Department Goal

The goal of the department is to prepare students to become scholars, market-ready practitioners, graduate students and future professors who are able to effectively develop, shape, and deliver uplifting content through journalism, communication, art, film, photography and design. Our purpose is to mold students' minds and to increase their talents so they think critically, discern clearly, and communicate creatively and constructively, with a Christ-like mindset for service.

Communication, whether visual or verbal or nonverbal, is all about connection—shaping, sending, sharing, and receiving messages and meaning through a variety of channels—interpersonal, small group, public, or mediated. The mediums of communication may vary from producing a television show, designing a magazine, writing an editorial, photographing, or painting a portrait, but the goal is always to create human connection.

Lambda Pi Eta

Lambda Pi Eta is the National Communication Association (NCA) affiliated honor society.

Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA) Chapter

The Andrews University PRSSA chapter is affiliated with the Western Michigan Public Relations Society of America. At the national level students are eligible for PRSA's publications, scholarships, award programs, leadership training and a national conference.

Communication Club

We have an active Communication Club that you are encouraged to participate in. The club provides you with opportunities to gain meaningful extracurricular experience, engage in enjoyable and professional social activities, and have access to privileges (such as special tours or workshops, or opportunities) only granted to club members.

Computer Policy

The Department of Visual Art, Communication & Design regards the computer as a tool integral to the success of students in their professional development. It is required that all students purchase a laptop computer and software to meet the department guidelines. Because computer technology is continually changing, a revised policy is drafted each fall semester. A list of software is available in the department. Specific requirements change so it is important to make sure the software listed is compatible with the laptop you choose to purchase. Use of the computer in the curriculum varies by course.

Communication Degrees

A bachelor's degree in Communication is very useful for preparing you for a wide range of career options, including being a political aide, public relations manager, talk show host, sales representative, graphic designer, photojournalist, market researcher, camera operator, corporate communication manager, copy editor, producer, magazine editor, and marketing/advertising manager. A master's degree in Communication can position you as an expert in your chosen area of concentration, further expanding your career options, and opening higher-level opportunities for professional advancement—as well as preparing you to pursue a terminal degree.

The three undergraduate degrees in Communication have a variety of emphasis areas. We also offer a Master of Arts program with two degrees (an MA and an MDiv/MA dual degree), and a graduate certificate program. In addition, we facilitate the Bachelor of Science in Communication for the Adult Degree Completion program (see Distance Education for more information).

Internships

Students enrolled in the Communication Management emphasis or the Journalism and Communication Media programs must submit applications for required internships during their sophomore and/or junior years. Students must fulfill the required number of clock hours to meet the requirements for their degree. All majors are encouraged to participate in the internship program. Department approval must be obtained prior to the start of an internship.

Practicum

Practicum refers to the out-of-class opportunities on campus and in the immediate area for developing skills valuable to the communication professional. Students are encouraged to apply to the department for such opportunities. These experiences will be documented in a Portfolio as evidence of the student's involvement in the practical application of theory.

Visual Art & Design Degrees

Students can graduate with a double BFA major or a BFA with a BA in Art History. Credits cannot be duplicated within the 45-credit BFA emphasis. In the second BFA emphasis, 39 credits are required, and excludes ART 485 Thesis Project (3), ART 496 Portfolio Development (3), and ART 497 BFA Exhibition (1).

Associates

Photography AS

The Associate of Science in Photography degree offers students the opportunity to gain marketable skills for entry-level employment in the photographic industry. The AS in Photography answers the need for a professional degree where a broad photographic skill set can be learned in a short period of time, addressing time and/or financial constraints, while still preparing the student for a viable place in the photographic industry.

Bachelors

Art BA

The BA in Art is an academic liberal arts degree with a broad interdisciplinary program that is suited for those students anticipating graduate school either in their related emphasis field, or another area. The BA Art student's interest in art and other educational pursuits are equally as strong, making the degree appropriate for those who wish to integrate other educational pursuits with their visually creative work. The BA in Art lends itself easily to the combination of multiple majors, minors, and pre-professional programs such as Pre-Art Therapy, Pre-Med, or Pre-Dent. The degree requires 45 credits in art history and visual art courses, a minor in a secondary area, and the Andrews Core Experience requirements including a foreign language.

Documentary Film BFA

The Documentary Film program at Andrews University was designed for the student who embraces the role of the visual storyteller, and for students who feel compelled to inform and engage audiences with deeply affecting narratives on important issues. Students will start by taking a selection of core courses which provide a broad base of art and communication experiences in digital media, photography and art history. With this foundation, the curriculum moves to immerse students in the art and craft of directing, producing, writing, cinematography and post-production, while including important film history and theory courses to further their analytical and critical development.

Whether learning how to construct breathtaking scenes with state-of-the-art film technology, or editing sequences that rouse audiences to action, students will develop both a competence in the tools of the trade as well as the thoughtfulness to approach filmmaking with creative integrity. Upon the completion of their BFA in Documentary Film, majors will have finished several major projects to include in their portfolio, capped by a senior film project intended to be shared broadly with audiences.

Admission Procedures and Academic Standards

BFA Professional Degree in Design, Documentary Film, Illustration, Fine Art, and Photography

Students seeking to pursue the BFA Professional Degree with majors in Design, Documentary Film, Fine Art, Illustration, or Photography must first submit an Andrews University undergraduate application for acceptance to the University. Students admitted to the University on regular standing are eligible to begin the first two years of the BFA degree.

Upon completion of the the first two Pre-Professional Years (typically at the end of the Sophomore Year) students must apply for acceptance into their respective BFA Professional Degree Programs which includes:

Completion of the Application. The application packet may be obtained from the Department Office and must be submitted directly to the Department Office by the application deadline. Minimum requirements to be considered for admission are outlined in the packet.

The BFA Review. All work created in Pre-professional Years One & Two should be available for review. The BFA review is a critique of the student's portfolio by the faculty of the Department of Visual Art & Design.

Minimum cumulative GPA of 2.75 in all coursework.

Transfer Students

Transfer students seeking advanced placement in a chosen BFA program must have a BFA Review. Students who have no previous coursework in art are not eligible to apply for advanced standing. Transfer coursework must be evaluated for content equivalency and students may be asked to provide course descriptions and syllabi.

Academic Standards

Students accepted to a BFA Professional Degree program is expected to in Design, Documentary Film, Fine Art, Illustration, and Photography are expected, by the end of the BFA degree program, to have a GPA of 3.0 or higher in all BFA major coursework. Students whose GPA falls below this minimum requirement are not allowed to graduate with the BFA. The completion of the BFA may include a senior project, senior exhibition, internship, and portfolio of the student's work.

Fine Art BFA

The Bachelor of Fine Art is recommended for students seeking to become professional artists, illustrators, craftsmen, or professors on the college level. The BFA is the required degree for acceptance into a Masters of Fine Arts program, which is the necessary degree for pursuing a university teaching position.

The Department of Visual Art, Communication, and Design offers concentrations in Drawing and Painting. The Fine Art major cultivates the individual voice and vision of the Fine Art student and prepares them to create a mature body of work which prepares them to work as a practicing artist.

Graphic Design BFA

The BFA in Graphic Design is recommended for those wishing to work as graphic design professionals. The degree program combines the study of art, communication, design, web development and technology as mediums for visual communication and/or personal artistic expression. Students join the BFA in Graphic Design because they possess the ability to think, speak, draw, write and design. Students graduate as design leaders, having learned to inform, guide, clarify, promote and empower through visual form. The Senior Project and BFA Exhibition, as well as internships, bring students face-to-face with the design community. At the same time, students acquire valuable experience in problem solving and the application of design principles, making them cultural catalysts and sought-after design professionals.

Visual Arts Education BS (Secondary Education)

(No minor required)

This degree, offered in cooperation with the Department of Teaching and Learning, prepares students to teach art on both the elementary and secondary levels. The Visual Arts Education degree is a K–12 endorsement for secondary certificates. This degree should only be taken by those seeking teacher certification. Majors must complete the requirements for denominational and/or Michigan state teacher certification through the School of Education. The Andrews Core Experience for BS degrees will be followed for this degree. They match the Andrews Core Experience requirements outlined by the School of Education (SED). Students may not take ART 457, ART 459, ART 480 courses in the Department of Visual Art & Design until they have been accepted into the School of Education's Teacher Preparation Program and have completed the Foundation courses. The BS in Visual Arts Education requirement includes the successful completion of a senior exhibition and a portfolio of the student's work given to the Department of Visual Art & Design.

General Admission Requirements

Graduate Program admission requirements, academic information and graduation procedures are detailed in the School of Graduate Studies & Research section of this catalog.

Departmental Admission Requirements

This is a summary of the procedures that a student planning to enroll in the MA should note:

- At the time of application for admission, students must:
 - have a bachelor's degree or its equivalent.
 - present a resume of current experience.
 - submit a Statement of Purpose which explains how the relevant disciplines will be integrated to meet his/her career and academic goals.

Upon acceptance and registration, the student in conjunction with the graduate advisor will develop a Plan of Study which is based on the student's Statement of Purpose.

Must have minimum GPA for entrance into Andrews University School of Graduate Studies.

No GRE is required if your undergraduate GPA is above 3.0.

In addition to the admission requirements of the School of Graduate Studies & Research, the student applying to the Department of Visual Art, Communication & Design must meet the following requirements:

Language Requirements

English Proficiency Requirements. All students whose first language is not English must demonstrate adequate proficiency in English to succeed in the academic setting.

Language proficiency must be met before enrolling full-time in regular course work.

Test	Score
TOEFL Paper-based	565
TOEFL iBT Internet-based	85-Minimum 20 in each section (reading, listening, speaking, writing).
MELAB	81
IELTS	6.5

Progression

All graduate students need to understand that

The GRE must be completed in order to register for the second semester courses.

Must enroll in COMM 500 - Graduate Colloquium Credits: 3 every Fall and Spring semester.

A student on regular status must, in consultation with the graduate advisor, identify members to serve on a supervisory committee, prior to application to Candidacy. It determines individual requirements for completion with reference to a student's Plan of Study.

A 3.00 GPA per semester must be maintained.

The Advancement to Candidacy deadline is the semester prior to the student applying for graduation.

Students are responsible for completing all the required forms.

All required forms are submitted to the coordinator of the Department Graduate Program. On approval, recommendations are made to the Records Office and to the Dean of Graduate Studies. See General Academic Policies for further details on graduation procedures and degree conferral.

Masters Dual Degrees

Note: Because each dual degree is listed in two schools you will find duplicates. The content is identical except for order of information.

Master of Arts, Communication/ Master of Divinity Dual Degree MA/MDiv

Andrews University has chosen to establish a collaborative program between the Master of Divinity Program of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary and the Department of Communication in the College of Arts and Sciences. Students can potentially complete the two degrees in less than 3½ years; 2 years in the Theological Seminary and 1 to 1½ years in the Department of Communication. It will also prepare MDiv students for service in occupations where Communication—and in particular, media-related Communication—intersects with the pastoral mission of the church. Pastors today are challenged to minister and serve in ever-widening fields and increasingly diverse audience groups, and being able to do so effectively through a variety of mediums is becoming more important than ever before. Likewise, there are benefits to understanding the how and why of communication and what it takes to be an effective communicator on all levels outside of the pulpit. Furthermore, this collaboration allows for widened employment opportunities including television and radio, public relations, corporate communications, advertising, management, healthcare communications, and more.

Furthermore, this collaboration allows for widened employment opportunities including television and radio, public relations, corporate communications, advertising, management, healthcare communications, and more.

Since both the MA Communications and MDiv programs share certain cognate courses to achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, both degrees must be conferred simultaneously in order to fulfill the requirements of either degree. In the event that one degree was completed prior to enrollment for the dual degree program, the cognate requirements for the other degree will be adjusted as shown below. A dual student cannot march in graduation or March-without-Completion if both halves of the dual degree are not completed.

Total Credits: 100

Credits for Each Program

MDiv: Graduation requirements consist of the satisfactory completion of 100 semester credits with an overall grade point average of 2.75 or better. 67 credits are MDiv credits, and 33 credits are Communication credits.

11 of these credits are shared between the MDiv and Communication programs:

CHMN 543 Christian Leadership in a Changing World (2 Cr) is used as a Communications core course

THST 605 Principles of Christian Ethics (3 Cr) is used as a Communications core course

6 MDiv elective credits are used for the Communications Interdisciplinary Concentration

Admission Requirements

Master of Divinity

All MDiv applicants must meet the Graduate Programs Admission Requirements applicable to all graduate students and the general seminary requirements.

Hold a baccalaureate degree: A four-year degree from an accredited United States institution, or its equivalent from an institution outside the U.S.

Minimum of 2.5 Undergraduate GPA

Normally hold membership in the Seventh-day Adventist Church inasmuch as the MDiv program is specifically designed for Adventist ministers and is sponsored and financed by the Adventist church.

Represent high moral integrity with a character, lifestyle, and spiritual commitment reflective of the beliefs and practices of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and show promise of usefulness for Adventist ministry through personal maturity and adequate experience in the Church. (Persons of other faiths who are willing to live in harmony with these standards are welcome to apply.)

Submit an autobiographical history and a 350+ word statement of purpose reflecting the applicant's family and spiritual development, sense of calling to ministry, experience in church work, and future goals in relationship to the MDiv program. A guideline is provided in the admissions package.

If married, the spouse of the applicant is also asked to complete a statement in regard to his or her feelings and relationship to the partner's aspirations for future ministry.

Background Check. Applicants to all Seminary programs are required to undergo a criminal background check and to make the results of the check available to the Seminary. The cost of the criminal background check is the responsibility of the applicant. Details about this requirement may be obtained from the MDiv office.

An interview with a representative of the MDiv program may be required, either by personal contact, telephone, or video.

Complete and return the Sixteen Personality Factor Questionnaire as directed.

Pre-admission Conduct Disclosure Statement - Applicants to all Seminary programs are required to complete and submit to the Seminary the "Pre-Admission Conduct Disclosure Statement."

Students whose language of education is not English must submit one of the following tests and minimum scores:

TOEFL Paper-based - 565
TOEFL Internet-based - 85
MELAB - 81
IELTS - 6.5
PTE - 58

Exceptions to these requirements may be granted by the Department of Visual Art, Communication and Design on an individual basis.

Program Outcomes

To enable students to integrate both theological and communication-savvy approaches to reaching expanded audiences with increased levels of effectiveness and efficiency, thereby enhancing their usefulness as instruments of the Holy Spirit.

To prepare students for various forms of ministry in which communication (in particular, media) skills/experience and theology are needed.

To sensitize students to nontraditional ministry opportunities by exposing them to theoretical knowledge and practical skills that will increase their options for spreading the gospel.

Pre-Professional

Pre-Professional Program in Art Therapy

"Art therapy is a mental health profession in which clients, facilitated by the art therapist, use art media, the creative process, and the resulting artwork to explore their feelings, reconcile emotional conflicts, foster self-awareness, manage behavior and addictions, develop social skills, improve reality orientation, reduce anxiety, and increase self-esteem. A goal in art therapy is to improve or restore a client's function and his or her sense of personal well-being. Art therapy practice requires knowledge of visual art (drawing, painting, sculpture, and other art forms) and the creative process, as well as of human development, psychological, and counseling theories and techniques."

- American Art Therapy Association 2013

A master's degree is required for entry level practice in art therapy from institutions of higher education recognized by regional accreditation bodies approved by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA). It is recommended however, that a student complete a PhD in art therapy in order to be fully integrated into the field. Entrance requirements to universities and colleges offering graduate programs in art therapy may vary; therefore it is imperative that students familiarize themselves with the requirements of the school of their choice. Information about the various schools in the USA, as well as Canada, offering a masters in art therapy can be found on the American Art Therapy Association (AATA) webpage: www.arttherapy.org

As long as the below minimum requirements are completed, any major may apply to a master's program in art therapy. The recommended majors for students are:

Film

FILM 105 - Intro to Filmmaking

Credits: 3

To the generation of digital natives, film has become one of the most dominant forms of visual media and personal expression. This studio course is a broad introduction to the collective elements of film production with a focus on nonfiction storytelling. This class explores both the art and craft of filmmaking, mixing aesthetic understanding with production techniques. Labs and instruction focus on storytelling, basic high-definition video production, and post-production. While designed to be an engaging introduction to filmmaking, students should be prepared to work toward the goal of the class--the creation of a non-fiction short film.

College Code: CAS

PHTO 175 - Digital Imaging

Credits: 3

A foundation course in how to apply creative vision within the boundaries of Adobe Photoshop. Emphasis is on creative and technical issues as they relate to the creation of visual work. Layers, adjustment layers, compositing methods, and restoration are explored. Technical proficiency, creative expression, and attention to detail are stressed.

Lecture/Lab: Lab required

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ART 130, (ART 207 recommended) or Permission of Instructor.

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

College Code: CAS

PHTO 200 - Advanced Photography I

Credits: 3

Develops the art of photographic perception and use of photography as a visual language. The class focuses on aesthetics and the art of seeing creatively while challenging the student to use the camera to create work that is visually refined and sophisticated.

Lecture/Lab: Lab required

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Course Attribute: Studio Art course

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): PHTO 115 or PHTO 116.

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

PHTO 210 - History of Photography

Credits: 3

A study of selected photographers and processes relevant to the development of the photographic medium. This course also explores the societal fabric of the mid 19th and 20th century while investigating how photography impacted the culture of Europe and America during that time. By viewing work, listening to photographers speak about their images and discussing relevant trends, the student will better understand the society in which they live and how the medium of photography has influenced the world of art and popular culture.

Course Attribute: Art History course

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

PHTO 220 - Color Photography I

Credits: 3

Application of color materials and methods, their handling and exposure. Aesthetic and communicative aspects of color photography are stressed in producing visually effective color work.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: lab required

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Course Attribute: Studio Art course

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): PHTO 115 or PHTO 116 or by permission of instructor.

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

College Code: CAS

PHTO 300 - Media Ethics & Awareness

Credits: 3

An exploration and discussion of the media and its effect on society, covering such issues as body image, violence, politics, etc. Students study how to recognize the way moral values of media professionals influence themselves and society.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: CAS

PHTO 305 - Alternative Photographic Processes

Credits: 3

This course is designed to provide the advanced student with additional methods of creative expression. The Cyanotype and VanDyke Brown processes will be learned as well as various methods of image transfer. Creative expression and technical proficiency in these techniques will be emphasized. The creation of a portfolio with strong visual unity will be a significant part of the class.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): PHTO 200 or PHTO 220.

Schedule Type: Lecture, Lab, Lecture/Lab

College Code: CAS

PHTO 400 - Digital Photographic Processes

Credits: 3

In this course students explore methods of digital photographic compositing to create modern illustrative images. A high level of production and craftsmanship is emphasized throughout the pre- and postproduction stages. Refined digital capture and processing of RAW files while refining illustrative techniques using the photographic medium will be stressed. Attention to crafting the highest quality prints using modern output methods will also be highlighted.

Mission

The faculty promote stewardship, rigorous scholarship and creative problem solving in their disciplines, and encourage students to:

Shape places that foster whole human health;

Explore time-honored and innovative solutions in their works;

Seek joy, beauty, and moderation in a lifelong pursuit of learning;

Serve mankind in accord with a professional and Christian vocation.

All this for the glory of God until the risen Christ comes again.

Academic Calendar 2018–2019

May 25, 2018, Deadline for application to BSA professional degree track, BID and BSCM programs. (Currently enrolled students and transfer students seeking studio placement.)

Master of Architecture (3½-Year Track) Application Deadlines

Sept 15, 2018 For January 2019 admission

Feb 15, 2019 For summer or fall admission

Resources

Architecture Resource Center (ARC). The ARC provides an extensive range of materials including over 25,000 books, 90 journals, and a growing media collection. An added dimension to resource materials are two special collections. The ARC maintains a relationship with the Environmental Design Research Association, and houses an internationally recognized collection of books and materials in the area of environmental psychology and design. In addition, the ARC holds the Senseman Rare Book Collection of over 800 rare and out-of-print books and photos.

Student Handbook. A handbook for School of Architecture & Interior Design students outlining policies, operational guidelines, and general information is available from the School office. Students are responsible for all policies outlined in the School of Architecture & Interior Design Student Handbook.

Program Accreditation

In the United States, most state registration boards require a degree from an accredited professional degree program as a prerequisite for licensure. The National Architectural Accrediting Board (NAAB), which is the sole agency authorized to accredit U.S. professional degree programs in architecture, recognizes three types of degrees: the Bachelor of Architecture, the Master of Architecture, and the Doctor of Architecture. A program may be granted a eight-year, four-year, or two-year term of accreditation, depending on the extent of its conformance with established educational standards.

Doctor of Architecture and Master of Architecture degree programs may require a pre-professional undergraduate degree for admission. However, the pre-professional degree is not, by itself, recognized as an accredited degree.

Andrews University School of Architecture & Interior Design offers the following NAAB-accredited programs:

MArch (pre-professional degree—138 undergraduate credits + 30 graduate credits)

MArch (non-pre-professional degree + 72 undergraduate prerequisite credits + 30 graduate credits)

Next accreditation visit for all programs: 2018

(The National Architectural Accrediting Board, Inc., 2014 Conditions for Accreditation)

SPECIAL NOTATION REGARDING BACHELOR OF INTERIOR DESIGN AND BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN CONSTRUCTION MANAGEMENT

The Bachelor of Science in Construction Management program (BSCM) is a new program. The program will not be available unless a critical mass of students (minimum of 8) enter the program in Fall, 2018. The Bachelor of Interior Design will not accept new cohorts unless a critical mass of students (minimum of 6) enter the program in Fall, 2018. Please contact the School of Architecture, Art & Design at 269-471-6003 with questions.

Bachelors

Architectural Studies BS (Non-Professional)

Program Description

The Bachelor of Science in Architectural Studies is a nonprofessional degree. Students who elect this degree do not proceed into the professional program track. In this program, Architectural Studies is declared as a major and upon successful completion, receives an undergraduate degree. Students who elect for this degree may seek advanced degrees or employment in the construction industry, the arts, business, and other fields.

Maintaining Academic Standing

Students are required to complete the BSA in a specific path sequence. Please see the attached chronological listing of courses by year with academic requirements.

Academic standards apply to the BS, BSA, BID and BSCM. A grade of C- or higher is required in order to continue in the design studio sequence. A grade of less than C- requires a student to repeat that studio before advancing in the studio sequence. Faculty approval is required for any studio course to be repeated. (This includes

ART 104, ARCH 126, ARCH 215, ARCH 247, ARCH 318, ARCH 320, ARCH 441, ARCH 442; INT 341, INT 342, INT 441, INT 442.)

Students accepted to the BSA Professional Degree Track are expected to maintain a minimum cumulative GPA requirement of 2.75 for acceptance into the Master of Architecture year (see Graduate-Year Enrollment requirements). Students whose cumulative GPA falls below this minimum requirement are not allowed to continue to the Master of Architecture Year (graduate-year) but may be eligible to receive the Bachelor of Science in Architecture (BSA), the pre-professional component of the professional Master of Architecture. The BSA alone is not an NAAB-accredited degree. A minimum cumulative GPA of 2.25 is required to receive the BSA.

Admission Requirements

Application Process

BSA Professional Degree Track, BID or BSCM

Students seeking to pursue the *BSA Professional Degree Track, BID or BSCM must first submit an Andrews University undergraduate application for acceptance to the University. Students admitted to the University on regular standing are eligible to begin Pre-Professional Year One, which is a common first-year experience between these programs.

Upon completion of Pre-Professional Year One students must:

Declare their degree program choice (BSA Professional Degree Track, BID or BSCM) and

Have a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.5

Upon completion of Pre-Professional Year Two students must apply for acceptance to their respective programs. The application packet may be obtained from the School and must be submitted directly to the School by the application deadline. Minimum requirements to be considered for admission to these programs are outlined under each program curricula.

* Students taking the BSA Professional Degree Track who plan to pursue the Master of Architecture must meet the standards outlined under Graduate-Year Enrollment.

Transfer Students

Transfer applicants who have no previous work in architectural/ interior design must complete the foundation years (pre-professional years one and two) and then make formal application to their program choice.

Advanced Standing. Transfer students from another architecture program may apply for advanced standing (third or fourth year) in their program choice. Transfer students applying for advanced standing are required to submit both the university application and the School of Architecture & Interior Design application. Please contact the School for specific information.

Tentative placement into the design sequence is made after the Admissions Committee has evaluated the student's submissions. After one term, the student is given final placement in the design sequence and, on the basis of transfer-course evaluations, receives credit for previous academic work towards the Andrews University degree.

The School does not accept applications to the Master of Architecture year only.

Summer Studio. In some cases, completion of the Summer Studio program is best for transfer students. Prior to application, students must have a transcript analysis done by the School to determine eligibility for the program. It is expected that students pursuing the summer studio option will have completed the majority of Andrews Core Experience courses normally required in Pre-Professional Year One.

Application to the Summer Studio is made by filling out an Andrews University Undergraduate Application. Students applying to this program, in addition to applying to Andrews University, must also contact the School of Architecture & Interior Design directly to confirm their reservation for the class.

Additional Information

Graduate Year Admission

In addition to meeting the General Minimum Admission Requirements for graduate degree programs, the following School requirements apply to the graduate phase of this program.

Completion of a baccalaureate degree—BSA: Architecture.

Successful completion of all undergraduate coursework with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.75.

Completion of the Graduate Record Exam (GRE). The GRE must be taken AND scores reported prior to beginning the M.Arch. year.

Construction Management BSCM

PLEASE BE ADVISED: The Bachelor of Science in Construction Management program (BSCM) is a new program. The program will not be available unless a critical mass of students (minimum of 8) enter the program in Fall, 2017. Please contact the School of Architecture & Interior Design at 269-471-6003 with questions.

NOTE: Southern Adventist University, another SDA institution of higher learning currently offers Construction Management.

Program Description

The construction management program is four years plus two summers in duration.

Maintaining Academic Standing

Students are required to complete the BSCM in a specific path sequence. Please see the attached chronological listing of courses by year with academic requirements.

Academic standards apply to the BS, BSA, BID and BSCM. A grade of C- or higher is required in order to continue in the design studio sequence. A grade of less than C- requires a student to repeat that studio before advancing in the studio sequence. Faculty approval is required for any studio course to be repeated. (This includes ART 104, ARCH 126, ARCH 215, ARCH 247, ARCH 318, ARCH 320, ARCH 441, ARCH 442; INT 341, INT 342, INT 441, INT 442.)

Admission Requirements

Application Process

Students seeking to pursue the *BSA Professional Degree Track, BID or BSCM must first submit an Andrews University undergraduate application for acceptance to the University. Students admitted to the University on regular standing are eligible to begin Pre-Professional Year One, which is a common first-year experience between these programs.

Upon completion of Pre-Professional Year One students must:

Declare their degree program choice (BSA Professional Degree Track, BID or BSCM) and

Have a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.5

Upon completion of Pre-Professional Year Two students must apply for acceptance to their respective programs. The application packet may be obtained from the School and must be submitted directly to the School by the application deadline. Minimum requirements to be considered for admission to these programs are outlined under each program curricula.

*Students taking the BSA Professional Degree Track who plan to pursue the Master of Architecture must meet the standards outlined under Graduate-Year Enrollment.

Transfer Students

Transfer applicants who have no previous work in architectural/ interior design must complete the foundation years (pre-professional years one and two) and then make formal application to their program choice.

Advanced Standing. Transfer students from another architecture program may apply for advanced standing (third or fourth year) in their program choice. Transfer students applying for advanced standing are required to submit both the university application and the School of Architecture, Art & Design application. Please contact the School for specific information.

Tentative placement into the design sequence is made after the Admissions Committee has evaluated the student's submissions. After one term, the student is given final placement in the design sequence and, on the basis of transfer-course evaluations, receives credit for previous academic work towards the Andrews University degree.

The School does not accept applications to the Master of Architecture year only.

Summer Studio. In some cases, completion of the Summer Studio program is best for transfer students. Prior to application, students must have a transcript analysis done by the School to determine eligibility for the program. It is expected that students pursuing the summer studio option will have completed the majority of Andrews Core Experience courses normally required in Pre-Professional Year One.

Application to the Summer Studio is made by filling out an Andrews University Undergraduate Application. Students applying to this program, in addition to applying to Andrews University, must also contact the School of Architecture, Art & Design directly to confirm their reservation for the class.

Interior Design BID

Program Description

The interior design program is a four-year plus one summer course of study and results in the Bachelor of Interior Design. This degree qualifies students to participate in the Interior Design Experience Program (IDEP) which is required in order to be eligible to sit for the National Council for Interior Design Qualification (NCIDQ) certification examination (www.ncidq.org).

Architecture MArch (3 1/2 Year Track)

Program Description

The 3½-year professional degree program is designed for students who have previously earned an undergraduate degree in an unrelated area of study. Under this program, the student spends the first 2½ years completing undergraduate prerequisite architectural core courses. The final year is similar to the final year of the Master of Architecture 5½-year degree which results in the accredited professional degree. Please see the Academic Calendar [OLD] for application deadlines.

Program Electives - 14

Elective must be selected from ARCH, BSCM and INT courses.

Maintaining Academic Standing

No grade lower than C (2.00) in any course in the graduate portion of the program.

A student whose cumulative graduate GPA falls below 3.0 in any given term is placed on academic probation. A student is normally disqualified if they do not increase their graduate GPA to 3.0 during the academic term of probation.

A minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 is required to receive the Master of Architecture degree.

Admission Requirements

Application must be made online to the School of Graduate Studies & Research. In addition to meeting the application requirements of the School of Graduate Studies & Research, applicants should:

- Hold an undergraduate degree;
- Have a minimum cumulative undergraduate GPA of 3.0;
- Submit an online application.

Submit a portfolio of work (this work need not be architectural in nature, it may include writing samples, drawings, photography, etc.) Original work will not be accepted.

The following prerequisite courses may be required at the discretion of the Admissions Committee:

- ARCH 126 - Drawing and Graphics Studio
- ART 104 - Drawing I
- MATH 168 - Precalculus
- PHYS 141 - General Physics I

Upon acceptance, graduate standards of scholarship apply to all coursework.

Architecture MArch (5 1/2 Year Track)

Program Description

The professional degree program consists of a pre-professional Bachelor of Science in Architecture and then a Master of Architecture. When earned sequentially, the degree track results in the accredited professional education.

Admission Requirements

Application Process

In addition to meeting the General Minimum Admission Requirements for graduate degree programs, the following School requirements apply to the graduate phase of this program.

Completion of a baccalaureate degree—BSA: Architecture.

Successful completion of all undergraduate coursework with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.75.

Completion of the Graduate Record Exam (GRE). The GRE must be taken AND scores reported prior to beginning the M.Arch. year.

Architecture

ARCH 126 - Drawing and Graphics Studio

Credits: 3

Introduction to freehand drawing and architectural drawing graphic conventions. Exercises include freehand and drafted drawings of building plans, sections, and elevations, and an introduction to three-dimensional representation.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring, Summer

College Code: SAID

ARCH 150 - Introduction to Architecture and Design

Credits: 3

Emphasis on design concepts, professional vocabulary, historical appreciation, contemporary issues, and values that are important to the mission of the School of Architecture & Interior Design. Open to all students.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: SAID

ARCH 201 - Construction I

Credits: 3

An overview of site work, foundation, and structural systems as well as an investigation into the structural and material properties, assembly methods and detailing primarily for wood and masonry construction systems.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: SAID

ARCH 202 - Construction II

Credits: 3

An investigation into the structural and material properties, assembly methods and detailing primarily for steel and concrete construction systems as well as an introduction to cost estimating.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ARCH 201.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SAID

ARCH 205 - Structures I

Credits: 4

Structural theory: statics by analytical and graphical solutions. Determinations of loads, resolution of force systems, and equilibrium analysis. Structural properties of shape (centroids, moment of inertia) and materials (stress, stiffness, modulus of elasticity). Shear and bending moments, deflection, column theory, introductory awareness of structural system behavior. Analysis and design of wood structures (joists, girders, columns). Introduction to the structural design process.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 168 & PHYS 141.

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: SAID

ARCH 215 - Introduction to Design Studio

Credits: 5

Introduction to formal composition, architectural typology and principles of building context in the design of buildings and artifacts with simple program elements. Minimum cumulative GPA of 2.5.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ARCH 126.

Schedule Type: Studio

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: SAID

ARCH 247 - Architecture as Craft Studio

Credits: 5

Design projects focusing on the materiality of architecture and the logic of construction.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ARCH 215

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SAID

ARCH 299 - Independent Study

Credits: 1–4

Study of special topics not currently offered by the School of Architecture, Art & Design. In consultation with a professor, the student researches a selected area, filing a copy of the completed project report in the School of Architecture, Art & Design office. A minimum of 30 hours of work required for each credit. May be repeated for a total of 6 credits.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits

Schedule Type: Independent

College Code: SAID

ARCH 305 - Structures II

Credits: 4

Structural problems in steel analysis and principles of concrete and masonry, lateral loads due to wind and seismic forces.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ARCH 205.

Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SAID

ARCH 315 - History of Architecture I

Credits: 3

Chronological overview of the history of architecture from prehistory through the 14th century (Gothic). Emphasis is on the vocabulary and design of buildings, their symbolic relationships, and their meaning in a cultural and human context.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 115.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: SAID

ARCH 316 - History of Architecture II

Credits: 3

Chronological overview of the history of architecture from the 15th century (Renaissance) to today. Emphasis is on the vocabulary and design of buildings, their symbolic relationships, and their meaning in a cultural and human context.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 115.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SAID

ARCH 318 - Background Building Studio

Credits: 5

Design of a commercial and/or residential building(s) of increased programmatic complexity, in the physical and cultural setting of a traditional small town or urban neighborhood.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ARCH 320.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SAID

ARCH 320 - Placemaking Studio

Credits: 5

The design of buildings as it relates to landscape and to human experience with increased complexity of program and form.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ARCH 247, admission to the Professional Degree Track.

Schedule Type: Studio

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: SAID

ARCH 330 - Analytical Summer Abroad

Credits: 6

A course focusing upon study, analysis, and documentation of buildings, spaces, and/or gardens in another country. Venues may change from year to year.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ARCH 318.

Schedule Type: Blended Learning

Term Offering: Summer

College Code: SAID

ARCH 335 - Environmental Technology I

Credits: 4

Introduction to environmentally, energy-conscious design concepts with the primary focus on climate and site analysis. An overview of standard evaluation methods for thermal performance in both design development and qualitative building evaluations covers heat loss/gain, thermal and solar envelope, HVAC system selection and layout. Principles of water conservation, collection and supply, and the treatment and disposal of liquid and solid wastes.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: SAID

ARCH 336 - Environmental Technology II

Credits: 4

Principles of design for fire safety and code compliance. Principles of electricity and a brief survey of electrical systems and wiring design. The design and location requirements of elevators and moving stairways and walks. A qualitative overview of lighting and acoustics and their integration into the design of buildings with introductory quantitative methods.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 141.

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SAID

ARCH 370 - Person-Environment Theory

Credits: 3

Studies in the relationship between people and the environment, including a consideration of towns, cities, gardens, buildings, and artifacts, as well as the cultural and natural landscape.

298

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): ARCH 320.

Swing course—Approved 400–499 courses qualify for graduate-level credit for graduate students

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: SAID

BSCM 445 - Building Information Modeling - Cost Analysis

Credits: 3
Application of a Building Information Model that incorporates cost data, used for quantity takeoff and cost estimating.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): ARCH 435
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: SAID

BSCM 455 - Building Information Modeling

Credits: 3
Application of a Building Information Model used to visualize a construction schedule and sequence.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): BSCM 445
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: SAID

BSCM 465 - Collaborative Project Delivery

Credits: 3
Application of project delivery in conjunction with a concurrent project within the School of Architecture, Art & Design. Building Information Modeling will be used as a method of applying cost analysis and project planning and scheduling.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): BSCM 455
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: SAID

Interior Design

INT 200 - Color Theory

Credits: 3
This course introduces students to the aesthetic, historical, perceptual, scientific, and psychological aspects of color and light and the implication of color principles and theories to interior design. Mission

The School of Business Administration offers high quality education in business at the bachelor's and master's levels to all who qualify, both church members and others of goodwill. We emphasize excellence in teaching in our disciplines, challenging students to search for knowledge and for that wisdom illumined by Christian insight in preparation for service to the world.

History

The school traces its origin to 1908 with the establishment of the Commercial Department of Emmanuel Missionary College. In 1952 all business instruction was organized into the Department of Business Administration. MBA candidates were admitted to the graduate program in 1964.

In July 1980, the School of Business Administration was organized, becoming the third professional school of the university. The school is housed in Chan Shun Hall.

Business Ethics Oath

The School of Business Administration is committed to promoting a higher ethical standard for its graduating students. Ethics is learned in various business classes throughout the course of study, with a business ethics oath taken at the end of their program. This oath is available to graduating students wishing to participate in a higher ethical standard of business conduct.

Program Outcomes

Bachelor of Business Administration/Bachelor of Science

- Students will be able to identify the major theory and concepts of business across business functional areas.
- Students will be able to incorporate relevant quantitative and qualitative data in the analysis.
- Students will be able to identify relevant business theories in analyzing business issues and apply appropriate theories in addressing business problems.
- Students will be able to deliver oral presentations clearly, confidently, and in an organized format, and present their written thoughts in a coherent narrative to articulate complex ideas.

Program Description

The Associate of Science degree prepares students for entry-level job opportunities in the business field. The degree is designed for the student who cannot stay in college for a four-year degree or who wishes to interrupt his/her program for a period of time and return to college to complete a four-year baccalaureate degree.

This AS degree can be completed on-campus or online. Program requirements are the same for both the main campus and online options.

Main Campus: All courses for this program are available on the main campus. Campus course formats include lectures, labs, and more interactive learning experiences.

Online: All course requirements can also be completed online, with no time required on the main campus. Online courses are offered in self-paced open learning and self-paced full-term formats, with a few also available in interactive online format (see School of Distance Education and International Partnerships Online Delivery Definitions).

Program Description

Mission

The mission of the Professional MBA program is to prepare students from many cultural backgrounds for responsible positions in domestic and international business, in government, and in not-for-profit organizations. The program emphasizes the integration of business principles with Christian principles and philosophy to prepare students for leadership roles which require clear and critical thinking, wise judgment, effective communication, integrity in all actions, and recognition of opportunities for service.

Professional MBA

With the appropriate business background, the Professional MBA at Andrews University can be completed in three semesters. However, the MBA is also designed for students with any bachelor's degree. Students who enter the program without prior coursework in business will take a two-year (5-semester) degree program, which will include prerequisites. Prerequisites in the common body of knowledge are required to bring the student up to the minimum expectations of our graduate faculty. These courses provide an introduction to the broad field of business administration.

The graduate courses in the MBA itself, which approximate three semesters of work, are divided into two groups, required and elective; 24 credits are in courses required of all students, and 9 credits are in elective courses. These advanced courses emphasize the understanding of administrative processes in resolving problems faced by business executives. These courses also help the student view the business enterprise as an integrated unit operating in a complex economic, political, and social system.

Only courses numbered above 500 may be used to meet MBA requirements. A maximum of 6 credits in approved courses may be taken off-campus or in another school of the university.

Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT)

The GMAT admission requirements must be met for regular admission status. The student may not enroll for any graduate-level business credits (courses assigned as 515 or above) before the GMAT requirement is met. If the student chooses to waive the GMAT based on number 2 below, this must be done within the first semester of the MBA program.

Admission GMAT requirements can be obtained by ONE of the following:

Attain formula score of 1,000 points, calculated by taking the undergraduate cumulative GPA X 200 + GMAT score \geq 1,000.

OR

Five years of documented and approved related work experience and earned a grade of at least B- in statistics and a grade of at least B- in pre-calculus algebra.

OR

On-campus Andrews University undergraduate business students with a cumulative GPA \geq 3.0 and earned a grade of at least a B- in statistics and a grade of at least B- in pre-calculus algebra.

OR

GPA \geq 3.25 from a U. S. accredited institution.

Professional Resume

All applicants must submit a separate, attached copy of their complete professional resume with their application. Completing the "Professional History" section within the application will not be considered sufficient for acceptance to School of Business Administration graduate programs.

Maintaining Academic Standing

All graduate students are expected to maintain a 3.00 GPA in all graduate courses that apply to the degree requirements.

No grade of D or F (or U) may be used to satisfy degree requirements; however, these grades are included when computing the cumulative GPA and, if they occur in courses normally meeting degree requirements, the degree GPA.

Students admitted under provisional status (due to lack of prerequisites, GMAT, etc.) must make regular progress toward achieving regular enrollment status and toward completion of their selected graduate degree. If insufficient progress is made, provisional status will be revoked after four enrolled semesters.

Regular admission status must be met no later than the semester before the last semester in which the student expects to enroll, prior to graduation.

Program Description

Andrews University has chosen to explore a collaboration between the School of Business Administration and the Department of Social Work in the College of Arts & Sciences to prepare students for service in occupations where social work and an MBA intersect. Social Workers, particularly those in the areas of Administration and Development Social Work, may have an interest in administrative work. In such situations, the MBA could equip them with a complementary skill set. Likewise, MBA students may find themselves in situations where social work skills in counseling and therapy would be useful, especially if they work in the not-for-profit sector. In addition, the MSW/MBA collaborative allows for a greater breadth of employment opportunities for students.

Since both the MSW and MBA programs reduce the total credits in order to reduce costs and achieve a more streamlined and efficient program, both degrees must be received simultaneously in order to fulfill the requirements of either degree. In the event that a student decides to drop out of the dual degree program, the requirements for the single degree must be completed in their entirety.

The MBA is a 33 credit degree, but it will share 5 credits with the MSW program, accepting 3 MSW credits as an elective (SOWK 630 or 660 which are taken under the MSW core), plus 2 MSW credits as part of the MBA ethics requirement (SOWK 515 from the MSW core). Likewise, the MSW is a 56 credit degree, but it will share 10 credits with the MBA program and accept 10 MBA credits as electives. This reduces the total credits for both degrees from 89 to 74.

Mission

The Department of Accounting, Economics & Finance offers majors that are intellectually stimulating, professionally challenging, and rewarding. We endeavor to provide the best preparation possible for careers in business, government, academia, and the church.

The faculty seeks to provide students with training and education which will qualify them for employment in a multicultural and global environment. A Christian education encourages an awareness of moral and ethical responsibilities in one's personal and professional life. It is in this context that the department holds up Jesus Christ as the best model for personal responsibility and development and seeks to encourage its students to follow His example.

Bachelors

Accounting BBA

Accounting is concerned primarily with (1) measuring income, expenditures, and wealth generated by a business enterprise, and (2) communicating information about the financial condition of economic organizations and the results of their financial activities. Thus, accounting is the language of business—the backbone of the free enterprise system.

The accounting major is designed to meet the needs of students preparing for accounting careers in business, government, not-for-profit organizations, or public accounting, including those who desire to secure, through state examination, the status of Certified Public Accountant (CPA) or that of Certified Management Accountant (CMA).

Students planning to sit for the CPA exam should consult their state's Board of Public Accountancy before planning their accounting program. Each state has its own rules, regulations, and specific course requirements. Assistance may be obtained from the Accounting faculty. This program is designed to meet the educational requirements to take the CPA examination in Michigan. 150 credit hours are required for CPA certification.

ECON 508 - Survey of Economics

Credits: 2

This course is designed to offer non-economics major students a broad understanding of the world around them at both a microeconomic and a macroeconomic level. Firm decision-making tools and consumer choice mechanisms will be studied. More specifically, the role of the market and its structures will be analyzed through the theory of supply and demand, including price and quantity determination, price elasticity, and the role of government in regulating market size and in addressing market failures. Production function, profit maximization conditions, and the basics of firm behavior will help the student to understand some aspects of the firm decision-making process. At a macroeconomic level, several aggregate variables will be studied, including GDP, the consumer price index, the monetary system, and economic policies implementation. A foundation course for the MBA. Grade not included in the MBA GPA calculation.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture, Interactive Online

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SBA

ECON 525 - International Macroeconomics

Credits: 3

The study of global macroeconomic issues facing firms, including the structure of the exchange rate regime. In this context, the forecast of a floating exchange rate and the impact of monetary policies, the interest rate and the inflation rate on the exchange rate setting are studied and analyzed. Within the context of competing economic theories, the course considers domestic policies, international trade and payment issues, economic growth, international institutions and the spread of regional crises, and the impact of stabilization policies on firms. Development of a spreadsheet model of an economy is required.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite/Corequisite: ECON 225 or ECON 208 or ECON 508

Schedule Type: Lecture, Interactive Online

Term Offering: Fall

Mission

Andrews University's Department of Aviation develops aviation professionals, empowered to engage and lead in the adventure of the aviation industry and Christ's worldwide mission.

Programs

For the aviation professional, the most competitive aviation program emphasizes both flight and maintenance. Therefore, the Department of Aviation strongly recommends completing a degree with both Flight and Aviation Maintenance emphases. Students wishing to enter a non-flying aviation career, may limit their specialization to Aviation Maintenance. Two programs are available: A four-year Bachelor in Aviation, and a two-year Associate in Aviation. Students may select from available emphases for their area of study.

The Airpark is located about one mile from the central campus. Students should plan to arrange their own transportation to and from the airport.

Contact the Department of Aviation no later than July 15 to start the application process for TSA

For ALL NON-U.S. CITIZENS planning to receive flight training as part of their degree program, an additional government application to the Transportation Security Administration (TSA), which includes an FBI background check, is required for each flight class. Students must receive department authorization before starting the TSA application process. TSA AUTHORISATION IS REQUIRED BEFORE ANY FLIGHT CLASSES CAN BE STARTED.

TSA approval must be completed by the first week of September or the student must withdraw from all flight classes.

International Students - A Toefl score of 550 or equivalent must be on file before admission to the flight program. See the university bulletin section English Language Requirements for equivalent scores.

Status as an aviation major is provisional until the student demonstrates satisfactory academic and performance skills. In order to proceed in the Flight program all students must successfully pass AFLT 122 and the Private Pilot Ground School as well as complete the private pilot written and flight check ride before being accepted in to regular status in the flight program.

Students are required to have an iPad (see Department of Aviation Charges). Credit by exam will only be approved for new students transferring in with previous FAA certificates subject to departmental approval.

In addition to tuition, flight lab fees apply to all flight training courses (see Department of Aviation Charges).

Admission into the flight program starts in the fall semester only.

Maintaining Academic Standing

Students must maintain minimum GPA of 2.5 in all aviation coursework and 2.25 cumulative overall.

Graduation Requirements

A Private Pilot Certificate, Instrument Rating, and a Commercial Certificate with Single and Multi-Engine Ratings are required for AT flight option.

Resources

Student Handbook

A handbook for flight and maintenance students outlining policies, operational guidelines, and general information is available from the department office or is online at the department website. Students are responsible for all policies outlined in the Department of Aviation Handbook.

Undergraduate Electives - 24

Undergraduate electives are to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Andrews Core Experience - 39

Students must take all courses designated in the Professional Degree Requirements of the Andrews Core Experience while noting the following approved course substitutions.

Maintaining Academic Standing

Students must maintain minimum GPA of 2.5 in all aviation coursework and 2.25 cumulative overall.

Admission Requirements

1st Class FAA medical with Student Pilot Certificate prior to entry into the Flight program, or petition the department for a waiver.

Flight students are required to produce proof of citizenship (passport or birth certificate) as well as government issued photo identification.

TSA Logo2Active-Hidden2017-07-07 08:35:072017-07-07 08:35:07

Contact the Department of Aviation no later than July 15 to start the application process for TSA

For ALL NON-U.S. CITIZENS planning to receive flight training as part of their degree program, an additional government application to the Transportation Security Administration (TSA), which includes an FBI background check, is required for each flight class. Students must receive department authorization before starting the TSA application process. TSA AUTHORISATION IS REQUIRED BEFORE ANY FLIGHT CLASSES CAN BE STARTED.

TSA approval must be completed by the first week of September or the student must withdraw from all flight classes.

International Students - A Toefl score of 550 or equivalent must be on file before admission to the flight program. See the university bulliten section English Language Requirements for equivalent scores.

Status as an aviation major is provisional until the student demonstrates satisfactory academic and performance skills. In order to proceed in the Flight program all students must successfully pass AFLT 122 and the Private Pilot Ground School as well as complete the private pilot written and flight check ride before being accepted in to regular status in the flight program.

Students are required to have an iPad (see Department of Aviation Charges).

Credit by exam will only be approved for new students transferring in with previous FAA certificates subject to departmental approval.

In addition to tuition, flight lab fees apply to all flight training courses (see Department of Aviation Charges).

Admission into the flight program starts in the fall semester only.

Graduation Requirements

A Private Pilot Certificate, Instrument Rating, and a Commercial Pilot Certificate with Single and Multi-Engine Ratings and Certified Flight Instructor and Air Transport Pilot written exam are required for graduation.

Resources

Student Handbook

A handbook for flight and maintenance students outlining policies, operational guidelines, and general information is available from the department office or is online at the department website. Students are responsible for all policies outlined in the Department of Aviation Handbook.

Maintaining Academic Standing

Students must maintain minimum GPA of 2.5 in all aviation coursework and 2.25 cumulative overall.

Admission Requirements

On-Campus Program:

Students must apply prior to their junior year.

Online Program:

Students must have 5 or more years of employment as an FAA certified airman.

Students must have 25 or more semester credits to transfer in.

Students must complete a program orientation on campus within the first year.

Graduation Requirements

A minimum of 20 of the 60 major credits, and 30 credits of the total 124 credits, are earned through Andrews University

A minimum of 30 credits of 300 or 400-level courses

Certificates

FAA Certification

FAA-Approved Instruction. The Department of Aviation operates a Flight School under 14CFR Part 61 and Part 141, as well as an Airframe and Powerplant Maintenance Technician School approved by the FAA under Title 14 CFR, Part 147.

FAA Flight Certification Programs. Qualifying students may take flight instruction for the following levels of certification:

- Private Pilot
- Instrument Rating
- Commercial Pilot
- Flight Instructor
- Multi-Engine Rating
- Multi-Engine Flight Instructor
- Instrument Flight Instructor
- Airline Transport Pilot

FAA Aviation Maintenance Certification Programs. Students may earn the following FAA approved certificates from the department's Part 147 Aviation Maintenance Technician School:

- Airframe
- Powerplant

Aviation Flight

AFLT 104 - Introduction to Aviation

Credits: 1–4

Acquaints students with the history and opportunities in aviation, such as mission flying, flight instruction, aircraft maintenance, avionics, sales, safety, and aerodynamics of flight.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 4 credits

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: SBA

AFLT 110 - Basic Aircraft Systems

Credits: 3

The study of small aircraft systems, including: reciprocating engines, propellers and prop governors; fuel, electrical, hydraulic, pressurization, pneumatic and de-icing systems, flight controls, aircraft structures, weight and balance, and aircraft instrument systems. Also included will be pilot maintenance and a brief introduction of the FAA requirements for maintenance, inspections and recordkeeping.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: SBA

AFLT 115 - Private Pilot Ground School

Credits: 4

Ground training to prepare students for the FAA private pilot airplane knowledge test. Topics include aerodynamics, weight and balance, Federal Aviation Regulations, navigation, meteorology, aircraft systems and performance.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall

College Code: SBA

AFLT 121 - Flight Training 1

Credits: 3

This course is the first part of the private pilot flight training and includes the flight training up through solo flight. Student MUST have a Pilot Medical Certificate/Student Pilot Certificate, obtained through an Aviation Medical Examiner, prior to registering for the course.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 1-hour lectures and three 2-hour flight blocks

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)

Corequisite(s): The student must be currently enrolled in AFLT 115 or have passed the private pilot knowledge test.

Schedule Type: Flight Training

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: SBA

AFLT 122 - Flight Training 2

Credits: 3

This course is the last half of the flight training in preparation for taking the FAA Private Pilot Practical Exam. The FAA Medical and Student Pilot Certificate required in AFLT121 must be valid.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 1-hour lectures and two 2-hour flight blocks

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)

Prerequisite(s): AFLT 121 and have passed the FAA Private pilot knowledge test.

Schedule Type: Flight Training

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: SBA

AFLT 215 - Instrument Pilot Ground School

Credits: 4

Ground training to prepare the student for the FAA instrument rating airplane knowledge test. Topics include Federal Aviation Regulations, meteorology, instrument flight charts, flight planning, instrument approaches, use of navigation equipment, and FAA publications relating to instrument flight.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Corequisite(s): AFLT 226
Prerequisite(s): AFLT 115
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: SBA

AFLT 220 - Meteorology

Credits: 3
Meteorology provides students with a comprehensive study of the principles of meteorology while simultaneously providing classroom and laboratory applications focused on current weather situations. It provides real experiences demonstrating the value of computers and electronic access to time sensitive data and information.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Alternate years
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: SBA

AFLT 226 - Flight Training 3

Credits: 3
This course is the introduction to attitude instrument flight in preparation for taking the FAA Instrument Rating. Weekly: One 1-hour lecture and two 2-hour flight blocks. The FAA Medical is required.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: one 1-hour lecture and two 2-hour flight blocks
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Schedule Type: Flight Training
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: SBA

AFLT 227 - Flight Training 4

Credits: 3
This course completes the preparation for taking the FAA Instrument Pilot Rating Practical Exam. The FAA Medical is required. A valid instrument Airplane Written exam must be on file prior to starting this course.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 1-hour lectures and three 2-hour flight blocks
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): AFLT 226 and have passed the FAA Instrument knowledge test.
Schedule Type: Flight Training
Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: SBA

AFLT 230 - Aerodynamics

Credits: 3
The study of aerodynamic principles used in aircraft. Designed for a better understanding of basic design and devices used to improve aircraft performance.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture
Year Offering: Alternate years
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: SBA

AFLT 300 - Aviation Safety Management

Credits: 3
The study of physiological and psychological factors related to flight safety, emphasizing cause-and-effect of airplane accidents and their prevention. Includes a systems approach to safety program development and management.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): Private Pilots License
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: SBA

AFLT 305 - Commercial Pilot Ground School

Credits: 4
Ground training to prepare the student for the FAA commercial-pilot airplane knowledge test. Topics include advanced navigation, FAR Parts 61, 91, and 135 for air taxi, complex aircraft systems, weight and balance, and performance charts.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Corequisite(s): AFLT 321
Prerequisite(s): AFLT 215 , AFLT 226
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: SBA

AFLT 310 - Advanced Systems

Credits: 3
The study of transport category aircraft systems, including: turbine engines, APUs, fuel, electrical, hydraulic, pneumatic, environmental control, emergency oxygen, pressurization, de-icing systems, and advanced avionics systems. Particular emphasis will be placed on preparing for airline systems ground school.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): AFLT 305.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: SBA

AFLT 321 - Flight Training 5

Credits: 3
This course is the introduction to commercial airplane flight introducing commercial pilot maneuvers, and building night and cross-country experience. The FAA Medical is required.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 1-hour lectures and three 2-hour flight blocks
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): AFLT 227
Schedule Type: Flight Training
Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: SBA

AFLT 322 - Flight Training 6

Credits: 3
This course continues the commercial pilot training covering, upset training, tail wheel and building additional night and cross-country experience with the emphasis on solo flight. The FAA Medical is required.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 1-hour lectures and three 2-hour flight blocks
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): AFLT 321 and have passed the FAA Single Engine Land Commercial knowledge test.
Schedule Type: Flight Training
Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: SBA

AFLT 323 - Flight Training 7

Credits: 3
This course continues the student for the Commercial Pilot Rating. Complex aircraft operations are introduced and additional experience in cross-county and commercial pilot maneuvers are included. The FAA Medical is required.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 1-hour lectures and three 2-hour flight blocks
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): AFLT 322 and have passed the FAA Single Engine Land Commercial knowledge test.
Schedule Type: Flight Training
Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: SBA

AFLT 324 - Flight Training 8

Credits: 3
This course completes the preparation for taking the FAA Commercial Airplane Land Pilot Rating Practical Exam and the Certified Flight Instructor Rating. Final refinement of commercial maneuvers, including right seat proficiency is included. The FAA Medical is required.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 1-hour lectures and three 2-hour flight blocks
Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): AFLT 323 and have passed the FAA Single Engine Land Commercial knowledge test.
Schedule Type: Flight Training
Term Offering: Spring, Summer
College Code: SBA

AFLT 335 - Aerodynamics

Credits: 3

The study of aerodynamic principles used in aircraft. Designed for a better understanding of basic design and devices used to improve aircraft performance.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): AFLT 115

Schedule Type: Lecture

Year Offering: Alternate years

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SBA

AFLT 340 - Airspace and Air Traffic Control

Credits: 3

Examines how instrument flight operations function within the FAA air traffic control system. Study of air traffic controller roles, procedures, and regulatory requirements for instrument operations in the terminal and enroute air traffic environment.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite/Corequisite: AFLT 227, AFLT 321, AFLT 220 (may be taken concurrently)

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: SBA

AFLT 355 - Flight Instructor Ground School

Credits: 2

Ground training to prepare the student for the FAA flight instructor airplane knowledge test. Topics include techniques of teaching, analysis of maneuvers, and lesson planning.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 2-hour lab

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: SBA

AFLT 356 - Flight Instructor Flight Training

Credits: 1,2

Flight and ground training to prepare the student for the FAA flight instructor airplane practical test. Topics include the performance, teaching, and analysis of flight maneuvers required for the private and commercial airplane pilot (2 cr. for initial CFI; 1 cr. for CFI add-on).

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): AFLT 355, FAA written tests passed: Fundamentals of Instruction, Flight Instructor-Airplane, FAA commercial pilots license with an instrument rating.

Schedule Type: Flight

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: SBA

AFLT 364 - Basic and Advanced Ground Instructor

Credits: 2

Prepares the student for the FAA basic and advanced ground instructor knowledge test. Topics include techniques of teaching aerodynamics, aircraft performance, aircraft systems, weight and balance, meteorology, navigation, and regulations.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: SBA

AFLT 365 - Instrument Flight Instructor Ground School

Credits: 2

Prepares the student for the FAA instrument flight instructor knowledge test. Topics include techniques of teaching instrument flight, analysis of instrument maneuvers, instrument approaches, enroute operations, regulations, and lesson planning.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: 2 lectures and a 2-hour lab

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Corequisite(s): AFLT 366

Prerequisite(s): AFLT 355

Schedule Type: Lecture

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: SBA

AFLT 366 - Instrument Flight Instructor Flight Training

Credits: 1,2

Flight and ground training to prepare the student for the FAA instrument flight instructor airplane practical test. Topics include the performance, teaching, and analysis of attitude instruments, instrument approaches, and enroute operations. (2 cr. for initial; 1 cr. for add-on.)

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): AFLT 356, FAA written test passed - Flight Instructor - Instrument

Schedule Type: Flight

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: SBA

AFLT 410 - Aviation Law

Credits: 3

Legal principles governing the aviation industry, historical precedents, regulatory statutes, standards, contracts, liability and insurance. Current developments and court decisions.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)

Prerequisite(s): Commercial Pilot or Maintenance Certificates.

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: SBA

AFLT 415 - Basic Physiology for Pilots

Credits: 3

Flight Physiology Effects of high altitude flight on the human body, flying and health, first aid and survival. Attention will also be given to information processing and perception in flight.

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Prerequisite(s): FAA Commercial Pilot or Maintenance Certificates

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: SBA

AFLT 416 - Turbine Transition

Credits: 2

Ground and simulator training to prepare the student to work in a multiple crew aircraft operating under FAR Part 121 and 135. Topics include crew checklist usage and standard operating procedures (SOPs).

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Flight

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: SBA

AFLT 426 - Multiengine Flight Training

Credits: 1

Flight instruction in a multi-engine aircraft in preparation for the FAA multi-engine rating. The FAA Medical is required.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: one 1-hour lecture and two 2-hour flight blocks

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)

Prerequisite(s): FAA Single Engine Land Commercial

Schedule Type: Flight Training

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: SBA

AFLT 427 - Multiengine Flight

Credits: 1

30 hours of additional experience in multiengine aircraft with a focus on cross country and instrument experience. The FAA Medical is required.

Lecture/Lab: Weekly: two 2-hour flight blocks

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)

Prerequisite(s): FAA Single Engine Land Commercial

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Flight Training

Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer

College Code: SBA

AFLT 430 - Crew Resource Management

Credits: 3

Study of the effective use of resources available to the crew to achieve safe and efficient flight operations. Areas include human factors, communication, conflict resolution, leadership, teamwork, and situational awareness as applied to flight operations.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Prerequisite(s): FAA Commercial Pilots Certificate and an Instrument Rating or by permission of the instructor.
Schedule Type: Flight
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: SBA

AFLT 467 - Multi-Engine Flight Instructor

Credits: 1,2
Flight and ground training to prepare the student for the FAA multi-engine airplane flight instructor practical test. Topics include the performance, teaching, and analysis of maneuvers and procedures for the multi-engine airplane (2 cr. for initial CFI; 1 cr. for CFI add-on).

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): Commercial Pilots Certificate with Multiengine Rating, CFI or CFII.
Schedule Type: Flight
Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: SBA

AFLT 469 - Instrument Ground Instructor

Credits: 2
Prepares the student for the FAA instrument ground instructor knowledge test. Topics include the techniques of teaching advanced weather theory, weather reports and forecasts, instrument procedures and regulations, approaches, and enroute operations.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): AFLT 355, AFLT 364 or CFI
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: SBA

AFLT 474 - Techniques of Mission Flying

Credits: 3
Develops special piloting skills required in remote undeveloped bush operations. Topics include pilotage, dead reckoning, GPS navigation, low-level operations, terrain flying, mountain passes and canyons, cargo drops, short fields, uphill and downhill operations on primitive airstrips, maximum performance techniques, and precision airplane control.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): Commercial Pilots Certificate
Schedule Type: Flight
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: SBA

AFLT 485 - Airline Transport Pilot Ground School

Credits: 3
Prepares the student for the FAA airline transport pilot knowledge test. Topics include air-carrier or air-taxi regulations, high altitude weather, advanced weight and balance, and the performance and special problems in large airplane operations.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): Commercial Pilots Certificate
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: SBA

AFLT 486 - Airline Transport Pilot Flight Training

Credits: 3
Flight and ground training to prepare the student for the FAA airline transport pilot airplane practical test. Topics include instrument procedures, in-flight maneuvers, take-offs, landings, advanced airplane systems, and emergency procedures.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)
Prerequisite(s): Commercial Pilots Certificate
Schedule Type: Flight
Term Offering: Fall, Spring, Summer
College Code: SBA

Aviation

AVIA 140 - Welding Technology

Credits: 2
Oxyacetylene and electric welding processes including oxyacetylene welding, cutting, and brazing; basic shielded metal arc welding and basic gas metal arc welding. A limited amount of out-of-position welding will be stressed.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/Lab
Term Offering: Fall
College Code: SBA

AVIA 200 - Aviation Forum

Credits: 0
A bi-weekly seminar giving instruction in Aviation Safety and Operational Control. Required of all aviation majors. Students must register for this class each semester in residence.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory (S,U,I,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Lecture
Term Offering: Fall, Spring
College Code: SBA

AVIA 250 - Machine Shop

Credits: 3,4
Basic set-up and operation of lathes, milling machines, grinders, drilling machines, and shapers; safety, machine maintenance, off-hand grinding, drill sharpening, layout, and inspection emphasized.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Schedule Type: Lecture/lab
Term Offering: Spring
College Code: SBA

AVIA 275 - Topics in _____

Credits: 1-4
Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)
Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics
Schedule Type: Lecture
College Code: SBA

AVIA 285 - Project Course

Credits: 1-4
Development of a skill in a given area of technology under the supervision of the instructor.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Prerequisite(s): Permission of instructor.
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 12 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
Term Offering: Fall, Spring
College Code: SBA

AVIA 294 - Cooperative Work Experience

Credits: 1-3
Work experience with an aviation organization or airline. A minimum of 120 hours of work required per credit.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)
Prerequisite(s): Permission of the department.
Repeatable: Repeatable
Schedule Type: Practicum
College Code: SBA

AVIA 296 - Independent Study

Credits: 1-3
Enables students to pursue topics in aviation not offered in other scheduled courses.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)
Prerequisite(s): Permission of the department.
Repeatable: Repeatable up to 4 credits
Schedule Type: Independent
College Code: SBA

AVIA 390 - Internship

Credits: 1–4

On-the-job internship experience for those students seeking industrial experience which cannot be simulated in a classroom setting. A range of 120–150 clock hours of work are required for each credit. Selected in consultation with the student's advisor.

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/DG (S,U,I,W,DG)

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Practicum

College Code: SBA

AVIA 395 - Practicum

Credits: 1–4

Lab or on-the-job experience to build skills in a specific area of technology.

Grade Mode: Normal with DG (A-F,I,W,DG,DN)

Prerequisite(s): Permission of department.

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 6 credits

Schedule Type: Practicum

College Code: SBA

AVIA 460 - Program Continuation

Credits: 0

Aviation students may register for this title while clearing deferred grade (DG) and/or incomplete (I) classes, or working to complete practical tests in the flight and/or maintenance programs. This course qualifies for full-time status, requiring a minimum of 540 hours of work per semester of registration. .

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Course Attribute: Full-time status

Grade Mode: Satisfactory w/o 'I' (S,U,W)

Prerequisite(s): Permission of advisor and department chair.

Repeatable: Repeatable

Schedule Type: Independent

College Code: SBA

AVIA 470 - Project Course

Credits: 1–4

Development of a skill in a given area of technology under the supervision of the instructor.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Prerequisite(s): Permission of instructor.

Repeatable: Repeatable up to 12 credits

Schedule Type: Independent

Term Offering: Fall, Spring

College Code: SBA

AVIA 476 - Topics in _____

Credits: 1–4

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Repeatable: Repeatable with different topics

Schedule Type: Lecture

College Code: SBA

AVIA 495 - Independent Study

Credits: 1–3

Enables students to pursue topics in aviation not offered in other scheduled courses.

Grade Mode: Normal w S/DG (A-F,I,S,U,DG,W)

Prerequisite(s): Permission of the department.

AVMT 204 - Aircraft Electrical Systems

Credits: 2

Practical study of aircraft electrical systems, including installation practices, repair, troubleshooting, service, and inspections. FAA 14CFR part 147 approved classes.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Studio

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SBA

AVMT 206 - Powerplant Electrical Systems

Credits: 4

A study of engine ignition and engine electrical systems: starter, generators, alternators, auxiliary electrical power units and their control circuits, engine instruments, and engine fire protection suppression systems. FAA 14CFR part 147 approved classes.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Studio

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SBA

AVMT 210 - Aircraft Systems

Credits: 4

An in-depth study into the inspection, repair, checking, servicing and troubleshooting of the following aircraft systems; ice-and rain detection, cabin atmosphere (pressurization, heating, cooling, and oxygen), position warning systems, navigation and communication systems, and aircraft instruments and their use in trouble-shooting of aircraft systems. FAA 14CFR part 147 approved classes.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Schedule Type: Studio

Term Offering: Spring

College Code: SBA

AVMT 220 - Aircraft Fuels and Fuel Systems

Credits: 2

A study of the various types and handling of fuels used in aircraft. Includes a study of aircraft fuel systems, fuel metering methods and the inspection, checking, servicing, troubleshooting, repair and overhaul of fuel systems and their components, and fire detection and protection. FAA 14CFR part 147 approved classes.

Course/Lab Fee: Yes

Grade Mode: Normal (A-F,I,W)

Bachelors

Information Systems BBA

Information Systems (IS) combine computer hardware, software and telecommunication networks with people who use them. It is the link between the technical specialist and specialists in the field where the technology is applied. Communication skills and a good understanding of management, organizational behavior and business practices are critical in designing and maintaining a successful information systems.

The Information Systems major is designed to produce graduates equipped with the ability to integrate information systems into the business environment, to explore methods of leveraging business functions through information systems, and to function in entry-level, information systems positions with a basis for continued career growth. The curriculum reflects input from both industry and universities and responds to industry requests for increased emphasis in technical orientation and improved skills for managers in strategic uses of information systems.

Management BBA

Program Description

Management is a broad-based discipline. The faculty offers courses for students who desire either a specific business emphasis within management or a general business degree. Most management graduates enter into an internship or training program where they can integrate their general business skills with specific job responsibilities.

Since management is a broad field, variation is allowed in academic programs. Management majors are urged to focus their course work in an area of concentration.

Marketing BBA

Organizations from every area of business are driven by marketing and its concepts. Marketing monitors and investigates the changing needs of businesses and non-profit organizations. Marketers then create a product/service designed to meet these needs including determining the price, distribution pattern and promotional plan. Marketing provides a well-rounded business education for those considering opening their own business or for careers in areas such as advertising and promotion, retail or marketing management, marketing research, sales, or international business. The marketing curriculum helps students attain general marketing skills as well as those needed for developing marketing strategies and policies.

Introduction

Mission Statement

The School of Distance Education and International Partnerships extends access to Adventist education beyond campus, community and national boundaries. We support our faculty and students around the world by promoting best practices in distance education and international partnerships, and by creating a virtual community designed to nurture learning.

The School of Distance Education and International Partnerships serves Andrews University by providing leadership, faculty and student support, and professional resources in the following areas: educational technology, distance education, compliance and off-campus programs. The School of Distance Education and International Partnerships also operates the Consortium of Adventist Colleges and Universities, Griggs University and Griggs International Academy.

Core Values

To accomplish our mission, the School of Distance Education and International Partnerships is committed to these core values:

Excellence: We view each student as a special creation, endowed by God with individual talents and abilities that we encourage them to develop by providing a quality, academically rigorous Seventh-day Adventist Christian education at all levels.

Respect: We believe that it is our responsibility to uplift one another by demonstrating respect and consideration for all parents, students, and educators through learning that is student-centered and redemptive, and customer service that is helpful and friendly.

Integrity: We recognize that mutual trust rests upon a foundation of honesty and transparency. We are honest and straightforward in our dealings, both business and academic, and expect no less from our parents, students, and faculty.

Community: We believe that a safe learning environment and an accepting community are important to effective learning, especially in distance education. We strive to create a learning community where all participants (parents, students, faculty, and administrators) feel valued and understand that they are part of a team by providing opportunities for constructive interaction, and sharing of experiences.

History

Griggs University/Griggs International Academy began its work in 1909, when the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists voted to offer correspondence courses to meet the needs of its members and workers who were unable to attend a traditional campus-based school or college. GU/GIA was originally called Fireside Correspondence School and was founded by Frederick Griggs, one of the pioneer educational leaders of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

In 2009, the Seventh-day Adventist Church leadership formed a Commission on Distance Education Models and Structure. The intent of the commission was to conduct an in-depth investigation of current best practices for distance education and make recommendations to the Church on the possibility to using distance education to meet the needs of the worldwide constituency.

In 2010, the Commission brought a recommendation to the General Council and to Niels-Erik Andreasen, president of Andrews University, that ownership of Griggs University be transferred to Andrews University. During the summer of 2010, Andrews University faculty and administration met and deliberated on the impact that ownership of Griggs would make upon the University structure.

At the October 26, 2010, meeting of the Andrews University Board, it was voted to accept the gift of Griggs University and Griggs International Academy. The School of Distance Education and International Partnerships is now located in Griggs Hall, which used to be the Lake Union Office.

Online Campus

The School of Distance Education and International Partnerships provides support and oversight for all online courses, degrees and programs offered by Andrews University.

Online Delivery Modes

Andrews University modes and definitions of distance education are based on the United States federal distance education definitions and the North Central Association Higher Learning Commission definitions of distance education.

Distance Education Programs are defined by the total package delivery of learning experiences included in the degree. Distance education includes any learning experiences that are not located at any Andrews campus, such as online courses, dissertations, independent studies, clinicals, etc. Distance programs have limited learning time on campus.

Distance Education Courses are defined by the NCA-HLC Definition: "Distance-delivered courses are those in which all or the vast majority (typically 75% or more) of the instruction and interaction occurs via electronic communication, correspondence, or equivalent mechanisms, with the faculty and students physically separated from each other."

Distance Degree Students are accepted into Distance programs. Distance guest students are admitted to register for courses for transfer or personal development. Andrews University offers three types of distance education course formats:

Self-paced courses are offered where instructional materials and examinations are provided by mail or electronic transmission to students who are separated from the instructor. Interaction between the instructor and the student is limited and is primarily initiated by the student. Self-paced courses may be delivered via paper; via electronic means such as email or a learning management system, or via DVDs, podcasts, streaming or similar one-way media transmission. Andrews offers two types of self-paced courses. (This definition aligns with the federal definition for correspondence courses.)

Self-paced open learning courses are open for registration at any time and must be completed within 180 days of the start date.

Self-paced full term courses follow registration rules for standard semester terms. Students must complete half of the class by the midpoint of the semester, and must complete the full course by the end of the semester. Self-paced full term courses are eligible for financial aid; while self-paced open learning courses are not.

Interactive online courses use the Internet to deliver instruction to students who are separate from the instructor. Interactive online courses use the Internet to support regular and substantive interaction between the students and the instructor. This regular substantive interaction includes a significant amount of interaction initiated by the instructor. Interactive online courses may use synchronous (real-time) meetings, or an asynchronous paced format. Technologies may include: The Internet, satellite or room-based videoconferencing, web-conferencing, audio-conferencing, or web-based videoconferencing. DVDs, podcasts, streaming and similar one way media may be used only if they are used in conjunction with another technology that facilitates regular and substantive interaction between students and the instructor. (This aligns with the federal definition for distance education.)

Blended learning courses include some time where the faculty and students are physically separated from each other and additional time where the faculty and students are in the same location. Blended learning scenarios include a face-to-face class that has reduced face-to-face time replaced with extended online assignments or a short intense face-to-face time supplemented with online learning activities. The blended learning course format uses the online activities to ensure that the course meets the credit hour definition requirements. The online portion of this type of course must meet the description of interactive online courses listed above. (This aligns with the federal definition for distance education.) Tours and intensives are also classified at Andrews University as a form of blended learning.

Online Degrees

Andrews University offers two types of online degrees: interactive online and self-paced. (See Definitions section above.) All online programs must be approved by the School of Distance Education and International Partnerships.

Interactive Online Degrees

These programs are comprised of courses offered via the interactive online format. Courses have specific start and end dates. Some programs include minimal on-campus components, while some programs are entirely online. See the individual degree pages for more details.

Online Financial Information

Fees and tuition for distance programs of study are listed in the Financial Information section.

Withdrawals and refunds for interactive and self-paced full term online courses follows on-campus policy. The self-paced open learning calendar includes all details for the alternate withdrawal and refund deadlines for this type of course only. All withdrawals after the last day to drop or add a course require a drop/add form submitted to the Office of Academic Records. Distance undergraduate students can email sderegister@andrews.edu to request assistance with this procedure. Graduate students may email graduate@andrews.edu.

Mixed Course Load

Course load rules are the same for students taking courses on-campus or online. Students taking a mixed load need to be aware of these financial considerations:

If paying without federal financial aid, students may register for any type of course.

Self-paced open learning courses are not eligible for federal financial aid. Financial aid from sources other than Andrews University may be applied toward the costs of self-paced open learning courses.

Andrews Partnership Scholarship/Andrews Gift cannot be used to pay for either self-paced full term or self-paced open learning courses.

Self-paced courses, both full term and open learning, are not included in the package plan. If an undergraduate student is taking 12 regularly priced on-campus credits and wants to add a self-paced course of either type, they will pay the package price for the 12 credits and $385 per credit for any self-paced classes added.

Federal Financial Aid

Federal financial aid may be available to Andrews University degree-seeking students if the following conditions are met:

A student must be admitted to a program that leads to an associate's, bachelor's or graduate degree. If the program leads to a certificate or credits are taken for transfer to another university degree, the student is not eligible for aid for that course.

The courses are registered by the drop/add date for the on-campus term.

A minimum of 6 credits are registered. Course load determines your Financial Aid eligibility.

The courses are completed within the semester they are registered.

Federal financial aid is not available to guest or non-degree students.

If you use Federal financial aid and need to repeat a course, review the Repeating Classes section of the General Academic Policies, then discuss this with your Student Financial Services advisor before re-registering.

Registration and Course Information

Online courses are offered in one or more of three formats: interactive, self-paced full term, and self-paced open learning. See the Online Courses listing above for a complete list of Andrews' online courses.

Interactive Online Courses

Interactive online courses have fixed start and end dates, assignment and exam due dates, and are eligible for federal financial aid. Instructors set assignment deadlines and create an interactive learning community. Interactive online courses are usually indicated in the course schedule with the section number of 999 (additional sections may end in 998, 997, etc.), with schedule attribute 'interactive online'. To view all courses of this type, filter the course schedule by Schedule Attribute interactive online in the Term selected. All main campus course registration policies and Academic Calendar [beta] deadlines relating to the term or part of term in which the course is offered apply to interactive online courses.

Self-Paced Full Term Online Courses

Self-paced full term courses have fixed start and end dates, flexible assignment schedules and fixed midterm and final exam due dates, and are eligible for federal financial aid. Students set assignment schedules for each half of the term; but must complete the first half by midterm; and the second half by the final exam. Self-paced full term courses are usually indicated in the course schedule with the 902 section number. To view all courses of this type, filter the course schedule by Schedule Attribute self-paced and Part of Term full term in the term selected. All main campus course registration policies and Academic Calendar [beta] deadlines relating to term or part of term in which the course is offered apply to self-paced full term online courses.

Self-Paced Open Learning Online Courses

Self-paced open learning courses can be started at any time, are student-paced, and are not eligible for federal financial aid. Self-paced open learning courses are usually indicated in the course schedule with the 901 section number. To view all courses of this type, filter the course schedule by Schedule Attribute self-paced and Part of Term open learning in the term selected. All main campus course registration policies apply to self-paced open learning courses other than those reflecting specific deadlines. Students have 180 days from the student-selected start date to complete undergraduate self-paced courses. Registration for self-paced courses follows the Self-Paced Calendar. Note that the start date selected by the student during the registration process determines the term (spring, summer, fall) in which the self-paced open learning course is recorded for transcript purposes.

Registration Holds

There are several types of holds on the registration process. Information about what to do to remove a hold is available when logged in to your personal iVue page.

Holds for health, insurance, bookstore, and residence halls do not apply to students registering in distance courses only.

Holds for international deposits and visas do not apply to international students who are only taking courses off-campus.

International graduate students coming to campus for one month or less do not pay the international deposit, but will require visas and insurance as listed in this bulletin for on-campus programs.

Student Responsibility and Contacts

It is always the student's responsibility to:

Consult the University bulletin and webpages to follow current policies and procedures

Check with their academic advisor that distance courses will fulfill degree requirements

Check with their financial advisor how the course type will impact their financial plan

Complete the disability accommodations form and provide documentation if study accommodations are desired

Contact information for academic and financial advisors is available on the student's prevue page. Questions about the registration process or holds are best answered by the following enrollment counselors.

Undergraduate distance courses: sderegister@andrews.edu, 269-471-6323

Graduate distance courses: graduate@andrews.edu, 269-471-6013

Questions about Seminary Online Learning Center courses are best answered by emailing solc@andrews.edu or calling 269-471-3962.

Online and Post-Traditional Student Support

Students studying at a distance can access many services using technology:

Learn how to apply, clear financially, register, request exams, and successfully complete studies online at www.andrews.edu/distance/students

The current Andrews University Bulletin at www.bulletin.andrews.edu communicates policies and procedures, and key contact information for all campus services.

The Andrews Agenda at www.andrews.edu/agenda provides weekly news, announcements and updates.

Follow Andrews University's facebook page, twitter feed and other social media for regular postings of life at Andrews.

The Andrews Directory at www.andrews.edu/directory includes contact information for all current faculty, staff and students.

Departmental updates are emailed to students registered in specific programs of study. Check your Andrews email regularly.

Pioneer Memorial Church services are streamed online, and podcasts can be accessed at any time.

Videos of chapels and vespers can be viewed at any time through the Andrews University Youtube Channel

The Student Association Youtube Channel includes many more videos of student events

Listen to Andrews University's classical radio online 24/7 at WAUS

All online students are encouraged to communicate with their assigned academic and financial advisors regularly in order to best utilize student success resources at a distance. Tutoring, career and mental health counseling, and disability accommodation can be arranged through the School of Distance Education and International Partnerships Student Services Director (learn more at www.andrews.edu/distance/students/).

An online grievance form provides students with tools to formally register a complaint about any aspect of the educational service provided by Andrews University. The procedure for lodging a complaint is outlined online.

Library Access

Registered students of Andrews University have full and free access to the resources and services of the James White Library via phone, fax, e-mail or the Internet. Such services include:

Access to the James White Library Catalog (JeWeL)

Access to the Library's Online Databases which include full-text articles from many thousands of periodicals

Consortium of Adventist Colleges and Universities

The Andrews University's School of Distance Education and International Partnerships operates the Consortium of Adventist Colleges and Universities, which grew out of the Griggs University Consortium arrangements between Griggs University, Andrews University, Oakwood University, and Washington Adventist University. The Griggs University Consortium began in 1969 with Griggs University and Columbia Union College (now Washington Adventist University). The Consortium serves students around the world: students in partner colleges and universities within the North American Division, students in public universities wishing to take select courses from an Adventist perspective, and students at our partner institutions around the world. Courses are available for transfer credit from Washington Adventist University and Oakwood University. Information about all Consortium partner course offerings, tuition rates, fees, payment information, and procedures is available online at www.andrews.edu/distance/consortium. Printed catalogs can be requested from the School of Distance Education and International Partnerships.

Introduction

Andrews University has a long history of partnering with Seventh-day Adventist educational and church institutions through off-campus programs. The University delivers these programs in various domestic and international locations.

Partnerships

Many of the Andrews University schools have partnerships with educational institutions in North America and abroad, authorized by the Higher Learning Commission and other controlling organizations. The types of partnerships include academic monitoring of existing institutional programs, extension campuses, and examination centers for graduate and undergraduate education. The programs of study vary from individual courses in a variety of disciplines to full degree programs.

Accreditation

Many of the Andrews University schools have partnerships with educational institutions in North America and abroad, authorized by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools and other controlling organizations. The types of partnerships include academic monitoring of existing institutional programs, extension campuses, and examination centers for graduate and undergraduate education. The programs of study vary from individual courses in a variety of disciplines to full degree programs.

Details of specific courses, approved curricula and programs are available from the Office of Off-Campus Programs. The Off-Campus Programs Committee authorizes and reviews all University policies related to such affiliations and extensions. Once accepted into an Andrews University program, students may transfer between home and extension campuses.
